A motion was made to enlarge all the St. Stephen's committees by alternate delegates. It was carried, and Mrs. Albert Pancoast and Miss Headman, the secretary, were elected to the Foreign Committee.

To fill regular vacancies on the Domestic Committee Mrs. Dwight Lowry and Mrs. W. K. Lineaweaver were elected. It was decided to have the Advent meeting on Thursday morning, at 11 o'clock, December 13.

Every one considered this preliminary meeting of the Auxiliary as auspicious of a successful year.

Christmas Dinners.

The poor of the parish will be provided this year with Christmas dinners, according to our custom. A good dinner for a family of four to six can be purchased for two or three dollars. The system of distribution is well organized. Please send all contributions for the Christmas Dinner Fund to Mr. Clayton, who has had charge of this benevolence for so many years. Care is taken that the gifts go to the deserving poor, who are so much in danger of being overlooked. Contributions should be received not later than December 22.

Memorabilia.

Don't forget to do your Christmas shopping before December 15th, and so save the clerks from undue pressure.

* * * *

Don't forget the Advent meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary December 13th, at 11 A. M., in the Parish House. The delegates will make their reports, and we hope to have an address from a worker in the field. We had 45 present at our last meeting. Let us try to have 55 this time.

* * * *

Don't forget that Advent is the beginning of the Christian year, and make some good resolution. If you are neglecting church-going this is a good time for resolving to start afresh and do better.

Altar Society.

The Misses Maulsby have resigned from the Chancel Committee, greatly to the regret of the Rector and the whole Committee. Miss Ida Maulsby was one of the original members of the society and has done long and faithful service. We are glad to have received in some new members.

The Sunday School Christmas Festival will be held on Holy Innocents' Day (Friday), at 8 o'clock P. M.

The Infant Class will have its festival on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Sunday School Building.

The New Organ.

At the factory they are only waiting to take down a small organ before they will set up the echo-division of our organ. In about ten days they will be placing it in the church.

In the complete organ there will be two saxophone stops. One will be a sixteen-foot C of the pedal saxophone. This will probably take the place of the trombone stop pedal.

Also an interesting feature of the Echo-organ will be a saxophone, which is added to the original scheme: This is a present from the builder, Mr. Haskell. It will be an exact imitation of the instrument used in large orchestras and will be the first sixteen-foot saxophone in the city.

Another departure from the original plan is the placing of a Vox Angelica instead of a Vox Celeste in the swell of the main organ. This stop is more subdued than the Celeste and has a most delicate, vibrant tone.

A decision has been reached in regard to the case, and for better harmony with the general tone of the church decorations a dark, rich walnut will be used.

Altogether much progress has been made. The majority of the middle stops have been voiced and most of the mechanical parts are completed. Dr. Wood is very much pleased with the results thus far.

A. K. Notes.

One of the most enjoyable and successful entertainments ever given in St. Stephen's Sunday School Building took place Friday evening, November 9th, under the auspices of the recently-organized "Alpha Kappa Fraternity," which was instituted by the young men of St. Stephen's Parish. The Rev. John E. Ewell opened the first monthly entertainment of the "Alpha Kappas" with an address. Colonel Regar followed with a song, which was succeeded by a very interesting debate, the subject of which was: "Resolved, That the Government should own the railroads." Henry George Fester spoke for the affirmative side of the question and Charles H. Howe for the negative. Too much credit cannot be given these young men for the capable manner in which they debated this important question of government. The fifth number consisted of an improvised quartette, whose "execution" was much relished by an enthusiastic audience. One of the distinct "hits" of the night was a solo, with violin obligato, by Miss Clayton and Miss Graham. The seventh and final number, was a travesty on the arena scene from "Quo Vadis," by Roy E. Morrison and Herman Berdon. The audience was kept in a continuous roar of laughter at the humorous quips, sallies and situations of the Hebrew character in the sketch. The entertainment was followed by refreshments and dancing, after which the audience dispersed, voting the entertainment "a delightful treat." The "Alpha Kappa" is to be congratulated on a most auspicious commencement. The patronesses were our very kind friends, Miss Sanders and Miss Wilkins.

A.—Rev. John E. Ewell.

The standards of the society have been planted on the heights of success and there is exultation in the camp of the Kappaites. To see the happy, eager, excited faces of the boys as they "shoot" for the "goal" in their games of basketball makes one think it is really worth while.

An orchestra has been formed under the leadership of Mr. Strauss, and it will be doing remarkable things at the next entertainment.

The program for the next entertainment, December 7th, is a very fine one. Dr. Grammer is to make the opening address, which is to be followed by a debate: "Resolved, That Philadelphia does not deserve the reputation of being 'slow.'" Mr. Streaker has kindly volunteered to give an illustrated lecture on the "Glories of the Yosemite Valley." Other numbers which have not yet been decided upon will follow. They will be of equal interest.

It is the desire of the Alpha Society that every reader of the Parish News will use their endeavors to influence young men of their acquaintance to file applications for membership. The ambition of the society is high, and their scope of work extensive, and there is no reason why it should not have the hearty co-operation of the general parish.

Never in the history of dear old St. Stephen's has there been such a stirring up among the younger element. The young men desire to express their gratitude to Mr. Ewell for his enthusiastic labors in their behalf.

A Mandolin Club has been formed, under the direction of Prof. William H. Kuhn.

To see Roy E. Morrison preside is convincing evidence that for an executive position one should have more than "enthusiasm" only.

As a disciple of discipline Colonel Regar stands alone in the midst of many.

To hear Henry George Fester speak causes one's imagination to soar back to the stirring days of Demosthenes.

Henry Groh, William Kuhn, Winfield, etc., need not think that age debars them from active interest in the affairs of state.

Harry Bush, as a librarian, has an interest in books not surpassed even by the great Carnegie.

Pull, boys, and pull together,
'Twill help us weather all sorts of weather;
Whether we will—or whether we'll not—
You'l find will be the Gordian Knot.

Kitchen-Garden.

Kitchen-gardening is housekeeping set to music. Some experienced old housewife will say this cannot be done, but the experiment was made twenty-five years ago in New York and the work has been carried on successfully ever since. Miss Emily Huntington, of New York, who is to the kitchen-garden what Froebel was to the kindergarten, and who has written a most comprehensive book on the subject, has recommended to us as a teacher Miss Caroline Manners, of Brooklyn, who will meet the Normal Class for the first time on Friday afternoon, November 30th, and thereafter at intervals of one month. This first lesson will be a demonstration of the work to the teachers and will cover one month of the children's work. The pianist upon whom so much depends will be Miss Clara Haines.

The class will number twelve children, all under twelve years of age. Every child will be provided with a uniform of apron and cap and a complete outfit of toys for housekeeping ing. There will be lessons in table-setting, illustrated with dolls' dishes and miniature knives and forks and napkin rings, the children giving rhyming answers to the questions as to how the forks should be laid, where the glasses should stand, etc. Subsequent lessons in dishwashing, laundering, sweeping and cooking complete the course.

It is an acknowledged fact among mill and factory employes to-day that in engaging new hands, inquiry is made, and preference always given, to the girl who has had kindergarten training in her childhood. The co-ordination of hand and brain (or as they style it in factory parlance, "the makin' of your cocoanut save your muscle"), which is one of the greatest resultant advantages of the kindergarten, is always noticeable in girls so trained in their youth and gives them a conspicuous proficiency and advantage over their untrained sisters. In fact, to this training is attributed a current distinction made between two classes of factory employes—that of the "working" girls and the "worked" girls.

It is the aim of the kitchen-garden to pair the hands and hearts of the children as well as the hands and brains, that the work, which in its monotonous necessity tends to become drudgery, may, when associated with cheer and song, be performed more proficiently because more happily. For willingness and desire are inseparable from dexterity and success. It is hoped that in time we as employers will seek our domestic help among those who manifest the superior advantages of the kitchen-garden, and that the movement now begun, besides its broader, pedagogical interests, may in conjunction arouse a local parochial interest in the need for like classes in industrial occupations. May the Sewing School and the Kitchen-Garden be the beginning of a great Industrial School in St. Stephen's!

King's Daughters.

Donation from Mrs. Parmlee for the Circle's work, 75 cents; Mrs. Joseph Clayton, $1.00. Proceeds up to date made by the members from their penny, $15.68. Total, $17.43.

Meetings in Parish House, December 5th and December 19th, quarter of 8 o'clock. Guild room.

The Benevolent Society must have cutters. Come and cut. Tuesday mornings.

Children's Friend Society.

Donation in November—From Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1.00.

November 21 was the evening selected for the poor children's Thanksgiving entertainment, which was an exhibition of Cloward's new motion pictures.

Over 200 children, some from the Sunday School and others from the different parts of the city, in which the Children's Friends Society have been interested for a number of years, were invited.

As the day had been rainy and very disagreeable it was feared a very few would be present, but by half-past eight o'clock not a seat was to be had, as both young and old enjoyed seeing Mr. Reynolds' moving pictures, which are very fine.

Shoe Fund.

Donations in November: From Mrs. Parmalee, 25 cents; Mrs. H. F. Martin, 25 cents; Mrs. James P. Lowry, $2.00; Church Fund (through Dr. Grammer), $25.00; from those receiving shoes, 50 cents. Total $28.00. Expended for shoes, $21.12. Balance, $6.88.

Gave out three pair last week, as the work did not start until November 25th. Any donations of shoes sent to the Parish House, in care of Mrs. Vanderslice or Miss Lewis (who has kindly offered to assist on Mondays), will be very acceptable.

Mothers' Meeting.

The society opened very auspiciously this year with a large and enthusiastic attendance of seventy mothers. Mrs. Taylor and Miss Van Dusen were cordially cheered. A very happy address was made by the Rector on "Home-Coming."

Mrs. Taylor told of the results of the last winter's efforts to improve the farm. The house had been screened and made so much more comfortable this summer. Linens, etc., had been supplied.

Miss Clayton was elected Treasurer and Miss Alice Regar Head of Committees.

The rest of the evening was devoted to music, Miss Graham, Miss Clayton and Miss McCormick lending their talents. Tea, which always cheers the mothers' hearts, brought the evening to a pleasant close.

Dr. Shimoon's Work.

My work in Persia is so varied that I hardly know which feature of it will be most interesting to the readers of the "Parish News." This work was chiefly among the Kurds, although a great many real Mohammedans, Jews and fire-worshipers visited my office. The origin and ancestry of the Kurds is an unsettled question among the ethnologists. They have no history, nor literature; by faith they are Mohammedans. Most of them live in the Kurdistan Mountains, as independent tribes. Neither Persia nor Turkey can subjugate them. They are the most ferocious people I know of, even more so than the North American Indians. Their chief occupation is highway robbery. The missionaries have not ventured yet to start any religious work among the Kurds. These people, however, have the greatest admiration and esteem for a physician. A Kurdish chieftan came 50 miles on horseback to meet me after I had successfully treated a large gunshot wound.

My practice was largely surgery. Because these people have no Courts and no rulers, as a consequence disputes and quarrels are settled by fighting. The resultant fractured skulls, arms, etc., were a daily sight in my office.

For five months I was family physician to the Governor of the province. He frequently entertained the titled men and landlords at his house. That gave me an opportunity to meet these men, and with many of them I formed an acquaintance and friendship.

My association with the Governor increased my influence and prestige in the State and enabled me to carry on my religious and medical work without being molested much.

On Christmas day I presented the Governor with a New Testament in his own language with the familiar inscription, "A merry Christmas and a happy New Year." Being of an inquisitive nature, he asked me what it meant. I told him in detail about the great feast of Christendom, its object and how presents were exchanged among friends. He seemed very much interested and impressed. To my great gratification and amazement he read the Testament through, and I would often hear him reading and explaining it to his sister, whose hearing was defective.

But in all my conversations with him (and they were many) I was impressed with the one great truth, namely, that outside of our blessed religion, there is no sympathy and no brotherhood of man. During that cold winter many widows and orphans whom I had visited were in distress because they had no wood to burn and no bread to eat, while the Governor had an abundant supply of these. But in describing to him the terrible condition of these unfortunate people who were starving at his door I could not excite his sympathy, for there was none in him. I suggested that he and I call upon them, cheer them up and help them. I cited to him the Galveston catastrophe, and how the American people responded to help their fellow-countrymen, but all my efforts were unavailing. I was simply talking to a stone heart. I asked him that he, with the other titled men, start a dispensary for the poor. He replied: "If the poor have no money do not treat them. Let them die."

He was a man of considerable intelligence and education. Indeed, all the beautiful qualities—sympathy, kindness and love—found in the Western countries are not the products of universities and colleges, but of the blessed religion of Jesus Christ.

When I speak of poverty as it is in Persia, you cannot comprehend it. Spiritual and physical poverty usually go hand-in-hand.

In that province I started two missions, which I visited on alternate Sundays. Often we held our meetings under a tree. The whole village would come out. A doctor in Persia is on the same social plane as a Governor or a titled man. He can do a great many things that a mere clergyman could not do. He has access to the people, to their homes and their hearts. I wish some rich person would promise me some money, so I could send over here a few native young men to be educated as physicians and get in touch with the American Christianity and ideas, and then return to Persia. A native Christian physician can do more. simply because he has the advantage of knowing several native dialects, being used to the climate and peculiarities of the people; and they have undoubtedly more confidence in him.

My office was more a chapel than a physician's office. No patient left it without having heard at least a word about a personal Saviour.

When cholera broke out in several of the cities I was appointed by the Government of Urumia as quarantine physician, but the idea did not materialize because a Mohammedan priest had unfortunately said in a large mosque that both physicians and quarantine were useless. He suggested burning sulphur in the homes as a preventive; but in spite of the sulphur treatment cholera came to Urumia and carried off 7000 people, while in Tabriz the number of its victims reached over 25,000. While in Urumia I established four missions, each one of which will be a nucleus for a great church in the future.

There are a few thoughts which have been a source of support and comfort to me. First of these is that I am an ambassador of Jesus Christ in Persia, a representative of Christianity and its institutions, that these simple-minded people look up to me for something better and nobler than what they have, and some watch me with the critical and fault-finding eyes. Good deportment and consecrated life will enhance the influence and power of Christianity.

Secondly, I am a naturalized American citizen, a representative of American civilization and ideas. My patriotism and love for "Old Glory" were never before so great and sincere as it is now. The more of the other countries I see the greater my devotion and admiration of the United States, which to me just now, coming out of Persia, is simply a heaven. Hence my aim and duty to further the interests of my adopted country.

Thirdly, I am a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, naturally, to me, the best medical school in America; therefore, my obligation to keep up its standard and reputation.

Lastly, I am a member of St. Stephen's Church, the church that has fostered institutions, each one of which has become a power of good; the church well known for its inspiring music. To know that at least some of St. Stephen's Church remembered me and my work in their prayers, and that the sympathy of the great parish was with me in my endeavor to carry on the work of God in that far away part of His vineyard; this has been and will be a comforting and encouraging thought to me and reminds me of the hymn we often sing, "Blessed be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." Mrs. Alfred Tucker, a member of this church, supplied me with the newspapers, magazines, etc. St. Stephen's Church has been the means of leading me to the higher and nobler ideals of life; without its elevating influence my life might have been quite different than what it is now.

For a period of four months the Christian historians who live in Urumia City and province were expecting momentary massacre at the hands of Mohammedans. The Jewish shops were plundered. That was the beginning of a general plan to exterminate the Christians and Jews. At that time I was in a province 60 miles, or three days' journey, from my people. I could not communicate with nor go to see them. The journey to Urumia is always attended with danger, especially at that time.

At a certain place on the road there are a dozen or more graves of persons robbed and killed. But I wanted to be with my father and mother and the rest of my people. I went to Urumia at night, traveling with 250 camels. Arriving at home, I observed that the reports had not been exaggerated at all, that in front of missionary buildings the Government had placed guards and that apprehension of a pending massacre was shared also by all the missionaries and foreigners in Urumia.

Besides all these, the Christians who lived in the villages were tormented by bands of thieves. Ten or 20 mounted and well-armed men would attack a village. During last winter 18 men and two women were killed by the thieves in the neighborhood of our village, which is 15 miles from Urumia City. The unfortunate Christians had to get up and sleep upon housetops during the early part of March. Remember that Urumia is as cold as Pennsylvania. Sleeping on the roof in the summer months is common in Oriental countries, but not in March. But these Christians were afraid to sleep in the houses, and upon the roof they had no protection from rain. So, literally, they were between the "devil and the deep sea."

In Sulduz, the province in which I labored, there are no telephones, telegraphs, post office, newspapers, schools; nothing that makes life beautiful and worth living as in Christian America. I wonder how Philadelphia would get along without the 46 hospitals. I do not think there are half a dozen hospitals in all Persia, and they belong to the missionaries; and there are 9,000,000 people in that country. You cannot fully appreciate your privileges—and conveniences of life—unless you should visit a country like Persia in its primitive state. Friends, I cannot tell you how dark is the night in Persia, the misery, superstitions, ignorance, total degredation and wretchedness; it is undescribeable. I am convinced that Persia to-day is the most backward country in the world. There are, however, some signs of awakening, as granting of a Constitution by the Shah, which to us who are familiar with the situation does not mean much. Still it is a step forward. There are indications of great possibilities in the near future.

A hospital I must have; my work need it, to treat the poor and contagious diseases. Our main object, of course, is to introduce Christianity, but we cannot do it openly. The people are too ignorant, bigoted and fanatic to accept it, so we have to use agencies and means to accomplish our purpose, and hospitals are the most effective.

Although I am grateful to St. Stephen's people for the generous way they have responded, and yet at this rate it will take me three years to raise the amount. That I could not do, as I have left a work behind. There are hundreds of people in Philadelphia, and many in St. Stephen's, well able to furnish funds for the building of a small hospital. I will get the natives to maintain and support it after once in operation. Can't I have the money and return to my work in the spring? It is a pity that I am here when I could do so much in my native country. Your contributions are with the treasurer, Mr. E. S. Johnson. When the amount is raised the trustees will make an effort to get the British Consul in Persia to act as a trustee or overseer, or have the Episcopal Church to supervise the work. But the most essential thing just now is to raise the money. I would be glad to talk with any of you on the subject, and I hope and pray that you will enable me to go back soon. Sincerely.

A Happy New Year to All.

"Ready for Either"

(Written especially for "The Parish News" by the Rev. William Wilberforce Newton).

Every Near Year is the opening of a new chapter in the Book of Life. What that chapter is to be we cannot tell till we come to the end of it. The old Moravian Missionary Society of Count Zinzendorf had as its motto an ox standing between an altar and a plow with the words underneath, "Ready for Either." This is the way we ought to look forward to every New Year.

Widely distributed as is our congregation, a personal acquaintance between the rector and the people can only be the result of common effort To aid the congregation to do their part, Dr. and Mrs. Grammer will be at home on Wednesday afternoons and evenings till Lent.

Christmas Dinners.

Sunday coming so close this year to Christmas gave a splendid opportunity for the congregation and some outside friends who have always helped us in this work to see just what the usual Christmas dinners meant in St. Stephen's to the poor.

The turkeys, chickens and all the good things were arranged in a most beautiful and artistic manner, and we feel sure that if some of the Terminal Market people could have seen it they would have had an object lesson in the art of displaying poultry.

The Rector announced from the chancel to the congregation on Sunday morning that if they would take the trouble to go up to the Guild room after service they would see a sight long to be remembered.

All who saw it are sure they enjoyed their own Christmas dinners so much better, knowing that they had provided joy and happiness to such a great number of poor families.

We were able this year to supply about 135 families with a good, substantial dinner, and feel sure that the usual Christmas spirit was among us.

An excellent picture was taken and appears on another page of this number.

Many expressions of gratitude and earnest letters of thanks have been received, and many homes were made bright and happy by this noble custom of St. Stephen's. The whole duty of providing and distributing these supplies was entrusted to Mr. Joseph Clayton, to whose zeal its success was chiefly due.

Mr. Miller.

On Advent Sunday the congregation was delighted to see Mr. Miller in the chancel. Mr. Miller celebrated the communion and pronounced the benediction. After the service many of his friends took the opportunity to grasp his genial hand.

Mr. Miller seemed very happy and in the best of health and spirits. We are always glad to have him with us.

The Institutional Church.

A new church greeted this century with a readjusted gospel and message. It is popularly known as the "Institutional Church." Practical Christianity is what it proclaims. The spiritual power is poured into the practical mould of the times.

More and more, men are impatient to see the fruits of their efforts and they demand the same of the church as they do of the world. When hope smiles where there had been conditions of despair; when cheerfulness and cleanliness are substituted for filth and foulness, then are men's minds more keen to grasp the spiritual causes of such results. Concrete and tangible signs of the Kingdom of God is what we all want to see. The extended hand, which is the sign of the new philanthropy must not be inert.

The church is awakening to the real needs of the age and is seeking to show its faith by its work. Activities of all kinds prevail. The different days and evenings of the week share the Parish House among the workers in the various departments and make it a busy workshop.

Monday morning starts at St. Stephen's with the distribution of shoes and rubbers by the committee who attends to this charity. The evening is spent by the Girls' Friendly Society with their classes whose purposes are practical and cultivating.

The busy Benevolent Society takes up two mornings with the cutting, parcelling, and distributing of clothing to be sewed. The Garment Committee can be found in their room on Tuesday mornings and the Young Men's Mandolin Club rehearse that evening. The King's Daughters also meet on Wednesdays.

Thursday evening witnesses the interesting proceedings of the Mothers' Meeting, where the members are entertained and the bright social aspects of life are shown to them. Often good, helpful talks take a great part of the evening. A small banking business is done for the mothers and their coal accounts are taken care of so that when the snowy days come they may be warm.

Friday morning finds the Embroidery Class bending intently over their beautiful work, and when night comes on the Guild and Parish Houses are bright with lights in every room. Young men and boys are everywhere around. From the third story comes a flare of melody, and the roll of a drum. It is the band practicing. In the second story the younger boys are so busy and interested in their Sloyd work that the instructors have difficulty in getting them to put up their employment and go home when it is time. Back in the Guild room is going on a spirited game of basket ball.

The next day the little girls are busy in the industrial school. There is first the Sewing-School and after that comes Kitchen-Garden, where practical household work is taught to the tune of merry music. Besides all this every afternoon the attractive room of the Three Arts Club is open and a hostess is there to receive the visitors and to pour tea.

This is only a bird's eye view of a week at St. Stephen's, because there are other most useful societies which have their chosen tasks to perform. The first three pages of this paper mean something.

It stands this way. There is a great quantity of institutional work to be done, and are we not intended to do it? Why are we on Tenth street, so close to certain less blessed portions of the city? Let us ask ourselves the question.

Some very good people most wisely throw out a warning that there is danger of the loss of spiritual tone amidst so much material activity. The word is well spoken.

For after all we must never forget the source of all our vigorous inspiration. We must continually depend upon Jesus Christ, our Master, and bear in mind that it was He who first went about doing good, setting us the example. It is His enthusiasm for good works which is transferred to us by the Spirit, and that gives us the great desire to imitate Him.

But as to the actual danger an assuring testimony comes from New York. Dr. Peters, an eminent Baptist divine in that city, preached last Fall a most interesting sermon, which was reported throughout the country by the Associated Press.

In this sermon were given statistics which showed that while many denominations were reporting a percentage of decrease of membership and others seemed merely to be holding their own, and only a few were giving a small ratio of increase, the Episcopal Church showed in New York a remarkable percentage in growth above the rest. This development, Dr. Peters declared, came solely from the institutional character of the work done by our church. This is a convincing testimony, and should spur us on along these lines. The working church wins the people.

Another indication of this movement of the times is seen in the invasion of the book stores by volumes on the subject. Dr. George Hodges, dean of the Cambridge Seminary, for whom we are waiting with expectation as a speaker in the first week in Lent at the midday services, has contributed a book called "The Institutional Church."

It is the history of St. George's Parish in New York during Dr. Rainsford's administration. St. George's is taken as the pioneer and pattern of churches of its type.

In the introduction to the book Dean Hodges writes, that "Dr. Rainsford found a church trying to minister in the old way to fit the new conditions. He compared the old St. George's to 'a fisherman accustomed to earn his bread at catching herring; presently the run of herring goes away from that portion of the sea, and in their place comes a tremendous run of smelt. If the fisherman could change his net he would be a richer man than before, because smelt are better fish than herring, but he starves because he cannot change the size of his meshes.' The old methods have been adapted to the family, the new methods are adapted to the individual."

This is good, common, hard sense. Dr. Rainsford changed the size of St. George's meshes and behold, what a great power for good that parish is in the Metropolis of our nation.

The call comes to us to mind our meshes. There is the chance of a greater reward. One day while James and John were mending their nets in their father's boat drawn up on the shore Jesus called them to be His chosen disciples. He must have approved of their occupation.

After all an abiding enthusiasm for institutional activity must have a constant and strong source of supply. Consequently the pulpit and the service can never be made secondary or neglected. Bishop Potter said of Dr. Rainsford that with all his marvelous administrative qualities, his greatest power came forth from his pulpit utterances. The service of the church counts. The voice from the pulpit tells. Indeed, the pulpit generates the steam.

Good church work needs the best from God to make it go on permanently and well. May God give us at St. Stephen's His gifts and graces this New Year to carry on our institutional work, and be ready to broaden it out when we discover a need, or the finger of opportunity points. May ours be said truly to be the "Church at Work!" J. E. E.

The Sunday School Teachers' Meeting.

Dr. Grammer, with a desire to discuss and find a way to improve our Sunday School methods, called a meeting of the teachers at the Rectory, on Wednesday evening, December 12, 1906. Our superintendent and eleven teachers were present.

After an earnest prayer for Divine guidance, our Rector outlined some excellent plans from his experiences. The teachers were asked for opinions from their points of view. Finally it was agreed, after two hours of informal discussion, that a system of meriting for promptness in attendance and for home study of each lesson be put into practice. Also, that the present Inter-diocesan series of lesson studies be so arranged by each teacher that the series of questions thereon be answered and written out at home by the scholar for each Sunday's study. These written answers are to be marked by the teacher.

This system is to be tried until February, using our present lesson studies, with a view of continuing them or adopting those used last summer, as may then be decided upon.

Certainly it was unanimously agreed by all present, that Dr. Grammer's meeting with the teachers and the giving and getting of views for the good of our school, were most conducive to harmony and improvement. We all very much appreciate the Rector's kindly efforts.

Since the meeting our superintendent, Mr. C. F. McMichael, has kindly arranged, as below, a most excellent system, which he fully explained and put into effect the last Sunday of the old year. May we all aim for its honors in punctuality and class work.

HONOR SYSTEM.

Honor Roll for Punctuality.

Each scholar who shall be punctual in attendance for two (2) successive Sundays shall have his or her name placed upon the Honor Roll for Punctuality with a star after the name and an additional star for every two successive weeks of punctuality. But no star shall be allowed unless the scholar shall be punctual two Sundays in succession. The stars shall count in general average as follows:

10 Stars—Highest Honor.
6 Stars—Honor.

Honor for Class Work.

The scholar shall be marked for Class Work A, B, C—according to efficiency: A, High Grade; B, Medium Grade; C, Low Grade.

The grade letters shall count in general average as follows:

20 A's—Highest Honor.
12 A's—Honor.

To simplify the calculation, "A" only is used; but it shall be understood that in general average two "B's" shall count as one "A," and three "C's" shall count as one "A."

Diplomas.

At the end of the Sunday School session in 1907, every scholar who shall have received

10 Stars for Punctuality

shall receive a Diploma of Commendation with Highest Honor.

Every scholar who shall have received

6 Stars for Punctuality
and

shall receive a Certificate of Commendation with Honor.

Note.

22 Sundays from December 30, 1906, to May 26, 1907, both inclusive.

Commendation with Highest Honor means:
10 Stars for Punctuality (20 Sundays)
20 A's for Class Work (20 Sundays)

Commendation with Honor means:
6 Stars for Punctuality (12 Sundays)
12 A's for Class Work (12 Sundays)

For Punctuality, the figure 1 in the little square opposite the scholar's name on the Class Card.

For Class Work, the letter A, B, or C, according to the grade of work, in the little square opposite the scholar's name on the Class Card.

If a letter only appears in the square it will be evident that the scholar was present, but not punctual.

If no letter appears it will be evident that the scholar was absent.

Punctuality means that the scholar must be present in Class before the opening hymn is finished.

Grade Letters for Class Work mean:

A—High Grade. . . .Excellent

B—Medium Grade. . . . .Good

C—Low Grade. . . . . .Poor

The Girls' Friendly Society.

As one of the objects of this society is to promote friendliness we feel that to tell of our work and play may strengthen the tie that binds old friends to us and perhaps win new ones for us. We will gladly welcome our friends to any of our meetings on Monday evenings between 7 and 9. May we take you first to the Physical Training Class, where you will find over twenty-five happy girls, vigorously exercising with Indian clubs, or going through a drill, or, if we are late, a merry game of basket ball in progress. Now, let us look in on the Millinery Class, where we will see twelve girls learning the art of trimming hats, and what bright eyes we shall see under these hats at Easter! The dressmaking class, though small, is also interested in its work, the cutting out and making of shirtwaists. We may now find refreshment in the kitchen, where a dozen girls are learning how to prepare simple home dishes. At 8 all this work ends and the members gather round their respective associates and spend a pleasant hour together either in reading, talking, embroidering, or in some study. You have passed a family evening with us, but we occasionally have a social evening spent in playing games or dancing. And on four or five evenings during the winter a religious service is held. The members try not to forget others and take up missionary work in Lent and have supported a little orphan for some years.

We have just held our Christmas entertainment, our guests being the senior members of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity. All agreed the evening had been a happy one, and may our last word be, "A Happy New Year" to one and all.

The Three Arts Club.

The second monthly meeting of the Three Arts Club was held on Saturday, December 1, from 4 until 6 o'clock. About 80 young women were present and the entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music and dramatic recitations. Miss Ella D. Blair played the accompaniments for Miss Beulah Hacker, who sang delightfully a number of French and German songs. Misses Lyon and Anne McCormick, the latter a member of the club, were the pianists, and Miss Cornelia Bedford gave some Shakespearean and other recitations. By invitation of Mrs. Lineaweaver Miss Ethel Barrymore was the guest of the afternoon. As Miss Barrymore's grandmother, Mrs. John Drew, was for many years a member of St. Stephen's congregation, it was particularly pleasant to welcome the young lady upon whose shoulders the mantle of her grandmother has fallen so gracefully. She was cordially received by the students whom she greeted individually in a winning manner. Through the instrumentality of Miss Alice Murphy an excellent Steinway square grand piano has been purchased out of the appropriation made to the club by Dr. Grammer, and as it has been commended by Dr. David Wood, the lay members of the musical world can have no cause for complaint.

A number of gifts have been received for the clubroom. Two student lamps from Mrs. Edward R. Fell, some sofa cushions, a cover for the piano, and a Welsbach lamp from Mrs. Lineaweaver, and decorative poster from Miss Alice Sinclair; some art magazines from Mr. Charles E. Dana. All these gifts contribute to the comfort and attractiveness of the room, and are much appreciated. Attention is called to the work of two of the art students, which is on exhibition and for sale in the clubroom. The bas relief portraits from life, for which orders are desired, are the work of Miss Emily Clayton Bishop, a student of the Academy of Fine Arts, and the oil and water sketches are by Miss Edith Mann, a student of the School of Design. After the first of the year the clubroom will be open all day and in the afternoons from 4 until 6 o'clock Miss Kate Lewis will be there to receive the members and their friends. The third monthly meeting will take place on Saturday, January 5.

Afternoon Service.

Dr. Grammer has been giving this winter at the afternoon services short lectures on the Wisdom Literature of the Old Testament. So far he has confined himself to the Book of Proverbs, which has been treated critically, historically and practically. Many modern lessons are being drawn from the book. The congregations at these services have been very encouraging. It is a great opportunity for attractive and interesting Bible study. Circulars advertising these services have been printed, and from time to time are distributed to students of the Jefferson Medical College and the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. See what you can do in making this a popular service. The afternoon music by the choir may be especially complimented.

Alpha Kappa Column.

"The Star of Bethlehem."

Three wise men came from out the East,
Each riding on his desert beast;
For lo! in Eastern lands afar,
High in the sky they saw a star.
The star that shone that Christmas night
  In honor of the Saviour's birth;
The sweetest, purest, brightest light
  That ever beamed upon the earth.
The Wise Men of the Orient came
  To glorify the new born King,
And guided by the heavenly flame
  They hurried on their traveling.
Beside the lowly manger bare
Three Wise Men knelt in holy prayer,
And offered precious gifts of love
And glorified their God above;
While angels robed in glorious light
  Proud vigils kept o'er Bethlehem,
And filled the primal Christmas night
  With "Peace on earth, goodwill to Men!"

—Royd Eastwood Morrison.

The name Alpha Kappa seems to be a talisman of some sort or other. Never in the history of St. Stephen's has there been such a stir amid the young poeple as there is at present, and it all has come since the advent of Alpha Kappaism. Probably the meaning of the name has inspired the young men to a higher ambition. Let us hope the good work will go on, assured that if it does the portals of success will not be closed against us. A great task and a bounden duty to the dear old Parish are before all of us, and if we are not regardless of the welfare of St. Stephen's future then we should measure up to the standard of our obligations.

The Literary Entertainment given by the "Alpha Kappaites" Friday evening, December 7, was an unqualified success, and if possible, even better than the preceding one. The program was varied and of excellent choice and immensely appreciated by the "standing room only" crowd. There is no question that the Alpha Kappa Orchestra was decidedly the "hit" of the evening, and deservedly so, as they did magnificent work that would make the heart of "the Music Master" beat faster. They are bound to have a splendid organization in a short time, and they can always know that they can have the cordial support of the society. In the name of the Alpha Kappa I thank them and heartily congratulate them on a most auspicious commencement. The Rev. Dr. Grammer, in a very happy vein, opened the "little feast" with a few remarks, which were especially apropos. Miss Clayton then sang the "Angel's Serenade," assisted by Miss Matthews at the piano and Mr. Strauss played the violin obligato. Miss Clayton has a splendid voice and sang beautifully. It is predicted that there is a great future for her in the world of music.

The third number of the program was a debate, "Resolved, That Philadelphia is not 'Slow.'" Charles H. Moore and Harry H. Bush were to have defended the affirmative side of the question, but owing to the fact that they had to undergo a dangerous operation for "cold feet" Mr. Ewell and Mr. McMichael considerately volunteered to take their places, which put them at a decided disadvantage as it was soon apparent that they (unprepared) were no match for their opponents. This is observed by the writer with no especial feeling of partiality, as the writer has a high regard for their valor in leading the "forlorn hope." Henry George Fester, for the negative side of the question, was in exceptionally good form, and his facts, logic and wit scored an instant impression. Mr. Fester's oratory was magnificent, and must have made the shade of Cicero writhe in envy. Mr. Morrison also spoke for the negative side. The splendid charity of St. Stephen's was nobly exemplified by the judges of the debate in their decision.

Mr. George H. Streaker, the friend of the little chaps, followed the debate with a very interesting illustrated lecture on the "Wonders of the Yosemite Valley," which was one of the features of an entertainment that would do credit to a more pretentious organization than the Alpha Kappa. May the days of the Alpha Kappa be long and useful. Owing to an oversight the names of Mrs. Vanderslice and Mrs. Taylor were omitted from the programs of the preceding entertainment. We ask them to accept our sincere regrets. The "jolly fine night" was concluded with dancing and refreshments, which were the most popular events of an interesting program. The patronesses were Miss Sanders, Miss Wilkins, Mrs. Vanderslice and Mrs. Taylor.

A mandolin club has been formed among the young men, under the general direction of Mr. William H. Kuhn. Professor Maschone has been secured as the instructor, and the indications are that this musical club will soon be an appreciated part of the Alpha Kappa. The members of the club are George Wilder, Albert C, Nones, William H. Kuhn, Roy Marland and Joseph M. Harper.

Notes from the Juniors.

The Guild room of the Parish House echoes and re-echoes with buoyant boy life in the lively session of the juniors on every Friday evening, when festivals or Kappa entertainments do not combine all the busy classes in the Sunday School room. Some fifteen boys, on the average, are in attendance, with Miss Graham in charge. While there have been some mischievous effervescences, yet the new industrial plan of keeping head and hand employed in "making things" is toning this down into good, useful and happy effort. We are young, some of us very young, with much to learn, but we are learning.

Detailed report of our progress and industrial work will be given in the next "News" notes.

Games of all kinds, such as checker boards, carom boards, crocinole, etc., will be much appreciated by the Fraternity.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The society met Thursday morning, December 13, at 11 o'clock. Miss Magee presided. Reports of the committees were made. Mrs. Rowland Morris was elected treasurer of the United Offering.

The Rev. Mr. Ancell was introduced by Dr. Grammer as the speaker. Mr. Ancell, who is a missionary in China and is in this country on a furlough, spoke of the remarkable change that has dawned over China in the past six years. The Boxer outbreak after all was for the good of the church. China now is trying to find out the secret and key of the greatness of Western nationality. At last her conceit is broken and she realizes that there is something she can learn. Now every one is seeking instruction. It is not a conscious religious need, but the research is broad and is seeking in every direction. The whole country is open and Mr. Ancell's personal experience is most interesting in that so many cities have sent committees to him, demanding his presence among them and for him to teach them.

The great way in China to make an impression is by education and the establishing of schools. The message takes hold of children in a marvelous way. The news that "God is Love" comes to them with the joy a Christmas gift is received by an American child.

After Mr. Ancell's address, an appeal was read from the famed Chaplain Pierce for the soldiers at the barracks. President Roosevelt seconded the appeal with a letter. An appropriation, in accordance with this appeal, was made through the Domestic Committee.

The Rector in closing the meeting referred to Mr. Ancell's address, remarking on the importance of not crediting stories in fiction like "Robert Elsmere," or comparing such products of imagination to historical facts and the testimony of friends who tell us of fields which are white for the harvest.

The Epiphany meeting of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Walnut and Nineteenth streets, on Thursday evening, January 24, at 8 o'clock. Addresses will be made by the Rev. B. L. Ancell, of Soochow, China; Rev. James J. Chapman, of Kanazawa, Japan, and the Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington, of the Diocese of Harrisburg.

ELIZABETH S. CARRYL, Ass't. Sec.

Intelligence Bureau.

Miss Graham would be glad to open with the New Year a Domestic-Help Information Office. The piece of furniture generally known as an Intelligence Bureau too often belies its name, but there are so many applications made at the church for "help and situations wanted" that an exceptional opportunity seems to offer itself for establishing an office where parish members may advertise their abilities and "Cook touristers" seek and find. Any orders for errand boys, cooks, laundresses, house cleaners, seamstresses, nurses, or Johanneses Factotum filed with Miss Graham will receive careful attention.

Position Wanted.

A young lady, talented and refined, a member of the Three Arts Club, desires a position as companion or reader. Her elocution studies are over at 1 o'clock every day, after which she is free for engagements. She may be communicated with through Miss Bell, 1428 Spruce street.

The Garment Committee acknowledges with thanks clothing received for the following: Mr. George R. Baldwin, Mrs. B. Borie, Miss Cleemann, Miss Magee, Miss Lammot, Miss Wilkins, Mrs. Judson, Miss Woodward, Mrs. M. M. Parmalee, Miss Emily Austin, Mrs. Arrison, Mrs. Kelly.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations in December—Mrs. Anna Kelly, $1; kind friend, $10; Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1; Miss Cleemann, $1. Total—$13.00.

As the children had their Thanksgiving party so late and there has been so much going on, they will have their Christmas party later.

Donation of toys from Mrs. Samuel Austin, Jr.

King's Daughters.

Donations received for the Christmas baskets given out by this circle: Mrs. Crombargar, 50 cents; Miss Alice Kelly, $1; Miss Cora Reeves, $1; Miss Frances Lindemyer, 50 cents; Miss Lizzie Haas, 25 cents; Miss Elsie Rotherhauser, 25 cents. Total—$3.50.

Groceries from Miss Taggart, Miss Walshe, Mrs. Vanderslice; expended for groceries, $3.25. Balance—25 cents.

Three families were given a basket of provisions for Thanksgiving and Christmas by this circle.

Meetings in Parish House January 2 and January 16, 1907, quarter of 8 o'clock.

Shoe Fund.

Donations for shoes in December: Mrs. C. H. Richardson, $5; Mrs. H. F. Martin, 25 cents; Mrs. H. Crombargar, 50 cents; Mrs. W. J. Galbraith, $1; Miss Cleemann, $1; Miss M. Schaeffer, $2. Total—$9.75.

From those receiving shoes from the society, $5.10. Total—$14.85.

Expended for shoes in December, $8.95. Balance—$5.90.

From a kind friend two boxes of shoes and two boxes of over-shoes and from Mrs. Armstrong one pair old shoes.

Have given out to women and children 31 pairs of shoes and 8 pairs of over-shoes during the month of December.

Shoes of any kind if wearable will be very acceptable and put to good use, especially wide ones, as most of our people require wide widths.

Please send to Parish House, care of Miss Lewis or Mrs. Vanderslice.

Summer Home of the Church of the Crucifixion. (Colored.)

It is situated on the West Chester Trolley Pike, near Penn Hotel, 45 minutes' delightful trolley ride from Sixty-third and Market streets.

It has about ten acres of ground, beautifully situated in Chester County; a house with seven bedrooms, a smaller house where the caretaker lives in summer, a barn, and an ice house in process of erection.

A stream flows through the grounds, and by means of a breastwork a little lake has been made. This lake is a source of endless pleasure to children.

The home was opened July 3, 1905, and 168 persons made use of it during that summer.

The largest portion of them remained for one week. Members of the Sunday School and members of the choir are allowed one week free. Others are expected to pay something towards board, if they can do so.

Last year the Home raised nearly all the vegetables it needed.

This Home has been a Godsend to colored people, because it was always so difficult to find any suitable place to send them for a breath of fresh air during the hot weather.

Children who had never seen the country before romped over nearly ten acres of ground. Health took possession of sickly ones. No one wanted to leave. Some of the smallest children cried because their time was up, and they had to go home. To some of them it seemed that a clean, single bed was an unknown luxury.

Those who know how much suffering there is among the poor in summer, in crowded lanes and alleys; those who have seen poor mothers, with sick babies, sitting on door steps trying to get a breath of fresh (?) air; those who have visited sick people in little hot rooms, devoid of every comfort, will certainly say that this Home is a great blessing, beginning to supply a long-felt need.

The good that this Home can do is only limited by its means.

Last summer a larger number of women with sick babies made use of the Home. They naturally remained longer than one week. That prevented the going out of others who were most anxious to get out for a short time into God's green fields, and feel the delight of living.

The most crying need of the Home, just now, is more sleeping rooms. Four inexpensive ones, to accommodate 16 persons, could be built for about $400.

There are certainly many kind hearts that will be delighted to know that, in this way, they can minister to the Lord Jesus by ministering to His poor children.

One organization, or one individual, might build a room, and give it a special name in memory of some loved one.

The Guild of the Holy Cross, composed of members of various churches, has for many years been working for the Endowment Fund of the Church of the Crucifixion. The Guild has decided, for the present, to work for the summer Home.

Its officers are: Rev. Henry L. Phillips, president; Mrs. Charles P. Stratton, vice-president; Miss M. E. Macgill, secretary; Miss Anna Ruth Stratton, treasurer.

The Resignation of Mr. Joseph Clayton.

The decision of Mr. Clayton to resign the position that he has held for so many years at St. Stephen's, with so much credit to himself, and so much benefit to the Church, came as a great surprise to the Rector and Vestry.

The terms of his resignation left no course open to them except its acceptance, but the communications which follow will show how highly he is appreciated in St. Stephen's by Rector, Vestry and all the workers and people. He will always occupy a place of his own in the affections of this congregation. It is pleasant to know that this severance of the official tie does not terminate his connection with the parish. It will seem strange to see him sitting in his pew, without his black gown; but it will nevertheless be pleasant to have him among us still in any capacity.

C. E. G.

No. 225 So. Eleventh St.
Philadelphia, January 7th, 1907.

To the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestry of St. Stephen's Church.

GENTLEMEN:—In severing my official connection with St. Stephen's Church I desire to thank you all from my heart for the kindness and consideration that I have always received at your hands.

It is needless for me to say that I dearly love St. Stephen's, where so many pleasant years have been spent. I can scarcely realize that so long a time has elapsed since I came with you, beginning with Dr. Rudder in October, 1876, and being associated with four Rectors covering a period of over thirty years.

I therefore ask you to be good enough to accept my resignation to take effect this coming Easter. I have given this matter thoughtful and prayerful consideration and have reached the conclusion that it will be for the best interest of myself and family that I devote my entire time to my professional duties.

That the dear old Church will go on with the noble work that it has been doing in the past is the sincere prayer of,

Yours faithfully,
JOSEPH CLAYTON.

Extract from Minutes of Vestry of St. Stephen's Church, January 7, 1907.

The resignation of Mr. Joseph Clayton, Verger of the Church, was presented to take effect at Easter, 1907.

Whereupon it was ordered that the following minute be spread in full upon the minutes of the Vestry, and that a copy of the same be forwarded to Mr. Clayton, and that a copy be published in THE PARISH NEWS.

"The Vestry of St. Stephen's Church have received with sincere regret the resignation of Mr. Joseph Clayton, who for more than thirty years, has served the Church with conspicuous fidelity, honor and skill. In accepting this resignation—with great reluctance and entirely at his own request—the Vestry desire to render to Mr. Clayton a testimony of grateful appreciation for his many years of devoted, loyal service, and to convey to him, on behalf of the congregation, an expression of cordial and sympathetic interest in his future welfare and success."

Certified correct:

CLAYTON F. MCMICHAEL,
Secretary to the Vestry.

Dr. McConnell's Tribute.

I have been very fortunate in all my ministry in having good vergers, but I put Mr. Joseph Clayton far above them all.

He always knew when to be on hand and what so few know what to do in all emergencies.

None can know so well as the clergy how much St. Stephen's owes him for his intelligence, faithfulness and good manners. His place will be very difficult indeed to fill.

S. D. MCCONNELL.

Dr. Worcester's Estimate.

A verger is of more importance to the success of a church than most persons realize. Not only is he of great assistance to the rector in innumerable capacities, but it is from him that the majority of strangers derive their impressions of a church.

Mr. Clayton has always seemed to me a very remarkable man. I believe if he had studied for one of the learned professions, his natural intelligence, grasp of detail and strict attention to duty would have made him eminent. Among the qualities which specially endeared him to me was his great kindness to the poor. In too many churches the poor are repelled by sextons and vergers. Mr. Clayton had always as much concern for the poor members of the Church as he had for the wealthy, and in innumerable ways he performed kind services for them and made them feel that the Church was their religious home. He is also what I may call a very clever man. He knows the city of Philadelphia like a book and seldom did I appeal to him for any help or information which he did not immediately and cheerfully place at my disposal. His dignified and impressive figure has so long been associated with St. Stephen's Church that it is hard to imagine the Church going on without him. I know that his loss will be deeply deplored by all the Church members and by none more than by the Rector and ministers of St. Stephen's.

I would like to record here my gratitude for his unfailing loyalty, friendship and support during the years of my rectorship of St. Stephen's.

ELWOOD WORCESTER.

A Tribute to a Faithful Service.

I feel that St. stephen's Church loses a valuable helper in the withdrawal of her Verger, Mr. Joseph Clayton, from official connection with the Parish. He has rendered such faithful, earnest and efficient service for over thirty years in so many and various kinds of Church work, and has so long made things move in a smooth and orderly way, that he will be most seriously missed. The people have confidence in him and it is no wonder they have loved and respected him. I know that he has not severed his connection with the Church without thorough consideration of what it signifies to break ties and change habits. He has made his chosen profession of Funeral Director successful, and his time now being demanded by increasing business, he most assuredly cannot be blamed for giving his undivided attention to it. With his many friends I most earnestly wish him all success and would assure him I shall never forget his faithful co-operation and earnest loyalty to me while associated with the good old Parish of St. Stephen's Church.

JOSEPH LYONS MILLER.

January 17th, 1907.

From the Sunday School.

Sunday, January 27, 1907.

At a meeting of the Teachers and Superintendents of St. Stephen's Sunday School it was resolved, that they all hear with regret that Mr. Joseph Clayton, who for over thirty years has so faithfully served as St. Stephen's Verger, has resigned.

These many years of constant earnest work for the good of our Church and School have so endeared him to us that his parting will be like "breaking home ties," and we sincerely hope that these few words may at least convey a portion of our deep esteem, and our good wishes to him, that every success may be with him in his future work.

Attest: W. J. KIRKPATRICK,
Secretary.

At a meeting of the King's Daughters the following resolution was unanimously passed and signed by all the members, and it was ordered that a copy be published in the PARISH NEWS, and that one be sent to Mr. Clayton:

The members of the "Whatsoever" Circle of King's Daughters have learned with the sincerest regret of your intention to leave St. Stephen's.

The girls wish to assure you how very sorry indeed they all are; having been among us for such a number of years, and having helped us so many, many times, you have endeared yourself to all of the girls, as well as every member of St. Stephen's.

We will miss you dreadfully, and want you to be assured that even though we may not see you as often as heretofore, you still have a staunch friend in every member of the "Whatsoever" Circle, and that no one can ever take your place among us, so do not forget to visit us as often as possible.

You have all our good wishes for success in your future undertakings.

(Signed) BERTHA TUDOR WALSH,
Secretary.

January 19th, 1907.

Having been a teacher of St. Stephen's Parish School during the entire period of Mr. Clayton's connection with St. Stephen's Church, I wish to thank him in my own behalf, as well as that of nearly four thousand pupils, that have passed through the Parish School under my tuition, for his unvarying kindness, his sympathy and tenderness towards these little ones whenever there was a demand or need of his services; and by his Christian character and high principle, has won the respect and affection of all connected with the School.

KATE H. LEWIS.

We, the undersigned, former pupils of the Parish Day School, desire to express our sincere regrets on the resignation of Mr. Clayton.

Having passed our childhood days under the influence of his kind and tender nature, recall the many thoughtful acts dear to a child's fancy; such memories can never die.

As the years have passed on, and we are now men and women, they have become engraven on the minds of one and all, endearing him to us, as a true loyal friend, one to whom any could go for advice or assistance.

Wishing him all success and prosperity in the coming years, is the prayer of

The Kitchen Garden.

The success of the Kitchen Garden has more than satisfied our most sanguine expectations. The applicants have been so numerous that we have been obliged to double our membership roll. A new feature has been added to the work in the form of a light lunch for the children before the lesson. It has been frequently noted in schools that the hour from 11 to 12 (the Kitchen-Garden hour with us) finds the children less docile than any other hour of the day, the reason being that it is so near their lunch time. A kind friend has enabled us to give this lunch.

John Spargo, in his wonderful book, "The Bitter Cry of the Children," advocates most strongly the compulsory feeding of children as their twin need with compulsory education. Sweden, which has been such a pioneer in educational movements and the very cradle of all school history, is conducting the experiment to-day with marked success.

Kitchen-Gardening, even with the minimum of application which it demands on the part of the child, illustrates the futility of instruction of any kind on an empty stomach.

Mrs. Noblit has kindly volunteered to be our pianist, and her service is invaluable. The children this month have covered thoroughly all the lessons on fire-building, waiting on the door, table-setting and bed-making. We hope soon to give an exhibition of the work.

Miss Graham's Report.

The proverbial falling off in Sunday School attendance and the natural diminuendo of interest in all the church work after Christmas seems less this year than ever before. In fact the activities of the various societies is so constant that the people show themselves ready to celebrate Christmas triennially even as the Christians of old.

An unusual amount of sickness and distress is prevalent in the Parish. Several cases of direful poverty have lately been brought to my notice.

An appeal for clothing was made by a poor woman who out of the cast-off covers of old umbrellas given her by an umbrella repairer had made herself a pitifully patchwork, but presentable, black dress. One can see from this that nothing comes amiss to the Garment Society.

Another case of extreme distress is a mother who, deserted by her husband, was living in one room with her five children, all under fifteen years of age. They had sold all their furniture to buy food and were sleeping on boards laid upon barrels against the wall. It was only when all effort to get work to help herself failed that she appealed for "charity."

The victims of the Great White Plague meet one in stifling rooms at every turn, but one case of a young mother is particularly sad. When all too late to curb the disease, she resorted to the fresh air treatment, sitting in a rolling chair on her little front pavement. Her suffering from the severity of the weather was so great that she asked us for some warm clothing, promising to take the best of care of it and to leave word to have it returned to us when she should have passed away.

The immediate need of these cases has, of course, been relieved, but their distress is by no means past. If there is anyone whose generosity Christmas did not wholly cripple, and who stands ready to help them farther, I should be glad to be a means to that end.

Alpha Kappa Column.

The Alpha Kappa's banner is higher upon the mountain of achievement. It has been planted firmly upon the high places and the various breezes are proudly caressing its folds. The summit is no great distance off, and there is only a short time yet and we shall see it proudly waving in triumph from the sunlit crest. The Third Literary Evening was only a replication of the ones before—the same enthusiasm, the same success. The evening commenced, as usual, by an overture by our famous orchestra, and to say that they received applause would be putting it mildly indeed. They have the heartiest appreciation of all connected with the Parish. May their days be long in the Realms of Melody. Our mutual friend the W. C. of the Alpha Kappa, made the opening address. In life's multiplicity of events it is often found necessary to use the mantle of charity. A feature on the programme was the singing of Wilbur Crowell, the far-famed captain of the Swarthmore foot-ball team. Mr. Crowell's voice gave the needed touch to make the evening one of harmonious perfection. The subject for debate proved to be a very popular one—"Resolved, That Bachelor is the proper condition for the modern young man." Our Ciceronian friend, Mr. Fester, and our diminutive member, Mr. Wm. Schleicher, defended the negative side of the question in a splendid manner, yet they could not combat the facts of Mr. Charles H. Moore and the brilliant flow of oratory of Mr. Jurgen Kolb. The debate was the most interesting yet held by the Alpha Kappa. Merrit Bodine proved to be the real "star" of the evening in his rendering of "Just One Word of Consolation." He was forced to respond to the spontaneous applause with an encore. Mr. Merritt will find himself a very "big" quantity in the Alpha Kappa. Miss Kimball and Mr. Morrison gave a little sketch called "His First Case," which proved very interesting to all their friends. The entertainment was followed by "the merry dance," which is always an enjoyable feature of the Alpha Kappa night. The patronesses were Miss Sanders, Miss Wilkins, Mrs. Vanderslice and Mrs. H. P. Taylor. Mr. Strauss had full direction of the music and dancing. The next entertainment will be held on the evening of February 8th, in the Sunday School Hall.

The Lent Schedule.

ASH WEDNESDAY there will be the Litany, Ante-Communion and address by the Rector at 10.30 A. M. First St. Andrew's Brotherhood Service at 12.30 P. M. Address by Bishop Whittaker. Evening Prayer at 5 P. M.

ALL OTHER WEEK DAYS in Lent the Noon Service of the Brotherhood at 12.30, and Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock (except Saturday), with an address by the Rector on Fridays and Mr. Ewell on Wednesdays.

CONFIRMATION will be administered on Palm Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, March 24.

COMMUNION on the third Sunday of the month at 8 A. M. First Sunday at 11, as usual.

Confirmation.

At the afternoon service on Palm Sunday, March 24th, the Bishop Coadjutor will administer the rite of Confirmation in St. Stephen's. It is matter for much congratulation that this Church has been assigned such an admirable date for the administration of this ancient rite and the ratification by our members of their baptismal vows. On the Wednesday after Ash Wednesday, that is, on February 20th, at 8 P. M., the Rector will begin his Confirmation lectures in the Parish House, and continue them every Wednesday thereafter till Palm Sunday. While he will be glad to have all candidates attend these lectures, he wishes it to be clearly understood that such attendance is not a pre-requisite to Confirmation. With many adults all that he could expect would be a personal conference. He will be found at home in the mornings till eleven, but it will always be possible to arrange a conference with him by a note, if the early morning hours are inconvenient. C. E. G.

Lenten Services.

The Mid-Day Services will be held as usual this Lent under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Speaking more accurately, though, these services are under the joint auspices of the Rector and the Brotherhood, as the speakers are jointly chosen and invited by both parties. The services open at 12.30 and last precisely twenty-five minutes. They will be conducted by the Rector or Mr. Ewell. The ushering, advertising, music and all other arrangements are left to the Brotherhood.

The preachers will be as follows:

Ash Wednesday, February 13, the Bishop-Coadjutor of Pennsylvania.
Thursday, February 14, the Bishop of Delaware.
Friday, February 15, the Bishop of Harrisburg.
Saturday, February 16, Rev. Wm. Reese Scott, Christ, Media.
Monday to Friday, February 18-22, Rev. George Hodges, D. D., D. G. L., Dean, Cambridge Divinity School, Boston, Mass.
Saturday, February 23, Rev. George Gunnell, St. Andrew's, Philadelphia.
Monday to Friday, February 25 to March 1, Rev. Wm. Meade Clark, St. James', Richmond, Va.
Saturday, March 2, Rev. George C. Foley, D. D., Divinity School, Philadelphia.
Monday to Saturday, March 4-9, Rev. Floyd Tomkins, S. T. D., Holy Trinity, Philadelphia.
Monday to Wednesday, March 11-13, Rev. Edward M. Jeffreys, St. Peter's, Philadelphia.
Thursday and Friday, March 14-15, Rev. Charles F. Hutchinson, St. Clement's, Philadelphia.
Saturday, March 16, Rev. John E. Ewell, St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.
Monday to Friday, March 18-22, Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.
Saturday, March 23, Rev. I. Newton Stanger, D. D., Atonement, Philadelphia.
Monday, March 25, Rev. J. Henning Nelms, St. Matthew's, Philadelphia.
Tuesday, March 26, Rev. Stewart P. Keeling, St. Peter's, Germantown.
Wednesday, March 27, Rev. David McG. Steele, St. Luke's Epiphany, Philadelphia.
Thursday, March 28, Rev. L. N. Galey, Nativity, Philadelphia.
Good Friday, March 29, Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.
Saturday, March 30, Rev. Simeon C. Hill, Grace, Mt. Airy, Philadelphia.

The Employment Bureau.

The Employment Bureau has met with great response in the Parish. Fifteen situations have been procured during the past month. If only more Help Wants were received our business could easily be doubled. Miss Graham particularly invites applications for errand boys, cooks, laundresses, house cleaners, seamstresses, nurses or help of any kind.

The Auxiliary.

It was a happy thought of the Rector last winter to gather all the Missionary Committees together and form them into one large Society, to be called the St. Stephen's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary. Since this organization all of the committees have been largely increased and greatly encouraged and stimulated by hearing each other's reports.

Heretofore the Domestic and Foreign only were well known and understood, but now the Diocesan, the Indian Hope and the United Offering also claim the interest and generosity of the congregation.

At each meeting of the Auxiliary (and there are but four) full reports are made by capable and interested women, who are delegates to the Diocesan Society.

The reports are then printed in the PARISH NEWS, through which medium they may be clearly comprehended, and new members be added to the Society.

It is our experience that those most interested in any work are those who do the work.

To the contributors, to whom we owe so much, we desire to express our sincere thanks, though believing that they lose the great reward of the workers—their interest in and knowledge of the great benefit realized in the accomplishment of the work.

May we, therefore, ask the congregation the simple question: How much work may we do or how little must we do?

With abiding faith in St. Stephen's, we know what that reply will be. As she has never failed us in the past, we feel sure that we can trust her for the future.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on Thursday, January 31st, at 3.30 in the afternoon, when an address will be made by Deaconess White, of Oklahoma, and tea will be served, to which all will be invited to meet the clergy of the Parish. It is hoped that all the women of the Church will be present.

Sloyd Work.

The Junior Branch of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity has taken up a course in Manual Training. Every Friday evening from seven to nine o'clock some fifteen or twenty boys are kept busy with Sloyd cardboard work.

The name Sloyd, which may be unfamiliar to some persons, is a corruption of the Swedish "Slöjd," which is derived from an Icelandic word meaning dexterity or skill. There is in Sweden to-day a distinct class of workmen known as "Sloyders" whom we should call "Jacks-of-all-trades," as they are able to do various kinds of odd jobs about the house. In English the word "Sloyd" has come to be synonymous with manual training as distinct from technical and industrial training.

Various materials, e. g., wax, clay, paper, pasteboard, wood or metal, can be used in Sloyd work, but the pasteboard seemed to us the most practicable, as it is preparatory to the wood-carving.

In taking up this work we would disclaim to the overly expectant mothers of our boys any intent to train their sons as carpenters, builders or architects. Many of us will recall Dr. Grammer's telling us from the pulpit one Sunday afternoon lately of a little experience of his at the recent Industrial Exhibit at Horticultural Hall. While watching a class of boys in manual training there one evening he commented to a stander-by upon the efficacy of such a method to train boys' hands to be the tools of their minds. The stranger remarked: "Yes, we try to introduce it into our public schools under that impression, but what we really aim at is to teach the boys to make a living." The old, old fallacy, as Henry Van Dyke once complained, "To educate boys not for living, but for making a living."

We would not introduce Sloyd into St. Stephen's under any guise or misapprehension. There are many ways in which Sloyd can be taught, with a view to economy, to utility or as a ready-made plan of corporal work, but the true way to bring about a lasting benefit is to regard it altogether as a means of education. Educational Sloyd should never be confounded with the work of the artisan, inasmuch as in the latter importance is attached to the work, while in the former to the worker.

We do not claim to make artisans of our boys. We do not teach banking in our schools with a view to all the pupils becoming bankers. We do not teach drawing because we expect to train artists or engineers. Nor do we teach boys the United States Constitution and some of the Acts of Congress because we expect them all to become Congressmen. But we do expect them to have something to do with bankers, artists and engineers, and we do expect them all to become good citizens.

The Sloyd work meets a great need at St. Stephen's. The enthusiasm of the boys best attests to that fact. The work is done now in a very inexpensive and rudimentary way, but we hope to be enabled to extend and develop it. B. G.

Old and New.

On Sunday, January the 13th, were heard for the last time the strains of the old organ. At the morning service, instead of the customary offertory anthem, Dr. Wood played the two-movement of a Mendelssohn organ sonata. It was done in our famous organist's unapproachable classical style and the tones of the organ were so beautiful that it made one wonder why a new instrument was needed after all. But, as Dr. Grammer said, only a Dr. Wood could make the worn-out parts continue to do such noble service.

At the afternoon service the Rector said that the "Last Chord" was to be played and the "Great Amen" sung to the (tones of the) organ for the last time. Many people stayed after the service and listened to the Andante of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony played, and when the lid of the organ was put down it was the finale.

Now the organ is entirely removed, and it probably will be entirely renovated and put in the Musical Fund Hall. There is fear that the new organ will go beyond the contract time for completion, and till then a small reed organ is supplying the music, and as some one said, it sounds like Tedra playing on one string of a violin.

Diocesan Missions.

The annual offering for Diocesan Missions will be placed on the altar on Sunday morning, February 17th.

This annual offering is a well-known and well-approved institution in St. Stephen's, and for the sake of those who have come to the Parish within the year we will explain the manner in which it is raised. During the week precedng the third Sunday in the month (February 17) every family will be waited upon by a representative of the Parish to receive their contributions.

The amount expected, according to a tacit agreement which has been in force for a number of years, is equal to $5.00 from every person.

This is what we have done heretofore and nobody is any poorer, while many a poor missionary and struggling handful of people are much the better off.

Of course there are many in the Parish who cannot afford to give so much as the sum mentioned above, but there are many others who can, and heretofore have given far more than this amount, so as to make up for their poorer neighbors. There is no fear but that they will do so again.

Garment Committee.

The Garment Committee gratefully acknowledges the receipt of contributions from the following:

Mrs. Borie, King's Daughters, Miss Dutihl, Mrs. Richardson.

The Garment Committee will meet hereafter on Mondays instead of Tuesdays, at the usual hour. The Society is much in need of garments of all kinds. Kindly send them to the Parish House any morning, marked in care of Miss Lammot.

The Sunday School's Christmas.

The Festival was held on "Holy Innocent's" night, Friday, December 28th. It was in every respect a happy and successful celebration. The room was crowded to the doors with the scholars and teachers, and some interested members of the congregation. The programme, in addition to several pretty carols well sung by the Sunday School, contained two delightful surprises. One was the performance of "Spotless Town" by the members of Miss Graham's Primary Department. This was immensely well done and was heartily enjoyed. The second surprise came as a decided novelty. It introduced a "Toy Orchestra" of about fifteen pieces, all children of varying ages, who played two entertaining selections with much skill. The "Toy Orchestra," while not composed of Sunday School scholars, scored a distinct success. It was directed by Miss Adele Sutor, who makes the drilling of little pupils her profession. Mr. McMichael opened the exercises of the evening and introduced Dr. Grammer, who made a very happy address. Mr. Wood was at the piano to play the carols, and at the end of the "St. Stephen's Sunday School Hymn," which was sung with great spirit, the entire school arose and gave Mr. Wood, whom they have known so long and loved so well, three rousing cheers. Cakes and candy and oranges were then distributed under the watchful supervision of Mrs. Vanderslice, and the evening came to a happy, joyful close. The "spirit" of St. Stephen's Sunday School was never more marked—the "spirit" which makes it one big, loving family, and which is the secret of its vitality and growth.

Saving Fund.

A branch of the Theodore Starr Savings Bank has been started in connection with the Sewing School and the Junior Alpha Kappa's. The children are encouraged to save all their pennies, and it is surprising how much is put in on Banking Day. Every child is given a bank book, in which is pasted a bank stamp equivalent to the amount they deposit. In 1906 the main branch of the Bank, at 906 South street, took in $31,000 in the small savings of children.

Our Parochial Services.

We hope this year to make our parochial services at 5 o'clock popular with the congregation. The mid-day services have the advantage of large congregations, which help the enthusiasm and devotion. But still there is the need for the quieter service of a later hour, and this year it is hoped that the parishioners and friends of the Church will be present often at these services.

Dr. Grammer will make short addresses every Friday Afternoon, and Mr. Ewell every Wednesday afternoon. There is no service on Saturday afternoon.

A new feature of the service will be a volunteer choir, under Mr. Seldon Miller, the distinguished musician and director, If you sing—no matter to what degree—volunteer and help this department of the worship. We want to put great heartiness into the services and ask you to help.

Admission Service.

The admission service of the Girl's Friendly Society took place Monday evening, January 21st. The service was opened by the girls marching into Church in a body singing as the processional hymn, "Through the Night of Doubt and Sorrow."

The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Grammer. After the responsive reading and chant, the probationers formed around the chancel rail to take their pledge and receive their badges.

For our motto we have, "Bear ye one another's burdens." It is the aim of our society to help each other with kind words and deeds. For after all it is the small things that count.

A brief and uplifting address was made by Dr. Grammar, in which he spoke of the value of good fiction; books that are upliting in our paths through life.

The service was closed by the G. F. S. prayer. After which we sang the Processional Hymn, "Blest be the Tie that Binds." The following probationers were admitted:

Lena Goetz, Ada Leader, Amelia Fogg, Rosa Leitsch, Lena Hess, Mabel Cooley, Minnie Hartman, Ada Cole, Ethel Preising, Sarah Cole, Alma Leader, Irene Wilder, Mae Van Horn, Mae Elliott, Lucy Worthington, Lily Fitzgerald, Emma Wahuke.

M. V. C.

The interesting article by the Rev. Henry S. Phillips in the last number of the PARISH NEWS must have aroused sympathy for the poor little sick colored children who failed to be received into the Summer Home of the Church of the Crucifixion last Summer for want of room.

The Guild of the Holy Cross will have a Musical Tea in St. Stephen's Parish House on Friday afternoon February 8th, from three to six o'clock, in aid of this Home.

Many members of the Guild belong to St. Stephen's, and they earnestly hope that others in the congregation will by their presence and participation in a social cup of tea or chocolate make the Tea a success, and thereby assist Mr. Phillips in his endeavor to raise the money to build the additional rooms so very much needed.

There will be cake for sale. No tickets required. Donations of cake solicited. All who will be kind enough to give cakes are requested to send them to the Parish House, No. 9 So. 10th Street, on Friday morning, February 8th, 1907.

Committee: Mrs. E. Payson Carpenter, Miss Cleemann, Miss M. E. Macgill, Mrs. F. Howard Mulford, Mrs. Charles P. Stratton, Miss A. R. Stratton, Mrs. H. P. Taylor, Mrs. W. Graham Tyler.

The Three Arts Club.

The third monthly meeting of the Three Arts Club was held in the Guild room of the Parish House, on January 5th. Mrs. Lineaweaver was hostess on that day and was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Frank Granger Kennedy, Jr., and Mrs. Hammond, who sang, and Mr. Dominico Bove, who played the violin. It was a most charming afternoon, the vocal numbers contributed varying from oriental songs and classical duets to little tales of nursery lore. Mr. Bove is undoubtedly a young man of genius, and in addition to making his violin fairly speak its exquisite lines attracted everyone by his artistic looks. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience and tea was served to the students by the committee in charge during the musicale. We trust that the success of the Club will continue as it has begun and grow accordingly. All the members are enthusiastic and it is to be hoped that the new ones who are joining will find it as acceptable and beneficial.

Early Recollections of St. Stephen's Church

By

THE REV. WM. WILBERFORCE NEWTON, D. D.

My dear young friend, Rev. John. E. Ewell, has asked me to give some recollections as a schoolboy and college youth of old St. Stephen's Church, which, for his sake and out of regard to his interest in the parish paper, I am very glad to do.

Clerical life in Philadelphia fifty years ago was as marked in its party lines as is the city's political life to-day.

"The Banner of the Cross," the high church paper, was boldly thrown out to the breeze from the office of that stalwart periodical at Eighth and Chestnut Streets, at the famous book store of Herman Hooker. Here were to be found upon any Monday morning the heroes and leaders of the stalwart and aggressive High Church party—Dr. Ducachet, Dr. Odenheimer, Dr. Dorr, Dr. Coleman, and others of this newly developed Bishop Hobart cult of churchmanship.

These were marked men, and they left their impress upon all who saw them in their daily work and conversation. Fierce was the warfare and great were the shoutings though like old Kaspar's grandchildren in the poet Southey's song of the Battle of Blenheim, I felt even then as a boy that I could say:

"Now tell us what 'twas all about!"
Young Peter Peterkin he cries—
And little Wilhelmine looks up
With wonder waiting eyes—
"Now tell us all about the war—
And what they fought each other for!"
Why, that I cannot tell," said he—
"But 'twas a famous victory!"

"The Episcopal Recorder" furnished the artillery for the Low Church school, and was published at that famous rendezvous of other days where the mules in long lines dragged sleepily along heavy freight cars from the river Delaware through Market Street to the Schuylkill, and where all the omnibuses met. From this point they started with sleepy drivers lying in the sun, and tired horses fruitlessly throwing back their mild eyes for the few remaining oats, before it was time to start off again on that mysteriously curved avenue, Dock Street.

The antagonism between these styles of rival churchmanship in Philadelphia found perhaps its fullest expression in the life of old St. Peter's and old St. Paul's.

A half-witted man of that locality used to designate these rival churches as "Peter's Church" and "Paul's Church," with various accompaniments upon the names of the rectors—the rector of St. Peter's being always known as "Ommenheimer," and the rector of St. Paul's being always called "Newty."

There was in those days an early celebration at St. Peter's and an early morning prayer meeting at St. Paul's. But early one Sunday morning a terrible thing happened at St. Peter's! There was no communion service to be had—it had been stolen by burglars in the night. Whereupon, a certain pious pilgrim, hurrying on his way to the prayer meeting at St. Paul's, brought the news of the judgment of Almighty God upon the sacramental system of the church with the tall white steeple.

I well remember as a boy when the Burd monuments were placed the church and the interest and excitement which their introduction into this house of God caused. Dear old Dr. Duchachet considered himself in a certain way the especial guardian of these exquisite monuments, and rightly to estimate them was the same thing in his mind as to attend the most elaborate service. To admire the statuary was to him more than sacrifice, and to venerate the angel in the group was better than the fat of rams.

A story is told of him that during a certain month of August in Philadelphia the rector let his assistant go away upon a vacation, promising to take his place for the daily morning and evening prayer. But after the first week of this service, in the terrible heat of August, the dear old doctor found it very trying to be twice in the chancel in one day.

It is reported of him that upon a certain afternoon in this heated term the doctor kept looking out of the vestry room to see if there were any persons coming to the service, and finding only two visiting lady teachers present, went out to them, mopping his head with his large bandanna handkerchief, and fanning himself vigorously with a huge palm leaf fan, as he whispered:

"I tell you what it is, my friend, it is too hot to have evening prayer to-day. Let us take a good pious look at the statuary and then go reverently home."

I shall never forget the impression made upon me as a boy of the reverence of Dr. Duchachet in the chancel. I remember now his black silk socks, his patent leather pumps, with their silver bukles, his peculiar style of surplice of lace and lawn, and his devout habit of adoration towards the altar when entering the channel. This act of reverence with bowed head and folded hands always impressed me as a child.

"And in the old days of the Diocesan conventions, which used to meet in St. Andrew's Church, the dear old doctor would wink at me when as a little boy I used to attend the convention and sit with my father, and beckon to me to "come over and sit on the High Church side."

I remember once sitting in his lap during the convention, and when my father came to carry me back, the dear, urbane, old gentleman, with his snowy white head and his elegant broadcloth and silk clothing, remarked:

"No! Go away Richard Newton; you can't have this boy. We're going to make a better man out of him than his father—for already he loves our High Church ways."

The power of tenderness and love, and the expression of it towards a child, are the thoughts which come into my mind whenever the name of Dr. Duchachet is mentioned—that grand old type of the French gentleman—who was the churchman every inch and gloried in the thought of his Catholic home and heritage.

Lent at St. Stephen's

During Lent services are held daily in the Church. Short services and address at 12.30 o'clock, and Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock, exeept Saturday. On Wednesdays and Fridays addresses are made by the Assistant and Rector.

Confirmation will be on Palm Sunday, March 24, at 4 in the afternoon, by Bishop Coadjutor Mackay-Smith.

On Thursday before Easter Holy Communion will be celebrated at the evening service at 5 o'clock.

On Good Friday there will be Morning

Prayer, Litany and Sermon at 10.30. Midday Service at 12.30 and Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock. Offerings for City Missions.

During the last two weeks of Lent there will be a Service at 11.30 A. M., when the story of our Lord's Passion as contained in the Gospels will be read.

On Easter Day Holy Communion will be administered at 8 A. M. Morning Prayer, Sermon and Holy Communion at 11 o'clock, and Evening Prayer and Sermon at 4 o'clock. Offerings for Stephen's Farm.

The Easter Carol Service of the Sunday School, Parish School and Burd Orphan Asylum will be held on Sunday after Easter, at 4 o'clock. The offerings of the year will be received for Missions and placed on the altar.

Easter Day the Services will be at 8 o'clock 11 o'clock and 4 o'clock. At the two latter Services the pew-holders and regular members of the congregation will be admitted as usual through the transcept door. The front doors will be opened promptly at the hour of the Service itself, and the visitors will be provided with seats to the full capacity of the Church.

It seems rather an inhospitable mode of action, but upon reflection it will commend itself to all reasonable people. It is bct right and fair that those who attend the Service all the other days of the year, should have an opportunity to occupy their own seats on the great high festival, and that those who only visit the church upon such occasions should be asked to wait upon the convenience of the regular attendants.

The Mid-Day Services are being held as usual this Lent under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Speaking more occurately, though, these services are under the joint auspices of the Rector and the Brotherhood, as the speakers are jointly chosen and invited by both parties. The services open at 12.30 and last precisely twenty-five minutes. They will be conducted by the Rector, Mr. Ewell or Dr. Snively. The ushering, advertising, music and all other arrangements are left to the Brotherhood.

The preachers will be as follows:

Monday to Saturday, March 4-9, Rev. Floyd Tomkins, S. T. D., Holy Trinity, Philadelphia.

Monday to Wednesday, March 11-12, Rev. Edward M. Jeffreys, St. Peter's, Philadelphia.

Thursday and Friday, March 14-15, Rev. Charles F. Hutchinson, St. Clement's, Philadelphia.

Saturday, March 16, Rev.. John E. Ewell, St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.

Monday to Friday, March 18-22, Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.

Monday, March 25, Rev. J. Henning Nelms, St. Matthew's, Philadelphia.

The Church in the West

The writer has always felt a keener sense of sympathy for the men and women of our church who are battling under her banner in the Middle West than for those who have gone to the Orient.

Across the Pacific there are certain aspects of romance among the strange and interesting people who are becoming so active in the world's program. There is the beautiful country and the bewildering blossoms of Japan. Of course, out there our representatives have severe trials, and their life to a degree is an isolated martyrdom to the most acute form of duty.

Bnt the problem of the church in the West has special demands on our sympathy and encouragement. The country is wild and vast. There is that liberty and license a new country never fails to esgender. This has to be diplomatically curtailed because what out there is considered unnatural severity immediately alienates the people, and the servant of the Lord might just as well take a Pullman for the East.

A young clergyman in orders of estimable character and strength of will recently became unhappy in trying to hold the full allegiance of the men in his community by clever and skillful means, but the pressure was so heavy on him that he gave up in despair. He even has left the ministry.

Many of the aspects of the church' work in the West were presented before the Woman's Auxiliary by Deaconess White, of Oklahoma, at its last meeting. She first spoke of the size of the State and how seven counties were populated in one day. The work is divided into three parts, between the Indians, negroes and whites. Among these different peoples there is a very small and discouraging number of religious workers.

There is only one minister of our church and one deaconess in the city of Guthrie, which has a population of forty thousand.

The deaconess is trying to raise for her Bishop $10,000. Mr. George C. Thomas is doubling each thousand dollars of the sum the Bishop is having raised to build necessary churches in his diocese. Two ladies of the Auxiliary, in response to the appeal, gave $100 apiece to Deaconess White.

At the same meeting Mrs. Rowland Morris, the new treasurer of the United Offering, made an appeal for her fund, saying she wanted to have St. Stephen's well up in the contribution list. An account of the United Offering is given in another article of this paper.

Reports were made the different committees telling of the work of the General Committees.

The Auxiliary closed its session with a cup of tea. Mrs. Lineaweaver and Mrs. S. Weir Mitchell poured. The next meeting will be on Thursday evening, March 21, at 11 o'clock.

Sunday Evening Services with Stereopticon

The first of our Illustrated Services took place in our Sunday School Room on Sunday evening, February 24th, with Mr. S. L. Schumo, a recent traveler in the Holy Land, as the lecturer.

This snow-stormy evening was against a very large attendance, but the goodly number of brave souls present were edified, instructed and delighted with Mr. Schumo's many fine picture of modern Palestine, and they were particularly pleased with his earnest, forceful Biblical stories, and his fine-voiced descriptions of the sacred scenes, as they now are. We take this opportunity to publicly thank him for his generous assistance in our work.

Dr. Grammer opened the service with prayer, then with the aid of Mr. McMichael's lantern, the lecturer was able to show us the sights of old Israel's homes, the tombs of David and Jesus, to picture Palestine as it is to-day, from Joppa to Jerusalem, and on northward to Damascus and Baalbec. Very, very realistic were the views from the Jordan, from Bethany and the Holy City—places where the decay of centuries has not dimmed the spiritual religious associations, sacred alike to Moslem, Jew and Christian.

This lecture on Modern Palestine is to be followed by the beautiful and celebrated pictures of the Life of Christ, from the paintings by the artist Tissot. Promptly at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening, March 10th, and on Sunday evening, March 24th, Mr. Clayton F. McMichael will describe the Tissot pictures.

These services are intended to be informal efforts to give instruction and advance the cause of Christ. It is hoped that teachers, scholars, parents, friends and visitors will, by their presence, heartily support these efforts. All are cordially welcomed.

Three Arts Club

The fourth entertainment for the Three Arts Club was given on Saturday afternoon, February 2d, in the Parish House, to a very large audience. It differed in character from the three previous entertainments, and judging by the rapt attention wit hwhich it was received, and by the many expressions of pleasure heard afterward, was a great success. Mrs. FitzMaurice, the Philadelphia critic of the New York Musical Courier, and a valued member of the Three Arts Club, read parts of Ibsen's play, "Peer Gynt," and illustrated it on the piano by Grieg's music. The selections Mrs. Fitzmaurice made from the book of the play showed great discrimination, and her charming illustrations on the piano were heard with much pleasure. During an intermission tea was served by the hostesses of the afternoon, Miss Lockhart and Mrs. Hilary.

A. M. F. N.

A sale of art objects made by members of the Three Arts Club will take place in the club room in the Parish House on Saturday afternoon, March 23d, from 3 until 6 o'clock. It is hoped that advantage may be taken of this opportunity to buy artistic articles suitable for Easter gifts.

Church Periodical Club

Miss Kate Lewis has consented to act as the secretary of this club in St. Stephen's. Papers and magazines which are sent to her will be forwarded to deserving persons, or she will furnish the names of such persons and the literature can be sent on directly.

There are few gifts more appreciated than a paper or magazine systematically forwarded in this way. It is a gift twice blessed. It blesses the conscientious giver and sweetens the life of the grateful recipient.

Alpha Kappa Column

Apart from the purely social pursuits indulged in by the Alpha Kappa, among which the orchestra, gymnasium work, basket ball, and the literary entertainment are the most prominent, there is another and far more important side of the affairs of the fraternity which must be remembered. The question of how we can make the organization of some real benefit, personally to the individual members opens up possibilities which, if fostered, will make each man better, purer and higher minded than he had been. One instance of this, and the one I wish to speak of at present, is the effect the Alpha Kappa should have on the citizenship of its members. With the perpetually unsettled state of Philadelphia politics and the important local questions to be considered, together with the ever present national issues, it seems an opportune time and subject on which to apply some of our Christian ideas. Strange as it may seem, politics and Christianity appear to most men to be widely separated subjects, subjects to be considered as though they were without connection. How many good Christian men in their business and social life will vote for a man or a principle without the slightest consideration of its merits or demerits from a Christian standpoint, but will allow themselves to be led by an article in a newspaper, or by the prejudiced argument of some professional politician? How much better it would be if we would look at all of these things from the standpoint of Jesus Christ. What would He do? That should be the question, and the right solution would naturally follow. And this is not an idealistic state of affairs; on the contrary, it is by far the most practical and the easiest road to good government. Therefore, I say that the Alpha Kappa, throcgh its discussions and debates, can make its members better citizens. A Christian influence will make anything better, and anything that we may do as members of the Alpha Kappa under the influence of St. Stephen's Church, and with the association of its rector, Dr. Grammer, must surely be better than it otherwise should have been.

For instance, I think that the members have a clearer and a deeper understanding of the subject of government ownership, which promises to be an important issue in the next Presidential campaign, than they had before the interesting debate held on that scbject by the Alpha Kappa. While we may still disagree as to whether it may be right or wrong, still we can go to the polls and vote, not as a newspaper or some other persons tell us, but as our own mind dictates, for what we honestly think is right, and thereby better fulfill our duties as good Christian citizens.

The New Organ

We know this sounds like a myth, but behind the vast, white expanse of muslin at the back of the church there is now a faint attempt at activity. At last!

Ash Wednesday, the day the contract called for the completion of the organ, has come and gone, and the indications are that Easter will suffer the same fate.

We now know better, and the next organ we build there will be a forfeit attached to the contract, and being experienced, we will mentally double the promised time.

So now let us possess our souls in patience and think how delightful it will be next fall to be greeted with the tones of the magnificent instrument, the product of such long toil and ecort.

The choir is to be congratulated on their splendid opportunity to experiment so plentifully with á capello singing.

The Volunteer Choir

Besides the usual Lenten Quartette there has been organized a volunteer choir to supplement it.

Mr. Selden Miller is the organist and director, and has in a very short time brought this new choir up to a high degree of efficiency.

The members of the choir have volunteered for certain afternoons in the week by consenting to come in relays each day has a certain number of singers pledged to it.

The fresh, bright singing adds very much life and beauty to the services, and is greatly appreciated.

The different days have the following singers:

Monday—Miss Dale, Miss Clayton, Miss Lineaweaver, Miss Weaver, Mrs. Noblit, Mrs. Grammar, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony, Miss Bessie Reynolds, Miss Minerva Reynolds, Miss Irene Patterson.

Tuesday—Miss Dale, Miss Clayton, Miss Kiehl, Miss Hewson, Miss Graham, Miss Goss, Miss Lowrey, Miss Stuart, Miss Waters, Mr. McNeill, Mr. Bulkley, Mr. Ewell, Dr. Anthony, Miss Bessie Reynolds, Miss Minerva Reynolds, Miss Irene Patterson.

Wednesday—Miss Dale, Miss Clayton, Miss Lineaweaver, Miss Goss, Miss Graham, Miss Minerva Reynolds, Miss Bessie Reynolds, Miss Irene Patterson, Miss Graham, Mrs. Noblit, Miss Waters, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony, Mr. Lineawever.

Thursday—Miss Dale, Miss Clayton, Miss Kiehl, Miss Hewson, Miss Goss, Miss Graham, Mrs. Grammer, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony, Mr. Bulkley, Miss Bessie Reynolds, Miss Minerva Reynolds, Miss Irene Patterson.

Friday—Miss Dale, Miss Clayton, Miss Lineaweaver, Miss Weaver, Mrs. Noblit, Miss Lowrey, Miss Stuart, Mrs. Hammond, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony, Mr. Lineaweaver, Mr. Ewell, Miss Bessie Reynolds, Miss Minerva Reynolds, Miss Irene Patterson.

Thanks to Dr. Newton

It affords us great pleasure to announce to the readers of the Parish News that beginning with this number there will be a series of contributions to the paper by Dr. William Wilberforce Newton on "Reminiscences of old St. Stephen's."

Dean Hodges

It has been our great privilege this Lent to have had Dean Hodges with us for a week. He has certainy a fresh genius to present old truths in new and attractive form. Everything he touches seems to have a new life and meaning.

Upon four occasions his discourses were on the character of certain of Christ's disciples.

He showed the broad-mindedness of Andrew in that did not resign from the company of the Apostles because he was less favored than Peter, James and John. Andrew served Christ for the sake of service and love, and not reward, being denied the inner circle of the affection of the Master, as were the above three disciples, whom Christ always had with Him at the different crises of His life, as on the mount of Transfiguration and in the Garden. Yet Andrew, always faithful, remained at the foot of the mountain and outside the Garden.

In Peter, the preacher explained how the Master formed a true rock of faith out of hasty speech and impetuosity of disposition, and can make out of us, in spite of our imperfections, living stones as well.

Matthew, the Publican, exhibited the broad democracy on which Christ established His church. Not a doctor of Jerusalem graced the company of twelve.

That despondent Thomas, who was not subjected to an ill-advised heresy trial and hastily expelled from the select company of Apostles, was used as an example of how much happier a solution it is for the doubter to be kept in the church by the bonds of friendship and love, and that the doubter himself, must have patience and be content to wait for more light.

The Dean made the human nature of the Apostles very plain and showed how they stumbled in making their way up to the stained-glass church windows in which they pose.

It was a most profitable week for St. Stephen's.

What a Visitor said of the Children's Entertainment

Those of our Parish who did not view the treat given 150 or more children on Tuesday evening, February 12th, by the Children's Friend Society of St. Stephen's, missed a jubilant, if not a more brilliant scene, than a grand ball at the Academy.

Its orderly success, and the happy, good time for these little ones of small opportunities reflect much credit to the managers of this good work. Such peals of happiness as the entertainer, Professor Hartz, a magician, with his tricks, brought from his youthful audience. Our school room rang with shouts of laughter as magical eggs and silvery coin came from everywhere and nowhere at his sleight of hand bidding. Later the scene was even more jolly, where his ventriloquism made two awkward puppets say such queer, funny things. Then the closing hour of dancing for the children, when little Rosie Cæsar and Sadie Ling, the one Chinese child, and all the rest, romped merrily their two-steps and waltzes, with the "Virginia Reel" as a finish. Even the "big folks" could not resist this last cheering whirl. They, too, joined in this real "reel."

Ah! this was a true "charity ball." It made many young hearts throb with joy and hope for another such entertainment by their big-hearted friends of St. Stephen's. That so many children were ready to brave the cold of so unusually a bitter for the sake of a frolic shows that the Children's Friend Society still has a mission to serve.

Children's Friend Society

Donations received in February:

Mrs. A. F. Martin	$1.00
Mrs. H. P. Taylor	.50
Total	$1.50

King's Daughters will meet in Parish House every Wednesday evening during Lent, at quarter of 8 o'clock, to sew. Any one wishing to help is gladly welcome.

SHOE FUND.

Donations received in February:

Mrs. Elizabeth Hand	$1.50
Name lost	1.00
Mrs. H. F. Martin	.25
Total	$2.25
From those receiving shoes	17.96
Total	$20.21
Expended in February for shoes	19.10
Balance	$1.11

Received through Miss Graham ten pairs of shoes. From Miss Walshe, one pair of shoes. From Miss Mary Jeffries, one pair. From Mrs. E. L. V., one pair.

Have given out in February fifty-five pairs of shoes and twenty-two pairs of over-shoes.

Shoes of any sort, if wearable, very acceptable.

There will be a half-rate sale of household articles, such as tea towels, roller towels, maids' aprons, etc., on Thursday and Friday, March 7th asd 8th, from 11 to 1, in the Parish House.

The musical tea and cake sale held by the Guild of the Holy Cross for the benefit of the summer home of the Church of the Crucifixion in our Guild Room, was very enjoyable. The music was exceedingly good and the money realized amounted to $47.00, which was very gratifying to the committee.

Memorbilia

Don't neglect the Parochial Services at 5 o'clock in the afternoons. They are for you.

The Woman's Auxiliary has its next meeting Thursday morning, March 21st, at 11 o'clock, in the Parish House.

Confirmation this year will be administered on Palm Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The lectures are on Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock in the Rector's room of the Parish House. The Rector will gladly meet men at his home, 1024 Spruce Street, on Thursday evenings, to talk over privately the subject. We should make a personal effort to see that our friends and acquaintances consider taking this important step in Christian progress if they have not already done so.

Read in this issue, "The Story of the United Offering."

The Story of the United Offering

Every third year, on the first Wednesday in October, General Convention meets. The Bishops and chosen clergymen and laymen from every Diocese and Missionary District come together to legislate for the Church's welfare.

At the same time the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions has its triennial gathering, and representatives from every branch throughout the Church at home and abroad are called together for a Service of Thanksgiving and for a meeting in which they can learn of the progress of Christ's Kingdom.

Such a United Service of Thanksgiving was held in Chicago in 1886, when Grace Church was filled, and the Bishop of the Diocese said that he never before had administered the Holy Communion to so large a congregation of women. But when the offering which all those women had brought to their Thanksgiving Service was counted, it was found to amount to $82.71! Certainly no one then had thought of a United Offering to express something of what a United Service really means to the members of the Auxiliary.

But in 1889 the change began, when one member of a parish branch in the Diocese of Pittsburgh asked that the women might not come again so empty-handed, and it was suggested that $2,000 be given at the Service, in the Church of the Holy Communion, New York, on October 3d. It was also proposed that this sum be divided, and used, one-half to build the first church in our Alaska Mission, the other to send a new Missionary to Japan.

There are many active in the Auxiliary today, who remember the disappointment that was felt when the Secretary announced at the morning session which succeeded this Service that the Offering, instead of the desired $2,000, was $400 only. But, as the meeting adjourned for luncheon, additional gifts were asked for, and these brought the Offering to $700. And when the afternoon session began with the announcement of the good news that one member present would give the $1,000 for the Church in Alaska, hope and earnestness revived, and before the day was over, the first United Offering was complete. In 1890 Miss Lovell, the Auxiliary's first United Offering Missionary, went from St. Thomas' Parish, New York, to Japan, where she still works under the Bishop of Tokyo; while in Christ Church, Anvik, on the Yukon, stands to-day a house of prayer for our Missionaries and their people, provided by this Offering.

When the Auxiliary met in St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, in 1892, the $2,000 of three years before had grown to be the $20,000 of the morning's Offering. No further proof was needed to show that the idea of a United Gift at the time of their United Service was growing dear to the hearts of the members of the Auxiliary.

The offering of 1892, by vote of the Auxiliary, was added to a fund in the trust of the Missionary Fund. This fund was started, in 1883, by an enthusiastic layman, in the hope that one million of dollars for Missions might be gathered and offered at one Service by the entire Church. The idea had never been fulfilled, and such sums as had been given were lying at interest, and the offering of 1892 was added to these.

But on October 4th, 1895, in Christ Church, St. Paul, the Auxiliary gave $56,000 for the endowment of the Episcopate in a Missionary District, and later, upon making request to the Board of Missions, the $20,000 for the Enrollment Fund and this offering were put together, in order that the interest upon them both might give the full amount needed for a Bishop's salary. And year by year the Auxiliary rejoices that its gifts of 1892 and 1895 provide the salary of the Missionary Bishop of Alaska.

So year by year the Auxiliary has gathered its increased gifts till in 1904, at Boston, the United Offering was $150,000.

As a result of all this effort, in February, 1905, there were reported seventy-eight United Offering Missionaries, one student for Honolulu, one for Hankow, and one for Shanghai in the Training School, New York, and one for Hankow, two for Shanghai, and one for Kyoto in the Church Training and Deaconess' School, Philadelphia, who are receiving grants from the gift of 1904. The Missionaries are stationed: In Alaska, four; in Arizona, two; Asheville, six; Boise, one; Duluth, three; East Carolina, three; Georgia, one; Lexington, three; Los Angeles, two; Minnesota, two; Montana, one; North Carolina, six; Oklahoma and Indian Territory, one; Puerto Rico, two; Sacramento, one; Salt Lake, three; South Carolina, two; Southern Florida, two; Spokane, one; Springfield, one; Tennessee, three; The Philippines, one; West Texas, two; West Virginia, one; Domestic—fifty-two. In the Missionary Districts of Cape Palmas, three; Shanghai, four; Hankow, seven; Kyoto, one; Tokyo, nine; For-

And now we can hear them speak for themselves of their homes and work.

A Missionary nurse reaches her destination four days before Christmas, and writes telling of the occupations of her first Christmas Eve in an Alaska Mission—"washing dishes, preparing meals, tending fires, making a six-pointed star for the church, washing and ironing the Altar linen."

A teacher from the hill District of Asheville tells of her school children, so faithful all winter, starting at early dawn and coming miles over almost impassable roads, to begin school as the sun rises over the mountains, at nine o'clock. "They are learning to say 'Excuse me,' and 'I am sorry,' and the child in the warm corner by the stove will yield it of his own accord to some little half-frozen bit of humanity, coming in later than himself. The daily opening and closing services and the noonday catechisings are helping all to feel that religion is not a garment to be put on for Sunday, nor is it something to be 'got' when grown, but is the copying day by day of the example of our Lord and Saviour."

Far away on the other side of the world and six hundred miles up the Yang-tse River, another United Offering Missionary is studying Chinese, teaching the small boys of the choir school a little English and music, looking after mothers' meetings and two day-schools for girls, atechising the girls, and giving short Bible talks. "At noon each day the girls use the prayers of the Junior Auxiliary, which have been translated for them. There is a branch of the Woman's Auxiliary also, which works for the United Offering, and to support the girls' day-school at Hunan. Several of these women have mite-chests in which they put a little money day by day. The children, too, have boxes, and are learning to pray and give for Missions. In the two schools eight, only, of the thirty-six girls have unbound feet, but the people are beginning to rectify this evil, and it is growing less."

In the Island Mission of Japan we find our Missionary whose picture appears on the cover of this leaflet, as she sits with her two native helpers, studying the lessons that they are to give again to others. "The work of our native helpers means a great deal to the foreign Missionary," she says. "They are the connecting links between their own people and us, and it is through them we can learn their thoughts and desires and needs. Without their help how could the women and children be prepared for Baptism and Confirmation, when that means, with many, the first conception of a One Ture and Only God, and the very beginning of a sense of personal responsibility?"

Or to return to our own land, and hear the story of one child harbored by a United Offering Missionary in her Mission house home. "His love of beauty, especially natural beauty, is very keen. He has always been eager for the teacher to look with him at a beautiful cloud capping the mountain behind our Mission, to note the moon or stars, or to admire the wayside flowers. His questions are frequent as to the nature and movement of the stars, the nature of God, the appearance of our souls, how the soul leaves the body; 'Is God good because He likes to be, or because He has to be?' He has learned to say his daily prayers, and the other night remarked, 'Of course, I always tell God what I have done ugly, and ask Him to forgive, but to-night I tell something I never tell Tim before, I tell Him to keep me from saying bad word and to punish me if I say it, so I say it no more; I tell Him to-night I want to be His little boy.'"

And, for the kind of woman for this and every Mission, another Missionary has this to say: "The woman who undertakes this work must be earnest, well-balanced and practical. There is room for every tender thought and care for those to whom she shall come. There is a place for all the grace of true friendliness coupled with inflexible justice and wise firmness, but none at all for sentimental nonsense. On the other hand, she who 'out of a faithful and true heart' undertakes it, having first fitted herself, mind and body, for lonely tasks and for true Christly teaching, will find such reward in the progress of those for whom she works, in their love and respect, and in her own true happiness and contentment, that she would make no exchange with the greatest, wisest and richest of the earth."

HOW SHE BECAME TO BE A MISSIONARY.

Such training comes to some in the upbringing of their home, and the work in which they have elsewhere been engaged; to others it comes through our Church Training Schools, from which Missionaries have already gone, and from which more shall go; schools to be found at 228 East Twelfth Street, New York, and 708 Spruce Street, Philadelphia. Here is the nursing of the seed that shall spring up in fruitful lives.

As to the seed itself and its planting, our Missionaries testify what it is that has made them the United Offering Missionaries for whom it is our joy to care. One says: "To me and to my family the Church has brought the choicest blessings of our lives, and it is only right that I should, to the best of my ability, 'pass on' as much of the result of possible." Another says: "My mother wished to go, and I inherited her Missionary purpose." Another: "As a girl of seventeen, a teacher in Sunday school, I had my girls meet with me on Saturday afternoon to prepare Christmas presents for the Indians, of whose need I read in THE YOUNG CHRISTIAN SOLDIER. I knew nothing of Missions and heard less, but I did know that God was good and that He wanted me to train and influence the lives of those girls, that they, too, might do something for Him and for others, and so we worked, and that seed thorght just kept on growing until here I am a United Offering worker." And still another tells the story of her childhood interest: "My father and mother and maiden aunt, who always lived with us, were all deeply imbued with the spirit of Missions. The dear periodical bearing that same name was in our family from its very first issue; stories from its pages told by their dear lips were one of my earliest interests and amusements; and besides, there has ever been an impelling power within, above and beyond myself. My home in early childhood was on a plantation twelve miles from a town, and so my kindred were my constant teachers. I remember one bright, soft Sunday afternoon that my aunt and I went into the garden, an old-fashioned one with vegetables in the large squares which were bordered all around with wide bands of flower beds and a summer house at the intersection of the two principal walks all covered over with honeysuckle and other vines. We sat in the summer house, and she was telling me stories, and we were singing hymns—'I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord,' and 'From Greenland's Icy Mountains'—when suddenly the old cook, 'Mammy Agnes,' stood in the door, exclaiming, 'Here I bin lookin' all over de place fur Miss Ma'y to give out supper, and she and Miss Ha'et here in de summer house, gettin' happy!' I could not have been more than five or six years old then. Later I used to say that when I was grown I would go to Africa as a Missionary, when my mother would tell me, 'My child, you have Africa here at home.' So while still a child, eleven or twelve, I used to gather the little negroes and teach them from the 'Peep of Day' series and the Church Catechism."

We have given here glimpses into the lives of some of our Missionaries and into that which prompted the lives they lead. When the Woman's Auxiliary shall meet in Richmond, in October, 1907, what united thank-offering shall the gold almsbasin hold? It bears upon its face the blessed scene of the Wise Men from the East kneeling before the Infant Saviour with their gifts. When again that memorial of a great devotion shall be lifted up, let us pray that the gifts upon it may be rich with the gold of burning love, the incense of unfailing prayer, and the myrrh of sacrifice which shall furnish lives as well as means for our next United Offering.

Mrs. Rowland Morris is the treasurer of our United Offering and is now receiving the contributions. Her address is 2122 Spruce Street.

Easter

The Easter services were marked by two special features. The first was the use of the new organ which has been donated by the sisters and brothers of Miss Eliza J. Magee as a memorial to her. The organ is not yet half completed, and only part of two manuals could be used; the small organ, echo organ and pedal organ are not yet erected; but even in its present partial condition the great instrument was a valuable addition to our services, and proved by the sweetness of its tones that the builder had succeeded in obtaining beauty of tone-color as well as power and variety. A full account of this organ will be published on its completion and formal installation, or acceptance.

The other feature of the day was brought out by the Rector in the afternoon service, when he mentioned that with this service Mr. Joseph Clayton would close his long and honorable career as Verger at St. Stephen's. He had resigned his position because of other demands upon him; but it would be difficult to think of him in any other connection. He would always be associated with the rectorships of Dr. Rudder, Dr. McConnell and Dr. Worcester by the members of this parish, whose best wishes went with him. A purse of over $600 was raised in the congregation, and presented to him through Mr. Michael.

Our New Verger.

On the first day of April our new Verger, James Carrigan, entered upon the duties of his office. He comes to us with the highest testimonials as to character and efficiency, and after an experience that has admirably qualified him for the special duties of the position. It will be necessary to give him time to learn various details; and it is unnecessary to point out that he cannot be expected to possess the knowledge of our traditions and customs which our former Verger possessed to so remarkable a degree; but he will doubtless soon master the essentials of his tasks, and the position is one of considerable responsibility and can only be filled by a man of character. We are happy to have been able to secure a man so likable and dependable for an office that has been so uniquely filled for the last thirty-two years.

A Correction.

A sensational item in one of our newspapers may have fallen under the notice of our people. If they were at the Good Friday service, they will know at once that it gives a very incorrect idea of the general tenor of the address on that day, the quotation is accurate so far as it goes. As for the reported interview with the Rector in which he is quoted as saying that he expected "a storm of criticism," nothing could be more inaccurate. He had no such thought, and expected no such notice of his words.

This correction is made because it is unpleasant to have it thought that such crass sensationalism and desire for notoriety should have marked his utterances or mental attitude on that holy day.

The officers of the various societies of the parish will please send to the Rev. John E. Ewell, No. 9 S. Tenth Street, the annual reports of money received and expended, and also account of work done from May 1, 1905, to May 1, 1906.

Please have these reports sent in not later than May 1st, for publication in the next copy of THE PARISH NEWS. A convenient blank form may be obtained at the Parish House.

Organized Charity.

The case of a certain Mrs. C. which is known to many members of the parish is a very forceful illustration of the need for centralization and organization of charity work among the poor. Mrs. C. appealed by letter to Dr. Grammer for urgent help last December. Her case was investigated and her needs found to be much exaggerated and misrepresented, and help was refused. She then appealed to Mr. Ewell who gave her some assistance. In a few weeks she repeated her same pitiful story in which she was so well rehearsed now as to be line-perfect to some ladies in the Benevolent. Fortunately Mrs. B. referred the case to Miss Graham, and again assistance was refused. In nowise daunted, this wholesale and indefatigable beggar sought out Miss Lewis, who was warned against her and ignored her appeal.

It is not often that beggars shows so little guile and craft as to beg so extensively in the one parish. Usually they seek out many churches, not letting one know what the other doeth. The S. O. C. workers complain that the churches allow themselves to be easily cheated and until a secret service connection is made among parishes the beggars we shall have always with us.

If we cannot have this system among the churches we can at least in our own parochial work, and it is recommended to the members of the congregation to do their alms giving as much as possible through the authorized channels of the church, where all cases are thoroughly investigated.

The Stereopticon Services.

With good weather, an appreciative audience filled our Sunday School Room, at the closing one of these Sunday evening lectures on March 24th, "Palm Sunday."

Again are we indebted to Mr. Clayton F. McMichael for the use of his lantern, for his beautiful Tissot pictures, and still more for his generous service of instruction, in his lectures on "The Life of Christ." It is hoped that we may begin earlier next winter and have more of them.

To Miss E. Bertha Yocum are we very grateful for her kind assistance as pianist, as well as to Mr. Blaha for his exquisite violin solos, particularly that last one (of his own composition), "A Cradle Song." Then on the last evening Mr. Crowell added much to our services by his appropriate and excellent singing of "The Palms."

Miss Bessie Clayton's sweet singing of "The Holy City" was a most fitting close to Mr. McMichael's lecture. The accompanying beautiful dissolving dream-views of Old Jerusalem most touchingly assisted her in depicting the sacred thoughts of her charmingly rendered Hosanna Hymn.

Again: May we have more of these illustrated Sunday evening services.

A Play for the Summer Outing Fund.

On Friday evening, April 12, 1907, at 8 o'clock, a four-act comedy, entitled "School," will be presented in our Sunday School Room by our Alpha Kappa Society, accompanied by St. Stephen's orchestra. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the Summer Outing Fund. Tickets on sale at the Parish House and by members of the Sunday School and of the Society, and at the door on the evening of April 12th. G. H. S.

There were given out in March about 49 pairs of shoes.

Three Arts Society

The fifth monthly entertainment of the Three Arts Club was given on Saturday, March 2nd, from four until six o'clock under the auspices of Mrs. Noblit. A charming musical program was rendered by the following soloists—Miss Bancher, of St. Luke's choir, soprano, Mr. Blake, tenor, Mr. Crowell, baritone, Mr. Griffith, bass, Mr. Neff, accompanist, Miss Fergusson, pianist, Mr. Philips, pianist—Mrs. Hillary and Miss Lockhart presided at the tea table.

A sale of sketches of Art objects was held in the Club Room on the afternoon of Saturday, March 23rd, but it is a matter of regret that the number of buyers was small in proportion to the amount of artistic work that was offered for sale.

Early Recollections of St. Stephen's Church.

By Rev. Wm. Wilberforce Newton, D. D.

II.

THE MINISTRY OF REV. DR. RUDDER.

Elected Rector, December, 1865
Died January 29, 1880

When the Secretary of War in President Jackson's administration told the executive that he must remove the Rev. Mr. McIlvaine from the chaplaincy at West Point or he would convert that school of arms into a divinity school, the day of pulpit-power in the Episcopal Church had come.

Dr. Francis Vinton, Bishop Leonidas Polk and other well-known names were the first-fruits of Bishop McIlvaine's pulpit-power at West Point, and soon the great preachers were at work changing that colonial institution known as the Episcopal Church in the United States of America into the National Church which it is to-day.

Dr. Tyng was probably right when in his own sublime self-assurance at the new St. George's Church, in New York, he said after his first visit to Europe, "There was only one man in Europe who made me feel small, and that man was the Rev. Hugh McNeill at Liverpool." What Dr. Tyng was in his pulpit at New York the Rev. John A. Clarke and the Rev. Dr. Bedell at St. Andrew's Church were in Philadelphia.

The day of pulpit-power in Philadelphia had arrived and it was these men who helped to formulate and give expression to this growing sense of the prophetic mission of preaching.

Frail in body, weak in voice, exhausted nigh unto fainting and death after the service, and frequently compelled to sit upon a high stool in his pulpit that he might finish his discourse to the crowded and expectant audience below, Dr. Bedell kept the flame of evangelical religion bright and burning at that shrine of divine teaching, St. Andrew's pulpit, Philadelphia. The names of these great preachers were household words in those days in Philadelphia, and the little children of the different Sunday-schools had their favorite preachers as they had their favorite fire engines and hose-carriages. St. James, St. Peter and St. John were not more frequently quoted and generally known than were the pulpit orators of this day, and the church in Philadelphia—whatever we may think in these strenuous days of the somewhat turbid parochial life of the period—was a power through its pulpit and reached in a positive and commanding way the great throbbing pulsating heart of the civic consciousness.

The standards of these men were high. Their lives were pure. Luxury and wealth among the clergy were unknown. The creed of these men was simple and their faith was strong. It could not but happen, then, that the ministry of such men was attended with "demonstration of the spirit and of power."

The Rev. Wm. Suddards at Grace Church was the legitimate successor of the elder Dr. Bedell, as the Rev. Richard Newton was the successor of Dr. Tyng at old St. Paul's.

Dr. Suddards was originally a Wesleyan minister with an unction of manner and a torrent of eloquence, with a peculiarly rugged and engaging tone of voice and a warmth of expression which had such a powerful element of contagion.

The Rev. Kingston Goddard at the Church of the Atonement was another pulpit orator of the Stephen A. Douglass order. Keen, witty, brilliant, sarcastic, lithe in debate, skilful in defence, piercing in attack, he, too, had his strong following on the platform and in the arena where the trained partisan was always popular.

The Rev. Jas. H. Fowles at the Church of the Epiphany was another pulpit orator of no mean order. The ministry of this man marked the high-water line of Calvinistic Theology. A Southerner from South Carolina, believing firmly in that predestination which made the white man a master and the black man a slave, he exerted a decided influence in the ministerial world in Philadelphia and left a sweet and gentle influence behind him, the result of his holy and consistent life long after his peculiar Calvinistic tenets were forgotten.

And the ministry of Dudley Tyng, first at the Church of the Epiphany, from which he was driven out because of the early proclamation of his abolitional principles, in the early days of Fremont the Pathfinder, and his later ministry at Concert Hall with his wonderful exploitation of the Jayne's Hall prayer meeting was an influence showing the power of the Episcopal pulpit in Philadelphia which never can be forgotten by the pen of the local historian.

And it was into this same Philadelphia, at this curious period of pulpit-power and influence, that the Rev. Wm. Rudder entered as the assistant to Dr. Ducuchet.

Dr. Rudder came to St. Stephen's from Albany, but his birthplace was in Bermuda and he had behind him the marked traditions and influence of English colonial life.

I remember on one occasion when visiting Bermuda that the house where Dr. Rudder lived as a child was pointed out to me and I distinctly call to mind the fact that the people there took a marked pride in the fact that Bermuda had produced not only the strongest onions and the sweetest lilies but had given to the Church in America the ministrations of the Rev. Wm. Rudder.

There was always about Dr. Rudder's ministry and service the unmistakable air of his English ancestry. There was an English tone of stock and strength about his manner and bearing which was always suggestive of the English ecclesiastic. His true position should have been an English deanery or bishopric. At times it was evident that he stooped to conquer and that with a very firm and high ideal before him he yet bowed himself down to the requirements of his position and accommodated himself, not without much mental and temperamental friction, to the popular requirements of his appointment as coadjutor rector at St. Stephen's.

When Coriolanus in Shakespeare's drama invites his fellow Roman citizens to inspect his wounds and investigate his bruises, he breathes forth under his lips a frowning curse about this pack of curs who demanded these physical tokens of his past valor. And it was very evident at the period of his coming to Philadelphia that Dr. Rudder's standard and methods and habits of clerical life were very different from those of the clerical preachers he found about him. But the glory of this man's ministry consisted in the fact that he could say in Shakespeare's words, "Thy nature is subdued to what it works in, like the dyer's hand." And it was not very long before it was known that another great preacher was in Philadelphia and the day of the pulpit-power of St. Stephen's Church became an established and well-known fact.

Dr. Ducachet became very fond of his new assistant and looked with delight at the crowds which flocked to hear the new preacher at St. Stephen's. It was very beautiful to see the pure and unselfish spirit of the aged rector taking pleasure in results and successes which had been denied him.

"Isn't it good," he used to say as he got off for the hundredth time his wellworn little pun, "the ship is sailing all right now: you see we've got a new rudder."

Dr. Rudder's sermons were not, strictly speaking, popular. He did not stoop to the rhetoric of the hour or curry favor with the masses by those popular methods which had become the habit of expression born out of the great revival of 1857-58 which swept over Philadelphia and made its impress felt in a popularization of the pulpit.

His sermons were thoughtful and serious discourses. Men and women of culture and of thought wended their way to St. Stephen's, and soon the church was filled morning and evening with earnest and attentive listeners. The music of the period furnished the popular element at these services, and the preacher in the pulpit gave his hearers always something to think about. The thought was always strong and dignified. The voice of the preacher was rich and full and sonorous with a suggestion in it of the voice of Bishop Alonzo Potter.

St. Stephen's Church ceased to be thought of as having merely an advanced ritual and as "High Church." A throne of power was established when Dr. Rudder became rector of the parish, and the foundations of the after pulpit-power of St. Stephen's Church were laid by this man who toiled faithfully through a long night of struggle to build this citadel of strength; and from this tribunal of influence Dr. McConnell Dr. Worcester and Dr. Grammer have been able to reach the hearts of the people of Philadelphia, especially through the midday Lenten services, where St. Stephen's pulpit has been the acknowledged power that has turned the inner wheels of many a troubled, weary, shop-worn life!

THE PARISH NEWS this month appears later than usual because we have waited to gather up all the reports of the church year, and intend to make this issue a fairly complete account of our annual work.

No paper will be published in June, and with this number we shall close until the Fall. The Rector is hoping to publish a year book next year, and when that will be done this paper will have less the appearance of a financial account. We regret that a church paper should "serve tables" so steadily and convey so little spiritual message. We wish that we could tell something more about our Sunday School, for example, than the receipts raised; could tell of the number of children and of the devotion that they showed in coming all last summer. Our Mothers' Meeting, too, ought to be described, and our Girls' Friendly and our King's Daughters and our Alpha Kappa Chapter of young men. Do the attendants on our church know how large an institutional work is conducted in it? Of the classes, the Sewing School, the Kitchen-Garten, the Three Arts Club, the Band, the Sloyd work, the drill for boys?

If the imagination is exercised, these figures so dull and business-like can tell you all this. As you read them try to imagine what they mean—the people that are reached, the minds that are enlightened, the wills that are guided, the hearts that are sweetened, the souls that are being helped and saved by these ministrations.

St. Stephen's Farm.

Treasurer's Statement from Easter, 1906, to Easter, 1907.

NOTE:—It should be clearly understood that this memorandum does not include any of the collections for 1907, nor any of the disbursements since last Easter day. The statement thus covers a full Farm year—from one Easter time to another Easter time—but not a complete calendar year.

It may be said in a general way that as long as the congregation will provide the sum of Twenty-five Hundred Dollars a year the Farm can be maintained. It has been learned beyond reasonable doubt that in addition to the revenue derived from Farm produce it will require this sum of $2500 every year properly to administer this splendid institution.

In order that the congregation may have some idea of what results are obtained from their annual investment of $2500, it may be said that during the three months last season when the Farm was open Five Hundred and Ten (510) persons were what may be called Boarding Guests—averaging perhaps two weeks each. In addition there were Two Hundred and Sixty (260) "Day Guests"—that is for the day only—on picnics and excursions. Of course all of these "Day Guests" were provided with a substantial mid-day meal.

So that in actual numbers Seven Hundred and Seventy Persons were benefitted to some extent by the Farm last summer.

In conclusion it will be welcome news to the congregation to learn that the collections for this year promise to equal those of last year—the Easter offering for 1907 was $1174.20, compared to $1267.80 a year ago, but I hope sincerely this difference may be made up And of course we are counting upon the same generous friends who helped us last year—apart from the Easter offering—to help us again this season.

It seems as if every member of the congregation who can afford to do so, before going away to enjoy the recreations of the summer, should make a contribution to The Farm, so that the very many who cannot go away may be given an opportunity for some recreation too.

CLAYTON F. MCMICHAEL,
Treasurer.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—In addition, Miss Lyon, House Matron, received from guests at the Farm for board, etc., a total of Four Hundred and Six Dollars and Thirty Cents ($406.30). The Treasurer sent Miss Lyon checks aggregating $72.35, so that the House Matron received in all $478.65.

This amount was all expended in the payment of wages for the house maids, laundry bills, some grocery bills and all incidental petty cash charges, such as stamps. stationery, offertories at the little church, freight charges and general supplies.

The Season of 1907.

The Farm will open as usual the middle of June and will remain open until the middle of September.

The Misses Bockius will have general charge of the household.

Applications for rooms may now be made to Miss Bessie Graham. Application cards may be procured at the church. An effort will be made to provide for everybody, but it must be remembered that all cannot be accommodated at one time—during the month of August, for instance. Early application is desirable.

CLAYTON F. MCMICHAEL,
Treasurer.

Note.

Miss Elizabeth Bockius will act as House Mother at the Farm this summer, assisted by her sister, Miss Frances Bockius. Renovations and repairs are already being attended to, and it is hoped that by June 1st the house will be in running order and open to receive any members of the congregation who may care to go out to spend a few days before the summer boarders arrive on June 15. There are many things which are needed at the Farm, things big and little, but nothing so much as a buggy. Our old one is past repairing. We also need a hammock, an incubator, a bureau, screens, a sewing machine, a clock, and Mr. Greenshields has even the timidity to ask for an automobile. B. G.

Apha Kappa Column.

April has been a busy month for the Alpha Kappa. Besides their regular meetings, especially the one with the initiation, there was two entertainments, one by the fraternity as a body and the other exclusively by the orchestra. They were very successful, both as to the talent displayed and also for the financial result.

At the regular meeting of the Alpha Kappa, held in April, Jurgen Kolb was elected a member and was initiated by the officers of the fraternity, with the assistance of Mr. Streaker. This is the first time that the degrees of the Alpha Kappa have been exemplified in full. The ceremony was impressive, realistic and could not fail to be of moral benefit to both the candidate and the members present.

On April 12th a production of T. B. Robertson's "School" was given by the members of the Alpha Kappa, assisted by their friends, the Misses Edwards, Bird and Hudson and several of the young ladies of the Sunday School, who played the parts of the scholars. The play, while successful as a whole, showed a lack of careful preparation in the matter of details. As the Alpha Kappa is a progressive organization, I feel that we should show more improvement in this respect. Most all of our later plays have had this trouble. Individually, Miss Elsie Hudson and Mr. Jurgen Kolb were consistently good, especially Miss Hudson, whose portrayal of Mrs. Sutcliffe was fine.

Miss Dorothy Bird deserves special mention, as her good work was the result of only one week's preparation, she having been called upon to fill an unexpected vacancy in the cast. Mr. Harry H. Bush mars his own otherwise good playing by attempting to shoulder the responsibility of the whole play. Several times during the performance, in trying to remedy others' mistakes he was unprepared to take his own cue. Miss Edwards was slightly melodramatic. She made small comic incidents into tragic ones. Messrs. Morrison and Fester showed a lack of studious preparation, which at times proved embarrassing to the other players. Mr. Davis spoke in an indistinct tone of voice ad thereby lost some of his effectiveness. The minor parts were played very well.

Now this seems like rather a harsh criticism after mentioning that the play was a success. It is, however, merely a departure from the old method of congratulating everybody on their good work, regardless of the quality of their performance. One of the principles of the Alpha Kappa is that if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well, and it is this point that I am trying to bring out. We have the talent and ability to give good plays creditably, and therefore why should we fail to do so through the carelessness of the individual member of the cast. I was requested to criticize the performance of "School" honestly, and the foregoing is the consensus of opinion of a dozen persons, some interested and others uninterested, and is printed for the sole reason of letting the members know the opinion of others than ourselves.

Let us profit by our mistakes not only in this small performance but in the more serious play of life. Let us resolve not to make the same mistake twice. We have gone on making the same mistakes over and over in the plays we have had in the last few years. Some of the results were passable, others much better. Why can't they all be excellent? The organization of the Alpha Kappa was a great step forward. Why can't the members of the Alpha Kappa take just as great a step forward in their plays? Let us first choose a good play and then perform it to the best of our ability, thereby not only entertaining but educating the audience and making ourselves better for having impersonated a good character.

Our orchestra is really getting to be quite a fine affair. A recital was given Wednesday evening, May 1st. Stirring marches, together with selections from the masters and some of the latter day popular music formed a pleasant programme, and its rendition under the direction of Mr. Roberts was very good, especially Dixie, which appealed to Mr. Ewell. Miss Helen M. Myers gave several selected soprano solos. A sketch, "Who are You?" and a comedy, "Early Vows," were then given, and most creditably rendered.

The thanks of the Alpha Kappa are extended to Miss Ada Row for the beautiful flowers used in "School" and to Miss Bessie Kehl for the decorations, which still adorn the Sunday School room.

That the Alpha Kappa is interested in good things is shown by the fact that it is one of the strongest supporters of the Summer Sunday School. To help arouse interest in the second year of that institution they have given all the proceeds of the entertainment to the fund for the outings which form a very important part of the summer school. We feel that Mr. Streaker should have all the support possible in his work to make the summer school which meets during the four months that the main school is closed a great success.

A vote of thanks in the form of a reception was given to all those who assisted us on Friday evening, April 30th. It was a unique affair, it being the first one ever given solely by the young men. Various selections were given by several of the members who had never before appeared in public, notably Henry Groh, who unexpectedly recited. The affair ended with the serving of the refreshments which had been provided.

The Alpha Kappa in the early part of October will hold an exhibition of photographs taken by members of the Sunday School during the summer. Suitable prizes will be offered. All are invited to enter their prints. Further information will be given by Jurgen Kolb and Charles H. Moore, who have the affair in hand. C. H. M.

St. Stephen's Aid Society.

The meetings of the St. Stephen's Aid Society were held the five Friday mornings during Lent, the object being, as in the past, to provide baby garments for the use of the deaconess in her work among the deserving poor of the parish. Owing to the death of our former president, Mrs. Carver, the minute book of the society, which had been left with her during the absence of the secretary, was mislaid, hence few notices could be sent out, which may account for the poor attendance at these meetings. A number of garments were made by a few faithful members, who were assisted in this work by members of the King's Daughters, to whom thanks are due. Received $15.00 from Dr. Grammer also $5.00 from Mrs. Atmore. Mrs. Calket has very kindly offered to defray the expense of having a door with lathe placed across the shelf of the closet which this society shares with the Children's Friendly.

A Tribute to Our Choir.

The following letter was received by the rector and is gladly published by him. Sydney Smith said that the wise bestowal of praise was one of the lesser duties of life. It deserves to rank higher. Like giving tribute to whom tribute, custom to whom custom, it is one of the duties which holds society together like the equality of mercy, it blesses him who gives as well as him who receives.

Our correspondent expresses the conviction of the congregation, we are convinced. Our choir has done nobly with that small instrument in the interval between our two organs, and have earned our gratitude by their cheerful acceptance of discomfort and their faithful work. It is good to realize that the harmony of their voices is equalled by the harmony in their personal relations:

My dear Dr. Grammer:

I have a great desire to see in the Parish News a card of thanks to our choir. I think they deserve a special paragraph all to themselves in appreciation of the splendid work they did in carrying us across the fearsome gulf between our beloved organ zone and the noble instrument we are now enjoying.

I think the least appreciative among us must have come to realize something of their unity of purpose, their loyal support of Mr. Wood and also something of the fine quality of their singing. V. B C.

Attention is called to the new pay station telephone which has been placed in the outer office of the Parish House. The number is Walnut—4687 A.

The Industrial School.

A most creditable exhibition was given in the Sunday School building by the scholars of the Sewing School and Kitchen Garden, on Saturday, April 20th. The samples of sewing, neatly arranged in books, showed with what systematic industry the little girls had worked under the direction of Miss Elsie Lowrey and her able assistants.

The Kitchen Garden exhibited in most spectacular and pleasing form how household work can be made cheery and the bright songs made one feel that the spring cleaning could be robbed of some of its terrors if the lessons taught in our school would be remembered in later years.

Prizes for attendance and excellence in work were distributed by the rector, after which ice cream and cake brought added pleasure to the little ones.

Garment Committee's Report.

In sending my report of the Garment Committee for the past year I wish to express regret that my report for the year previous was lost or mislaid after I had forwarded it for publication in The Parish News, so that the friends of the committee have not been informed of its work for two years.

Two years ago the committee, as an institution of the Parish, had nearly died of neglect, but through the pecuniary assistance of the rector and the very efficient work of Miss Graham and Miss Fetzer it was galvanized and brought to a state of great usefulness before the close of the year and the season just past has been even more productive of good results which were made possible largely through the very capable assistance of Miss K. H. Lewis.

The last special activity for this season was a rummage sale which brought the committee a little more than sixteen dollars and sent many people home happy with their bargains. I wish in this connection to thank Mrs. Hand, Miss E. L. Williamson, Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Miss Clara Woodward and Mrs. Vanderslice for their donations to that enterprise.

Although the active work of the committee is over until next autumn, the distribution of clothing will continue until the first of June.

The Bible Class Examination.

The Women's Bible Class, which numbers 28 members, had a written examination this month of their entire year's work. The questions were rather miscellaneous, covering as they did so long a period in which were studied such topics as the Lives of the Disciples, Stories of Familiar Hymns, Old Manuscripts of the Bible, Prayer Book Tables and other subjects appropriate to the current church year. We venture to publish in our PARISH NEWS this month a specimen examination paper with the prize winner's answers in the hope that such earnest, serious effort as has been put forth by the Bible class this winter cannot help but arouse the interest of the congregation.

B. G.

1. How long is Lent? Name its first and last days.
   Forty days, not counting Sundays, Ash Wednesday and Saturday before Easter.

2. How many years since the first Easter on earth?
   1874 years (ignoring revisions of the calendar).

3. How many Disciples were there?
   These are the 12 Disciples' names:
   Andrew, Peter, John and James,
   Two pairs of brothers who lived by the sea,
   Where Jesus said to them: "Follow Me."
   Next James the Less, and Jude followed too,
   And Philip and Bartholomew.
   Matthew and Thomas, who doubted the Word,
   Simon and Judas, who sold his Lord.

4. Who was the first disciple called?
   Andrew; Remember by "A" the first letter in alphabet.

5. Who was "the disciple whom Jesus loved"?
   St. John.

6. Which disciple betrayed Jesus?
   Judas Iscariot.

7. Which disciple denied Jesus??
   St. Peter.

8. Who was the author of "Lead Kindly Light"?
   John Henry Newman. Afterwards Cardinal. The Catholic church has recently forbidden it to be sung, as it was written by a Protestant.

9. Who was the author of "O Little Town of Bethlehem"?
   Bishop Phillips Brooks.

10. Who were the Four Evangelists?
    Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

11. What is meant by the Dominical Letter?
The Dominical letter means the Sunday letter. The first seven letters of the alphabet are used for this purpose in the Prayer Book calendar for Lessons, a letter standing opposite every day of the month, and the same letter standing for Sunday during the whole year. The Dominical letter for the year 1907 is F.

10. What is the difference between a Disciple and an Apostle?
The disciples preached during Christ's lifetime; the Apostles after his death.

13. Why do we keep Sunday instead of Saturday as our Sabbath day?
Because Christ rose from the dead on the first day of the week.

14. What version of the Bible do we use in church?
King James version.

15. Name the three oldest manuscripts of the Bible and tell anything you can about them.
The Vatican M. S. is the oldest and belongs to the Roman church. For a long time the Pope would not let anyone study it, but now it can be seen by all. The Sinaitic M. S. was found in a waste-paper basket in a monastery on Mt. Sinai and belongs to the Czar of Russia, who bought it and gave it to the Greek church in St. Petersburg. The Alexandrian M. S. belongs to the Protestant church and is in England. These are the three oldest Bibles in the world and none of them had been discovered when the Bible was translated for King James in 1611. That is one reason why the Revised Version is so much better than the authorized.

16. Who translated and printed the first English Bible?
William Tyndale. He smuggled the Bibles into England in bales of cotton and sacks of flour and was burned at the stake for translating the Bible.

17. What is meant by the "Communion of Saints"?
The word "Saint" used to mean a dead person, just as we never say anything but good of the dead, and we believe in the Communion of the Dead, that they are all together in one place.

18. Why do we have eggs at Easter time?
Eggs are symbols of the New Life. As the chicken bursts the shell, so Christ burst the gates of the tomb.

19. In what city was Jesus born, where did he grow up, where was he crucified?
Bethlehem; Nazareth; Mt. Calvary; Jerusalem.

20. Who was the first Christian martyr?
St. Stephen.

Salutatory.

With this number we begin a new volume of the Parish News. The October issue was omitted, as the rector was absent from the city, and too much engaged to send an editorial, and it did not seem proper to begin without a communication from him. It is our design to make this little paper a means of informing the members of the congregation of the work that is doing in St. Stephens, and of the opportunities for service, and the calls for generosity that arise in our Parish work. In a congregation as widely scattered as ours such a medium of intercommunication is indispensable. No one can read over the list of societies and guilds without gaining a conviction that we are performing a useful work in this part of the city. The question that this paper addresses to each reader is "What part are you taking in all this? Can you afford to miss out of your life the sense of service that is given by such participation in Church work? Don't you need the work?" The work needs you. There are always losses by death, removal and various causes, and new recruits must be constantly enlisted, if the work is to continue and prosper. This call from without must have its corresponding call from within. All we can ask, is that you should listen for the inward call, and obey it. For the still small voice must be listened for, if it is to be heard. It does not strive, nor cry, nor lift up its voice in the streets. It can be easily drowned in the gossip of society, or the eager clamor of the Exchange. If we are really anxious to "do our Maker's will," we must wait upon the Lord, and hearken for his voice. Will you read over these societies in that spirit, asking "Lord what wilt thou have me to do?"

The Parish News ought also to carry a message to our Church members, who cannot attend the services. The sick, aged and infirm ought to find here some comfort. It must refresh them to see that the work is going on with vigor and success, and to discover that the vines they planted are being carefully tended and are bringing forth fruit. I should like them to realize that they are often in their rector's mind. It is always a comfort to know that if they can no longer go up to the house of the Lord with those that keep holy day, they may have a little sanctuary in their rooms by the aid of our incomparable Book of Common Prayer. I would like them to know that nothing would give me or Mr. Ewell greater pleasure than to come and have the regular service for any of them in their rooms, or to administer to them the memorials of Christ's dying sufferings and undying love. Some pastoral visiting is a mere waste of time, but such pastoral service as this would be a privilege and a blessing.

It is good, too, to know that this little paper unites us with members who are journeying in strange lands, enlarging their knowledge, and serving the useful office of bringing the ends of the world closer together. We hope that they will have it forwarded to their addresses, and derive some profit from its perusal. It is well to travel, observe, and learn, but it is also well to keep an untraveled heart, and to retain one's local interests fresh so that one can return home with a sense that then all these experiences will find their proper fruition in larger service.

A letter that has reached me in these last few days shows that the loyal members of St. Stephen's, who have gone into other cities look eagerly for this little monthly. One of our Girls' Friendly girls writes me that she is "home sick for dear old St. Stephen's," and then adds "I expect to remain in New York this winter, and would like, oh so much, if some one would send me the parish paper; it would be like a letter from home. I am a stranger in a large city, alone and I know what it is to see a familiar face and when I finish reading the parish paper, I will send it to another one of your flock who is in Seattle, and longs for a word from home, too." Then she continues in kind words about the music and services that make such a letter a great reward to a pastor, and a proof of the rich, sweet influence that our noble church brings into many lives.

Such, then, are some of the uses of this little paper. We send it forth, hoping that it may serve these purposes more fully than it has ever done, and that it may record faithfully a work growing in depth, and broadening in sweep and volume to the blessing of man and the greater glory of God.

C. E. G.

Sunday Afternoon Bible Lectures.

On the afternoon of Sunday, October 27th, the Rector announced that he intended this year to lecture on the Prophetical literature of the Old Testament. He is persuaded that the true method of teaching is to exact work of the scholar, and believes that ministers make a mistake in not asking for more co-operation on the part of their congregation. To meet this great need he will follow in his lectures the outlines laid down by the American Institute of Sacred Literature in their admirable courses of study, and will have the papers in the vestibule for distribution to those who wish to take the course. A fee of 50 cents will secure all the papers for the course. The Rector carried a class of 70 ladies in Norfolk over a five years' course of Bible study in this way, and he is persuaded such teaching can be made interesting as well as instructive and helpful.

The lectures will not be given on the afternoon of the first Sunday in the month. The first lecture will be on Sunday, October 10th, at the afternoon service. The method of study will be inductive. The class will not be taught to accept any conclusions on the authority of great names, but will be led to examine and see for themselves what the nature of these Scriptures are and how God spake in divers manners in times past to the fathers by the Prophets. The whole service will not last longer than an hour and a quarter. Those who have gone through such a course are unanimous in testifying that it deepened their insight into the meaning of these Holy Books.

C. E. G.

Clayton Fotterall McMichael.

It is difficult to express without exaggeration the loss that our Church has sustained in the death of Mr. McMichael. Our great university has in the most impressive way testified her sense of his value to her in her great work of training young men. No one who attended his funeral can ever forget that mourning congregation with its great body of young men, and its crowded galleries. In various resolutions his manifold gifts and graces have been suitably recorded. The just and beautiful tribute of the Vestry is published in this number. Still I feel that it is proper that as rector of the Church, I should say a personal word about Mr. McMichael as a church worker.

He came into the Sunday School of St. Stephen's, under Dr. Worcester, and became its superintendent without any previous training or experience in modern Sunday School methods. It was one of his charms that he realized this so fully, and made no pretense of possessing the authority of knowledge or experience. He was always ready to adopt any good suggestions. His great forte lay, however, not in the impersonal realm of system, but in his gift for dealing with people individually. He had a warm, human interest in people, and the teachers and scholars realized that he liked them, cared for them, and really regarded them as "his little family," as he used to call them. The children saw in him a manly, warm-hearted gentleman, and the inspiration of his brave, cheerful, loving christian life gave power to all his words. "God buries the workman, but carries on the work," and the power of his example, and character will long continue to work mightily in the Sunday School, at St. Stephens.

As the secretary of the Vestry, he was faithful and efficient, but his chief service as a vestryman was in connection with the farm of which he was the treasurer and business manager. This was a charity that lay near his heart. He had fitted up a room in memory of his wife, and he loved to think that out of his sorrows, happiness flowed in this way to others. As I look back on him, with the clearer vision that comes with loss, as it came to the disciples at Emmaus at the moment of parting, I realize that it was the deepest, and strongest purpose of his life, that his dark clouds should not cast a shadow over other lives; that his dominant note, was that it is our supreme duty to increase the happiness of the world and to bear our burdens bravely. Under that bright manner of a good comrade, Clayton McMichael bore the heart of a hero. He left his children the inestimable blessing of a name increased in honor by his loving life and brave example.

C. E. G.

At a regular meeting of the vestry of St. Stephen's Church, held the 7th day of October, 1907, the following preamble and resolutions were duly carried:

Whereas death has removed from our midst our late member, Clayton F. McMichael, Esq.

Resolved that the vestry place upon record their sense of the almost irreparable loss the Parish has thereby sustained.

As superintendent of the Sunday School, as Treasurer of the Church Farm, and as Secretary of the Vestry, he was always the same quiet, faithful, earnest, indefatigable and successful worker. His gentle ways and courteous manners endeared him to all those for whom he worked and those who labored affectionately at his side.

Resolved that the community has lost a most useful citizen, and the Vestry a dear and beloved associate.

Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Mr. McMichael and that they be published in the Parish News, the Churchman, and the Church Standard.

J. HUNTER EWING,
Secretary.

The Farm.

The usual season was spent at the Farm by the mothers, young women, and children, of the parish.

The last two weeks of August however had the innovation of sending out boys. When this plan was first suggested it met with a great deal of opposition, but we are glad to say that now all agree after the experiment that the fears were groundless. All the boys had a great time and the scales showed in every case a good increase in their weight. The boys were regulated by a monitor system under the control of the House mothers, assisted by Mr. Ewell, Mr. Streaker, and Mr. Kirkpatrick.

The zeal of the boys left some memorials. A splendid dam was constructed by them for swimming down in the woods and an open air chapel arranged. Instead of the usual Sunday morning hot pilgrimages to Hatboro, services were held in "God's Open" and they tell us that the singing was heard a mile away. These services were continued for the rest of the season with great success, and attended by the farmers of the neighborhood.

Altogether the season was a most successful and interesting one and too great praise cannot be given to the Misses Frances and Elizabeth Bockius, who were so efficient in the business department of the house and so kind and sympathetic with all the guests. The boys showed their appreciation of them by presenting them with a loving cup appropriately inscribed.

Mr. Greenshields, the farmer, has resigned and as yet no successor has been appointed. There is a large crop of fine potatoes which will be disposed of at the market prices. Early orders will be appreciated.

They should be sent to Mr. Ewell, at the Parish House.

Mr. Hunter Ewing has accepted the position of treasurer of the Farm, which was made vacant by the death of Mr. McMichael.

Church Renovating.

The church was thoroughly renovated this summer. Many of the carpets and hassocks were found to be in very bad condition. The ripped hassocks are a constant source of untidyness, and have been stored away subject to the order of their owners. The beauty of our artistic interior is marred by the slight tearing away of the rep on the backs of many of our pews. An upholsterer has agreed to repair them at fifty cents a pew. Pew-holders are requested to authorize the Verger to have the dilapidation in their pew repaired. The church should be exquisite in its neatness.

The color scheme of the upholstery of the church is red. Pew holders are requested to carpet their pews in this color. The Verger will willingly have it done for them, if they will authorize him.

The cleaning of our elegant reredos is a great improvement. Its brighter appearance lightens the whole church, and for the first time many have seen the beautiful angel faces carved on it in low relief. No one can fail to be calmed and uplifted by the pure lines and rich colors of our beautiful Chancel, which now stands out in its clear outlines and rich tints. It would be perfect, if it could be raised a foot and a half higher, but as it is, it is a thing of beauty.

The Consecration of the Organ.

On November 5th, at 8 P. M., the new organ, given as a memorial to Miss Eliza J. Magee, will be consecrated in a suitable devotional and musical service. The members of the congregation are invited to come and bring their friends. On Tuesday, November 12th, at the same hour, Dr. Wood will give an organ recital, in which he will be assisted by the choir, and the organ's capacity and total qualities will be more fully manifested.

The following well known singers will assist Dr. Wood as the choir on these occasions.

The Annual Picnic.

The Sunday School's annual picnic was held, as usual, in the Burd Asylum, Woodland, on Decoration Day, Thursday, May 30, 1907. The weather was superb. The attendance was about 250, and it was agreed that it was the most successful picnic the school has had.

By Doctor Grammer's desire the Burd children joined in the festivities and the combination was most successful. The friendly competition in the sports was very heartily enjoyed by both the Burd children and those of our school.

Mr. McMichael was most happy in his addresses, and particularly so, in his pleasing entertainment, which closed the day's pleasures.

Our Summer Sunday School.

Our Sunday School closed its regular sessions on Sunday, May 26, 1907, amid the cheerful scenes of the awarding of diplomas for the past year's work to the successful scholars. Mr. McMichael was unusually bright and buoyant in giving out the certificates of honor.

The summer sessions were opened the following Sunday and were held every Sunday during June, July, August, and September (save one, closed for house cleaning). Dr. Grammer taught the lesson each Sunday during June, and during the other summer months Mr. Ewell and Mr. Streaker took charge. The patriarchs, kings, and prophets, of old Israel, made interesting lessons. There was a good attendance—more than enough to justify the school's existence.

Then, feeling the necessity of study out-of-doors, as well as in-doors, we had four little journeys into the scenes beneath the summer skies. The first journey was made on Wednesday, June 26, by "the up river steamers" to Burlington Island. All members of the school were given free return tickets for this excursion, which were good until used. Many could not go on this particular day but went later at their convenience, yet quite a happy party enjoyed the river ride. The profits from the Alpha Kappa Society's play of last winter, sufficed to pay all the costs, as well as to pay for the outing of the Primary Department, to the Wissahickon, on Saturday, July 14.

The illness of Miss Bessie Graham prevented her from taking charge, so some 35 of the children, accompanied by Miss Taggert, Miss Goss and Miss Kehl, with Mr. Kirkpatrick and the writer, enjoyed the midsummer scenes along this most picturesque of our streams.

The next trip was made on Saturday, the seventh of September. This was a bright and beautiful day by the sea, at Old Cape May. Here, we repeated our delightful experiences of last year; bathing from the fine strand; talking and walking by the waves; viewing from the top of the light-house; studying with the life-savers; trolleying to the Bay shore; contemplating by the Inlet tides and healthfully tired, returning safely to our homes.

As the Primary Department was not in this last excursion, they and those who had not enjoyed the privileges of the Farm were invited by Mr. Ewell to "A day at our Farm". Thursday, September 12, was selected. It proved a most beautiful one. Under the care of Miss Lewis, Miss Kehl and the writer some 28 enjoyed the ride by trolleys to Neshaminy, thence by wagons to the Farm. The House mothers, the Misses Bockius, delightfully entertained us and the dining-room was filled to overflowing. Four-thirty came too soon and we were off for home, where twilight found us safe and happy in the city.

The summer outings were over, but let us hope the lessons from God's Book and from his great wide open river, island, creek, sea beach, and farm, are not forgotten.

The closing session of the summer Sunday School, September 29th, had present Dr. Grammer and our dear friend, the Rev. Mr. Miller, and it sadly yet beautifully served as a memorial service to him whom we then learned we could see no more in this world. The tender words from Mr. Miller, and our Rector, dimmed our eyes with tears. Sorrowfully we bow to the inevitable—God has called him home. We part yet hope to meet again with our beloved superintendent, Mr. Clayton F. McMichael, who was so affectionately esteemed by us all.

November 4—Ida Thomas Maulsby.

Prayers for Advent.

Grant unto us, O Lord, the preparation of the heart, that when Thou knockest, we may with gladness rise and open. Let us cast out of our hearts all malice and uncharitableness, that so we may fitly, if not altogether worthily, receive our heavenly Guest; that, walking lowly towards God and charitably towards man, we may joyfully celebrate His coming. Amen.

GEORGE DAWSON.

Lord, do not permit my trials to be above my strength; and do Thou vouchsafe to be my strength and comfort in time of trial. Give me grace to take in good part whatever shall befall me; and let my heart acknowledge it to be the Lord's doing and to come from Thy Providence and not by chance. May I receive everything from Thy hand with patience and with joy. Amen.

THOMAS WILSON.

An Intercession.

Unto every soul that is afflicted or plunged into distress, grant Thou mercy, grant relief, grant refreshment.

Almighty God, the everlasting comforter of the sad, the strength of sufferers, let the prayers of those that cry out of any tribulation come unto Thee; that all may rejoice to find Thy mercy present with them in their afflictions.

We beseech Thee, O Lord, give strength to the weary, aid to the sufferers, comfort to the sad, help to those in tribulation.

Let it please Thee to look upon and relieve the miseries of the poor and of captives.

ROWLAND WILLIAMS.

The Bible Study Class has been joined by over a hundred persons, and the increased attendance at the Sunday afternoon service shows that many people are anxious to learn by inductive study what the Bible reveals of its own nature and meaning. The names and addresses of those who have taken the syllabus will be forwarded to the secretary of the American Institute of Sacred Literature. It will give additional interest to the course if the members of the class will write out their answers to the written questions and send them to the secretary. The rector learns that more copies of the syllabus, as he calls it, have been taken than in any similar class in the United States. All persons, however, who have taken the booklet, have not left their names. The names that have been given in hardly amount to 100. This is, of course, a most encouraging class, but, as 200 copies were ordered, and only about 60 remain, it is clear that many who got the booklet failed to leave their names. It is desired that every name be recorded. Everyone who is taking the course, but has not registered with the Verger, is requested to do so, after the Sunday afternoon service. An alphabetically arranged list of the names is being prepared.

The first month has been occupied in preparing the ground and bringing the class to the proper point of view, so that they can rightly understand the rude age of the Judges, and the moral and spiritual greatness of Samuel and David. To some it may seem nothing but loss to learn the later composition of the Pentateuch, and the evidences in it of the ideas of a later age, but we shall see that this view, which scholarship has now generally adopted, and defends by arguments level with the general comprehension, gives a new meaning and dignity to the office of the prophets, and a new grandeur to the later history of Israel.

In a moment of unusual buoyancy Matthew Arnold sang,

The world's great order dawns in sheen,
After long darkness rude,
Divinelier imaged, clearer seen,
With happier zeal pursued.

We are inclined to apply these words of cheer to the study of the Bible. These sacred books have too long been read through veils spread over them by the rabbis, and by the glosses of Catholic theologians. At last their true nature as supreme literature is revealing itself, and at the revelation oppositions between the records of the rocks and the teachings of Genesis, between history as revealed by tablet and as depicted in patriarchal story are taking their flight, as the owls and bats flee away at the rising of the sun. God is "divinlier imaged," His teaching "clearer seen," and His ends should be "with happier zeal pursued."

The attention of the members of the congregation is called to the appeal that is made in behalf of the storekeepers. Christmas will be no season of rejoicing to them and to their clerks, if shopping is postponed till the last week, or the last few days before Christmas. Overworked, exhausted, harassed, that great day will find them little prepared to receive its message of peace and good will. We can help them to the great gift of a true holiday of rest and refreshment if we do our shopping at once. This is the course of wisdom, for the stock will then be full, and it is conduct that will be according to the Golden Rule. This notice has not been given from the chancel, as requested, because it is impossible to lengthen the service by giving out notices of this kind, which come in large numbers. It is hoped that its insertion here will be equally effective. C. E. G.

A Memorial Service.

A tablet in memory of our late superintendent, Mr. Clayton Fotterall McMichael, will be unveiled in the Sunday School building on Sunday morning, December 15, at 10 o'clock. The subscription to this tablet was begun by the spontaneous gift of a little girl, who brought two pennies as her contribution towards a memorial to Mr. McMichael, shortly after his death, and before anyone had suggested such a tribute. The appropriateness of such a memorial was so manifest that a committee was appointed, and through the kindness of Mr. J. Albert Caldwell, of our Vestry, an artistic tablet has been procured by ready subscriptions that came chiefly from the teachers and scholars of the Sunday School.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Girls' Friendly Society.

The Girls' Friendly Society is organized for the winter, and associates and members are busily engaged in their various classes, and work goes on cheerily and enthusiastically. I am sure it would have given pleasure to any of our friends if they had looked in on us one Monday evening and watched the bright, happy faces of nearly a hundred girls. The classes of last year were so successful that they have been started again this winter. The senior members, with their willing hearts and hands are a source of strength and comfort to the secretary and associates, and they are more in touch than formerly with the work of the other branches. We would especially be glad to have our Honorary Associates visit us, and see for themselves what they help us to accomplish. M. S. W.

Alpha Kappa.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity held its first meeting of this season in October, and the following officers were elected:

C.—Charles H. Moore.
P. C.—Harry H. Bush.
T.—Jurgen N. A. Kolb.
Q.—Rev. Dr. Grammer.
P. Q.—Winfield Brown.
P.—Harry Bush.
A.—J. E. Elwell.

The Fraternity has planned quite an energetic program of work and entertainments for this winter, and, with the co-operation of the Sunday School, it is hoped that every effort on the part of the Fraternity will be successful.

The first entertainment will be held on Friday evening, December 13th, at 8 P. M., in the Sunday School building. The members of the Sunday School and their friends are cordially invited. Mr. Charles H. Moore is rehearsing a short playlet for the evening with Miss B. Wilder, Grace Hillis, Miss Smith, Mr. Harry Bush, Mr. Winfield Brown and Mr. Jurgen Kolb in the cast.

The Alpha Kappa is now over a year old, and since its birth it has grown to one of the most interesting organizations of young men.

The Junior Alpha Kappa is also progressing. Besides the Sloyd work, which is in charge of Mrs. de Callies, they have also formed themselves into a miniature United States Senate.

The writer calls to see them very often, and it is both interesting and profitable to hear them debate on the various subjects that come before them. Mr. Streaker is presiding and directing them in parliamentary law, and they have become so proficient in the same that it is a question if the Senior and Junior Alpha Kappa had a debate whether the Seniors would be the victors.

It is rumored that several of the youngsters will show their acting talent on Christmas. When asking one of the little fellows for a confirmation of the rumor, he made the Alpha Kappa secret sign; so it is to be supposed they have a surprise for the Sunday-school on Christmas week.

Three Arts.

It has been thought advisable for the welfare of the Three Arts Club to place the entire management of the club in the hands of its members. In accordance with this decision, a meeting was held on Saturday, November 16, when the officers of last year were transferred to an honorary list, and their active successors were elected as follows:

Miss Ethel Herrick, president.
Miss Martenet, vice president.
Miss Chateauneuf, secretary.
Miss Helen Thurlow, treasurer.

A monthly report will be made of the line of work and entertainment adopted by the new management, and in the meantime the rooms are used, as heretofore, for rest and recreation.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received by the Children's Friend Society in June, July, August, September, October and November:

From King's Daughters (proceeds of an entertainment)	$38.00
S. M. C.	5.00
Mrs. A. F. Martin	6.00
Miss Ford	1.00
Miss Cleemann	1.00
Miss Elinor Kalbfleish	3.00
From Church Fund, through Rev. Mr. Ewell	10.00
Mr. Charles Stovel	10.00
Total amount received during the summer	$74.00

About 150 children and care-takers were taken on excursions this summer.

King's Daughters of St. Stephen's Church—Whatsoever Guild.

October 16th the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. E. S. Vanderslice.
Vice President, Miss Elizabeth Kehl.
Secretary, Miss Bertha Walshe.
Treasurer, Miss Anna Taggart.

Mrs. Hillis, Miss A. B. Townsend, Miss Bessie Bezzel, Miss Helen Gurderson and Miss Grace Hillis were elected members of the Circle November 6th.

Money received by the King's Daughters in September, October and November:

From legacy	$33.75
For Thanksgiving Baskets from Mrs. Parmalee	.75
Miss Alice Kelly	.80
Miss H. B. Townsend	1.00
Total	$36.30

Groceries given for baskets—Mrs. Hillis, Miss Bertha Walshe, Miss Grace Hillis and Mrs. Vanderslice.

Before this goes to print many other members will have contributed. A donation of one dozen garments were given to Garment Society for a Thanksgiving offering.

Shoe Fund.

Money received during the summer:
From Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1.50.

From Miss Louise Betts Edwards, one pair of shoes.

It is expected that this charity will start the beginning of December. Hereafter Mrs. Vanderslice will be at the Parish House Tuesdays, from 11 until 12 o'clock, closing promptly.

Any donations of shoes or money for this work will be very acceptable, sent either to the parish house or to Mrs. Vanderslice, 127 South Fifth street, marked for Shoe Fund.

Garment Society.

Sincere and grateful thanks are given to Mrs. Theophilus P. Chandler, for new clothing:

Misses Magee, for hats.

Mrs. Joseph Clayton, for a quantity of clothing and curtains.

King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle, twelve new garments.

Miss Graham, for a large collection of miscellaneous articles.

MISS LAMMOT, President.
MISS K. H. LEWIS, Visitor.

Church Improvement.

The church has had made to order fifty hassocks for the pews. These may be bought from the verger.

In response to the rector's appeal a number of the pews have been re-carpeted. The rep on the backs of many of the pews has not as yet been repaired. The verger will have any pews carpeted and repaired when notified. It is hoped all the pews will be put in good condition before Christmas.

Christmas Opportunities.

Our Sunday School Christmas festivals will be held as follows: The Primary Department on Thursday evening, December 26, at 8 P. M. The Main School on Friday evening, December 27, at 8 P. M.

There are opportunities for some of our church people to help in this important department of our church.

We need a large curtain in four sections to screen and decorate our platform in the main school-room for these festivals.

We also need a good electric stereopticon for illustrating our Sunday School lessons, as well as for use in lectures and entertainments.

Gifts of these much needed equipments will help the Sunday School work effectively.

Mothers' Meeting.

The mothers' meeting had its opening session on the first Thursday in November, with a large attendance. Mrs. Taylor, who had resigned in the spring, was re-elected and importuned to continue in office as president. At last Mrs. Taylor decided to take up the work again, and the society is to be congratulated upon her decision.

The Annual Fair and Sale will be held next Thursday, December 12, from 3 to 9.30 P. M., in the Sunday School building.

A Mission Study Class

will have its organization meeting in the vestry room of St. Stephen's Church on Saturday morning, December 7, at 11 o'clock, under the leadership of Miss Laura Bell and Mrs. Grammer. This class is formed in order to make the members more familiar with the field of our mission work, and will be continued on successive Saturdays for seven weeks. As the number in the class will have to be limited to twelve or fifteen only, it is requested that those who desire to join will kindly send in their names to the Rector at their early convenience.

Secretary's Report of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The first meeting of The Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Guild room, Thursday, November 21st, at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Grammer conducted a brief opening service, and made an address setting forth the importance of the organization as a body, and its relation to the Diocesan Auxiliary.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Miss Magee.

Vice President, Mrs. Howard Butcher.

Treasurer, Miss Ella Headman.

Secretary, Mrs. D. D. Wood.

The following delegates were also elected:

Foreign, Miss Laura Bell, Mrs. C. E. Grammer, Miss Headman, Mrs. Albert Pancoast.

Domestic, Miss F. Magee, Mrs. Lineaweaver, Mrs. Colket, Mrs. Russell.

Colored Mission—Mrs. Arrison, Miss Wilkins, Miss Washington.

Indian Hope—Mrs. Lautenbach, Miss Lammot, Mrs. Noblit.

Diocesan—Mrs. Lucas.

Mrs. Roland Morris was elected Treasurer of The United Offering.

Miss Magee then took the chair and proceeded with the regular business.

The roll was called, the minutes of the previous meeting read, and reports from the various committees heard.

Announcement was made that a Mission Study Class would be formed, to meet Saturdays, from 11 to 12.30; Mrs. Grammer and Miss Laura Bell kindly volunteering their services as leaders.

The treasurer reported a balance of $23.45, which it was decided to distribute equally among the committees. The meeting then adjourned.

The McMichael Memorial.

On Sunday, December 15, at 10.15, a tablet in memory of Mr. Clayton F. McMichael was unveiled in the Sunday School. The Rector, who was present and presided, after a few introductory remarks, introduced Mr. George H. Streaker, the chairman of the committee upon a suitable memorial to our late beloved superintendent. Mr. Streaker told how the idea originated with a little girl, who brought a gift of two cents for such a purpose. Her suggestion met with general commendation, and the result was this tablet, for which the committee was greatly indebted to the kindness of Mr. J. Albert Caldwell. After a few heartfelt words about Mr. McMichael, he called upon the little girl who had originated the plan to unveil the tablet, which was draped with the Sunday School flag. The memorial is a simple but artistic bronze tablet on oak. Within a wreath are the words, "In Loving Memory," and below stands simply:

"Clayton F. McMichael,

Born October 14, 1869.
Died September 28, 1907.

Superintendent
Of this Sunday School.

The Rector then read the following verses:

In Memoriam.

This tablet hangs upon our wall,
Thy name is written on each heart.
To us thou wast a man apart
From sorrows that on others fall.

Thy genial welcome made our rites
Of worship joyous like a feast;
Comrade thou wast unto the least,
Without the patronage that blights.

To thee the Church was as a ship
That carries many in her hold,
The stout, the brave, the weak, the old,
And babies with the milky lip.

Let others lay her skillful course
Between the rocks of sin and doubt,
Let steersmen keep a sharp lookout
Lest she should suffer loss or worse;

Not thine their speculative toil
Of watching star and shifting wind;
The human cargo filled thy mind,
Their weariness, the heavy coil

Of anxious cares that binds the heart:
These wouldst thou lighten by thy voice,
Thy cheerful summons to rejoice,
By thy rich gifts of mimic art.

Thy college found in thee a chief
To lead the youth who wear the mask;
Thy nature drew thee to a task
Whose glory is to banish grief.

When Duty's summons reached thine ear—
To cheer, to guide, to charm, to love,
To raise faint hearts to things above,
Thy love for children drew thee here.

Gray would the Sunday morning dawn,
Without thy smile of welcome bright,
If Doubt could prove that shades of night
Would hold forever loved ones gone.

But here, where every Sunday's call
To worship speaks of life eterne,
Our faith is lifted to the bourne,
Where life finds God, the All in All.

Thy beaming life, that turned its woes
In its heart's furnace into light
For others, in that Presence bright,
We doubt not, now with rapture glows.

Thy memory here this bronze shall keep,
O stout of heart and kind of word,
Thou faithful servant of the Lord,
Whose sowing many hands shall reap.

Prayer and the hymn, "For All Thy Saints," concluded the service.

Among those who were present, in addition to the Sunday School's scholars and teachers, were Mr. and Mrs. Emery McMichael and their children, Mr. Clayton McMichael's son and daughter and the Misses Eisenbrey.

Sunday Afternoon Services.

The attendance at the Sunday afternoon lectures has been most encouraging. The Rector hopes that those who are making it a point to attend the course regularly will take the Syllabus, and that those who have already taken the Syllabus will do the work that is there outlined, and mail their answers to the secretary of the institute. Our class has been estimated, in one sense, as much larger than it is, for 200 copies of the Syllabus have not been taken, and there are not 200 enrolled members. Our list has only a little over 100. But there are evidently about 300 people who are interested in the course. From this time on the work will be more constructive. The following books are recommended for parallel reading to those who wish to go deeper into this most profitable study:

(1)—A History of the Hebrew People. Vol. I, The United Kingdom. Vol. II, The Divided Kingdom. Scribners. By Chas. F. Kent, Ph. D., sometime Professor in Brown Univ., and at present Professor at Yale. Concise, clear, constructive. It gives in an admirable way a criticism of the sources, and also the necessary reconstruction. On the whole its tone is less antagonistic to received views than the next.

(2)—Henry Preserved Smith's Old Testament History in the International Theological Library, which is a standard work.

(3)—The Students' Old Testament. Vol. I, Beginnings of Hebrew History. Vol. II, Israel's Historical and Biographical Narratives, by Professor Kent (Scribners), is not a book that the general reader would care to own, but it would be profitable to consult it, if it is in any library to which access may be had.

(4)—Israel's Messianic Hope, Goodspeed, published by the Macmillans, keeps very close to the Syllabus and collates and comments on the extracts there referred to.

(5)—The Hebrew Prophet. Loring Batten. Macmillan.

(6)—The Book of the Twelve Prophets. 2 vols. George Adam Smith. Armstrong. A classic in which scholarship is combined with literary skill and moral and spiritual insight. A book worth possessing and reading through devotionally.

(7)—Isaiah, His Life and Times. Driver. Men of the Bible Series. Revell.

(8)—Jeremiah, His Life and Times. Cheyne. Men of the Bible Series. Revell.

Special prices may be obtained through the American Institute of Sacred Literature, Hyde Park, Chicago, by members of the class.

On Sunday morning, January 26, Dr. Worcester will tell in St. Stephen's of the work that he has been doing at Emmanuel, Boston, to reach the bodily ills of men, through the calming of souls and the reconciling of them to the Divine will.

The regular Epiphany meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church will be held on Thursday, January 16, at 11 o'clock, in the parish house. The address will be made by Bishop Horner, of Asheville, N. C.

A Parish Year Book.

The rector wishes to celebrate his third Easter at St. Stephen's by publishing at that time a Parish Year Book. The benefits of such a publication are manifold. It acquaints the members of the congregation with its various activities, and in this way brings the appeal of its charities home both to the givers and the workers. Those who are contented merely to worship in our church will be made to realize how many doors of usefulness are open to them. The mourners will see how they can cheer and comfort others. The work will be systematized by annual reports and statements, and the lists will be rectified. Most of the large churches publish such a book, and it can do nothing but good to "take stock" of our equipment in organizations and workers after their example. Circulars will be addressed to the heads of the various organizations asking their co-operation, so that the Year Book may set forth exactly the scope of their respective societies and contain correct lists of their officers and members.

The cost of the publication will be met out of the Church Work Fund.

Missionary Box Committee.

So many grateful and appreciative letters have been received by the Missionary Box Committee in acknowledgment of the boxes of clothing sent from time to time to clergymen in different States that the committee feels justified in having the subjoined letter printed in the Parish News, so that all members of the parish may be informed of the need for the work of this committee and share with them in the feeling that "it is more blessed to give than to receive:"

"Nov. 27, 1907.

"To the Missionary Box Committee of St. Stephen's Church:

"My Dear Miss Bell—The box from St. Stephen's Church came yesterday, and the contents are perfectly satisfactory in every respect. The suit could not have fitted me better had I been on the ground personally. I am especially thankful for the articles in the box unasked for in my letter. Such things are always useful in a household, but I never feel at liberty to ask for things, except for my absolute necessity. Will you please thank all who have in any way assisted in the preparation of the box? My needs for a year at least are provided for, and I am filled with gratitude for your kindness. May God bless your further efforts in this direction. Very truly."

Garment Society.

I want to speak a word to the congregation of St. Stephen's in regard to the Garment Committee. After the holidays the work for the winter really begins, and I want to ask all contributors to send their donations in as early as convenient to them—either two new garments or one dollar in cash. This latter form of donation is really more useful, for we can get just what is needful, and there are many deserving cases for which especial garments are needed. May I also ask for a suit of men's clothing in good condition? The case is a most deserving one, and a good position awaits the young man, who needs to be comfortably clothed first. Donations of money may be handed to Miss Lewis, and will be most gratefully received.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received by the Children's Friend Society in December:

From Church Fund, through Dr. Grammer	$30.00
From Kind Friend	5.00
Mrs. H. F. Master	1.00
	$36.00

Owing to the general pressure of engagements in December, and the use of the Sunday School room by all the societies, it was decided to postpone this society's entertainment of the little ones till the middle of January.

King's Daughters of St. Stephen's Church. Whatsoever Circle.

Donations received toward a Christmas basket:

From Miss Alice Kelly	$1.00
From Miss Bessie Bizzel	.25
	$1.25

Groceries from Miss Anna Taggart and sister, Miss Walshe, Miss Goss and Miss Vanderslice.

The members of this Circle were so very busy making Brownie suits for the little boys for their Christmas play belonging to the Sunday School that even the president forgot to plan for the Christmas baskets.

Their next meeting will be January 15 in the Guild room of parish house, 8 o'clock.

Shoe Fund.

Donations received in December:

From Church Fund, through Dr. Grammer	$40.00
Mrs. H. F. Martin	.25
Miss Galbraith	1.00
From those receiving shoes	2.50
	$43.75
Expended in December	17.20
Balance	$26.55

Donation of two large boxes of shoes and one box of overshoes from a kind friend.

One pair of shoes from Miss Townsend.

Mrs. Vanderslice will be at parish house from 11 until 12 o'clock Tuesdays.

Alpha Kappa.

On Friday evening, December 13, the Alpha Kappa Fraternity gave its first entertainment of this season. The program was a very good one, and the Alpha Kappa showed improvement in its dramatic efforts. Although the performances were exceptionally good last year, yet the Alpha Kappa endeavors to put all its energy and work into the coming entertainments with the purpose of making them still better. Mr. Charles H. Moore, the president of the Fraternity, had charge of the performance on December 13, and he must certainly be congratulated on his skill in arranging so interesting a program. His production of the short play, "Left in Charge," is worthy of special mention. The play was well chosen and the cast was made up of talented young persons, who rendered the play with the best of ability. The writer was asked to criticise the play, but the players did so well that nothing but congratulations can be given. However, I would advise that the finales of future plays and sketches be studied better than they have been done in the past, for in nearly all of the Alpha Kappa plays the endings have been rather weak. Miss Marian Smith, Miss Elizabeth Wilder, Miss Irene E. Wilder, Miss Grace Hillis, Messrs. Charles H. Moore, Harry H. Bush, Winfield S. Brown and Jurgen N. A Kolb were in the cast.

Miss Sanders and Miss Wilkins kindly supplied some properties, and Mr. Fox was the "paint and powder department," so necessary for the "make-up" of the players. Following the play Mr. Merritt Bodine rendered some vocal selections and Miss Irene E. Wilder entertained us with some interesting and laughable recitations. Mr. Charles H. Moore again appeared in the limelight with a song of his own composition, entitled "Mister Streaker." The song was liked so much that Mr. Moore had to respond to six encores. Miss Charlotte W. Nodine was the pianist for the evening, and the Progressive Orchestra of the Alpha Kappa furnished the orchestral selections and dance music.

The meetings of the Alpha Kappa, both Junior and Senior, are held on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock. It is desired by the officers of the Fraternity that the membership be increased, so if persons who are acquainted with young men who would be interested in either the Junior or Senior divisions would kindly send their names to Mr. Jurgen N. A. Kolb, they will confer a favor upon the organization.

Christmas Festival.

On Thursday evening, December 26, the Primary Department of St. Stephen's Sunday School and Mothers' Meeting held their annual Yuletide Festival. Credit must be given to Miss Schellenberger, Miss Goss and Miss Ethelwyn Snively for the excellent training of the children in singing the beautiful "Christmas Manger Hymn" and the carol, "Merry Christmas Bells." The singing of the latter by the chorus back of the stage, with the accompaniment of sleigh bells, was exquisite. Mr. Ewell and Mr. George H. Streaker delivered the addresses, after which the musical play, "Santa's Substitute," was given. Candy, cakes and oranges were distributed to the children and mothers at the close, who were invited.

On Friday evening the main Sunday School held its festival. The singing of the carols was led by Mr. Ewell and the address delivered by Dr. Grammer. Following the announcements made by Mr. Streaker, "Santa's Substitute" was rendered. The musical play, "Santa's Substitute," is beautiful in itself, but, with the help of all concerned, the pretty stage pictures, the solos, and choruses, created such an impression that it was unanimously declared that the Festival of 1907 was the best St. Stephen's ever had. The decorations of the Sunday School and the stage deserve special mention, and for the artistic arrangement of the Christmas greens Mr. Streaker must be commended. Mr. L. H. Hall made a jovial and jolly Santa Claus, and his amusing acting of the part brought many bursts of laughter and applause from the audience. The good singing of the fairies and brownies, showed the thorough training and coaching they received from Mr. Hall. Miss Dorothy Bird made a delightful Mrs. Santa Claus, and Miss Grace Hillis, although called upon at the last moment to take the part of the old woman who lived in a shoe, created a good impression. Mr. Clarence Barth was a lively and jolly Jack Frost, even though he made Mrs. Santa Claus, the Brownies and Fairies sneeze and cough. Mr. D'Arcy Davis rendered the part of the sleepy Sandman with good effect, and Mr. Jungen N. A. Kolb acted to the life the character of Mr. Bond, the business man. The singing and acting of Lilian Jones and Emily Henry were much appreciated and heartily encored. The fairies, of course, were the triple extract of sweetness, and the Brownies were, indeed, laughable and mischievous youngsters. Sincere thanks are tendered to Mrs. De Callis for making fairy dresses, and also to Mrs. Vanderslice and Mr. Kirkpatrick, who served on the Committee of "Good Things." Attention must be called to the King's Daughters' Society, and we are all greatly indebted to them for working both night and day making the Brownie suits. Miss E. Bertha Yocum kindly accompanied the songs and carols on the piano. Mr. J. N. A. Kolb was in charge of the electric lighting, scenery and properties, and thanks are tendered to Messrs. Winfield Brown and Merritt Bodine for their kind assistance. All in all, the festival was a great success, and congratulations were showered upon Mr. Streaker for the splendid preparation and rendition of the entire program. He certainly deserves great credit for his able management and choice of the beautiful Christmas musical play. In fact, the musical cantata was so successful that it was again repeated on Monday evening, December 30, for the Girls' Friendly Society.—Contributed.

A Model Flat.

The Kitchen Garden Class, which was formed last year, has gone on very successfully and now many of the girls have developed beyond the miniature housekeeping utensils and methods which are used.

For such girl graduates of this class there is in contemplation the modeling of the three lower rooms of the Sunday School building into a flat to teach domestic science in a larger and more useful manner.

The rooms now are most dreary and unattractive, and improved would add greatly to the church equipment. Plans of decorating and furnishing are now under way, and it is hoped interest and aid will be aroused in the parish for the accomplishment of this design.

In the homes where children go to our Kitchen Garden can be heard grateful praise of this work and results shown. The model flat is an extension of this institutional and practical work.

A Letter from "A Stranger in the Pew."

The following letter tells its own story and is published to encourage all who have part in the afternoon services. Would that we could reach many such strangers! and that they might be no more strangers, since we are members of one household of faith and children of one Father.—C. E. G.

Dr. Carl E. Grammer,
Rector St. Stephen's Church,
Philadelphia.

Mr. Dear Doctor Grammer:

It has been said that "a friendly thought is the purest gift of mankind," and it is this simple gift I am sending you as a Christmas greeting, as a "stranger in the pew," for I wish to express my appreciation and thankfulness for your beautiful and profitable afternoon services at St. Stephen's.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

In the services at St. Stephen's Sabbath afternoons I find a retreat for meditation and mental confession of my many weaknesses. The whole spirit of the house is that of reverence and worship, inspiring one with the thought that he would like to be less selfish, more sympathetic and more helpful to others. I pity the "stranger in the pew" who cannot worship because he feels he has not been accorded proper social or pastoral recognition, for there is such peace and satisfaction in seeking only recognition of a higher power, and in being able to worship alone with God, instead of having our thoughts diverted toward man and his temporal interests. This is why I like to slip into St. Stephen's Sabbath afternoons and hear your lectures and the splendid music. I trust you may always be blessed with the courage to do the best within you, and that this Christmas-tide may be one of greatest satisfaction and joy to you and those who look to you for happiness.

This is an unusual Christmas greeting I am sure for you to receive, but I not only wanted you to know how you impress the visitor to your church, but also to do myself the pleasure of thanking you for your effort to help your fellow man.

Very sincerely,
"The Stranger in the Pew."

The Tuberculosis Class.

On Tuesday, February 4th, a representative of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis explained to a number of members of the congregation how they could co-operate with his society by supplying a room in the Parish House with some simple necessary paraphernalia and by looking up and visiting the victims of the white man's plague. The Pennsylvania Society will furnish the physicians, and nurses can also be procured from an association. The church's task will be to aid in finding the patients and to keep them up to the assigned regimen by visits, weekly gatherings and so forth. To this end a Tuberculosis Society was organized with the Rector as the head, and the first clinic will be held in the first story of the Sunday School building, at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, February 11. It is hoped that the members of St. Stephen's will co-operate with a society whose benefits will not be limited to the patients treated. We hav no right to look for further light before we live up to the lights which we possess.

THE ANNUAL OFFERING FOR DIOCESAN MISSIONS will be placed on the altar on Sunday Morning, Feb. 16th. This offering has become a well-known and well approved institution in St. Stephen's.

On Sunday Morning, Feb. 9th, the work of Diocesan Missions will be presented from the pulpit. During the week that follows, every family will be waited upon by a representative of the Parish to receive their contributions. He will make no appeal or argument of any kind. He simply calls to receive the offerings of those who give to this cause. Of course he will be courteously received by all our people, whether they can see their way to contribute or not. The amount expected, according to a tacit agreement which runs back to Dr. McConnell's time, is $5 for each person. This has been our custom in the past and nobody is to-day the poorer for his generosity, while many a poor missionary and struggling mission have been helped.

Of course there are many in the Parish who cannot afford to give so much as the sum mentioned, but there are many who can, and heretofore have given far more than this sum, so as to make up for their poorer neighbors. There is no doubt, but that they will do so again. The whole amount will be placed in the alms basin, Sunday, Feb. 16th. It is urgently hoped that all will respond to this appeal. Our Missions to the Italians, the Colored people in Philadelphia, and our Mission work in the Northern Convocation are all aided out of this fund. It is one of their chief sources of supply. Since the day when Dr. McConnell organized the Convocational work, St. Stephen's has been a main supporter of these Diocesan and Convocational Missions.

Confirmation

The Bishop of the Diocese has given the regular Canonical Notice, that on the afternoon of April 12th, which is Palm Sunday, the Bishop-Coadjutor will visit St. Stephen's to administer the rite of Confirmation. The Rector will meet those who are considering this public ratification of their baptismal vows, in a class that will meet on Thursdays, after the first of March, that is, the Thursdays in Lent. This early notice is given that this evening may be reserved by those who are contemplating that step.

St. Stephen's is glad to show hospitality. It is also pleased to welcome new comers who wish to take regular sittings. As many inquiries have recently been made on this subject, we repeat here the notice that the Accounting Warden of the Church, Mr. L. C. Cleemann, 517 Chestnut Street, will be glad to see such persons, or, will himself, call and confer with them. For the convenience of such persons, a card has been printed, and will be placed in the pews. All that they will need to do is to sign their name and address, and send it to the Rector, 1024 Spruce Street. It is good for the hearer as well as for the Church, that he should have a definite seat and assume a definite share in the support of the Church.

How the Other Half Lives

A lecture on this subject, illustrated, by stereopticon views, will be delivered in the Sunday School Building, Thursday Evening, February 13th, at 8 o'clock. Admission will be free, but a Silver Offering will be collected. This lecture has been given at Holy Trinity, and is highly praised. It serves a specially useful purpose at this season, when there is so much suffering among the wage workers and poorer classes. The King's Daughters have taken charge of the arrangements. It is hoped that the attendance will be commensurate with our duty to know the conditions that surround us.

Men's Banquet.

The Alpha Kappa Society of the young men of the church and the Ushers' Association will hold a banquet in the Parish House, Wednesday evening, February 26. All the men of the parish and friends are cordially urged to be present. It is hoped by this means that the men of the church will have an opportunity to become better acquainted.

Report of Parish Visitor.

The congregation of St. Stephen's Church has been more than generous, but the need of the poor is urgent, especially this winter, when there are so many out of employment.

In making the daily visits to the homes of the poor I find the greatest suffering from the lack of fuel. In nearly every household I find some member out of work and in some cases having absolutely no support, the father being ill or having lost his employment.

One case was especially heartrending, the husband being unable to procure work, the family moved into cheaper rooms, disposing of their furniture little by little, until I finally found them occupying an attic, all their furniture gone, not even a chair, without fire, and the only piece of furniture left was a bed, on which the poor mother lay ill. For them I need EVERYTHING.

Another sad case was that of a frail, delicate woman, a widow living in a basement with four children. She is bravely doing her best to support these children by taking in washing and going out cleaning by the day. For her I would like coal, and also clothing for the children, three girls aged 4, 9 and 11, and a boy of 12.

In another house there was a family of five, the father out of work, the mother sick, the whole support being the wages of three dollars earned by one of the children. For them also I would like fuel and clothing.

These are only a few instances out of many distressing cases.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank a certain gentleman for his generosity in the matter of groceries and medicine and other material aid for my poor folks.

Through the goodness of Mrs. H. Spencer Lucas in providing a complete suit of clothing for a young man, he was able to procure a situation at a fair salary, through the efforts of a gentleman who wishes his name withheld.

The Garment Society also desires to thank Miss Cleeman for the gift of two flannel skirts.

Mrs. Judson, for two flannel skirts.
Miss Williamson for two baby caps.
Miss Armstrong, $1.00.
Mrs. Parmalee, four baby vests.
Miss Wilkins, eight new garments.
Mrs. Pancoast, $1.00
Miss Laura Bell, $1.00.
Miss Dutilh, $1.00.
Mrs. Clemens, clothing.
King's Daughters, one wrap.
Mrs. Whitlock, clothing.

MISS K. W. LEWIS.

Alpha Kappa Notes.

At a meeting of the Alpha Kappa, Miss Henrietta Sanders was elected an honorary member of the fraternity. Messrs. William Wagner, A. H. Hall and Jas. Carrigan were elected members.

The fraternity will give an entertainment on Friday evening, February 21, at 8 P. M. precisely, in the Sunday School building. The Sunday School the Parish, the various societies connected with the same, and their friends are cordially invited. There will be a voluntary offering at the door in order to defray the expenses of the Alpha Kappa work.

Junior Alpha Kappa.

Each week the meetings of the Junior Alpha Kappa are more interesting and beneficial to the boys. They are progressing wonderfully in the sloyd work under the direction of Mrs. DeCallis, Miss Kehl and Miss Goss. The meetings of the Senate are conducted in parliamentary fashion. After the various "Senators" have disposed of all business, motions, etc., stories are read and addresses, talks and short lectures are delivered. Visitors are cordially invited to attend the meetings, which are held on Friday evenings, in the Sunday School building, and the Senate would be pleased to hear any short talks from any members of the parish. Following the meeting of the Senate the boys adjourn to play basketball and other games. Although there is a large attendance at the meetings, there is still room for more young boys, and they will be cordially welcomed.

Children's Entertainment.

On Thursday evening, January 16th, Mrs. Vanderslice gave an entertainment for the children of the Children's Friend Society. The entertainment was a very delgihtful one and it was indeed a pleasing sight to see the expressions of happiness and enjoyment on the faces of the children. It is noteworthy to remark that Mrs. Vanderslice was, indeed, the "Little Mother," and her smiles and words of appreciation at the good behavior and enjoyment of the children could be noted all the evening. The program consisted of moving pictures and illustrated songs. Mr. Reynolds entertained the audience with some rare and excellent moving pictures. The pictures were beautiful and very appropriate for the occasion, and not only were they intensely interesting, but the moral of the stories illustrated on the screen were instructive.

Mr. Reynolds took us amid the snowy mountains of the Switzerland Alps, showing how a little girl and boy were lost in the snow, the parents' grief and finally the rescue of the children by the famous St. Bernard dogs of a monastery which exists in that dangerous, yet beautiful and picturesque part of the Alps. Then followed some pictures illustrating the life of a New York newsboy and how honesty brought the poor struggling boy to a good and comfortable home. There were other interesting pictures, among which may be mentioned "The Mishaps of an Airship" and "The Spy"; the latter dealing with the work, capture and finally rescue of a Union spy in the camp of General Lee, of the Confederate Army. During the intermissions between the pictures Mrs. Reynolds sang some very pretty illustrated songs, which the children heartily applauded.

The entire entertainment was a grand success and the writer, after asking some of the "grown ups" for their opinion of the enterment, found that it was the most successful and the best the children ever had.

In conclusion it must be said that Mrs. Vanderslice certainly deserves commendation and congratulation for her appreciative efforts and energy in giving such an interesting entertainment which was certainly a "chef d'oeuvre."

Whatsoever Circle. Money received from Mr. Patton's estate, $33.75.

This circle will have their next meetings February 5 and 19, in the guild room of the Parish House at 8 o'clock.

Shoe Fund.

Donation from Mrs. Hand	$1 00
From those receiving shoes	5 --
Total	$6 75
Expended in January	5 55
Balance	$1 20

Gave out in January, 26 pairs of shoes & 8 pairs of overshoes.

Donation of two pairs of shoes from Mrs. John S. Lewis; from Miss Betts Edward, one pair; from Mrs. Vanderslice, one pair; from Miss Mary Jeffries, one pair.

Mrs. Vanderslice and Miss May Jeffries will be at Parish House Tuesdays from 11 until 12 o'clock.

Children's Friend Society.

Donation received in January—Miss Martha Culbertson, $1.00.

January 16, 250 children were invited to see the Reynolds Motion Pictures, which are always very fine, and they enjoy them so much. The entertainment was made more enjoyable this year, as Mrs. Reynolds assisted with her piano music and singing. The order and delight of the children has been spoken of by many who were present.

I have been requested to make an appeal for workers for the St. Stephen's Aid Society which holds its meetings on Friday mornings during Lent in the Parish House.

The object of this society is to provide garments for infants, to be distributed by the parish worker in her work among the deserving poor of the parish. In order that that work of the society may be thoroughly efficient, it is desirable to have as many members as possible. Those who desire to assist in this work will please intimate their intention to the Rector at an early date, that the work of the society may be properly organized and preliminary arrangements made before Lent.

E. K. CAMPBELL, President.

There will be a free illustrated lecture by Dr. Albert T. Clay, Ph. D., in Assembly Hall, Y. W. C. A., 1800 Arch street, Saturday evening, February 8, at 8 P. M., on "Assyria and New Babylonia." On Feb. 29, at Ewell, Mr. Van Dusen and Mr. Kolb are sity Museum, where the various exhibits relating to the course will be described by Dr. Clay.

Lent.

Lent will be upon us a few days after March opens. A late Lent has many advantages. It is pleasant to have Easter nearer the time of the flowers. An early Lent presses the social activities into such a brief period that the rush is excessive. A longer social season tends to greater social moderation. Many people have a feeling that the church year closes after the grand climacteric of Easter. An early Easter consequently shortens the period when the various societies run at full pressure. With the Paschal moon falling so late after the Vernal Equinox, we have an unusually long year of service before us at St. Stephen's. Let us make the most of it.

In another column the list of the Lenten speakers and of the services will be given. Let me here urge upon our communicants a Lent of self-discipline. "Unless above himself he can erect himself, how mean a thing is man." The Christian life is possible amidst many perplexities of thought and sunderings of faith and form, but it disappears entirely if moral strenuousness is lost. The world loves a lukewarm Christianity, and takes as its motto, "Above all, no zeal," but our religion rejects the Laodiceans. Goethe gave a Christian message in his famous saying, "Bleiben Sie fest im Bunde des Ernstes und der Liebe: alles übrige ist ein leeres und trauriges Wesen." Without earnestness and love Christianity is assuredly a vain and sad thing.

One self-denial that I venture to suggest is that people should forego bridge-whist during Lent. This fascinating game has undoubtedly impoverished our social intercourse, and deprived many of its votaries of those larger interests that ennoble and elevate life and thought. The time it has hitherto taken might well be given to reading, to worship, to visiting the lonely and sad and to making the acquaintance of our companions. Dr. Johnson said of certain cronies that they must have grazed over all the pasturage of one another's minds. There is very little grazing over the mental pasturage of companions, however cultured or gifted, or rich in varied experience, if our intercourse is confined to bridge-whist with its long periods of necessary silence and its drill of question and answer. Since there is no greater aid to brotherly kindness than knowing our brother, I believe that it would be a good rule to give the time saved from social functions to learning to know better some of the people with whom we are thrown.

C. E. G.

The Lent Schedule.

Ash Wednesday there will be the Litany, Ante-Communion and address by the Rector at 10.30 A. M. First St. Andrew's Brotherhood Service at 12.30 P. M. Address by Bishop Mackay-Smith. Evening Prayer at 4.30 P. M.

All other week days in Lent the Noon Service of the Brotherhood at 12.30, and Evening Prayer at 4.30 o'clock (except Saturday), with an address by the Rector on Fridays, and Mr. Ewell on Wednesdays.

The Rector's Special Notices.

The Bishop-Coadjutor will visit St. Stephen's to administer confirmation on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, April 12th, at 4 o'clock. The rector will meet those who are considering confirmation at the Parish House on the Thursdays in March at 8 o'clock. The class is intended primarily for young people. No one commits himself to a decision by attending the meetings. The teachers in the Sunday school are asked to call this matter to the attention of their scholars. The same duty is urged upon parents. The normal age for confirmation lies between 15 and 20, and depends upon the growth toward spiritual maturity.

The rector will be glad to confer with adults either in their homes or at the rectory. An appointment can readily be made.

From April 6th to 11th the rector will deliver the noonday Lenten addresses in Calvary Church, New York. It is, therefore, necessary, since he will be out of town the week before Confirmation, to gather the class together earlier than usual. This shorter period of preparation will be an advantage if it brings home to the unconfirmed the necessity for a speedy decision. Procrastination is not only the thief of time; it is also the chief enemy of our nobler impulses. In moral questions delay is ever the precursor of concession, compromise and defeat.

Noon-Day Services.

The following speakers will address the Noon-Day Services this Lent. The services start at 12.30 and close 12.55 precisely:

March 4, Ash Wednesday—Rt. Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith, D. D., Bishop Coadjutor of Pennsylvania.

March 5, Thursday—Rev. C. S. Hutchinson, St. Clement's, Philadelphia.

March 6, Friday—Rt. Rev. James Henry Darlington, D. D., LL.D., Bishop of Harrisburg.

Diocesan Missions.

The offering for diocesan missions was about ninety dollars above the amount asked for by the rector. This generous response to the appeal made by Dr. Duhring will enable us to meet all our pledges and obligations. No one suffers more in the prevalent hard times than the diocesan missionaries, to whom most of this offering will be given. They meet additional privations in their own homes, and they bear heavier sorrows in ministering to their impoverished people. It is a great joy to be able to help on these brethren.

According to the usage of years one hundred dollars will go to the Italian Mission under the Rev. Mr. Zara, a most admirable work. The majority of his congregation consists of men, since the women are more timid about breaking away from the Roman priest and his spiritual direction. Mr. Zara has gathered around him a splendid body of men.

Sunday Afternoon Services.

The interest in the Sunday afternoon lectures on the Prophets is increasing, if attendance be taken as the test. But the full profit is not gained unless there is home study and some parallel reading. It will be a great aid to fixing the points in the mind if the listeners would make an outline of the lecture in returning home and verify the points. It will be better if they will write out the answers to the questions in the Syllabus, and mail them to the secretary, at Hyde Park, Chicago, and so get into closer touch with the Institute of Sacred Literature.

Dr. Wood.

About the middle of February Dr. Wood left with his family for a trip to California. He will be absent about five Sundays. A handsome tribute to him as a musician and composer appeared on the eve of his departure in one of the daily papers. He carried with him the admiration and affection of many friends and will come back to find that they had not been diminished by absence. We are fortunate in having Mr. Selden Miller as our organist and choirmaster during his absence. Uno avulso non deficit alter.

Volunteer Choir.

The same plan for a choir at the afternoon parochial services during Lent will be followed this year as was last. The singers volunteer for different afternoons when they bind themselves to come. By this arrangement the choir is kept up to a steady number and the burden falls heavily on no one. The congregation and friends of the church who can sing are urged to volunteer.

We hope this year, with the basis of last year's choir to start with, that a large choir will be organized. Besides, now we have the new organ and this is a great improvement and help over last year's melodeon. Mr. Edgar Hunt will be organist and choirmaster.

The services this Lent will be at 4.30 o'clock instead of 5, as in past years. The first service will be on Ash Wednesday, March 4.

Parish Visitor's Report.

The day after the last month's PARISH NEWS was mailed to the congregation was the Sunday the Rev. Mr. Duhring made his strong appeal for diocesan missions, and Dr. Grammer did not want the tuberculosis patients overlooked. My heart sank within me as I thought, "Oh, my poor folks! After the offerings for diocesan missions and the sick what will be left for me?" But I need not have troubled myself, for my appeal met with such a generous response that I have been able to relieve all the present pressing needs of the very poor under my care. The family who had been going into cheaper rooms until finally they had reached a garret, with no furniture, I have had moved into a furnished room on the third floor. The room was thoroughly cleaned before they were moved in. I have paid the rent with the money given to me, bought coal and have seen that they have enough to eat until the tide turns and the man secures work.

I have given money, fuel and clothing to the family of five, whose sole support was $3.00 a week earned by one of the children. The husband of the family, with tears in his eyes, exclaimed: "What I want is work! I have my two hands which are able to support my family." He was grateful for the help and without the money given to me the whole family would know the sting of hunger. A man who walked from New York to Baltimore to secure work on the oyster boats was laid off when there came a glut on the market; then he walked the streets of Philadelphia with no home, no shelter. I have given him shoes and socks and an overcoat, which has been sent to me. He is now in the Philadelphia Hospital entering upon a siege of the grip, brought on by cold and exposure. He is a well educated man.

These are but a few of the cases that the generosity of St. Stephen's Parish has enabled me to relieve.

The Garment Society acknowledges with thanks the following donations: From Mrs. Grammer, clothing of all description; Mrs. Boyd, Jaeger's underwear; Mrs. Pancoast, boy's suit and girls' frocks; Mrs. Wigfall, two hats; Miss MacAllister, a box of clothing and several packages without names of the donor, and a large basket of laundered clothes from the Enterprise Laundry.

Tuberculosis Class.

The first clinic of this class was held on February 11 in the special rooms of the parish building now used only for this purpose. Brief addresses outlining the scope and method of the work were made by Dr. Hatfield, the president of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis; Mr. Hatch, the secretary; Dr. Craig, the chief of clinic, and Miss Jacques, the nurse.

The Pennsylvania society provides the physicians and the Visiting Nurse Association furnishes the nurses.

The present schedule is a clinic on Mondays at 3 o'clock, with class meetings on Thursdays at the same hour. At class meetings the report books of the patients are read and discussed. The patients are trained to take daily their temperatures, make records of their diet and the amount of exercise taken. The nurse will visit the homes of the patients and see that the proper precautions are used to prevent the spread of the disease, and that the doctor's orders are carried out. The orderly will accompany the nurse and help the details as to fixing windows to let in the air and other sanitary means to health. After a while the ladies of the church who have volunteered will be given a special case, or several, to become interested in, visit and make reports on at the class meetings. Blank reports are given these visitors to fill in with certain hygienic particulars when making their calls.

The general equipment of the class is getting into good shape rapidly and this week all the paraphernalia, as Closets, literature, thermometers, paper napkins, etc., will be supplied.

There are now sixteen patients and we want to make complete cures of them all.

The Mission Study Class

Organized on December 7, under the leadership of Miss Laura Bell and Mrs. Carl E. Grammer, held eight meetings at the Parish House on successive Saturday mornings, devoting the time to the study of missions in Africa, using as text-book Naylor's Daybreak in the Dark Continent. At the last meeting Rev. Joseph Clark, from Ikoko, in the Upper Congo, addressed the class and a number of the congregation and their friends, describing the condition of affairs, and urged all interested in humanitarianism to write personal letters to the State Department at Washington requesting that the United States should stand for better treatment of the natives.

At a meeting of the Foreign Committee of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Women's Auxiliary, the delegates of St. Stephen's promised to provide contents for a Christmas box to be sent to the Girls' Training School at St. Paul's River, Liberia. The mission study class has undertaken to collect articles suitable for gifts for fifty African girls, and would be glad to receive and take charge of toys, dolls, books, aprons, alphabet-blocks, bright-colored ginghams for dresses and work boxes with sewing materials. As the white ants destroy wooden boxes it is requested that the small tin boxes in which crackers and ginger are sold be utilized for work boxes. Any one wishing to contribute some of the above-mentioned articles will kindly have them sent to the rectory. The box will be packed and forwarded for shipping by May 1, so that fifty girls in Africa may be made happy by St. Stephen's gifts on next Christmas.

Church Rewired.

St. Stephen's Church was the first church lighted with electricity in Philadelphia. The dangerous condition of the wires, age having made defective the insulation, and the old methods which the law does not in this day permit, have made it necessary to rewire the entire church and parish house.

The underwriters condemned the whole system and said the church was in jeopardy from fire. The new work has been done by the firm of Walker & Kepler, under the careful supervision of Mr. Hollar, a vestryman, and his engineers.

A handsome new switchboard has been placed in the back of the church and all the wires are encased in iron pipes. On account of the heavier wiring the lights are much brighter.

New meters and a new main switchboard have been placed in the cellar. The church is now in a safe and first-class condition.

Many thanks are due to Mr. Hollar, who has given so much of his time and attention to this improvement.

Missionary Box Society.

This letter from a missionary in a distant part of the country bears testimony to the work of the Missionary Box Committee during the past weeks:

To the Secretary of the Missionary Box Committee, St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia.

Your letter of December 27, received this morning. While absent on my mission work the splendid and exceedingly acceptable box came and Mrs. Brown wrote acknowledging the fact. If "pride goeth before a fall" I am afraid I will have a hard one as that overcoat is so elegant and comfortable that I can but think of what a fine "outward and visible sign" I will present as I move to and fro among my people, and, of course, my gratitude and thanks cannot pass away clad as I will be in garments sent by those whose good works extend so far beyond the bounds of their own parish. Indeed everything was so nice and helpful that I know not how adequately to express my thanks. May God bless all of you abundantly during the year now ushered in and fill you with spiritual benediction and grace.

Sincerely yours,

January 1st, 1908.

Children's Friend Society.

Donation in February from Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1.00.

King's Daughters of St. Stephen's Church.

(Whatsoever Circle.)

February 13, a lecture was given in the Sunday school room by Mr. A. H. Hodge on "How the Other Half Live."

The silver offering received amounted to $8.76; from Dr. Grammer for magic lantern, $5.00; for printing tickets, donation from King's Daughters, $1.50; total, $15.26. Total from Mr. A. H. Hodge, $15.26.

February 19 was the last meeting of the King's Daughters, about 12 members being present and work was cut out for the Lenten season.

A family of nine had been provided with a large basket of groceries and several buckets of coal. Miss Townsend had donated some clothing. With this and other donations several families were helped.

Next meetings March 4th and March 18th in the Guild Room, Parish House, 8 o'clock.

Shoe Fund.

Donations received in February: From Mrs. Richardson, $5.00; Mrs. H. F. Martin, 25 cents; Miss Emily Dutilth, $1.00; from those receiving shoes, $8.25; total, $14.50. Expended in February, $12.50; balance, $2.00. Donation of three pairs of shoes from Mrs. Wigfall. Have given out during the month of February 25 pairs of shoes and 12 pairs of overshoes.

Mrs. Vanderslice and Miss May Jeffries will be at Parish House Tuesdays from 11 until 12 o'clock.

Glad for second-handed shoes, especially wide ones.

Alpha Kappa Notes.

The Alpha Kappa again demonstrated the old theory that it is easier to be funny than to be serious in their production, on Friday evening, February 21. "The Littlest Girl" and "Sunset" were played, Mr. Harry H. Bush and Mr. Jurgen N. A. Kolb appearing in the former. The dramatic opportunities offered in this little playlet were accepted by each of the performers and played in a first-class manner. "Sunset," however, proved a greater success with the audience, it being a comedy. It would be hard to make any distinction as to who displayed the most talent in this play, with the possible exception of Jurgen Kolb. His interpretation of the part of Azariah, the country boy, left nothing to be desired. Mr. Fox deserves great credit for the results obtained through his able coaching.

Miss Marion Smith, Miss Elsie Hudson, Miss Jennie Whitehead, Mr. Harry H. Bush, Mr. Albert Nones and Mr. Winfield S. Brown completed the cast.

The thanks of the fraternity are extended to the young ladies, together with Miss Saunders and Mr. Fox, for the assistance they rendered. At the close of the plays the Juniors presented Mr. Bush and Mr. Kolb with a large bouquet of paper roses, which were the best products yet of the boys' sloyd work.

A Mandarin's Estimate of Confucianism and Christianity.

The Secretaries of the Board of Missions have just been informed by one of the staff in China that the authorities of a number of the new Government schools for the study of Western learning have found that the students have lost all respect for the moral teachings of Confucius. The result has been an outbreak of immorality in a number of institutions that has greatly alarmed the directors and parents. In this difficulty they have turned—as they often do in other matters—to the missionaries. At Nanking they have requested the missionaries to give religious instruction in the schools. At Tsientsin the authorities of the great military academy found a Chinese clergyman, gave him a salary and appointed him as chaplain to teach Christianity to the students. At another school in Chihili the missionaries have been asked to give regular religious instruction.

The Director General of Public Instruction at Nanking is a mandarin of high rank. He is an old man—not a Christian—but he has read the New Testament many times and is quite familiar with the doctrines of Christianity. A few days ago he said to a missionary:

"Our guides are the moral maxims of Confucius, but they no longer have any effect. They are abstract truths—no spiritual motive behind them. Buddhism has nothing to do with morality. The only religion that teaches both the spiritual wants of mankind and the principles of morality also is the Christian religion. That is why we wish you to teach it in our leading schools."

The Opening of Two Hospitals and a School.

By a singular coincidence three new Church institutions were opened for the Church's work abroad on the same day, October 23d. Information has just been received about these events. The new buildings are:

1. St. James' Hospital, Anking, the only hospital in the southern part of the province of Anhui, in the midst of a population of 5,000,000 people. The exercises were attended by the Governor of Anhui and forty other prominent Chinese officials, besides a number of American and English officers and Consuls, who showed by their presence their appreciation of the Church's work in China.

2. Ingle Hall, erected to enlarge the capacity of Boone College, Wuchang, China, as a memorial to the Right Rev. James Addison Ingle, first Bishop of Hankow. Again Chinese officialdom was largely represented. Viceroy Chang Chih-tung sent a personal representative with a message of good will. The Viceroy's nephew was recently admitted as a pupil and, like many other young men from high-class families, pays what in China are considered fees, though he could go to a Government school, where there would be no Christian teaching, free.

To both these buildings Chinese officials made liberal contributions.

3. St. Luke's Hospital, Manila. This building was opened by Secretary Taft. Most of the money for its erection was given by the students and alumni of the University of Pennsylvania. It is expected that other buildings will be erected in the future with gifts from other American universities.

The missionary hospital and the missionary doctor are two of the most effective agents in opening the way for the Gospel in non-Christian lands. Besides caring for the sick, all our hospitals train native men and women as physicians and nurses to work among their own people. It is estimated that $50 a year is sufficient to maintain a bed in any of the hospitals in China. Last year our five hospitals and three dispensaries in China treated 82,984 people.

Rector's Word.

When this April number reaches our readers Lent will be nearly over. There will be one great week, when we will be carried in thought to the Temple, and hear our Saviour confute His antagonists, and speak His last parables of warning; when we will journey with Him to the summit of Olivet, and look down upon the city that sinned away its day of grace; when we will linger in the sacred upper chamber and listen to those sweetest of all farewell words; when we will go down to Gethsemane, and out to Calvary, and then we will have the greatest of all our feasts, the glorious Easter, with its triumphant words of hope, and its message of victory over death, of life abounding and everlasting, and Lent will be ended. The confirmation class will have been confirmed, and some people will act as if the Christian year had closed, and the rest of the months to Advent belonged to some pagan, rural divinity, like the Great God Pan. Let us not follow after a multitude to worship these false gods of the heaths and forests. The needs of the poor have caused the ladies of the Benevolent Society to resolve to continue their work longer than usual. The activities of the church were never more required. I do not refer merely to its charitable work. Seasons of depression call for special consolations, for the sweetest hymns, the most animating message, and the tenderest Christian sympathy. It is sad to realize how many people there are in a great city who are lonely, depressed, tempted and lost in mental and moral perplexities. They need the comfort of the religion of Jesus Christ, and the fellowship of the saints. They need the Church, and the Church needs them. The preponderating and excessive emphasis that has been put upon certain prudential rules of conduct in the Evangelistic services has made it somewhat difficult for some of us to sympathize with them heartily as we desire, none the less, we can recognize the power of such services over certain people, and can co-operate and help to fold the sheep that have been gathered in from the mountains. We have our responsibility of carrying on this good work to its end, and of reaping the seed that has been sown. In brief, there are still over two months of good work before us at full pressure, and we must make the most of them.

So much to do, so little done!
Ah, yester night I saw the sun
Sink beamless down the vaulted gray,
The ghastly ghost of yesterday.

So little done, so much to do!
Each morning breaks on conflicts new,
Yet eager, brave, I'll join the fray,
And fight the battle of to-day.

C. E. G.

At the last meeting of The Church League for Work Among the Colored People, Dr. Grammer was elected president, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Rev. Mr. Moore, who was so long the head of his organization. Pennsylvania is the leading northern diocese in its work among the colored people, and brought forward in the recent General Convention a logical scheme in the reorganization of this work that met with approval in important dioceses in the South, and was largely instrumental in securing the passage of a partial measure of relief. It is incumbent on us to show that we can do something more than draw up schemes on paper. With our large negro population we ought to give the Church an object lesson of the progress that can be made among the negroes when the work is well supported and wisely planned. This League has the responsibility of creating interest and suggesting plans and measures, and, in general, is looked to for leadership in this matter. A president is of little value unless he can set a good example. When, therefore, your rector shall appeal to you for the work among the colored people, he hopes that you will remember that it is only after he has been supported by his own congregation that he can appeal with any force to his fellow members in this organization and the people of the diocese.

The Men's Dinner.

The Men's Dinner on February 26th was an event to be noted in the annals of St. Stephen's, if for no other reason than because of its novelty. In making an announcement of the dinner on the previous Sunday morning, Dr. Grammer expressed the thought that the men of St. Stephen's ought to regard the church in some respects as a club. Certainly the dinner was in furtherance of his wish, as it brought together in pleasant social intercourse, some forty men of the church, who have had all too little acquaintance with each other in the past. The dinner was held at Dooner's Hotel. The Alpha Kappa Fraternity was well represented by a dozen or more of its members; the Rector and his Assistant were there; the Vestry was represented by Mr. Van Dusen and Mr. Hunter Ewing, there were also some twenty more men of the church. Towards the close of the dinner Mr. Van Dusen, who presided, called upon a few of those present for informal speeches. Mr. Charles Moore spoke for Alpha Kappa, and Mr. Ewell, to whom we are largely indebted for the success of the dinner, spoke of his efforts among the young men of the Parish, referring to the medical students as a problem he had not yet solved, but was patiently working at. Mr. Louis Hall, who has attended St. Stephen's for more than thirty-five years, reminisced about the church as he first knew it. Incidentally, he indulged in some good-natured and very appropriate criticism of the men of the church, for not taking the trouble to know each other better. Mr. Streaker spoke for the Sunday-school, and Mr. Ewing for the Vestry. Mr. McKeehan also said a few words. Dr. Grammer brought the speaking of the evening to a close with an expression of the great pleasure it gave him to see the men of the church dining together. He said that it would be a great help to him and a great benefit to St. Stephen's if the men knew each other better and recognized more deeply the common ties that bound them together. The meeting closed by adopting a resolution moved by Mr. McKeehan, "that the men of St. Stephen's uphold the Rector's hands and requesting the chairman to appoint a committee to arrange for another men's dinner before the summer vacation."

We hope that this resolution will be acted upon, and that the first men's dinner will be simply the forerunner of many more. Two such dinners annually, one in the Fall and another in the Spring, would certainly not be too many, and we think the men of the Church would attend them in increasing numbers. To begin with the dinners would be very enjoyable, and that alone makes them worth while. And they would result in benefit to St. Stephen's. There is a great deal of interest in the church among the men, but much of it has not found expression in action, partly because we do not come enough in contact with each other to understand the needs of the church or the kind of work for which each is best adapted. To start in and become thoroughly well acquainted with each other all around, would go a long way towards meeting both of these difficulties.

The Rector's Special Notices.

The Bishop-Coadjutor will visit St. Stephen's to administer confirmation on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, April 12th, at 4 o'clock. The Rector will meet those who are considering confirmation at the Parish House on the Thursdays in March at 8 o'clock. The class is intended primarily for young people. No one commits himself to a decision by attending the meetings. The teachers in the Sunday-school are asked to call this matter to the attention of their scholars. The same duty is urged upon parents. The normal age for confirmation lies between 15 and 20, and depends upon the growth toward spiritual maturity.

The Rector will be glad to confer with adults either in their homes or at the rectory. An appointment can readily be made.

From April 6th to 11th the Rector will deliver the noonday Lenten addresses in Calvary Church, New York. It is, therefore, necessary, since he will be out of town the week before Confirmation, to gather the class together earlier than usual, however he will meet the class that week on Friday evening, April 10. This shorter period of preparation will be an advantage if it brings home to the unconfirmed the necessity for a speedy decision. Procrastination is not only the thief of time; it is also the chief enemy of our nobler impulses. In moral questions delay is ever the precursor of concession, compromise and defeat.

The Women's Auxiliary.

The Lenten Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday morning, March 12, at eleven o'clock, Miss Magee presiding.

The reports of the various committees showed greater activity this year than before, and the meeting proved to be most interesting and instructive. A gift of $25 was received from Miss Josephine Lewis.

The address was made by the Rev. Waldemar Jansen, of St. Bartholomew's Mission, in this city. Mr. Jansen told the society something about the work he is doing in the northwestern section of the city, and pointed out the great need of a more comfortable and attractive church building. The present small wooden structure, which serves as a church, Sunday-school, gymnasium and concert room, is entirely inadequate to the needs of the work. The estimated cost of a suitable building is $25,000. About $6000 of this amount has already been subscribed.

Mrs. Grammer gave an interesting talk on Educational Work in Africa, and announced that the members of the Mission Study Class are arranging to send a Christmas box to the Girls' Training School, at St. Paul's, Liberia. The ladies will be glad to receive gifts of picture books, colored pictures and cards, aprons, bright colored ginghams for dresses, especially blue and white, and pink and white checks, these being the favorite colors of the natives. Tin work boxes with sewing materials, toilet soaps, handkerchiefs, ties, belts or other articles that might be useful in a girls' school. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Carl E. Grammer, 1024 Spruce street, before May 1, as the box will be shipped on that date.

It is hoped that the good friends of St. Stephen's will support and encourage this company of earnest women in their effort to send Christmas cheer to these children in far-off Africa.

We publish the following that the congregation may see how others see us.—Editor "Parish News."

To the Editor of "The Parish News."

Sir:—I have passed St. Stephen's Church twice a day for many years, and I have often marveled at the type of mind that erected a temple of God in the guise of a jail. Recently I yielded to mere idle curiosity and passed with the noon-time throng through the iron bars and was at once moved by conflicting emotions. Your snowy memorials are beautiful! Far too beautiful to be allowed to rest in such a dingy environment. They alone save St. Stephen's from being the gloomiest church I was ever in; the blue ceiling is entirely appropriate, and induces a truly receptive state of mind. Now, Mr. Editor, I well know that my criticism is both unworthy and unwelcome, but I simply can't help recording my impression, because I have found it worth while to come again. And the remedy is so simple: two good coats of white enamel paint on walls and woodwork will clear away the clouds and give you sunshine. Is it wrong to crave a cheerful religion?

STRANGER WITHIN THE GATES.

The Unemployed.

St. Stephen's may feel that it has done at least part of its duty to the vast army of the unemployed which has suffered so keenly this winter.

Sometimes as many as twelve men have been taken on a day and allowed to work out their meals and lodgings. Tickets were given these men for the Galilee Mission, to which this church contributes considerable in its diocesan apportionment. Also arrangements were made at several nearby cafes to honor tickets stamped with our church seal.

In this way the professional loafer and drinker has been weeded out because no money is given. The men understand the church does not want to impose on them, but what it does want is a proof of their worthiness.

These men have washed down all the woodwork of the church, even to the chairs in the Sunday-school building. The Lenten crowd's debris has been more speedily gotten rid of before the afternoon service, and the Verger reports the cellar six times cleared and straightened up.

Marked proofs are continually given of some of these men's worthiness and honesty.

Money has several times been handed in which was found in the pews, and even a gold watch found by a man who was working in the Transcept Gallery by himself was handed in. It is good to report the owner called and handsomely rewarded the finder.

And still the work goes on, and will until the warm weather opens up more work.

"How the Other Half Lives."

Mr. A. A. Hodge delivered a lecture to the members of the parish on Thursday evening, February 13th, on "How the Other Half Lives." Mr. Ewell introduced the subject and the speaker.

The lecture was an exceedingly interesting one, and it depicted with intense realism the true wretched condition and suffering which exists in the slums of this city. Mr. Hodge showed with the aid of the stereopticon views, various photographs taken in the "lower" parts of Philadelphia, which told the audience better than words could the need of help for these ignorant and pauperized families of the slums. It was indeed astonishing to see the condition of the small streets and alleys which are in these parts of the city. The alleys, some of which are only a few feet wide and crowded with small tenement houses, have surface drains in which the sewage accumulates and thus endangers the health of the city by the breeding of disease microbes. In one instance there was a small macaroni factory in one of these filthy alleys, and the food stuff was hung out to dry above the surface sewer, allowing millions of these parasite germs to be deposited thereon. This macaroni is afterwards sold in all parts of Philadelphia.

The tenement houses are generally three stories high, with one room to each story, and yet on the average, twenty-five people manage to exist in each house—about eight persons to a room. The houses are wooden structures and in case of fire there is no outlet of safety whatever. The city officials, according to the statement of Mr. Hodge, seem to take no interest in the conditions, and the only hope of improving these menaces of health is for the people—the upper class—the educated class, to interest themselves in the work of the missions in the slums.

The children who are reared under such circumstances naturally are degenerates and soon develop into criminals. They have no knowledge of honesty and purity, and as soon as they are able to walk, become thieves largely on account of the lack of food. The newsboys and telegraph boys of tender years who work during the night in Chinatown and the Tenderloin make rich soil for the planting of criminal and immoral tendencies. There is a law providing that boys under 14 years of age should not work after 9 P. M., but the law is not enforced, and conditions are such as though there were no laws.

Such a deplorable state of affairs should be remedied, for it is these young children who grow up and become the American citizens of the future and, according to statistics, the ratio of poor children to the children of the better classes is increasing every year, and in twenty years hence the descendants of these immigrants and foreigners (for it is they who make up to a large extent the slums) will greatly outnumber the rest of the American people.

With these astounding facts before us, the better classes ought to interest themselves in these wretched conditions, should force the Health Department of the city of Philadelphia to improve the conditions of the wooden tenement houses and the alleys, should get together and establish missions, Sunday-schools and night schools, and give the "under dogs," as an eminent sociologist terms the unfortunates, a chance to educate themselves, and so help to improve their own condition.

It is our duty to know the conditions that surround us, and to improve them to the best of our ability. J. N. A. K.

Alpha Kappa Notes.

The Junior Alpha Kappa held a banquet on Tuesday evening, March 3, at which thirty-eight boys enjoyed themselves, not only by making the cakes, fruits, ice cream, etc., disappear, but also in making great oratorical attempts worthy of Daniel Webster. The "Senate" showed the benefit of Mr. Streaker's training in public speaking and Parliamentary Law. The stories, jokes and addresses made the evening a most enjoyable one for the youngsters.

Mrs. De Callis prepared the "feast," and the appearance of the tables spoke well of her decorative ability.

Miss Goss, Mr. Cummins and Mr. Kolb were present at the banquet. I must also not forget to mention that Mr. Carrigan joined in at the feast and preserved order at the table by occupying the office of "Sergeant-at-Arms." Altogether this Junior Banquet was a great success and, judging from the smiles of appreciation and enjoyment that shone on the faces of the boys during the evening, it is hoped that it will be an annual affair.

The Senior Alpha Kappa intends giving its final production of the season on Thursday evening, May 7th. The performance will be given in the Sunday-school room as usual, and the charge for admission will be the same as that of last year—twenty-five cents. The play that is to be rendered an "An Unconditional Surrender," and is under the personal stage direction of Charles H. Moore and business management of Jurgen N. A. Kolb.

The proceeds of entertainment will be devoted to the repairing of the scenery and to the remodeling of stage effects which are in very bad condition. With the stage in better condition and with better equipment, the various societies of the church will be able to give more entertainments than they have been doing this year. Therefore it is hoped by the fraternity that all societies of the parish will help this good object by purchasing or selling tickets for the play.

Tickets can be procured from Mr. Streaker, who is the treasurer of this fund, or from Mr. Ewell, Mr. Kolb or the Verger.

Past Worthy C.; Mr. Royd Eastwood Morrison and Miss Mildred C. Lutz were joined in Holy Matrimony on Wednesday evening, March 18, in the Parish House. The Rev. John E. Ewell officiated. The senior members of the Fraternity were present at the ceremony.

The Alpha Kappa wishes the wedded couple great happiness. Mr. Morrison is one of the charter members of the Alpha Kappa, and it is hoped that in his new-found bliss he will remember his old playmates, who will not forget him, and will remember his diligent and energetic work in organizing the Fraternity last year.

The Tuberculosis Class and Clinic now meets on Mondays, at 3 o'clock.

If you know anyone who is suffering from this dread disease, and he cannot be taken away for the open-air treatment, urge him to come to this class.

Lenten Choir.

The choir for our afternoon services has the following singers for the different days:

MONDAYS—Miss Clayton, Miss Headman, Miss McDowell, Miss A. Megargee, Miss Shapley, Mrs. Grammer, Dr. Anthony, Mr. McNeil.

TUESDAYS—Miss Clayton, Miss Headman, Miss Ruth Simon, Miss Hewson, Miss M. Lowrey, Miss McAllister, Mrs. Noblit, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony.

WEDNESDAYS—Miss Clayton, Miss McDowell, Miss Lowrey, Miss E. Simons, Miss S. Simons, Miss Headman, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony.

THURSDAYS—Miss Clayton, Miss Megargee, Mrs. Noblit, Miss Headman, Mrs. Grammer, Miss McAllister, Miss Shapley, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony.

FRIDAYS—Miss Headman, Miss Clayton, Miss McDowell, Mrs. L. J. Hammond, Miss R. Lewis, Miss E. Simons, Miss S. Simons, Miss Lowrey, Mr. McNeill, Dr. Anthony.

The average attendance has kept up very well, and it is hoped that right up to Easter those who have volunteered will come their days. The singing is very good. This choir will sing on Maundy Thursday at the 5 o'clock Communion service.

Lent at St. Stephen's.

During Lent, services are held daily in the church. Short services and addresses at 12.30 o'clock, and Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock, except Saturdays. On Wednesdays and Fridays addresses are made by the Assistant and Rector.

Confirmation will be on Palm Sunday, April 12, at 4 in the afternoon, by Bishop Coadjutor Mackay-Smith.

On Thursday before Easter Holy Communion will be celebrated at the evening service at 5 o'clock.

On Good Friday there will be Morning Prayer, Litany and Sermon at 10.30. Midday Service at 12.30 and Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock. Offerings for City Missions.

During Holy Week of Lent there will be a Service at 11.30 A. M., when the story of our Lord's Passion as contained in the Gospels will be read.

On Easter Day Holy Communion will be administered at 8 A. M. Morning Prayer, Sermon and Holy Communion at 11 o'clock, and Evening Prayer and Sermon at 4 o'clock. Offerings for Stephen's Farm.

The Easter Carol Service of the Sunday-school, Parish School and Burd Orphan Asylum will be held on Sunday after Easter, at 4 o'clock. The offerings of the year will be received for Missions and placed on the altar.

Easter Day the services will be at 8 o'clock, 11 o'clock and 4 o'clock. At the two latter services the pew-holders and regular members of the congregation will be admitted as usual through the transcept door. The front doors will be opened promptly at the hour of the service itself, and the visitors will be provided with seats to the full capacity of the Church.

It seems rather an inhospitable mode of action, but upon reflection it will commend itself to all reasonable people. It is but right and fair that those who attend the service all the other days of the year, should have an opportunity to occupy their own seats on the great high festival, and that those who only visit the church upon such occasions should be asked to wait upon the convenience of the regular attendants.

The Mid-Day Services are being held as usual this Lent under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Speaking more accurately, though, these services are under the joint auspices of the Rector and the Brotherhood, as the speakers are jointly chosen and invited by both parties. The services open at 12.30 and last precisely twenty-five minutes. They are conducted by the Rector, Mr. Ewell or Dr. Snively. The ushering, advertising, music and all other arrangements are left to the Brotherhood.

The services this year have been attended better than ever before. The preachers are as follows:

Monday to Friday, April 6-10—Rev. Reese F. Alsop, D. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Saturday, April 11—Rev. R. Marshall Harrison, D. D., Holy Trinity Memorial Chapel, Philadelphia.

Monday, April 13—Rev. Louis C. Washburn, D. D., Christ Church, Philadelphia.

Tuesday, April 14—Rev. Edward M. Jeffrys, St. Peter's, Philadelphia.

Wednesday, April 15—Rev. A. H. Bradshaw, Calvary, Conshohocken, Pa.

Thursday, April 16—Rev. H. Richard Harris, D. D., Grace Church, Philadelphia.

Good Friday, April 17—Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.

Saturday, April 18—Rev. F. C. Steinmetz, Christ Church, Ridley Park, Pa.

The following was found in one of the Brotherhood Boxes after a service:

"I find these noonday meetings an encouragement and impetus in Christian business life. God grant that the sacred influence of this place may permeate the commercial life of our city."

The Parish Visitor.

As Spring is approaching, which means a general exodus of many of the congregation to the country or seashore, I thought I would bring a few cases of my needy ones to their consideration before the warm days arrive, which promise so much pleasure for those who have means, and so much discomfort and hardship for the poor.

There are three cases which I especially want to present in this letter, three cases of need and one little instance of faith which is as the sweet perfume of a flower springing up in an arid waste, for God knows that hard grinding poverty takes not only the poetry out of life, but has the tendency to harden and sodden the natures struggling to exist in its bleak atmosphere.

The first of the three cases referred to is that of a family of eight, almost totally dependent for support upon what I am able to take to them. Their six children are members of our Sunday-school. The father is one of the vast army of the unemployed. Typhoid fever entered their home and for eighteen weeks, first one child then another was taken sick, until their little hoard, saved in more prosperous days, has melted away. The father is sometimes able to earn a dollar or so at some odd jobs, but the real necessities I have been supplying until the money generously provided by St. Stephen's is very quickly dwindling away.

The second case is that of a poor woman who makes her living by sewing. It is impossible to do fine sewing on her old, heavy sewing machine. If someone has a lighter machine not in use and would want to donate it to a good cause, we will furnish "the good cause," or fifteen dollars will buy a new light-running machine, and would bring joy and gladness to one who wants to be self-supporting.

The third and last case of these special ones on the list is that of a woman for whom Sister Elizabeth worked to get an artificial limb some ten or twelve years ago. Now the foot has cracked, and she finds it difficult to walk. If twenty dollars were contributed to the foot a new, sound one could be fitted to the limb, and she could walk and get around these coming bright spring days.

The little flower of faith coming like the breath of violets across the chill blasts of winter was an answer to prayer when I was greeted with: "I have prayed and prayed to God to send you to us. I was ready to deny His existence. I was giving up in despair, and lo! you have come.

K. H. Lewis.

The Garment Society acknowledges with thanks the following donations:

Mrs. McKean, man's overcoat.

Mrs. J. A. Cressville, package of useful clothing.

King's Daughters, 24 new garments, beautifully made.

Miss Bell, a box of clothing.

Mr. Ewell asks for a most worthy case any articles of furniture that can be given to fit up a little home down in Jersey, so that a deserted wife may earn her living by sewing. Send furniture to Parish House.

Children s Friend Society.

Donation from Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1.00.

King's Daughters of St. Stephen's Church

(Whatsoever Circle.)

During the Lenten season the meetings have been very well attended, and, as the saying is, "Many hands make quick work." Many garments have been made and handed in to Garment Society, Day Nursery and Sheltering Arms, and clothing given to poor families. The next meetings will be April 1 and April 15, in the Guild Room of Parish House, 8 o'clock.

Mr. Ewell is very anxious to supply a worthy old man with a suit of clothing. He is of medium height and thin.

Mr. George L. Crawford, the senior in years of our Vestrymen, and one of the oldest members in point of service, was taken from us on the afternoon of Wednesday, May 6th. He had not been in his usual health, and had been admonished to lessen his legal labors; but the habits of thoroughness and the professional enthusiasm of a lifetime could not be altered for prudential considerations however wise and salutary. Before he was aware of his danger he had overtaxed his vital powers. He was brought home sick from his office on Friday and while his family was still hopeful of his recovery suddenly slipped away from the obscurities and partialities of time to the region where we hope there is a fuller revelation of the truth and a more triumphant manifestation of justice. The Vestry will duly record its sense of loss and its appreciation of Mr. Crawford as a wise counselor and a faithful and conscientious attendant upon its meetings. We doubt not the Bar of Philadelphia will in some way record its sense of his high professional standing, for Mr. Crawford practiced his profession in no mercenary spirit. To him it was not a trade, but an applied philosophy, an art of a high character. He loved the strategy of the trial table. Resourceful, judicious, self-possessed, with a firm grasp of fundamental principles, he devoted himself to what is really the artistic side of his profession. But others can speak of that aspect of his career. As his rector, I desire to record here my sense of personal loss. Although he lived in one of our suburbs, he was one of the most regular of the attendants at the Sunday services. Without regard to the weather, if he was well, he could be counted on to be in his pew at the opening of the service. The depth of his religious feeling was manifested in many little ways, too intimate to be spoken of; but the best proof of his union with God was the beautiful simplicity of his life, his utter freedom from pose or assumption, his kindliness, his unselfish thoughtfulness for others.

C. E. G.

The PARISH NEWS appears later in the month because we have waited to gather up all the reports of the church year. While the half-promised Year Book has not been printed this spring, we hope that this issue will present to the congregation a fairly complete account of our annual work.

The paper will not be published in June, and the next issue will be in October. We hope that the figures so dull and businesslike will mean to the congregation more than mere figures, and will represent efforts of good-will and helpfulness in Christian ministrations of all kinds.

Parish Visitor's Report.

The Parish Visitor of St. Stephen's can look back upon a year of increased usefulness and successful work among the poor.

Having taught the Parish School for so many years, it has brought her in touch with numerous families, through the children, who had been her former pupils, and so the work of "Visitor" has not been a new one nor have the people been as strangers.

The past year has been an unusual one, for there was much suffering among people who have never before been obliged to apply for help, and the lack of work was the cause of much distress.

There has been a marked increase in the money raised by the members of St. Stephen's Congregation for this work since they have been made acquainted with its needs; and much gratitude is felt by the Parish Visitor for the same, as it increases her power to allay suffering, and broadens her field of service.

The average number of visits paid each month has been eighty.

Some have been visited as patients at regular intervals at the following hospitals: The Jefferson, Hahneman, Methodist, Samaritan, St. Luke's, St. Christopher's, Presbyterian and the German.

Twelve tons of coal have been distributed, eighteen families were given a half-ton each, and the remaining tons were given in extreme cases of destitution.

Thirty-nine families have had special and continuous help.

A sewing machine was bought for a woman who can earn her living by it, and a new artificial foot and boot were bought for a cripple.

About many who applied for help the Parish Visitor had her doubts, so they were taken or directed to the Organized Charity.

Much relief to sufferers is due to the sympathy and kindness of a gentleman of the congregation, who furnished groceries, delicacies and medicine for the sick and afflicted during the year.

The amount of money received and disbursed was $332.55.

K. H. LEWIS,
Parish Visitor.

The Sunday-School.

The year has been a successful one. There have been five new classes organized. The work among the boys in the clubs has added to the number in the classes which already existed, and a new class has been formed among the smaller boys.

A new departure has been instituted in the financial system of the school. The running expenses of the Sunday-school are paid by the treasurer from funds supplied by the Rector, while the school offerings are designated by the teachers and scholars for different mission and charitable purposes and voted on. The report below shows the different objects to which the money went.

The joint celebration of the Burd School and the Sunday-school was a very enthusiastic and impressive service.

The classes were called out by number and each brought up a paper on which was written their motto, an appropriate verse and amount of the Lenten Offering. This was read out by the Rector, who made appropriate comments on the different mottoes. The flowers which were brought up at the same time with the slip were inserted into the bare wood cross. When the last class had brought their flowers the cross glowed with carnations, and represented in parabolic form how crosses could be transformed and beautified.

There has always been a rivalry between the two schools in singing and with this as an added stimulus the Easter carols were sung with great spirit.

The award of diplomas for attendance and scholarship will be made on the last Sunday in May.

The annual picnic will be on Decoration Day—May 30—at the Burd School.

It is hoped that all the scholars and teachers who stay in the city will attend the Summer Sunday-school, which will open the first Sunday in June.

The Female Benevolent Society.

This has the largest number of workers of any society in the Church. Twenty-five women are regularly employed to do sewing, for which they receive fifty cents a week. Orders are now taken to do work for hospitals and for individuals. The society has abandoned the making of some of the old garments for which the demand has ceased. Miss Payne, the Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Hospital, has praised the work of this society, as far above the average. The managers are desirous of securing the confidence of the congregation and so obtain orders for making gingham and black aprons, towels and sewing for some of the missionary boxes.

GRACE V. D. LUCAS,
Treasurer

The Woman's Auxiliary.

St. Stephen's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary has held five meetings during the year—a preliminary meeting, November 21st, 1907, for the election of officers, etc., and one each in the seasons of Advent, Epiphany, Lent and Easter-tide.

The society has been favored from time to time with addresses from the following speakers: Rev. Mr. Wallace, of the Japanese Mission; Bishop Horner, of Asheville, North Carolina; Mrs. Thomas Neilson, President of the General Committee; Rev. Mr. Jansen, of St. Bartholomew's Mission, and Miss Marion Mitchell, of China. Whenever appeals were made the Auxiliary contributed as liberally as its funds would allow.

The formation of a Mission Study Class, under the direction of Mrs. Grammer and Miss Laura Bell, was an interesting feature of the season's work.

The various committees have been most zealous in the performance of their respective duties, as is fully shown in the reports submitted at each regular meeting. The Treasurer's report for the year shows a large increase in the amount of money expended in the cause of missions. There is a marked improvement in the average attendance at the stated meetings, all of which have been characterized by an interest and intelligent enthusiasm which augur well for the future of St. Stephen's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. D. D. WOOD.
Secretary.

The Secretary has furnished the following lists of contributors and dressers of dolls:

Contributors—Miss Jamison, Mrs. Colket, Miss Wilkins, Miss Washington, Miss Atmore, Mrs. Atmore, Miss Laura Bell, Miss Emily Bell, Mrs. Grammer, Miss Cleemann, Miss Virginia Shreve, the Misses Magee, Mrs. Vanderslice, Mrs. H. P. Taylor, Mrs. David Wood, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Clemens, Miss Clemens, Mrs. Lucas, Miss Elsie Burdette Wood, Miss M. Shreve. Mrs. Wm. R. Nicholson.

Dressers of Dolls—Miss Agnes McAlister, Miss Janet McAlister, Miss Stovell, the Misses Lawry, Mrs. Lineaweaver, Miss Bright, Miss Lippincott, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Clemens, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Tilghman, Miss Dale, Mrs. Meesi, Miss Simons, Miss Maulsby, Miss Ewing, Mrs. English, Miss Jessie Crawford, four members of the Girls' Friendly, whose names have not been given in.

The box, as the high valuation shows, was an unusually valuable one, and it was a real pleasure to see the hearty zeal with which so many contributed and worked to make it a generous assistance to the mission in the Dark Continent.

THE MISSION STUDY CLASS undertook to send a Christmas box to the Girls' School at Clay Ashland, St. Paul's River, Liberia, and acknowledges a contribution of twenty-five dollars for that purpose from the Missionary Box Committee. The members of the class and some other members of the congregation have kindly assisted in dressing dolls and sending clothing, games, sewing boxes, etc., as fifty gifts were required. The valuation of the box is estimated at $150. An exhibition of the contents was held at the rectory, 1024 Spruce street, on Tuesday, May 12, at eleven o'clock, after which the box was sent on its long journey to Africa, weighted with Christmas joy.

In order to make necessary arrangements a word just now in regard to the Mission Study Class for next autumn may be seasonable. A class on China will be started in October, if twelve or fifteen members are enrolled, to meet on Saturday mornings for eight weeks. The time will be profitably spent in the study of our missions in China, a subject about which it is eminently fitting to inform one's self, and will be found of absorbing interest.

The Missionary Box Committee.

The Missionary Box Committee has held six stated meetings, and has packed and sent six boxes of clothing and household articles to missionaries in Tennessee, Wisconsin, Virginia and Texas, the valuation of the boxes being estimated at $395.39. This includes also a box sent to colored people through Mrs. Arrison, one hundred dollars being appropriated to her for that purpose. As noted in the Treasurer's report, contributions were made to the amount of forty-five dollars to boxes for Africa and the Indians, and the balance on April 24, 1908, is $291.66. The Lenten offertories gave substantial aid to the committee.

The Mothers' Meetings.

We have had a very pleasant, and I hope profitable winter. The faithful mothers deserve much credit for coming during all kinds of weather. There are 98 names on the roll, but many have been irregular on account of sickness. There were 20 regular meetings held. One evening all were invited to an entertainment at the Sunday-school room.

The Mask and Wig (in memory of Mr. McMichael) entertained them on another Thursday.

December 6th they had their annual sale, at which they realized $57.20. Of this amount they sent $20 to the "Home for Aged Couples." The balance, $37.20, will be spent for table linen, etc., for the Farm. On Thursday evening in Holy Week there was the annual service held in the church, at which Dr. Snively officiated and administered the Holy Communion. Prof. Wood took charge of the choir, with some eight or ten singers. It was a very impressive service.

The weekly mite contributions are used for sending flowers and plants to the sick members especially on Christmas and Easter. It was decided to send the mite collection during the Lenten season to Miss Rebecca Kirkorean, an Armenian Missionary. It amounted to $8.65.

Very little is known by the mothers of the church of these mothers' meetings, and their quiet and helpful work for hospitals, missions, the sick, the Farm and many other charitable works. Since the meetings started, some seven years ago, they have contributed over $600 to these objects, all from their little annual sales and special mite collections:

The Girls' Friendly Society presents its annual record of service, work and play.

Classes in Physical Culture, Millinery, Cooking, Music, Literature and Embroidery have been held, to the advantage and pleasure of the members. And it has also been a pleasure to the Associates and Teachers to instruct and interest girls as responsive as the members of our Branch. Services in the church the first Monday of every month have been conducted by the Rector and Mr. Ewell, and were well attended. Eight girls connected with the Branch were confirmed on Palm Sunday. During Lent the Associates and members made 198 articles for the G. F. S. Diocesan Missionary Box Committee. Seventeen probationers were admitted by Dr. Grammer at the Admission Service Easter Monday.

Miss Laura Bell kindly gave on one evening an interesting lecture on "Constantinople," which was appreciated, much to our enjoyment.

The Sunday-school repeated their Christmas play for our Christmas entertainment, and the members invited their mothers. Gifts were distributed and ice cream and cake served.

Monday, the 27th, was a social evening. Several ladies and Dr. Anthony delighted us all with their songs and playing. These are a few of our duties and pleasures, but there are many acts of kindness and friendship of which there is no record.

Total	$126.49
Expended for Charitable Work	102.27
Balance	$24.22

Dues received in April, Miss M. Wilkins, $1.00.

About 145 garments have been made and given away by this Circle during the year. Brownie suits were made for the Sunday School Entertainment, garments for the Sheltering Arms, Garment Society, Willings Day Nursery and many poor families.

Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets sent to about six families during the holidays.

And the little children had their first outing last year by the kindness of this Circle, about 75 in all.

Next meetings, May 6th and May 20th, Guild Room, Parish House, 8 o'clock.

SHOE FUND.

Year's Report, May 1st, 1908.

Balance from 1907	$1.75
Church Fund (through Dr. Grammer)	45.00
Donations during the year	14.75
From those receiving shoes	31.14
Total	$92.64
Expended for shoes	88.14
Balance	$4.50

Gave out, new and old, about 250 pairs of shoes and 100 pairs of overshoes.

Fifteen pairs of shoes were given out through Miss Kate Lewis.

The work this year has been very satisfactory, for it has been those in great need who have applied.

Donation in April, Mrs. A. F. Martin, 25 cents; shoes from Miss Bertha Walshe.

In submitting my financial report of the Garment Committee, I desire to say that on account of the lack of work in many directions and the consequent poverty of many to whom we have been ministering, the usefulness of this Committee has been more than ever emphasized.

Beside the attention to several special cases, we have distributed, free, 551 garments to the poor and have enough on hand to start another season.

THE EMBROIDERY CLASS COMMITTEE reports. Finished this year:

One green stole.
Two alms mats.
One Purificator.
Two chalice veils.

To be given to a church in Virginia, two white antependiums.

The class has been larger than usual this year. Work on the pall has progressed rapidly.

The Three Arts Club.

The Three Arts Club has completed its third winter, which may justly be described as in many respects the most active, successful, and hopeful since its foundation. Early last fall the club was entirely reorganized under the complete management of the girls themselves. A constitution was drawn up and new officers elected, the former officers being retained as an honorary staff. This plan has worked admirably and resulted in an active and enlivened organization, which more nearly fulfills the purpose for which the club was organized—namely, to provide a social home for young women art students of Philadelphia.

There are forty-eight active members enrolled. Of these, almost all are students of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. There are eight or ten who are studying music under private instruction, but no students of the drama at all, by reason of the fact that there is no consequent dramatic school in the city. It is to be observed that the club is on a more practical working basis than it has ever been before. There has been a decided increase, both in the number of members and in the interest and enthusiasm among members. Yet the increase in numbers is not as great as we had hoped it would be by this time. This, we believe, is due to the fact that, drawing almost exclusively from the students of the Academy of the Fine Arts, there seems to be no channel of approach to the students of other institutions. Thus, the School of Design and the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music and like institutions are unrepresented on the club roll. Another year we hope to be more widely known and to have thus overcome this difficulty.

The pleasure and profit which the past has brought give encouragement for the future. Our ambition is to possess a club house where art students, now scattered about the city in boarding houses, may make their homes, thus making possible a resident and non-resident membership and fulfilling the double purpose of home and club.

The Farm.

The Farm last summer was open from June 15 to September 15. There were entertained three hundred and twelve guests, the average of whose stay was ten days. Besides, there were one hundred and sixty who spent the day and had dinner. The summer was a most successful one in every way.

We were fortunate in having the Misses Bockius as House Superintendents and are glad to report that they will be in charge again. With their past successful experience we believe they will be even more so this year.

The innovation of having boys last season went so well that the last two weeks in August of this coming summer will be devoted to them.

It seems a pity that they cannot be out earlier to fix up the banks of the dam they built and make the necessary repairs to the chapel they established in the woods, so that the earlier guests may enjoy these two new institutions.

The congregation is especially invited to visit the farm on the Sundays of the 16th and 23d of August, when open air services will be held with the boys as the choir among the trees and flowers.

While the treasurer's report below shows a balance of over $1000, there were several repairs necessary that will take a large part of it.

Among others, the windmill which pumps the water for the house had to be replaced by a new one. A five-year fire insurance policy came due, and new horses had to be bought—and so now the balance with the treasurer will not be as large as last year. The Easter offering this year was a little larger than last year.

The Farm will open on Saturday, June 13th.

The Misses Bockius will have charge again and will be glad to receive all who care to come.

The mothers and babies will be allowed the first two weeks.

Application cards may be had at the church, and until June 1st must be sent there. After that to St. Stephen's Farm, Warminster, Pa. It is well to make as early application as possible.

The last two weeks of August, from the 15th to the 29th, will be reserved for the boys over 12 years of age.

A friend of the Farm sent last year a box of new Edison records for the phonograph, and it would be hard to exaggerate how much pleasure was given to the guests by this thoughtful gift. They were heard so many times as to be almost learned by heart, so another supply of records would be most acceptable. A new croquet set and also a swing are very much needed.

The Burd School.

Dear Dr. Grammer:

In response to the request made recently, I herewith send you a few items regarding the life of the girls in the Burd Orphan Asylum, or, as by authority of the Vestry, we now very much prefer calling it, The Burd School.

For several reasons I will quote here the words of others, rather than give my own, perhaps, more prejudiced opinions.

It is a great pity indeed that Mrs. Burd could not have seen the beautiful and stately home which her beneficence had secured for her foster-children, all of whom now "rise up and call her blessed," for in common with so many other large-hearted philanthropists, she "builded far better than she knew."

A friend of the school whose good taste is held in high esteem says: "The cluster of buildings in their beauty and dignity, even to the moat about their foundation walls, reminds one of some old English castle of feudal days, while the spires of the chapel standing out so prominently speak most eloquently of the Power and Spirit that rules within."

It is little wonder, then that the love of the girls for this vine-clad home, the only one many of them have ever known, grows in intensity as the years steal away. The surroundings of such a home must have a refining influence upon all who come within its sphere, and account largely, no doubt, for the excellent and honorable record of its many graduates—a record of which we all feel justly proud.

It is the earnest endeavor of all connected with the school to minimize the institutional and magnify the home life as much as possible, and the result is a set of bright, happy, wholesome, natural children, of the same general character, instincts and dispositions of children elsewhere, and not a peculiar entity by themselves, as so many people seem to consider them.

The regular and well-ordered routine of life brings practical instruction of almost every kind, so that the graduate is prepared to meet the stern realities of life and support herself by her own personal endeavor at the early and immature age of eighteen years. Of how many children (either boys or girls) of other families is such ability expected? Judged by such a standard it is readily apparent what each must have accomplished before she goes out into the world as a graduate of the School.

"In this lovely home, filled with sunshine and fresh air, the girls are fully as well, if not far better cared for, mentally, physically and spiritually, than in any similar institution either at home or abroad," is the opinion of one who has traveled extensively, and who is employed in visiting and inspecting institutions. Here, indeed, by the wish and will of Mrs. Burd, "the poor and the destitute are brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord," and prepared not only for the life of constant toil that awaits them in the near future, but also for that far higher and better life which lies beyond.

Sincerely yours,

S. E. Snively.

Alpha Kappa Column.

This closing year has been the most prosperous the fraternity has ever had. The A. K. Basket Ball team has gained many new members, and the club stands to-day as one of the most prominent of its kind in the city. They have played several games with the basket ball teams of other churches, and in the majority of the matches the A. K. team has been the victor. Next year the club proposes to play a series of games with other clubs, and the managers hope that those in the parish who take an interest in basket ball will view the matches. The baseball club of the Alpha Kappa has started its season, and the first game will be played at the Burd Asylum on May 30th. They will play the members of Mr. Ewell's Bible Class. The dramatic committee has done excellent work during the past season in the productions they have staged, and all the entertainments have been well attended by members of the various societies of the church. Mr. Moore had charge of the first entertainment, producing "Left in Charge." Mr. Bush had charge of the second performance, at which "Sunset" and "The Littlest Girl" were played. The annual production this season, "An Unconditional Surrender," was under the management of Mr. Kolb, with Mr. Moore as stage director. Twenty cents was charged as admission to the latter, and the proceeds were devoted to the purchasing of new scenery and footlights. The scenery was repainted and several scenic effects were added to the stage. This opportunity is taken to thank the young ladies who so kindly helped us in our productions with their appreciated artistic talent. They are: Misses Marion E. Smith, Bessie Wilder, Irene Wilder, Florence Wilder, Grace Hillis, Elsie Hudson, Jennie Whitehead, Loretto de Vine, Charlotte W. Nodine, Ethel Showaker, Lucy Keinath, Marguerite L. Jordan and Clara Feiy. Sincere thanks are also tendered to Miss Sanders and Mr. Fox for their kindness in helping us in our performances. We were favored with the services of Mr. J. Val Yarnall, Jr., of the Browning Society as leading man in our play, "An Unconditional Surrender," for which the Fraternity is sincerely grateful. Special attention must be called to the acting of Miss De Vine, whose rendition of the part, "Belle," was splendid, and the Alpha Kappa hopes that next season we will again be able to secure her appreciative services.

On account of the heavy rain on the evening of the performance, the audience was not as large as was expected. Consequently the proceeds were less than the expenses. To help to balance the deficit the Alpha Kappa will give a performance on Wednesday evening, May 20th, at which voluntary offerings will be taken at the door.

The closing meeting of the Fraternity will be held on Friday evening, May 22. The first meeting of next season will be in September, at which new officers of the Fraternity will be elected.

JURGEN N. A. KOLB,
Secretary.

A Stranger's Reply to a Stranger.

Philadelphia, April 21, 1908.

My Dear Doctor Grammer:

I have read with interest what "The Stranger within the Gates" said about "gloomy St. Stephens." I, too, may call myself a stranger, but have been differently impressed. The subdued light of this church makes it seem like a holy, solemn place, and I—as a stranger—seek it above all other places in the city because of this.

Its unobtrusive walls, to my mind, are like those required for a work of art, and are such as make the services of the church stand out as a beautiful masterpiece.

I have always felt they contributed to the deep seriousness that prevails in the devout attention given to the services. It would never occur to me to laugh, speak aloud or other than reverently in greeting friends when passing out of this church—if I knew any to greet. And yet, laughter and loud voices prevail in so many churches at close of the service that all of the seriousness of the occasion seems lost before the pews are empty. I wish all churches had the solemnity of St. Stephen's, instead of the worldly, club-like air that prevails in so many under the guise of "sociability," and that sends people out into the world heart-hungry.

When our hearts are really in the attitude of worship, when we pray, do we seek the rooms in our homes with the strongest light? Do we bare our faces to the brightest rays of the sun? Do we not, on the other hand, close our eyes to shut out the light and worldly things, and seek the room of soft light or darkness and seclusion? Is not St. Stephen's more truly a religious retreat as it is than if it had glaring walls?

Twice when death hovered over my home, and the life seemed to be going from those I loved above all others, I sought St. Stephen's as a place where I felt I would be in the presence of God, and where I might ask that those precious lives be spared. I slipped into a pew in the rear of the church at the afternoon services—the services I always attend when I go here—where, unnoticed in the absorbing solemnity of this house of worship, a heart bowed with grief could speak its sorrow in supplication. This was after weeks of watching at the bedside, and when all seemed lost. Should not a true place of worship be a haven of rest at such a time, even to those that the world thinks never worship? Do you think we need enameled walls or glaring lights?

THE STRANGER IN THE PEW.

While the Jewish ecclesiastical year began in the spring, with the month Abib, the opening of their civil year was dated from the beginning of the seventh month, Tisri, which about corresponds with our October. In recognizing that the fall is a true time of inauguration, the Jews showed their usual insight into realities. After the harvest the farmer makes a beginning for the next year's crop; after the holiday of summer comes the season of work; after the lassitude from the heat, come new plans and endeavors at the invigorating touch of the cold.

All the great educational agencies open their sessions in the fall. It is true that the church dates her formal calendar from Advent, but actually, in the city churches at any rate, the true opening of the ecclesiastical year begins in October, with the return to town of the congregation. Happy the minister who does not find his formal opening a moveable feast, that grows later and later. I hope that this year the first Sunday of October may find the people back in their pews.

The country is a fine place for quiet meditation, but the city is better for active service. St. Anthony of Padua is said to have preached to the fishes, but it would have been wiser in the Saint if he had proclaimed his message where it was more applicable. Divine service can nowhere be so well rendered as in the midst of sorrows, needs, temptations, sins and crimes of a great city. There prayer and praise, the preached word and the solemn rite have an added meaning. The city people go out to the country for their bodily health and it is possible that it would be well for country people to come and serve in the philanthropy and mission work of a city for their spiritual health. Certainly few things are worse than ecclesiastical vagrancy. It is well, after having chosen our church to stand by it and keep it. So I hope that our church workers will soon take their places and that the machinery may soon be working in full power.

There is much to do. Our Woman's Auxiliary ought to be enlarged, and have on its roll every woman in the congregation. It ought to raise more money by gaining more members, and securing more definite pledges.

Our Young Men's Societies need to be brought into closer touch with the church. It seems to the rector that the time has come to organize a chapter of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew.

The Tuberculosis Class has done good work and helped over 50 persons. At present it has 13 patients. The physician in charge is encouraged, and believes that a useful work is being done. We look up the people for him, bring them to his notice, and aid the patients to a more generous diet. This additional charity has been a heavy drain on our funds, and I trust that the congregation will bear it in mind in their offerings.

The Three Arts Club, founded over two years ago, has proven to meet a real need and prospered and is now considering whether it can not flit to some larger quarters than we can provide for it in our Parish House.

Our chief need is that more people should bear a hand. A curious person reading over the reports of the numerous charitable organizations of Philadelphia, made a computation of the number of givers, and found that large as the lists appeared, when they were all added together, the numbers shrank under analysis to only three thousand names. Three thousand out of a city of a million and a half inhabitants! I do not believe that the proportion of helpers is as bad as that in our churches, but it is far too small. When I see how a faithful few struggle to maintain the feeble country churches, I sometimes feel that the city churches do not know how to give in proportion to their numbers and their wealth.

Besides the Tuberculosis Class your rector has undertaken to aid a student for the ministry. Our church needs ministers, and it needs educated ministers. Unless we aid young men to procure the necessary collegiate training, I do not see how it is possible for a young man of average abilities to get into the ministry, unless he has private means. It is an honor to a church to send a young man into the ministry.

From these remarks it will be inferred that your rector will soon be appealing for money and sending out collectors for the Church Work Fund.

With the first Sunday of October begins the fourth year of his rectorship. By this time the congregation and rector ought to be fairly well acquainted and settled down to good work together. May He who has led this church and community so many years, continue His guidance. The populations of the great cities are shifting more and more to the suburbs. In the transition, habits of church attendance are lost, and the suburban chapels of ease are unable to train in habits of service like the downtown churches. But we must not lose heart or hope or bate a jot in effort. It is good to hold a post where rich and poor meet together and worship can be closely united with service. Let us take as our motto for the year, the legend on New Haven's shield—Qui transtulit sustinet.

A Notice for the Jefferson Students.

St. Stephen's is the nearest church to the Jefferson Medical College and Hospital. The clergy are anxious to be of any service either to the students or to the patients. They will gladly respond to any call from the hospital and cordially invite the students to attend the services and make themselves known to the clergy.

Report of Parish Visitor.

The summer is past—the harvest is over, and we are ready after our vacation, to take up our work again of visiting the sick and helping the needy to help themselves, and to do what our church commands of her children —"Bear ye one another's burdens."

The visiting and work among the poor did not altogether cease this summer as the Parish Visitor continued her visits during the heated periods of June and July and well into the torrid weather of August.

The unintermittent hot weather of the past summer was very hard on our people who were too ill to be sent to the country for even a few days; but the farm proved a blessing to the many who spent a week or two there, mothers with babies, sick or well, and the little children, to them the farm was a perfect Godsend.

One sad feature of the summer's work, was the death of a little baby belonging to a young English couple, the child was anæmic and could not stand the heat. We buried the baby and did the little that we could.

Now that our congregation are returning home, we hope for generous contributions with which to carry on our work. There will be much to do and our treasury is depleted, but as soon as the money comes in, the winter work can begin in earnest.

K. H. Lewis.

The Farm.

A great deal of the church's activity in summer is transferred from Tenth street to the farm in Bucks county.

This season was a most active one. There were more guests entertained than ever before. Averaging the numbers there were 456 people entertained for 1 3-4 weeks, equalling 798 for one week.

Besides there were 236 extra meals provided, most of these being served on Thursdays, when members of the Mothers' Meeting spent the day at the farm.

The holidays of July Fourth and Labor Day were devoted mostly to merry house-parties of the Girls' Friendly.

The services held in the woods this year were largely attended. There are in the neighborhood two institutions where children are cared for who attended our services in a body. The Boys' Fife and Drum Corps of the Orange Home, often rendered their assistance and made the services quite spirited. Soloists from the city also came out and made the woods rich with the harmony of their voices. The good influence of the farm has thus made itself felt throughout the whole community.

The following are extracts from a letter an invalid father wrote home to his daughter while he was spending a week with the boys. From these we can get a genuine inside view of the farm and its working and thank God that so much happiness and fresh air can be distributed through the agency of St. Stephen's Church:

"As I had promised to write to you a long letter as I could, to tell you all about St. Stephen's Farm, and what I thought of it, I know how you love St. Stephen's Farm because you had told me so much about it, what a fine time you had up here with the girls, and now I am going to tell you about my week's vacation on the dear farm, with these darling boys. I arrived all right about 5 o'clock at that very handsome station of Hatboro. The railroad company must have been spending a great deal of money on that station. After I had my rolling chair, I went along the platform, where I saw the first sight of St. Stephen's Farm, written on the omnibus.

We soon started. It was nearly filled, but none of the new boys spoke a word. Everybody was quiet. You would have thought we were going to a funeral, or some sad affair like that. After a good long ride through the beautiful country, which I enjoyed very much, we all at once were surrounded by a lot of boys, shouting and cheering.

Well, I thought we must be near the farm, they were making such a noise that I thought we were out in the west where stage coaches are held up. Then we turned in a side road and there lay the dear old farm before us. There were so many smiling, happy faces to welcome us, that I felt quite at home. About five or ten minutes after our arrival the supper bell rang, (you know the sound of that bell you love so well). No one needed any coaxing. All the dear boys, large and small, were rushing in; but my goodness, what a noise they made. I thought that they were a lot of lunatics let loose on a beautiful farm. I really thought I had struck the wrong place, and I did not think these dear boys were quite so sweet as they really proved later to be.

I only admired the wonderful patience of Miss Frances Bockius and Miss Elizabeth Bockius, Mr. Ewell and Mr. Streaker. I was only wondering what these noisy boys would do next. I expected any crazy thing, but I was told that this was nothing when the girls get started, when they are up here, so I felt thankful that the girls were not here, otherwise it might have been worse. I could not go to sleep until sunrise, and that is about the time some of these darlings rise and wake everybody else up, so, of course, I had to get up too.

But now Sunday morning started in better; the boys were not half so noisy. I soon found out that the noise they made in the evening was an outbreak of happiness and joy in being so fortunate as to be out in God's lovely country. You could see nothing but happy, smiling faces everywhere.

At 9.30 A. M. there was flag raising. All the dear fellows assembled around the flag pole the smallest one, (little Fritz from Switzerland) raised the flag while every one joined heartily in singing "America," and just before the flag was raised, we had our pictures taken. These pictures, no doubt, will appear in the Parish News, as they like to have something extra pretty in it sometimes.

After this the boys were all divided in squads to do police duty, to straighten up the lawn, and pick up any waste paper. Every one of the boys did it so cheerfully. Then I went to visit Molly, the pretty calf. We soon were such good friends, and she was stuck on me (no wonder) that the calf and I had quite a lovely time, and I spent more time there than I really had to spare, because it reminded me so much of you, (it was so handsome). After this I went to see the pigs. They also were very glad to see me, but as they were not washed yet, I did not stay quite so long. I also went to see the horses; the cows I could not see as they were away from home, so I postponed my visit for another day.

Sunday afternoon we had an open air service in the woods. The impression it made on me I shall not soon forget. There must have been about 350 people all together. There were nearly 200 children, all joining heartily in singing the hymns, followed with addresses by Mr. Streaker and Mr. Ewell. What a beautiful sight it was to see such a service in the woods. The sun was just setting, and this made it even more pretty.

There were 72 people all together at both dinner and supper on this day, but all was so well arranged that everything went off so smoothly. There was plenty of everything, and everything was so good.

These boys are playing baseball all day and

I have a boy sleeping in my room who even plays baseball in his sleep. He talks in his sleep. In the afternoon the smaller boys went for a hay ride, Mr. Streaker taking care of them. When they went, they were singing "We Won't be Home Till Morning," but they came home pretty soon as it commenced to rain shortly after they left, but they did not get very wet. After supper we were all in the parlor where we had lots of fun. In the night there came an awful storm with very heavy rain, and it was so cold in the morning that everybody was shivering with cold..

The boys played all day in the barn where they seemed to have the greatest fun, because every little while they brought in one of the wounded ones, but after they were bandaged up, they would go back to the same game. The boys who were operated on by Mr. Ewell, said that "Mr. Ewell is a good preacher, a good doctor, and he would also make a good butcher, because he could butcher out the splinters so nice."

When the girls left to make room for the boys, there was a swing in the barn for the girls, but it was a good thing the swing was taken down, otherwise half of them would have been hurt. With all the rain and cold, oh what fun they had, enjoying themselves to their hearts' content. The kind Misses Bockius had the parlor nice and warm for me. The boys had a fine fire in the laundry. These two kind ladies made it comfortable for everybody. They are real house mothers, indeed. I forgot to tell you, after the boys went on the hay ride, it was so quiet that I could hear the birds sing for the first time, but it seemed so lonely, then even the dear sunshine went away with these darlings. That evening we had lots of amusement in the parlor; everybody was there, and when we went to bed everybody covered themselves up well, as it was almost freezing

Thursday morning came, and it still rained, with no clear weather in sight, and to amuse these 40 boys, was no easy matter, but they surprised me how nice they could behave, and why, because they were treated with such love and kindnesses. If any of those boys had any little trouble, they would come and bring it before the ladies and their troubled hearts were soon soothed. If any of the little ones became a little homesick, they come and these house mothers put their arms around them, just like their own mothers, and their homesickness flies away and is soon forgotten. And so these dear ladies care for those boys with such patience, and such Christian love, that the boys cannot help but obey. I never heard a harsh word since I have been up here. I never could imagine how all these boys could be managed. But in such a Christian home, it is no wonder that these boys are so happy. I forget my pains and affliction, and am a boy again amongst such happy boys.

Friday was the day of all kinds of sports, for which prizes were given. In the afternoon there was a great baseball game, between the Hatboro boys and St. Stephen's boys. The St. Stephen's boys won. In the evening we had a farewell entertainment, when the prizes were given to those who had won the first prizes in the games. Then the housemothers and the rest of the household were presented with little tokens of gratitude, in remembrance of the boys. You should have heard the speeches by everyone, it would have touched your heart. I trust that is nothing against the boys, so they all can have the privilege to come back next year. I shall count it a privilege if I shall be able to go once more next year, because it was my happiest vacation, and I never laughed so much for many years, as I laughed with these boys."

The excursion to Sedgeley, September 5th, was a very enjoyable one, about 86 persons in all. The children enjoyed the trolley ride out, and were ready to play their little games on reaching the park, but somehow they always enjoy themselves better after Mr. Jackson Black's wagon has arrived, and they have had some of his ice cream and good cake. Recitations and songs followed and they arrived home about 7 o'clock.

Summer work is over and it is hoped that the children's kind friends will not forget them, so that they may have some entertainments during the winter.

Summer Services.

The evening services held in June and July were greatly handicapped by the torrid weather. Still they were fairly attended. In August our church records indicate an increased attendance over other years, and this shows the advantage people who stay home in the summer take of an open church.

Card System.

During the summer a card system of the parish has been inaugurated. The antique lists of the church have been thoroughly gone over and revised to the best of our knowledge. Now the communicants and members can help very much by consulting at convenient times our new records and tell us of errors. Also any new addresses will be much appreciated. Faithful visiting is an impossibility without correct statistics.

Potatoes.

The farm produced this year about 1,000 bushels of potatoes. This is our principal crop, and we had hoped to have reported a much larger product, but the drought in July blasted our large hopes. They are for sale now. Orders may be sent to Mr. Ewell at the Parish House. The potatoes are of the usual high grade, which makes St. Stephen's farm famous.

Our Summer Sunday School.

The rain of May 30th last, kept the annual Decoration Day Picnic indoors in the Sunday School rooms and gave us a jolly and novel time, yet interfered with all those expected merry-makings and our May Queen Festival, on our yearly visit to the Burd School Woodland. The next day, Sunday, being clear, brought a very large attendance to the closing day of the spring sessions. The yearly diplomas were awarded, and with memories of Mr. McMichael, who instituted them, the closing day was in every way a success.

At once followed a good attendance to the sessions of the Summer Sunday School. We had the advantage of Dr. Grammer's teaching of the lessons during the Sundays of June. Our lessons being Old Testament "Bible Characters," from David to Josiah. Mr. Ewell and the writer were the teachers during August and September.

The School Outings were: An afternoon in June with our Rector to the farm, and on the first of August to Sedgeley, when Miss Taggert, Miss Goss and Mr. Kirkpatrick gave the Infant School a good time in the park. And again, when on August 8th, we had our third annual excursion to Cape May. It was a delightfully spent day by the sea—not forgetting the ocean bath nor the canteloupe feast on the bay shore.

Our winter societies should remember our Summer School and plan to assist in its usefulness and help to enlarge the joys of its excursions.

Again the Summer School serves as a nucleus to further the purpose of our farm, by being in session, and thus in touch with the farm in its season. Besides, the lessons of the school have been repeated and taught each Sunday afternoon or evening in the woodland or on the farm lawn, or in its parlor, thus uniting happy gatherings of from 50 to 225, with hymns, prayer and Christian thought.

We are indebted to all for their assisting presence—to Miss Goss for her loyal attention to the younger scholars, and to Dr. Wood and Miss Harper for music in June and July. We believe the Summer Sessions have been serving a good purpose and we hope for their continuance and improvement.

Woman's Bible Class.

Since the day Dr. Grammer transferred the Bible Class to Miss Denney's care, we have never regretted the action taken, and now, although we are not really a Bible Class, we still retain the name. Joining forces in this manner we have had the opportunity of having class picnics this summer, not restricting, however, the outings to members of our class only, as we have always tried to make any others who have accompanied us feel welcome.

During June a party of us enjoyed a trip to Wissahickon, where Miss Minnie Corrigan became famous as a photographer; she positively stated she had snapped us while out rowing, but when the picture came to light we were nowhere visible; might state, too, that Miss Sherrard showed her talent as an expert oarsman.

As this affair proved such a success we decided to have another, and not long after were entertained by Miss Sherrard at her summer home in Flourtown. Those who have had this charming experience can certainly not soon forget the hospitality extended to us, as we were not merely guests but regular picnickers with free play of the premises. Mr. Streaker, who accompanied us on this trip, delighted us with several stories which can be related with best effect out of doors on a moonlight night, when all Nature seems mysterious, and creepy things run up and down one's back.

In August a party of us went to Willow Grove, which picnic occurring on the day the boys went to the farm, we were deserted by Mr. Streaker; we were wise enough to know that any amount of persuasion on our part would prove futile, therefore did not press our cause. We were very fortunate, however, in having with us Mr. Whilldin who, like Mr. Streaker, didn't seem in the least perturbed at escorting a Sunday School class of girls from place to place; in fact, he seemed to rather enjoy it. We had a royal time on this day, as together with the music and the various amusements along the promenade we were not without something to do the short time we were there.

On September 26th we were again invited out to Flourtown, and, though the weather was very doubtful, six of us made our appearance. We spent the afternoon rambling through the country picking flowers and gathering autumn leaves. In the evening we played charades, and much to our surprise a great deal of hitherto undiscovered talent came to light. After having had a delightful day we started for home, our only regret being that this was to be the last of our picnics, and although next summer is a whole year away we are already making plans for its diversion.

Appeal of Garment Committee.

DEAR MR. EWELL:—

Will you kindly have a notice inserted in the parish paper for October, asking the congregation to remember the Garment Committee this autumn? If, during the housecleaning time they find any clothes they can send, it will be greatly appreciated. The poverty last winter made the demands upon the Committee very heavy and there seems to be no bettering of conditions so far, so we must prepare for the same number and quality of calls upon us this year. Please also, say that contributions of money from those who have no garments to send, will be most acceptable. The rooms will be open to applicants for clothing the first Tuesday in October.

Very truly yours,
JULIA DE M. LAMMOT.

The Church Work Fund.

This month the appeals will be sent out in behalf of the Church Work Fund. The amount usually contributed is about $1,400, which constitutes the Rector's official purse for financing the various societies and carrying out his plans in general. Out of it he publishes the PARISH NEWS and the advertisements of the services, and also gives the Altar Society the money for the flowers which decorate our Chancel, and afterwards are sent to the sick or to the hospitals. To almost every society he makes an appropriation out of this fund. As an illustration of its usefulness, the Three Arts Club may be cited. This club was made possible by a liberal appropriation from the Rector, which enabled it to procure a piano, and get the necessary equipment. It has proven to meet a real need, and has outgrown its old quarters. It begins this year with great enthusiasm with a studio of its own on Walnut street, although it will continue to have its business meetings in our Parish House. Out of the same fund the necessary equipment was procured for our boys' club. Teachers also are paid out of it for special work in connection with our various societies.

The importance of the fund is well known to the older members of St. Stephen's, and, as the acknowledgments of the month show, some contributions have been already sent in before the appeal has been made. My reason for particularly emphasizing it here, is that I hope the new members who have come to our Church this fall, will appreciate the importance of this purse, and contribute to it. The great difficulty in the maintenance of Church work and philanthropic endeavors of all kinds is that the burdens are not distributed widely enough. If every one would give something this fund would easily pass our mark of $1,400, which it is necessary to reach if we are not to be cramped in our activities.

The Sunday afternoon lectures until June will be upon The Social and Ethical Teachings of Jesus. They will be based upon the Outline Bible Study Course issued by the American Institute of Sacred Literature, which will be used as a kind of syllabus. It is prepared by the well-known author and scholar Prof. Shailer Mathews. The first lecture was given on November 1st, and the attendance was good. The large number of men was particularly gratifying. These are lectures and not exhortations. Their main purpose is instruction and not excitation. It is believed, however, that their total influence will be not merely clarifying, but also stimulative to zeal and good works. A course on the ethical aspects of Christianity ought to fill a useful purpose in a great city.

While the attendance is most encouraging it is a matter of regret that more have not taken the syllabus. It is a guide for Bible reading and will repay study. Moreover, it supplies the pegs on which the lecturer's comments are hung. It is to be hoped that more copies will be taken next Sunday. They can be had of the Verger in the Vestry before or after the service. The price is fifty cents.

The cornerstone of a new dormitory for the University of Pennsylvania was laid last month with appropriate ceremonies. It is being erected by the Mask and Wig Club out of its earnings as a memorial to its first President, Clayton Fotterall McMichael. The prayer was offered by Dr. Grammer, an original poem was read, and addresses were made by Provost Harrison and Vice-Provost Smith. The Provost pronounced a tender and discriminating eulogy upon Mr. McMichael and did not fail to speak of his loyalty to his Church as one of the great elements of strength and beauty in his character. It was an affecting moment, when the boyish voice of our former Superintendent's son was heard declaring in fresh, youthful tones that "this stone is truly and well-laid." One could but feel that the life whose influence lay behind this generous gift of a dramatic club was a stone that had been "truly and well laid" in the great structure all of us are building together.

In another place the account will be given of the opening meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's for the season. Some of the committees were enlarged, and it was pleasant to welcome so many new members. Every woman of the Church ought to be a member of this auxiliary. It would be best that they should be both contributors and attendants, but it is hoped that those who cannot attend the monthly meetings on the third Thursday of every month at 11 o'clock in the Parish House will unite as contributing members and so help the cause. The next meeting, November 19, will be addressed on the interesting and moving subject of the Churchless and Neglected Mountaineers of our Appalachian System, especially in the Blue Ridge—by the Rev. F. W. Neve, who is an Archdeacon over this work.

The following extract from the last number of the Hibbert Journal contains a salutary and bracing thought in view of the prevalent assumption in many quarters that pain ought not to exist—that it is of necessity an evil.

"There are multitudes who are staggered and perplexed by the daily tragedies and the heart-sickening conditions of life surrounding us on all sides, who yet desire to find and keep hold of a courageous and dutiful way of meeting the facts of experience; who can find no satisfaction either in denying the reality of pain, or in blaspheming against the Author of Life and Order. These ask not what God ought to allow, but how we ought to meet that which is allowed; not whether the infliction of pain can be morally justified, but whether the endurance of it can be made morally profitable. They ask not for consolation but for strength. Possibly there may be no consolation to be had, but there is always the need to endure. If we can but find firm ground on which to stand upright and to meet our lot without loss of self-respect or lowering of aim, it will be time enough after the battle has been fought and won to ask how the conflict arose. Meanwhile, it is in fighting the battle that we shall answer such questions as it behooves us to ask."

Our new leading soprano, Mrs. Philip Cooke, sang for the first time on November 1st. She is the choice of Dr. Wood for this responsible post, and we feel confident that the balance and harmony of our choir will be maintained with this new singer in the place that was so long filled by Madame Suelke. Every singer has her own gift, and everyone must have felt the freshness and fervor of Mrs. Cooke's voice, trying as the ordeal of a first Sunday must have been.

Report of Parish Visitor.

The unexpected has happened — which proves the old legend a libel—the legend that the fairies gave a party and invited all the Virtues, both great and small; and to that party came two Virtues that had never met, Benevolence and Gratitude; for Gratitude has met our Benevolence in the form of one man sending us money for shoes, hose and other wear, that we had given him; thus showing a gratitude that was most gratifying, and we learned that he has secured a situation, which he never could have gotten had we not helped him with the clothing. The money he sent us we passed on to help other needy ones.

More than one situation has presented itself by our giving an outfit suitable for a neat respectable appearance. Mrs. H. S. Lucas will be glad to learn that the man for whom she gave the suit of clothes has been reported as doing good and profitable work.

We have been able, through the kindness of the managers of the Lincoln Institution and Educational Home, to place a poor, homeless little boy with them where he will have a good home for years. We are most grateful to the managers.

One of the visits this month was to a couple who attend our Church regularly and have done so for two years they say. They come early that their shabby clothes may not be seen, and try to avoid the eyes of those around them by getting out as quickly as possible after the service; they feel their poverty keenly—the man has to come in his working clothes and is very brave in doing so—he is on half work, and the pay is poor. I would be glad for help for them; they need clothing and any household articles, for the grandmother and child have no bed to sleep on, and have been sleeping on the floor this fall. A bedstead with mattress and bedding would be acceptable; also anything else to make these worthy people comfortable, especially a suit of men's clothes, small size.

An appeal to St. Stephen's congregation is never in vain, is the thought that comforts me in my work among the deserving and worthy poor.

K. H. Lewis.

The Garment Society wish to acknowledge, with thanks the following donations: A box from Radnor containing six new petticoats; from Mrs. J. A. Cressville, men's clothing with overcoat; Miss J. Lewis, a woman's suit and rain coat; Miss F. Goss, clothing for women and girls; Mrs. Taylor, a basket filled with tumblers of jelly for the sick.

Julia de M. Lammot,
President.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The parochial branch of the Woman's Auxiliary held its first meeting of the season in the Guild-room on Thursday, October 22d. Forty-three members were present, an attendance somewhat larger than it has been in the past. Some new members were enrolled, who responded to Dr. Grammer's invitation to every woman of St. Stephen's to become a member of this organization. The forecast of the winter's work is most interesting. Meetings are to be held regularly once a month at which addresses will be made by prominent missionaries and mission workers. The usual committees to work in the interest of specific missions, and delegates to the Diocesan Auxiliary have been appointed.

The address at the first meeting was made by the Rev. Mr. Matthews, a missionary of our Church in Liberia, Africa. Mr. Matthews spoke with greatest earnestness and hopefulness of his work among a people, many of whom are little above a state of cannibalism and savagery. He said the children were the hope of the missionary; and it is the children of that locality that the mission school aims to instruct and uplift to a higher standard of life. This mission school was established sixty-five or seventy years ago, and had its beginning in a little mud house, with only a lay reader to conduct the services. It now has a membership of seventeen hundred, and they hope some time to have an industrial school. There are Mohammedans in that part of Liberia, but they are, strangely enough, not antagonistic to Mr. Matthews' Christian work, and on one occasion even lent him their Mosque in which to hold a meeting. Mr. Matthews closed his address with an earnest appeal for more men and women (most particularly men are needed) to help in Liberia, which though perhaps one of the most difficult fields of mission work, he describes as also one of great hope.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Thursday, November 19th, at eleven o'clock in the Parish House. And we would repeat Dr. Grammer's invitation to all women of the congregation to join this society, which is of special interest in that it brings its members in touch with the work of the Church both at home and abroad.

Sunday School Notes.

The Sunday School is flourishing. We have heartily welcomed three new teachers—Mr. Hansell (of our Vestry), and the Misses Harper.

The primary department has particularly advanced in numbers and discipline.

The Bible classes—the women's, under Miss Denney, and the men's under Mr. Ewell, are well attended and interested in their sessions. Many of the school enjoyed the October outing of Miss Denney's class to Bartram's Gardens, and it is hoped that other classes will be the leaders in similar instructive excursions.

The annual evening for Prayers for Sunday Schools, held at Christ Church, Germantown, October 19th, had a good representation of our teachers present; surely we will not forget the inspiration of that occasion.

We are now members of the Sunday School Association of this Diocese, which will hold its general sessions again this winter, and all of us should try and be present. We were represented by our Assistant Superintendent at the County Sabbath School's annual convention, on October 24th. This aims to unite all schools and give a broader view to Sunday School work, and a chance to interchange ideas and thus to produce better methods and give a stimulus to all. Our teachers would get many helpful suggestions by attending this institute.

The meetings of our own teachers, recently held at our Rector's home, under his guidance, have brought good results, by producing more united efforts and better organization in our endeavors to train and win young souls for righteousness in the Great Cause of the Christ.

There is always room for more scholars and more workers, and for more material to work with. We need a big wall clock that all may see and know the time to promptly follow the schedule of the school. Also we would like to have an electric stereopticon to assist in illustrating our lessons on Sundays or at special evening sessions. Possibly some reader of this may be made happy in the privilege of giving the school assistance in these matters.

G. H. S.

Postscript.—The suggestion of our correspondent has already borne fruit, and $5 has been subscribed by a friend who heard of it.

Sixty dollars will be needed. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Geo. H. Streaker, at the Church, or given to the Verger.—Ed.

Alpha Kappa Notes.

The Alpha Kappa has started off to do a vigorous winter's work among the boys and young men of the parish.

The Juniors are now well organized in their United States Senate. Mr. Streaker and Mr. Cummins compose the committee from the Senior Department of the Society which have the young boys under their charge.

New officers have been elected and committees have been appointed for the year. The Athletic Committee has decided to make athletics self-governed. The different basket ball teams have the use of the hall for allotted evenings in the week, and the captains are responsible entirely for that time. Lockers are also being provided for the use of the boys. The great need is that there be a place for the use of the boys where they can play games and assemble at any time during the evenings. A movement for such a place is being made. A shuffle board would be most desirable in such a club room. The price of such a board is $85, but we still hope to have one.

The Ritual Committee has done good work this fall, and has a completed ritual to submit to the Society.

The Dramatic Committee is busy in the preparation of a play for the near future.

The Orchestra has started its rehearsals.

One of our great aims this year is that the young men of this Society be brought into close connection with the Church. A good start has already been made in this direction by an increased attendance of the young men at Sunday School. It will be good to see more of the men's faces in regular places at Church. The Rector last year promised an Alpha Kappa pew if attendance warranted it. Let us hold him to his promise!

Children's Friend Society.

Donation from Mrs. H. F. Martin, 25 cents. F. Martin, $1.00.

The King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle have their next meetings November 4th and 25th.

October 21st, the first meeting of the season was well attended. Three new members were showing an interest and hoping to do good to others In His Name.

Shoe Fund.

Donation received in October from Mrs. H.

It is purposed to start this most needy work as soon as the closet is in order and more shoes on hand.

Nearly 300 pairs of shoes and 200 pairs of overshoes were given out last year. All who applied and could give 50 or 25 cents did so, and felt far happier as they were helping others as well as being helped themselves. The winter was a very hard one and the demand great, so the closet is empty, but it is hoped that donations of all kinds will come. When you are doing your winter cleaning send us your second hand shoes, as wide as you have.

Send for the Shoe Fund, in care of Miss Mary Jeffries, or Mrs. Vanderslice, Parish House, Tuesdays.

Suggestions for the Season.

If the numerous employees in our great retail stores are to reach Christmas in a condition that will enable them to rejoice and be glad we must save them from the rush and strain caused by postponing the Christmas shopping till close on to Christmas. Let it be one of our Advent resolutions to be prompt and early in our purchases, and so observe the Golden Rule. Wisdom and kindness as usual agree in their teachings. Don't wait till everything has been picked over: don't add to the burdens of a hard-working class.

Of what value is it to pray that Christians may be united by one holy bond of peace and love, if we do nothing to bring about that consummation. The great meetings in the interest of a closer confederation of those who profess to follow Jesus Christ as their Lord and Master ought to evoke our generous sympathy, prayers and assistance. I am sure that many technical, canonical and academical objections would vanish like the obscuring frost-work on the window-pane before the genial rays of the sun, if those who feel dubious about the wisdom of such meetings would attend them, and come under the influence of their spirit of Christian fellowship. The notices of the places and hours will be found in all the daily papers. The evening meetings are free to all. The persecuted Church conquered the pagan Empire of Rome, because it could be said of its members, "How these Christians love one another."

If the Church to-day would show the same brotherhood it would conquer the world.

The Rector is happy to announce that the Bible Class of women that met in former years at 3.30 P. M. in the Parish House will be resumed under the leadership of Mrs. Howard Butcher. The first meeting will be held on Sunday, December the sixth.

The Church Work Fund.

The financial acknowledgments for the month show how generous and general has been the response to the Rector's appeal for the Church Work Fund. It is good to see so many new names along with the names that have always been recorded. At one time in New England the churches used to receive members by what was known as a Half-way Covenant. It seems to me that there are still a good many people who only connect themselves with a church by a half-way covenant. They may take a pew, or sitting, or attend the services, or bring a letter of transfer, but they do not throw themselves into its life and work. Yet it is only those who come entirely into a house that feel the warmth of its atmosphere. The warmest house is cold at the open doorway. Those who come in and make St. Stephens their home will find a warm welcome. After one has contributed in some way to the church's purse and joined some one of the church's working organizations, it must be a shrinking nature, indeed, that does not feel at home in a church, no longer a stranger or pilgrim, but a fellow-citizen, a member of the household of God. This is one of the blessings of giving: that it draws so many hearts to a common centre. C. E. G.

The funeral services of Mrs. Augusta Hill Noble were conducted in her home in distant Georgia, where her remains were carried for interment in her family cemetery. For this reason there is no record of her death among the burials. Some note, however, must appear in our PARISH NEWS of the loss that we have sustained by the death of this brave and loving Christian. Mrs. Noble was a fine example of the resiliency and sweetness which the best women of the South exhibited in the change of fortune that the war brought to them. The dominant note of her life was in harmony with the Choir Invisible.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

For some time past there has been a growing desire for the organization in St. Stephen's Church of a chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew under whose auspices the very successful noon-day services have been held during Lent.

Notices of a meeting to talk the matter over were sent out by the Rector, and a number of loyal and enthusiastic members of the church assembled at the Rectory. It was decided at this meeting to go ahead, and a committee for organization was appointed, consisting of Mr. Van Dusen, Mr. McKeehan and Mr. Hansell. After several committee meetings another meeting of the original members was held in the Parish House at which time an election of officers was held, with the following result:

Director, Mr. Charles L. McKeehan.

Vice-Director, Mr. William H. Hansell.

Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Abram G. Tatnall.

Announcement was made of noon-day services which would be conducted by the St. Stephen's Chapter during the Week of Prayer, and a committee of five was appointed to take charge of these services.

The idea of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's Kingdom among men, especially young men, and to make an earnest effort each week to bring some man to the church.

There is a large amount of work to be done and the organization of St. Stephen's Chapter of twenty men is a step in the right direction.

Advent Special Services.

The special Advent Week of Prayer was observed in St. Stephen's Church with Noon-Day services. The local chapter of our new Brotherhood of St. Andrew had full charge of the services. The attendance was very satisfactory, and the business people of this section of the city took advantage of the opportunity offered them. The following were the speakers:

Monday, Nov. 30.—The Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins, D. D., Holy Trinity Church.

Tuesday, Dec. 1.—The Rev. William C. Richardson, D. D., St. James's Church.

Wednesday, Dec. 2.—The Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's Church.

Thursday, Dec. 3.—The Rev. Nathaniel S. Thomas, Church of the Holy Apostles.

Friday, Dec. 4.—The Rev. Louis C. Washburn, D. D., Christ Church.

Saturday, Dec. 5.—The Rev. Thomas J. Garland, Secretary of Diocese.

Christmas Dinners.

It has been the custom in St. Stephen's Church, for a number of years, to provide the poor of the Parish with dinners at Christmas time.

The congregation in this way has taken care of and relieved over a thousand people annually at this season of good cheer. The poor we have with us always and the church staff is trying carefully to differentiate between the worthy and unfortunate poor to give them who deserve it a well-filled basket. So, let us remember this year those less blessed than ourselves and with generous hearts and hands provide much.

It can safely be asserted that at the wholesale prices at which we buy our supplies, a family of from four to six members can be supplied with a good dinner for about two dollars and a half.

The Parish Visitor.

Thanksgiving Day was made happy, because some who had much, bore in mind those whose lot in life had not been cast in such pleasant places.

Through the generosity of one gentleman and two ladies I was able to make up eighteen Thanksgiving baskets which were supposed to feed four or five persons. Each basket contained a large chicken, a bag of cranberries, a quantity of potatoes, a can of tomatoes, two pounds of sugar, half pound of tea, half dozen fine oranges, and some specials for those having sick or afflicted persons in their families. Eighteen baskets went a long way, but I could have placed as many more had I been able to stretch the money.

Two good baskets were sent by the King's Daughters, and this goodly provision represented many self-denials.

Milk and eggs for a month made a big hole in a five-dollar bill which was given to me to help some poor woman, and by this nourishment she had her strength built up after a long and tedious illness.

A lady of the congregation donated three tons of coal for the poor, but as the weather has been so warm I am waiting until later before the distribution.

The fruit from the Church's Thanksgiving harvest decorations was distributed as usual among the sick at the hospitals, and those sick at home, recovering from typhoid fever, and also the tuberculosis patients had their share.

Now that Thanksgiving Day is passed we turn our faces towards the Christmas-Tide, when I hope many sad hearts will be made glad by the kindness of our good church people.

K. H. Lewis.

The Tuberculosis Class.

At the suggestion of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis a tuberculosis class was opened at St. Stephen's. The Society furnishes the physician and nurse, and the Church provides the rooms and paraphernalia, brings in the patients and supplements their diet in cases where it is needed. The following letter from Dr. Craig, the physician in charge, will be read with interest:

November 30, 1908.

Dear Dr. Grammer:

The Tuberculosis Class of St. Stephen's Church has been carrying on its work for the past nine months and think you should be informed in detail as to what we have accomplished in that time, and through you the members of your congregation who have shown their interest in the work.

As our Class was the first to be established in this city in connection with a church it was necessarily somewhat of an experiment. We feel that it has passed the stage of probation and that we are in a position to give an opinion as to the feasibility and value of this method of combatting the Great White Plague.

So far fifty-nine patients have presented themselves for examination and treatment. Of these a great many were not suffering from tuberculosis; of those suffering from this disease a great many were for some reason not suitable cases for this method of treatment; of the remaining cases which we considered suitable some became impatient and discontinued their treatment.

All the cases which we did not consider suitable we arranged for their treatment in some other institution.

We have now on our list about ten or twelve cases of tuberculosis, most of which come every week to the meeting of the Class, a few of the cases are only able to come to the meeting every two weeks.

Altogether the cases have made about two hundred and fifty return visits.

We feel that the Class has shown a definite and healthy progress, both in numbers and in work accomplished, that it has demonstrated that there is a field, necessarily somewhat limited, for this method of treating the tuberculous poor.

As an illustration of what has been accomplished we might cite a few of the cases. One young girl of about twenty years of age came to us with an early lesion of the lungs, in very poor condition, her disease has been arrested, and she is now working again and in better health than she has enjoyed for years. Another woman of perhaps fifty years, although her disease is somewhat advanced is working every day and in better condition than for many years, although she has to nurse a consumptive husband who is too feeble to come to the Class.

Although all of the cases have not shown such marked improvement as one might wish yet they have all received instruction in the proper way of living which must be an object lesson to all who come in contact with them.

In any disease which is so chronic in its course and in which the results of treatment are so slow in manifesting themselves, the cure requires considerable perseverance and patience on the part of the patient and no small amount of encouragement. The fact that so many patients have continued their treatment over such a long period of time is in itself, we feel, an indication that the Class has demonstrated its usefulness.

Thanking you very much for the great personal interest you have always shown in the welfare of the Class, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

Frank A. Craig.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The second meeting of the season of the St. Stephen's branch of the Auxiliary was held on Thursday, November 19th, in the Guild Room of the Parish House. Reports of interest were heard from the following committees: The Committee on Colored Missions, the Committee on Foreign Missions, Indian Hope Committee, the Treasury of United Offering, and the Missionary Box Committee.

The Rev. F. W. Neve then addressed the meeting. He is an Archdeacon over the work among the mountaineers of the Blue Ridge—a people, who, though almost in our midst, are so completely cut off from the opportunities of our religion and civilization. The fact that these peculiarly circumstanced people are our neighbors makes their neglected and churchless condition the more appealing.

Mr. Neve said that his work in Green county, Virginia, had increased greatly in the past eight years. It now covers 75 miles of mountain country and comprises 15 schools, 2 small hospitals and 5 mission houses. Nine clergymen and 29 other workers are engaged in the difficult undertaking of telling the conditions of the degraded people of this inaccessible region.

One of the chief characteristics which differentiates Mr. Neve's work from that of other fields is the fact that though these people are illiterate in the extreme, and have lived for generations in a condition of astounding spiritual destitution, they yet greatly appreciate the work of the missionary in their behalf. They crave instruction, even when they have only a partial understanding of what it is. Mr. Neve said that there were many examples which showed that as a people they possess considerable mental power. Those of them who have received educational opportunities made rapid progress.

The members of the Auxiliary are reminded that the post cards sent out before the last meeting contained the dates of all meetings for the entire season, which are as follows:

Thursday, December 17th, 1908.
Thursday, January 21st, 1909.
Thursday, February 18th, 1909.
Thursday, March 18th, 1909.
Thursday, April 15th, 1909.

The next meeting will, therefore, be on Thursday, December 17th, at eleven o'clock.

E. W. L.

Mission Study Class.

In order to be interested in missions it is necessary to know something about them, and for that purpose a Mission Study Class on China has been formed under the leadership of Miss Laura Bell. It has been said that such study is one of the most important means of furthering missionary work, and as general education advances, people more and more demand the reasons for things. Discussion of all matters pertaining to our mission work in China is one of the features of this method of instruction, and the class is held on Saturday mornings at eleven o'clock in St. Stephen's Parish House.

Incidentally, a word may here be said to those who cannot spare an hour a week for such meetings, namely, the Church Missionary Calendar for 1909, compiled by members of the Rosalie L. Mitchell Mission Study Class Alumnae, contains definite information about the missionary work of the Church, together with a collect or prayer thought, which can be read in one minute each day, every month being devoted to a different field, domestic and foreign. March treats entirely of China. These calendars, at fifty cents each, can be procured through St. Stephen's Mission Study Class, and the fund raised is to be used for the support of a native priest in the diocese of Bishop Roots. If the reader is uncertain where that diocese is, the opportunity is offered to become familiar with it in the Mission Study Class, and a little missionary work can be easily done by sending one of these calendars to a friend as a Christmas or New Year's gift.

A Letter from Liberia.

MONRAVIA, LIBERIA,
WEST AFRICA,
June 25, 1908.

MY DEAR MISS BELL:

Your kind letter enclosing list of articles in the Christmas box came yesterday. I am sure I feel very grateful to you and all concerned in the preparation of the box. It is a great relief to receive so much clothing. It will be a wonderful help and there is enough to make a Merry Christmas for us all.

The girls always vote the last Christmas passed the best in their experience, and the coming one will prove no exception in the matter of gifts. I shall take pleasure in writing to you, God willing, after the happy season is over, and follow your wishes in regard to some of them.

Sincerely yours,
ELIZABETH M. MOORT.

Altar Society.

The following resolution was passed unanimously at the monthly meeting of the Altar Society:

Resolved, That the Altar Society and the Chancel Committee having received with great regret the resignation of Miss Maud Lowrey, take this opportunity to express their high appreciation of the value of her work which she has so faithfully carried out during her membership. Miss Lowrey was in every way so conscientious and reliable in the fulfilment of her various duties, which she so cheerfully undertook that her retirement is a great loss to the active work of St. Stephen's Church.

Children's Friendly Society.

Received through Dr. Grammer, from Mr. Samuel Moore, $10.00, to be used for the poor children's Thanksgiving Entertainment. It was impossible to have the entertainment earlier, but as soon as it can be arranged some pleasure is in store in answer to their many inquiries.

The King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle have their next meetings Dec. 2d and Dec. 16th, in the Guild Room, Parish House, at 8 o'clock.

Donations received from the members towards the Thanksgiving baskets:

Mrs. Parmalee	$.75
Miss Hedwig Kauffman	.35
Miss Bessie Bezzel	.25
Miss Irene Wilder	.25
Miss Townsend	1.00
Total	$2.60

Groceries from Miss Taggart, Miss Goss, Miss Kehl, Miss Walshe, Miss May Jeffries and Mrs. Vanderslice.

Two families, ten persons in all, were made happy with two very large baskets filled with all sorts of good things for their Thanksgiving dinner.

This circle has made three dozen bibs to be given to the Day Nursery on Pine street, as their Christmas gift. Expect to make up a Curiosity Christmas Box for Christ Home, near the Farm. Any small donations for this purpose are very acceptable.

Garment Society.

The Garment Society wishes to acknowledge, with thanks, the following donations:

Miss Van Dusen, a man's suit.
Miss Bell, 1 dress skirt, odds and ends.
Mrs. Wm. H. Swain, men's and women's clothing.
Mrs. B. Borie, men's clothing.
Miss Williamson, 2 knitted caps for infants.
Mrs. Armstrong, 2 new pairs of stockings.
Mrs. G. L. Crawford, men's clothing.
Miss McDowell, collection of clothing for men, women and infants.
Miss F. Goss, hats and waists.
Miss H. S., woman's suit.
Mr. Coppock, 1 overcoat.
Mrs. Judson, 2 outing flannel nightgowns.

Shoe Fund.

Received, through Mr. Ewell, Nov. 3..	$2.00
Through Dr. Grammer from Church Fund	25.00
From Mrs. Parmalee	.25
From those receiving shoes	1.00
Total	$28.25
Expended in Nov. for shoes	18.38
Balance	$9.87

Have given out in November 12 pairs of shoes and 6 pairs of overshoes.

A Vacuum System.

Estimates are being made on the cost of a vacuum cleaning system for the church.

The upholstery of the church and the covering of rep on the pews make a continual and an inconvenient catching of dust. This dust and collection of possible germs are often only scattered from pew to pew when the broom and brush are used.

By means of the proposed new system all the dust is sucked by strong pressure into an iron tank in the cellar.

Especially at the Lenten mid-day services would this method be advantageous and highly valuable. Anyone would be surprised at the large heaps of dirt gathered in the church after each of these services.

Many churches are now having installed this only sanitary system. As cleanliness comes next to godliness, the church should also be an exponent of the former.

The opening of a New Year is an auspicious time for looking ahead. The last day of the old year may be given over to retrospect and self-examination, but the opening of the new year ought to nerve us to resolution and the attempting of new tasks.

There are a number of needs in St. Stephen's that ought to be brought to the attention of the congregation. I will begin at the smaller and advance to the greater requirements.

First. I will mention the need of re-lacquering the brasses about the chancel. The chancel rails and the pulpit are dingy, and the whole appearance of the chancel would be much improved if their coating were renewed. This would not cost more than $100, and might be done by some one as a memorial.

Second. We ought to publish this spring a year-book explaining in detail the work of the various societies, and giving the names of their officers and members, their receipts and expenditures, and stating fully the exact condition of the Parish in every department. This will cost not less than $500 as the first issue is always the most expensive. It will, however, give us system and impetus.

Third. The fresco of the church is in bad repair. In some places the bare plaster is visible. Our interior would be vastly improved if the whole church could be re-frescoed by a great modern artist. This ought to be done next summer. On the exterior, St. Stephen's is plain indeed, but its beautiful memorials and lovely mosaic, surrounded by its artistic reredos, are admired throughout the whole city. Their beauty would be greatly enhanced if the whole interior were artistically colored and decorated.

Fourth. The Sunday School building is inadequate for our needs. Two Sunday School classes have to be placed on the platform, behind the Superintendent and the infant school is held on another floor and never comes into association with the Main School. The Sunday School room itself is not large enough, as a hall of assembly, for our entertainments, and the exit is miserable. I should like the question to be looked into, whether we could not build an extension of the second story over the lane that separates the Sunday School building from the church, and carry up the whole building an additional story. In the third floor we could have a gymnasium and dressing-rooms for the basket-ball team and our girls' gymnastic classes. This would cost a good deal of money, but it would equip us to do the work of an institutional church in our section of the city.

The last need that I wish to specify is that the members of the congregation should bear in mind the need of an increased endowment. I hope that in drawing their wills they will not forget St. Stephen's. It should be endowed like some of the London churches, which remain on costly sites to minister to the down-town people for all time. I am persuaded that the enlargement of our parish building would justify such an endowment, and would make the church permanent in this portion of the town.

Some record should be made in the pages of THE PARISH NEWS of the loss that we have sustained in the departure of the Rev. John E. Ewell. He was the editor of this monthly during the last three years, and the Rector will greatly miss his aid. He was also specially active in the administration of the farm. The Alpha Kappa Fraternity of young men was inaugurated by him and will, we trust, be a permanent memorial of his service among us. He has gained many friends in Philadelphia, and will carry with him many hearty good wishes for his success in his new field. Though he will be missed, all of us recognize that he has done wisely in accepting an independent church in a large and growing town. St. Stephen's will always feel a warm interest in his success and usefulness.

Special Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to THE PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 S. 10th street. They should not be sent later than the Friday before the last Sunday of the month, that is to say, in January, not later than the 29th.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

The snow that was falling all day and most of the night some days before Christmas and covered all the dirt and unsightly places of the city with its pure mantle of white, and brought disgruntled comments from pedestrians and drivers, was not looked upon with favor by horses either, who slipped and fell and shivered; but children who knew not the dark side of a heavy snow-storm rejoiced in its beauty, and revelled in enjoyment of sledding and snow-balling. In the shadow of the picture was a man, the father of a family, a type of the many who prayed for snow, and rejoiced with the heart of a child when it fell—he was a disabled artisan who cut off some of his fingers in wood-carving and could find no other work as a means of livelihood for a few weeks at least.

A basket out of the one hundred and forty that St. Stephen's whole-souled generosity provided for those whose lot in life is deprivation, gladdened his heart also.

This season many who never have had to apply for help before feel keenly the necessity of seeking assistance from us, but to them I would say these stringent times cannot last, work will be in plenty before long and though the waiting time be dark and hard the strong hand of helpfulness and sympathy is held out to them by St. Stephen's Parish whose hearts are ever tender towards sickness and suffering.

We have provided a nice suit of clothes each for the man and woman who persisted in coming to church through the depressing sensation of being under-dressed. No one can realize what that means unless it has been a part of one's own experience. It takes bravery to face it and when it is endured for duty's sake it becomes heroic.

St. Stephen's people have also given a bed to a grandmother and little child who slept on the floor.

They have held out a helping hand to one who held a position in a department store for thirteen years, and who has lately been laid off on account of bad times. He has a family of a wife and three children.

Two old sisters have been helped, one of the many pitiful cases that come to our notice—both are about eighty years of age, one worked in a mill and received $1.50 every two weeks. Once when the foreman sent for her, she fell into a nervous chill so afraid was she of being discharged—but now as the cancer in her shoulder is becoming more painful it is impossible for her to do any work.

These are sad pictures, but I feel that they should be laid before the people of St. Stephen's who give so generously that they may know just where their help is needed and whose lives they brighten by their gifts.

Two special Christmas baskets were prepared by the Girls' Friendly and three by the King's Daughters, and to more than one of those donors it meant the widow's mite.

It is with regret that we shall say good bye to Mr. Ewell for his helpfulness in this work has been very deeply felt.

K. H. Lewis.

A refined, educated, young English woman who has been deserted in this country by her husband wants to support herself by the coaching in French. She is also a typewriter and can do secretarial work. Communications can be made to Miss Lewis.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Advent meeting of the St. Stephen's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Guild Room on Thursday, December 17th, at eleven o'clock. The meeting was as well attended as usual, and we were glad to welcome five new members. Reports of more than usual interest were read, showing that all the committees are increasingly active. There was no address delivered as ordinarily, but instead the time was given over to the consideration of methods, in committee-work, and in the distribution of funds. This much-needed open discussion resulted in a clearer understanding of certain business phases, and in the appointment of a committee to further systematize the distribution of funds.

The Epiphany meeting of the Diocesan Auxiliary will be held on Sunday, January 17th, at 4 P. M., at the Church of the Holy Apostles, 21st and Christian streets. The Rev. Dr. Correll, of Osaka, Japan, will speak. The Rev. Nathaniel S. Thomas will speak on the "Results of the Pan-Anglican Congress for Missions."

The members of the St. Stephen's branch are again reminded that the post-cards sent out in November contained the dates of our meetings for the entire season, which are as follows:

Thursday, January 21st.
Thursday, February 18th.
Thursday, March 18th.
Thursday, April 15th.

The next meeting will, therefore, be on Thursday, January 21st, in the Guild Room of the Parish House, at eleven o'clock.

E. W. L.

The St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

On the eve of the New Year a band of men gathered around the chancel and pledged themselves to the service and devotion of the Brotherhood. It was a solemn and impressive occasion. We now have a fully organized chapter, that will number twenty when those who were prevented from attending have taken the pledge. Such a band, filled with the spirit of service and brotherhood, ought to be a great power for good. There is power in numbers, but there is greater power in consecration and zeal. The next meeting will be on the evening of the last Thursday in January.

To this parochial chapter the Brotherhood of the diocese has turned over the conduct of the noon-day Lenten services in St. Stephen's this year. The Diocesan Committee will continue their interest and co-operation and will place St. Stephen's on the list of the general services held by the Brotherhood, and St. Stephen's will continue to contribute from its offerings to the general expenses. We shall miss their experience, but there are compensating advantages in the development in Church work that the task of conducting these services will give to our own men. In addition to the Brotherhood services at St. Stephen's and St. Paul's, a third service will be inaugurated by the Diocesan Committee at some centrally located theatre. May they all prosper and bring in the Kingdom of God.

Christmas Dinners.

One hundred and forty families were supplied with a large basket of provisions on Christmas Eve. These baskets each contained a turkey, apples and oranges; a pound of tea, sugar and rice; a box of candy; and a large mince meat pie. No matter what the size of the basket, potatoes were in plenty to make every one sumptuously full.

A young man who assisted in the distribution of the dinners grew so enthusiastic over a particularly worthy case of a sick widow who was bravely supporting five children by taking in washing that he loaded the basket down till she could not lift it. She had to be assisted home with it.

The generosity of St. Stephen's congregation was most bountiful and beyond the measure of past years. We are glad to report a small balance, as there are some distressing cases being looked after by our Parish Visitor, Miss Lewis. This money will be handed to her for their special needs.

We are sure it will also be a source of gratification to the congregation to know that every basket was bestowed where it was needed and we think in most cases it helped those who were doing their best to help themselves.

The system of sending out numbered cards and checking them from a carefully arranged list was carried out and the distribution was done quietly and without confusion.

Thanks are due to all contributors to this worthy charity but it is fitting that special mention should be made of some large gifts: Atmore & Son furnished one hundred and thirty-two pies; Mrs. Dundas Lippincott gave her annual gift of turkeys; Mr. Clement Restein, through Mr. Joseph Clayton, a barrel of large turkeys, and Mr. Benjamin Thomas, baskets.

The children were well remembered by Mrs. Colket, Mrs. Austin, and a gentleman who supplied them with toys. Two large boxes of shoes came from a great friend of the poor children, with Merry Christmas marked on it.

Christmas has surely been made brighter and happier in the homes of the poor and the rich by this Christmas cheer. J. E. E.

Mr. Ewell has left the following report of his expenditures. The receipts are given among the contributions of the month. They amounted to $331.51. The expenditures which have been audited by the Rector are as follows:

Turkeys	$191 59
Groceries	47 00
Bakery pies	11 88
Fruits	15 75
Miscellaneous	22 75
Distributed through Mrs. Taylor	25 00
Balance given Miss Lewis for charity	17 54
Total	$331 51

Sunday School Notes.

The advent of the new year brings with it some important changes in the Sunday School. In no department of the church work will Mr. Ewell's departure be felt more than here, where for some time past he has so ably filled the double office of teacher of the Men's Bible Class and Superintendent of the school. On his last Sunday at St. Stephen's the teachers and scholars, as a token of their affection, presented him with a silver service for the administration of Communion to the sick, and every member of the school holds it a privilege to participate in thus expressing appreciation of his work and in wishing him all success in his new field.

At a meeting of the teachers and officers held at the rectory in the early part of December, after much discussion it was finally decided, upon his recommendation, to make an entire change in the method of teaching the lessons, substituting the Blakeslee system for that which has been in use for a number of years.

The subject to be studied is the life of Christ, and the system consists of a series of lessons carefully laid out so as to form a connected whole, aiming to give the student a comprehensive view of the New Testament, and not merely a scattered knowledge of unrelated events. It is based upon the Bible itself, which it puts directly into the hands of the scholar, thus giving him an opportunity of becoming familiar with it. Each one receives a book, published quarterly, which serves the double use of text and note-book, containing questions which may be answered at home or not, at the option of the student. The books which are not taken home will be kept in a special cabinet provided for the purpose, and cared for by the Blakeslee secretary, Jurgen N. A. Kolb. An opportunity is thus given for written work at home, but this is not compulsory and the desired results may be obtained by class discussion.

The system is carefully graded and the questions asked in each grade adapted to the age and degree of maturity of the children for whom it is intended. Its greatest merit is the opportunity which it gives for individual development on the part of the scholar. His answers to the questions asked must be based upon his own interpretation of the Scripture passages, thus, not only teaching him the historical and ethical facts therein presented, but paving the way as well for an intelligent reading of the Bible on his own part. With the earnest co-operation of teachers and pupils it is hoped that the new system will prove a great success, and that the year 1909 will be the best in the history of the school. J. R. H.

Alpha Kappa.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity gave its first monthly entertainment of the season on Thursday evening, December 10th. The members rendered a comedietta entitled "Frivolous Cupid," following which came the regular "merry dance." The play was a good one and the good acting of the cast made it very enjoyable.

Mr. Clarence Barth was excellent in his rendition of the comedy character. Mr. Winfield Brown made a very satisfactory father. The acting of Miss Dorothy Bird left nothing to be desired. Miss Charlotte W. Nodine, Miss Grace G. Lyons, Miss Ethel Smith and Miss Margaret M. Lawless played very well and the Fraternity takes this opportunity of thanking them for their services. Mr. J. N. A. Kolb was the leading man. Much credit is due to Mr. Harry Bush who staged the production.

The Fraternity hopes to give its next entertainment about the end of January.

The other work of the Alpha Kappa is progressing. The Basket Ball team has played and won several games.

On Friday evenings the Fraternity play various games in the Guild Room, and efforts are being made to procure a shuffle board.

The meetings are now held on the first and third Fridays of the month at 8.30 P. M., in the Parish House. New members are always welcome into our fold. Examinations of candidates take place on the third Friday of the month. Application can be made through a member of the Fraternity.

On Friday evening, December 18th, the A. K. held its regular business meeting, following which was the farewell meeting to Mr. Ewell. The members turned out in full force to give him their cordial good wishes in his new field. The A. K. appreciates what Mr. Ewell has done for the Fraternity and in recognition of the same he was given the highest honor that could be bestowed on a retiring officer—he was unanimously elected an Honorary Member of the Alpha Kappa. J. N. A. K.

At a meeting of the Alpha Kappa Society of St. Stephen's Church, held on December 18th, 1908, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Inasmuch as the Rev. John E. Ewell, an officer and member of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity has accepted a call and is about to leave us to take charge of a new parish, therefore,

Be it Resolved, That the Alpha Kappa extend its wishes for success in his new field of labor. And in recognition of the valuable services and assistance in organizing and conducting the work of the Fraternity a hearty vote of thanks be extended to him as an expression of appreciation of his kind, energetic and fruitful efforts, And

Be it further Resolved, That, as an evidence of our esteem a token be presented to Mr. Ewell from the individual members of this Society, that he be elected an Honorary Member of the Fraternity, And that a copy of these resolutions be sent to him and to the editor of the PARISH NEWS.

Attest:
ADAM M. HALL, T.

The members of The Girls' Friendly Society have been interested in their usual pursuits this winter. Besides their class work and the hours of recreation with their associates they have given time, sympathy and money to sick members, and members who are feeling the stress of hard times. The Christmas Entertainment was given Wednesday, December 30th. Miss Murdoch's recitations were delightful and amusing, and Mr. Lindsay's playing gave great pleasure. Mr. Ewell's stories also added to the merriment of the occasion. The fact that this was the last evening he would be with the Society, caused great regret, and as a token of friendship and appreciation of his kindness and sympathy he was presented with a prayer-book from the Society. After some dancing and refreshments a happy evening ended with the interchange of wishes for "A Happy New Year." M. S. A.

Christmas Festival.

The Sunday School held its Christmas Festival on Tuesday evening, December 29th.

Of course it was a great success, and Mr. Streaker deserves much credit for his able management. Besides having charge of the Festival, Mr. Streaker played the part of Grandpa in the cantata, in which he was greeted with much applause. Miss Dorothy Bird played Grandma, and as her acting was at her usual high standard it is needless to comment on her talent. Mr. John Lewis, of St. Stephen's Farm, visited us and helped us with our little play. His pathetic violin solo (fiddle melody), "Yankee Doodle," was splendid. Mr. L. H. Hall was Dear Old Santa Claus again. Everyone knows how jovial Mr. Hall is and to comment on how well he played his part, would be like "showing the sun with a lantern." Mr. Hall also deserves credit for his coaching of the choruses. It is hard work to train a lot of boys and girls to sing ditties, especially if the boys are imbued with the Spirit of Mischief, and Mr. Streaker and Mr. Hall must be congratulated for their fruitful and energetic efforts. Miss Emily Henry and Miss Lilian Jones were very good with their solos and recitations. The remainder of the cast were: Miss Edna Hart, Little Miss Mitchell, Miss Charlotte Nodine, Miss Grace Hillis and Mr. A. E. Snyder. Of course the irrepressible undersigned was in the show. Besides being electrician, he also tried to play a pantomime Rube. Success was doubtful but anyway he was greeted with a laugh.

Mrs. DeCallies showed her artistic temperament in the suits and dresses of the cast. They were certainly very beautiful. Miss E. Bertha Yocum, the accompanist of the cantata, was presented with a gift by the Christmas Players.

Mr. Ewell was presented with a token of the high regard, esteem and appreciation of the Alpha Kappa. The musical play was also given on Monday evening, December 28th, for the Primary Department of the Sunday School. Dr. Grammer delivered a short address on both evenings. J. N. A. K.

An entertainment entitled "Anybody's Magazine" will be held in St. Stephen's Sunday School room, rear of No. 9 South Tenth street, Tuesday, January 19th, 1909, for the benefit of Christ's Home for Destitute Children, given by the Young Women's Bible Class of the Sunday School, 8.15 promptly. Admission, 15 cents.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received:

From Miss Cleeman	$1 00
From Mrs. A. F. Martin	1 00
From King's Daughters	3 00
Total	$5 00

January 7th the poor children will have their Thanksgiving and Christmas Entertainment. Mr. Reynolds will show some of his beautiful moving pictures which they all love to see and talk of the whole year.

King's Daughters of Whatsoever Circle have their next meeting January 20th, in the Guild Room, Parish House, at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday evening, December 16th, the Guild Room looked very much like a toy shop, for the Christmas box for Christ Home was being packed with clothing and toys for the poor children at the Home. Day Nursery and Children's Friend Society were all remembered by this Circle on Christmas Day.

Special Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to THE PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 S. 10th street. They should be sent not later than the Friday before the last Sunday of the month, that is to say, in February, not later than the 26th.

Diocesan Missions.

On the third Sunday of this month the offertory will be devoted to Diocesan Missions. Before that date, however, the collectors will be sent around with the books according to the effective usage of former years. In the Northern Convocation St. Stephen's is one of the chief sources of supply for the support of convocational missions. Our annual pledge for the last three years has been $550. One of the most prosperous and manifestly needed missions is the Italian Mission in South Philadelphia. The Rector has attended its services and kept in touch with its work. It would be a great mistake if we should fail to send it the hundred dollars that has gone to it for so many years. Out of this offering we also pay $105.70, the sustentation tax laid upon us by the diocese. Then there are some minor pledges to be met. In view of all this the Rector asks for $850. This amount can be readily raised if those who have contributed in the past will continue their subscriptions faithfully and the newcomers to the Church will co-operate with the system and put their names on the card for a subscription.

The Sundays last month on which the offerings were taken for Foreign Missions and for Colored Missions were so stormy and inclement that the attendance at the morning service was much below the average. As many regular contributors to these causes thus lost an opportunity that only comes annually, the Rector has asked the treasurer to hold these collections for some weeks till this notice could be published, so that any one who may wish to aid these great objects may have an opportunity to send a contribution to him or place it in a marked envelope on the plate.

The Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of the Church acknowledge the endowment of a pew by Mrs. Thropp to the memory of her father, Colonel Thomas A. Scott. The following inscription has been placed on the pew:

THOMAS A. SCOTT PEW.

This pew has been endowed by Mrs. Miriam Douglass Thropp, wife of Joseph E. Thropp, Esquire, and is called the Thomas A. Scott pew, having been the family pew of the late Colonel Thomas A. Scott during his lifetime, and since his death, of his daughter, Mrs. Thropp, who has endowed it in memory of her father.

November, 1908.

The Rector counts himself fortunate in having the Rev. Mr. Milnor to help him for a season in the services and parish work.

The following appeal speaks for itself. The amount needed is $150.

THE ALTAR SOCIETY OF ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

It has been requested by the Rector that the Altar Society raise funds for repairing and relacquering the Chancel rail, pulpit and brasses, and that this appeal be sent to the women of the parish. It has been many years since any work of this kind has been done, and the Society is most anxious to have it completed before Easter. Subscriptions may be sent to the treasurer, Mrs. Charles E. Noblit, 1409 Spruce street, or placed in the box for that purpose in the hall of the parish house.

Notice.

A dinner of the men of St. Stephen's Church, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will be held in the Banquet Room of the City Club, 1418 Walnut street, on Friday evening, February 19th, at seven o'clock. All men who make St. Stephen's their church home are urged to attend. The price of the dinner will be one dollar, and subscriptions should be sent to Lewis H. VanDusen, Stephen Girard Building.

This year, as in the past, the Midday Lenten Services will be conducted as services of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of the diocese, but the Rector of St. Stephen's and the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be in entire charge of them. Out of the offerings a contribution will be made, after all expenses are paid, to the general expenses of the Diocesan organization. These mid-day services have been so largely attended, especially for the past two years, that it is the sanguine hope of the Diocesan managers that there is room for another such service at the Garrick Theatre on Chestnut street, which has been engaged for the purpose. We hope that there will be room for all. The schedule of services shows the speakers that have been secured for St. Stephen's. It gives every promise of a series of helpful addresses.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Epiphany meeting was held in the Parish House on Thursday, January 21st, and there were thirty-three members in attendance. An unusually long and interesting report was heard from the committee on Foreign Missions, which contained several messages of good cheer from over seas. The Domestic and Diocesan committees also made reports.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, This Society desires to express its appreciation of the able work accomplished with such spirit and energy in this parish by our former assistant rector, the Rev. John E. Ewell; and wishes him all success in his new rectorship."

The Rev. Dr. Fleming James made an address. Dr. James is rector of St. Anna's Mission Church at 56th and Market streets, and as such represents the interest of Diocesan Missions. He told the meeting the history of St. Anna's struggles from its establishment until the present time, when the outlook is one of bright promise. Mr. James brought his address to a powerful focus by his emphasis on one fact of great import. He said that the work of St. Anna's is among the middle-class. It is this middle-class which forms the great back-bone of the Commonwealth. The appeal of our Church to the upper, or cultured, class is unquestioned. The efficiency of its work among the lower class in the slums is everywhere recognized; but it is in the great middle-class that the Church must work if it is to be a really great ultimate influence in American civilization.

Dr. James' address closed a session in which particularly large and important subjects engaged the attention of the members.

The dates of the remaining meetings of the season are:

Thursday, February 18th.
Thursday, March 18th.
Thursday, April 15th.

The next meeting will, therefore, be on Thursday, February 18th, at eleven o'clock.

E. W. L., Secretary.

The Mission Study Class, under the leadership of Miss Laura Bell, has completed a two-months' course of study on China, using as text-book, "The Uplift of China," by Arthur H. Smith, a well known authority on the conditions and customs of that country.

Rev. A. R. Van Meter, formerly of Kiukiang, China, addressed the class at one of its sessions, and told of the encouraging growth of the mission at Kiukiang, with its able native assistant. He emphasized the fact that the rooms where services are held are small and inadequate, and that, in the opinion of the Chinese, the dignity of the Church, housed in cramped quarters, suffers in comparison with their large and beautiful temples, which attract hundreds to worship within. Naturally, the reason for this is lack of money to buy land on which to erect suitable buildings.

It is earnestly hoped that the knowledge acquired in the class, and through collateral reading, may increase the interest of the members, and that some definite action may be the result of this systematic study, as knowledge of the conditions, interest in the people and action for their good are essential factors in all mission work. It would indeed be a joy, if, in the future, a missionary from St. Stephen's parish were to go to this foreign field, a field which is so full of promise, and which sorely needs more workers to hasten the harvest.

L. B.

Notice.

It is proposed to have an all-day "Institute" at the Church House, 12th and Walnut streets, Thursday, February 25th, with the co-operation of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Junior Auxiliary, the Tuesday Missionary Bible Class and the Mission Study Class Alumnæ, to demonstrate five methods by which Missionary interest can be brought into parishes.

The proposed programme embraces:

A corporate Communion Service at 9 a. m.

An intercessory Prayer Service at 10 a. m.

A normal Mission Study Class led by Mrs. J. Nicholas Mitchell, at 11 a. m.

Noonday Prayer to be followed by a half hour devoted to "Thoughts on Prayer in its relation to Body, Mind and Spirit," led by Mrs. Edwin C. Grice. Those attending are earnestly requested to come prepared to express "thoughts" on this threefold subject.

A Missionary programme meeting, subject "The Growth of Missions," including an account of the "Pan-Anglican Congress," by Miss Mary Coles, at 3 p. m.

Followed by a model Mission Study Class for children, led by Miss A. W. Hubbard.

It is hoped that every one that receives this notice will try to get some one person who is not already interested in Educational Missionary Methods to attend.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held on Thursday, January 28th, the Director in the chair. The service for the admission of new members was made the order of the day for the February meeting. The following committees were appointed:

Dinner Committee.—Roland S. Morris, chairman; Frank Taws, T. H. Clemens, Lewis H. Van Dusen.

Lenten Service Committee.—Joseph B. Van Dusen, Jr., chairman; Abram P. Tatnall, Robert Boyd, J. W. Keller, Charles N. Van Dusen, Samuel M. Peacock, Craig Atmore.

Attendance at the dinner is by no means limited to members of the Brotherhood. All the men who attend St. Stephen's are invited. Among those who will make brief addresses are Mr. E. H. Bonsall and Mr. F. A. Lewis.

The Three Arts Club.

Perhaps, of all the many people who come and go through the busy St. Stephen's Parish House in the course of a week, the congregation know least about us "Three Arts girls." It is true, we do not make a very great stir or noise in this world; at least we have not done so as yet, but that is not saying that some of our number may not be that mysterious thing called "famous" some day. In the meanwhile, our life is not spectacular, or even eventful to the outside point of view; though we are by no means idle, but are pressing on, however, slowly, not only to the goal of our individual ambitions, but also towards our ambition as a club. It must be admitted that our favorite dream—a club-house home for young women art students—is still a castle in the air. But we have at least made a step in that direction in the studio of one room which twelve of our members have rented at 10th and Walnut streets.

Now, we are aware that there exists in the minds of many of that outside world we call "the public," a certain time-honored fallacy to the effect that all artists are mere impractical dreamers, who spend their time idly musing in especially esthetic abodes (studios), presumably awaiting that intangible something known as inspiration. It is true, it is inspiration which gives the artist power, his work immortality; but those who think the artist idly awaits his inspiration should visit the Three Arts Studio and learn the truth: that we work for it—work for it steadily day after day, and work, not amid esthetic luxuries, but amid the unpleasant odor of turpentine, the grime of paint and the homely tools of the artists' workshop. So the studio is, perhaps, not beautiful, but it is a help, and helpful things are always beautiful in their way—even if one does have to climb over a block of marble when one enters the studio door, and must be careful not to trip into the coal bin.

Then, too, we are not so impractical as often supposed. At least we have paid our studio rent up to date. We have had two entertainments for that purpose in the Sunday School Building. The results cannot be described as very remunerative, yet we are determined to take the optimistic view.

There is one thing, however, that we want—and want badly. And since timidity is considered weakness in this age, we will here boldly make known that want. We desire a place where our work may be seen by the public and (we dare to hope), bought by the public. The place would not need to be very large, nor would we demand exalted sums for the work. So we trust this want may not seem unreasonable to any person, or persons, who may be in a position to offer us help or suggestion in this matter.

BANNER CLASSES.

NOVEMBER.

Boys.—Class No. 10 (Miss Lindenmeyer).
Girls.—Class No. 8 (Miss Edith Shellenberger).

DECEMBER.

Boys.—Class No. 12 (Mr. Cummins).
Girls.—Class No. 13 (Miss Edith Harper).

The Sunday School has been more than usually active this month. The introduction of the Blakeslee system of lessons has proved a success quite equal to our highest hopes. The individual thought called for on the part of each one has aroused an interest among the scholars which we hope, and have every reason to believe, will continue and increase as the work advances.

The new department which has just been established by Dr. Grammer, intermediate between the primary and main schools, supplies a long felt need. The class will be under the direction of Miss Martha Culbertson, and its chief function will be to drill the scholars who have graduated from the kindergarten work of the infant school, in the catechism, particularly the Creed and the Ten Commandments, their duty towards God and their neighbor, and the moral obligations, thus giving them a foundation for the more advanced study of the Bible which they will then pursue almost exclusively in the main school. The class will participate in the opening and closing exercises of the primary department, but on account of lack of space there, will hold its recitations in a separate room.

A novel entertainment was given by Miss Denney's class on Tuesday evening, January 19th, for the benefit of Christ's Home for Destitute Children. It was entitled "Anybody's Magazine," and consisted of a series of tableaux and sketches representing the various features which make up one of our modern periodicals. A short play, called "Spooks," was well presented by three of the members, and occasioned much interest on the part of the audience. Mr. Hall was splendid in the role of advertising manager, and his amusing stories and jokes caused great merriment. The members of the class deserve much credit for their ingenuity in devising, as well as their skill in carrying out, a program so entertaining and original.

On Monday evening, January 11th, the Sunday School had the pleasure of attending the preliminary performance of the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania. The play, entitled "The Mountebanks," was of a humorous character, and was enjoyed by all. We greatly appreciate the kindness of the Club in giving us these tickets each year in memory of our late superintendent, Mr. Clayton F. McMichael.

J. R. H.

The members of Miss Denney's class wish to thank Mr. Hall for his valuable assistance on the 19th of January. It is needless to say that without his enthusiastic efforts the entertainment would not have been the success that it was. Mr. Kolb also deserves special mention for his willing and much-needed services. To Mr. Aicholz for the music rendered that evening, Mr. Irwin Sherrard and Master Percy DeCallis for their help in the tableaux, and Mr. Carrigan and Mr. Charles Lindenmeyer and his staff, the class also extends heartiest thanks, for all of them were indispensable to the success of the occasion.

We are glad to observe that the Mothers' Bible Class which has resumed its sessions at 3 p. m., on Sundays, in the Parish House, under the direction of Mrs. Howard Butcher, is prospering. We hope that it will regain its former numbers, and will continue with ever-increasing success.

Alpha Kappa.

Thursday evening, February 11th, at 8 p. m., the Alpha Kappa will give an entertainment for the benefit of the Sunday School.

The Sunday School has been trying for a long time to procure a lantern and moving picture machine. It has been the aim to give a series of illustrated lectures on the Life of Christ and other such subjects. The School is now studying the Life of Christ by the "Blakeslee" system, and supplementary illustrated lectures given on some evening during the week, or possibly on Sunday evening, would be very helpful in teaching the scholars and giving them a thorough understanding of this subject and other courses of study that will follow when the present one is finished.

Lack of sufficient subscriptions has delayed the work, so the Alpha Kappa Fraternity has decided to give an entertainment, charging fifteen cents for admission, the proceeds of which are to be given to the Sunday School to help it in its good work.

It is hoped the people of the Church will respond to the call. Tickets may be procured from Mr. Carrigan, Mr. Streaker, Mr. Kolb or from any member of the Sunday School or the Alpha Kappa.

On Monday evening, January 11th, the members of the Alpha Kappa were invited to a party at the home of Mrs. Jeffries, 4933 Fairmount avenue. They were delightfully entertained and had a very enjoyable evening.

The meetings this month will be on Friday, February 5th, and Friday, February 19th, at 8.30 p. m.

Children's Entertainment.

On Thursday evening, January 7th, the Children's Friend Society gave its annual entertainment for the children. The Sunday School hall was crowded to the doors with delighted little ones, and those of the "grown-ups" who witnessed the expressions of enjoyment and happiness of the audience will never forget the merry "Evening of the Youngsters."

The program consisted of illustrated songs and moving pictures, many of which were exceedingly funny and caused great merriment. Mr. Reynold's explanations of his pictures as they appeared upon the screen made them doubly interesting to the children. During the intermissions Mrs. Reynolds sang some very pretty songs, which were illustrated upon the screen, the children joining in the choruses.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds have had much experience in amusing children, and their success on this occasion demonstrated their ability. Mrs. Vanderslice, the president of the Society, must be commended upon her efforts in providing such an interesting entertainment. The children showed their appreciation of her by giving her three rousing cheers.

The Children's Friend Society was organized next after the Country Week Association. During the summer months the Society takes the poor children out to the park, providing their luncheon and entertainment. Mr. Streaker, who is a guest at the picnics, has picked out several songbirds from among the children, and has organized them into what is termed "The Fairmount Park Opera Company." Clara Katz and Marie Rowan of the "Opera Company" sang a song at the entertainment.

J. N. A. K.

The cutting committee of the Female Benevolent Society has secured a number of efficient workers, and solicits orders from the congregation for all kinds of children's garments, aprons, towels, dusters, and any other household articles.

Special Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to THE PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 S. 10th street. They should be sent not later than the Friday before the last Sunday of the month, that is to say, in March, not later than the 26th.

The Bishop has kindly arranged to give the Episcopal visitation to St. Stephen's on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, April 4th. The Rector meets the Confirmation class weekly on Friday at 8 p. m., in the Vestry room. For the convenience of those who cannot be present at that time a second class has been arranged to meet on Tuesdays at 3 p. m. The Rector will be in the Vestry for conference after every service and will be at home every Wednesday after 8 o'clock. Interviews can also be arranged at other times.

The afternoon services every weekday except Saturday begin at five o'clock. On Wednesday there is an address by the Rector. We are grateful for the assistance of volunteer singers at these services.

The speakers from out of town at the noonday services this month will be the Rev. E. S. Rousmaniere, D. D., the Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks, the Rev. R. S. Coupland, and the Rev. H. W. Wells. Dr. Rousmaniere has represented Rhode Island in the General Convention and is the rector of Grace Church, where he was preceded by Dr. Greer, the present Bishop of New York, and the Rev. Dr. Floyd Tomkins. When Dr. Mackay-Smith resigned St. John's Church, Washington, Dr. Rousmaniere was called to that famous Church of the Presidents, but declined the call. He has been markedly successful in a church situated like St. Stephen's in the very heart of the business section of a great city. His distinctive note, perhaps, is his combination of a liberal theology with a devout and reverential spirit. Some addresses that he made several years ago at St. Stephen's are still remembered as original, and helpful.

The Rev. Dr. Lewis Parks, who was rector of St. Peter's, Philadelphia, before he went to Calvary, New York, as Bishop Satterlee's successor, is too well known in Philadelphia to need any introduction. He has the art of saying multum in parvo, and is a master of incisive sentences. He has never spoken at these noon-day services, and we believe that he and they were made for each other, and are glad to bring them together.

The Rev. Robert S. Coupland, the rector of the Church of the Ascension of Baltimore, is a young Virginian, who has recently been made especially prominent by the large votes that he received for the Bishopric in Delaware and Maryland. In the latter diocese he and Dr. Eccleston so divided the clergy and laity that there was no election. These services will be the first opportunity that the people of Philadelphia will have of hearing a clergyman that has so large a place in the life of our Church in Maryland.

Wilmington is so near, that Mr. Wells comes to us as no stranger, and it is only for the sake of accuracy that the name of this forcible and effective speaker is included in this announcement of the preachers from out of town.

On the first Sunday afternoon in March, there will be a musical service in celebration of Mendelssohn's centennial year. Among other selections of this great composer, the choir will sing his musical setting of the 95th Psalm, which is regarded by Dr. Wood as one of his devotional masterpieces.

Far from being an advocate of running around to different churches, "sampling the services," so to speak, using the vernacular of such a "church tramp," the writer ventures to say that sometimes it is well to leave one's accustomed pew and see what is being done in some of the mission churches in our city. The encouragement that it gives to the working staff is evident at once by the welcome accorded one, and the sight of a large middle class, self-respecting congregation, alert and devout, is certainly inspiring. Well drilled and hearty singing and response show that the mind has not wandered and that the people are doing their part of the service, even though it be held in a basement, as at St. Anna's, at 56th and Market streets, which is a typical church of this kind. Activities of various sorts for every night of the week furnish interests for the non-working hours, and being different from the occupations of the daily grind, serve to round out what would otherwise be a dull or narrow existence. If you are a thoughtful person, you will return from such a visit a little better equipped for your own surroundings.

Men's Banquet.

On Friday, February 19th, the banquet hall of the City Club was the scene of a most successful dinner, given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. In spite of a very rainy night there were forty-three men present. Although they had attended St. Stephen's Church for many years, some met that evening for the first time.

Toward the close of the dinner Mrs. David D. Wood very kindly appeared and, accompanied by Dr. Wood, added much pleasure by her singing. In the intervals between the speeches Dr. Anthony and Mr. Manypenny sang some old familiar songs which all enjoyed.

The Brotherhood wishes to express great appreciation and thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Wood, Dr. Anthony, and Mr. Manypenny, for adding so much to the entertainment of the evening.

Mr. Edward H. Bonsall, the president of the Brotherhood in the diocese, who has been an interested and ardent worker in it ever since it was started, was our honored guest, and gave a delightful talk on the history and work of the Brotherhod, with valuable suggestions and encouragement for our work. Mr. Roland S.

Morris, the chairman of the dinner, expressed regret that Mr. Ludovic Cleemann was unable to be present, and called upon Dr. Wood, as being the oldest member present, to give some recollections of St. Stephen's earlier days. His interesting reminiscences covered a period of forty-six years during six rectorships.

Dr. Grammer expressed his appreciation and pleasure at seeing such a large and representative gathering of the men of the Church, and spoke of the large amount of work to be done in the section of the city covered by St. Stephen's parish.

Mr. Charles L. McKeehan, Director of St. Stephen's Chapter, gave an excellent address on the particular usefulness of this Chapter, and made all feel that he is a strong leader who, with the co-operation of the other members will accomplish much good for St. Stephen's Church. A. G. T.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The fifth stated meeting of the season was held in the Parish House on Thursday, February 18th, Miss Magee presiding. The attendance was somewhat larger than usual. Reports of interest were heard from the following committees: Diocesan Committee; Committee on Colored Missions; Domestic Committee; Indian Hope; Foreign Committee, and the Treasurer of the United Offering.

After the business of the meeting was completed an address was made by Miss Woods, of Fort Yukon, Alaska, in which she described her work in a manner that was most appealing. The Indians of that region are a nomadic people, with the result that it is difficult to give the children any systematic schooling. Thus the greatest present need of the mission is a house where these homeless children may be cared for and enabled to attend school throughout the term. Miss Woods told several pathetic incidents showing the crude conditions of life in Fort Yukon, and said that the people were quick and anxious to learn and of a decidedly religious temperament. Miss Woods' address closed an interesting session.

Now that Lent is here we earnestly hope that if there are any who, at this season, have more time to give to Church interests they will join us at our next meeting to be held in the Guild room of the Parish House, on Thursday, March 18th, at eleven o'clock.

The Mission Study Class.

As an outcome of the interest shown in the Mission Study Class, it has been suggested that a box of books should be collected and sent to Miss M. E. Wood, Wuchang, China, to be placed in the library of Boone College, in Wuchang, for the use of the students. It will be remembered that Miss Wood made an appeal for books when she addressed our Auxiliary last year, and the need is still as great as then, as the number of students has increased so rapidly. It is a privilege to be able to put within the reach of young men studying out there such books as would make them familiar with the best thinkers and workers of our Western civilization, and the co-operation of the congregation is earnestly asked in this plan. Any book that interests you, man, woman or child, to whom this paragraph is written, may also interest a Chinese student; if you think it will, please send it to Miss M. S. Wilkins, 1223 Locust street, Philadelphia, so that in Easter week, a box of books, donated by the congregation of St. Stephen's may be forwarded through the Mission Study Class to the Boone College Library, Wuchang, to help in the uplift of China. Report of the Tuberculosis Class.

Number of patients examined and admitted to the Class	29
Number of patients examined and found non-eligible	27
Number of patients examined and referred to other dispensaries	10
Number of patients examined and sent to hospitals	8
Total	74
Number of class members too ill to continue attendance	5
Number of class members sent to hospitals	9
Number of class members attending	16
Total attendance for year	318
Amount of milk distributed (quarts)	1,955
Number of classes held	57
Number of visits to homes paid by nurse	327

The above shows the statistical report for first year's work of the Tuberculosis Class.

Though the growth of the Class may appear rather slow, its development has been accomplished by a great deal of careful work, in both physical examinations and investigations of home conditions. No patient is admitted to the Class until this has been done.

In comparison possibly with the report of other classes the number of home visits paid by the nurse is comparatively small, but this is due to the fact that the Class nurse, whose services are given by the Visiting Nurse Society, has also charge of the Tuberculosis work of that Society and so is able to give only part of her time to this work.

During the month of January, Dr. Craig, physician-in-charge of the Class, was absent on his vacation, his place being filled by Dr. I. H. Jones. The growth of the Class having necessitated two physicians for the work, Dr. Jones has consented to accept the position of assistant, and the Class has been changed to Tuesday at 3 p. m., in order that he may be with us.

With the growth of the Class has developed also the need for more funds with which to meet its demands in addition to the diet of milk and eggs which are furnished the members at the discretion of the physician.

Through the help of the Society for Organizing Charities work has been obtained for some of our members who are able to work. The St. Vincent de Paul Society and the Hebrew Charities have furnished some of our families with coal and clothing, and the Visiting Nurse Society has provided beds for patients who have been unable to obtain separate beds, that they might follow out the Class rules and sleep alone. This Society has also furnished warm clothing for those who are in need of it, and has helped to provide money for rent in some cases where otherwise the patient would have been forced to work in order to obtain it, and unable to follow out the physician's orders for rest. Through the kindness of one of the managers of this Society, one of our Class patients was taken from a poor, badly ventilated home and sent to the country to board while she awaited her admission to the Henry Phipps Institute. The girl is now able to return to her work.

A donation of woolen underwear sent in by a member of the congregation arrived just in time to enable a Class member to be given the necessary outfit to send him to White Haven.

Your attention is called to the Exhibit of the Tuberculosis Class at the International Tuberculosis Exhibit, now being held at 921 Walnut street. This being the only church in the city, and one of the few in the country, engaged in this work, our Exhibit has attracted especial attention, and we hope that before the closing on March 15th, you will all visit this Exhibit and see not only what St. Stephen's is doing, but what others are also doing in the work of stamping out this disease, in which the churches can take such an important part.

MABEL JACQUES.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

We are always glad when the Pussy-willows bloom for that heralds the approach of spring—not that we have seen them, those of us who are shut up in great cities—but we have heard of them from fortunate ones who live in the suburbs and ride to town every day. So, now, the Pussy-willows tell us spring is coming, and we are glad, for although this winter has been an unusually mild one, still there have been hardships and deprivations to be endured by the poor.

It is especially hard when a man has held a position for years and then through the stringency of the times or some other cause, not a fault of his own, has lost that position. Again and again he seeks for employment; again and again he is turned heartsick away. It is worse than beginning life anew, for the buoyancy of youth has departed, and failure to secure work, instead of arousing his combativeness and giving him a vigor and a determination to conquer fate, paralyzes his will power, and he feels keenly that life has conquered him and he is down and out.

Two ladies of the congregation sent us six tons of coal—one poor woman told me that when she saw the coal cart at her door she sank to her knees and lifted her heart to God in thanksgiving, for coal she could not buy, as rent came first, and it was a sore struggle to get that much together each week.

Another of my flock told me with tears in her eyes that if it were not for the hereafter she and her husband would end it all. Now, I have known this couple for years and I have witnessed their patience, their struggles and their deserving poverty; they are both at present engaged in selling stockings on commission, and a very miserable living it is. Imagine their gratitude when I have been enabled by the goodness of two great-hearted gentlemen in St. Stephen's to order groceries to a certain amount and hand them over, some to these people, some to sick people, and all the recipients prayerfully call down blessings on them.

In our Tuberculosis Class we have twenty patients, and what we need most at present for this Class is a "Loan Closet." If several members of St. Stephen's congregation would each send us a steamer chair or a cot with pad on it, so that we might have but six cots and six steamer chairs, we could start our Loan Closet. Our idea is to make practical the doctor's advice that each person so afflicted should have a cot to sleep on, as he must sleep alone. Miss Jacques, the nurse, says that the Class method of treating tuberculosis is the best solution of home treatment, but unless we can arrange their homes properly it is impossible to do this.

The cots and chairs will be marked St. Stephen's Tuberculosis Class, and will only be loaned. Miss Jacques will distribute them, and when the patients are through with them, they will be returned, disinfected, and taken to her loan closet, blocks away from St. Stephen's Church.

We have one steamer chair doing good work now, as it brings rest and comfort to a patient.

K. H. Lewis.

The Garment Society desires to thank the following: Mrs. Armstrong, Miss Cleemann, Mrs. M. M. Parmalee, Miss Goss, Mrs. D. R. Harper, Miss McAllister, Miss Davis, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. E. R. Fell, Miss Shellenberger, Miss Euler, Miss Fernley, and Miss Bell, for donations received.

Julia M. Lammot.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Stephen's Church will hold its meetings as in former years, on Friday mornings, during Lent, at 10 o'clock in the Parish House. The object of the Society is to make baby clothes for the poor, thus supplying a much-felt need. New members are earnestly desired.

News from Italy.

The following extracts from a letter received from Miss Frances Bockius will be read with general interest by their numerous friends in St. Stephen's.

Miss Bockius writes from Rome, where she and Miss Elizabeth are recuperating from the great nervous strain of those painful days in Sicily.

January 30, 1909.

Dear Dr. Grammer:

Elizabeth and I were much touched by your letter received to-day. * * * * I am sure a little harder shake and our fate would have been the same as the thousands of people we saw. You know the earthquake occurred just before light in the morning and we were too terrified to make any effort to get up. Our beds fairly plunged backward and forward, the closet door burst open and there was such a terrible noise everywhere. * * * * Following came four or five slight shocks, and during this we heard distinctly the tidal wave rushing upon the little town at the foot of our mountain. It sounded like a train of cars. There was an exquisite sunrise on snow-covered Mt. Etna that morning as though nothing had happened at all, and when I think of the agony and torture that were going on so near us, my heart is full. On the 29th and during the next ten days the wounded, dying and refugees were sent through our station, and, fortunately, there were some very wealthy Americans and English at Taormina, so we were able to feed thousands of people. Our waiting room was turned into a hospital and the very bad cases were brought in there, and we helped the few doctors do what could be done. All were as cold as ice for many had been in the ruins for days, with the rain pouring upon them, and had come from Messina, perhaps, covered only by an old table cover or anything that had been picked up in the ruins. Many we warmed up with bottles of hot water, and others died just when we thought a little spark of life had been nursed into them. They were all so patient too, and begged us to do for the others first, and sometimes all we could do was to wash out their horrible wounds that had already got in a terrible condition for lack of attention, and to give them a little warm milk or broth. I saw a number of people who had gone out of their minds and were enacting in imagination the falling of the walls and the seeing of some loved one struck down. I can't tell you of the horrors we have been through, but now it is all over for us and the poor people of Messina and other places will be more comfortable, perhaps, than they have ever been before, but it will be very hard for the rich people to begin life again. We remained at Taormina for eleven days after the earthquake, and during that time we had earth tremors every day, so loss of sleep and the horrible sights we were seeing began to tell on our nerves, and we were almost sick when we reached Rome, but I'm glad to say are feeling like ourselves again.

Give our regards to Mr. Ewing and any of our friends who may inquire for us, and believe me, with many thanks for your letter,

Most sincerely yours,

Frances M. Bockius.

Girls' Friendly Society.

On Wednesday evening, February 17th, the Girls' Friendly Society of the Diocese held a joint meeting at the Church of the Advocate, Philadelphia, to discuss the subject of cliques. The following paper was presented by a member of the St. Stephen's Chapter:

WHAT IS THE CAUSE OF SO MANY CLIQUES IN THE DIFFERENT BRANCHES, AND HOW CAN IT BE REMEDIED?

Cliques seem to exemplify the old adage, "Birds of a feather flock together." A flock of cooing doves is not by any means a distasteful sight. A flock of chattering, noisy sparrows is not quite so inspiring; but should the flock be composed of hawks, eagles, and similar species, then it is well for the unoffending, innocent members of the feathered tribe to be on their guard, and give them a wide berth.

In a Friendly Society, where there is plenty of unemployed time on hand, that is where the cliques form and flourish, and quite naturally, too. They are composed of those having some interest in common, and where one finds kindred thoughts, motives, and inclinations they exert an attraction, and one is drawn towards them as the magnet and the needle. When girls club together, whose taste, let us say, for good reading, leads them to discuss the latest works of good authors, or who are enthusiastic over the old standard works of fiction, there is no cause for alarm. This is also true in other instances. It is the cliques that gossip over others, or misconstrue the motives of the most upright members, criticize everything, and treat the new members with cold stares of disapproval; in a word, who are decidedly UNFRIENDLY girls, these form a dangerous element, the cause of so much worriment to the secretary in charge.

It sometimes happens that an associate or teacher is irregular in attendance, either for good cause or otherwise, and the class is, so to speak, adrift without knowing how to fill in its time. This often serves as the nucleus for a clique. The cause for its formation is generally to be ascribed to lack of definite employment.

Therefore, give every member an opportunity to have a share in some useful, instructive or interesting work.

The Friendly Society that strives to have classes that shall meet the requirements and tastes of the various members, such as physical culture, dressmaking, cooking, literature, fancy work, English grammar and millinery—that has associates and teachers who work conscientiously, and who insist that every member belong to one of these clasess; that provides various lectures or talks during the season on topics that will interest and uplift, tending to imbue a desire for the higher aims in life; and last, but not least, that does not overlook the wonderful beneficial power exerted by the monthly religious service, over the hearts and minds of those who hear the lessons, sermons and talks based on the Word of God and by the inspired words and music of the hymns—a Friendly Society that observes these things will find there is little opportunity or inclination for the forming of cliques.

If the above methods are adopted where such a clique exists it will surely be the means of eradicating it. Of course, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every time.

Augusta Boos.

On Monday evening, February 22, the Girls' Friendly Society of St. Stephen's held its annual entertainment to raise funds for Fatima, the little orphan girl in India, to whose support it regularly contributes. The room was decorated in patriotic colors in honor of the day, and the quaint Martha Washington costumes of the girls added greatly to the appearance of the whole. The principal feature of the entertainment was the comedy, "Spooks," which was repeated with great success by Misses Florence Sherrard, May Hess and Irene Wilder. Several songs and piano solos completed the program, and were greatly appreciated by the audience. Dr. Grammer, as Mr. Hall so aptly expressed it, furnished a most enjoyable dessert in the shape of a few remarks on the subject of the great American whose birthday the nation was celebrating, containing a number of interesting anecdotes. To Mr. Hall also, the Society is greatly indebted for contributing much to the success of the occasion. The entertainment was followed by a dance in which many of the guests participated. J. R. H.

Alpha Kappa Entertainment.

On Thursday evening, February 11th, in the school room, the young men of the "Alpha Kappa" gave a delightfully varied entertainment. Considering the little time for rehearsals, it was a unique success, being refreshingly different from the usual, and receiving the hearty approval of the many present.

The dramatized story of Richard Harding Davis' "The Littlest Girl," had our old scenery burnished into a really fine setting, which took many hours of preparation and deserved its applause. Much credit is due Mr. Kolb for his rendition of "Caruthers," and Mr. Bush played his part well, for his heart was in it, and the tender little good-samaritan-story won its audience as well as did the "Littlest Girl," Stella Stiles, who was charmingly winsome.

Variety and a new interest was given in the interlude of acrobatics. Mr. Adam Hall and Mr. Hewlett surprised and pleased us all by their skill and remarkably fine exhibition of the beautiful possibilities in physical culture. We hope they will assist us again.

Then the jolly closing sketch, with Mr. Chas. H. Moore, (so glad to see him with us again), together with our versatile Mr. Kolb (electrician, manager and player)—these two in the roaring farce of "Box and Cox," were very funny, not forgetting the debut of Mr. Chas. Lindenmeyer as Mrs. Bouncer.

But, particularly as a representative of the Sunday School, the writer wishes hereby to express sincere appreciation to the entertainers and hearty gratitude to the Alpha Kappa Fraternity, for their generosity in donating the proceeds towards the fund to purchase an electric lantern for the Sunday School.

Shoe Fund.

Donations received in February:

Mrs. H. F. Martin	$.25
Miss Mary Schaeffer	1.50
From those receiving shoes	3.35
Total	$5.10
Expended for shoes	4.05
Balance	$1.05

From Mrs. Jeffries a donation of six pairs of second-hand shoes. The society has given out twelve pairs of shoes this month, and ten pairs of overshoes.

Many of the children in the primary department are frequently unable to come to Sunday School on account of lack of proper clothing. Any donations of second-hand garments from members of the congregation can be put to excellent use in supplying their needs, and will be gladly received by Miss Shellenberger or Miss Goss.

Special Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to THE PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 S. 10th street. They should be sent not later than the Friday before the last Sunday of the month, that is to say, in April, not later than the 23d.

Confirmation.

On Palm Sunday afternoon the Bishop will confirm a class at St. Stephen's. We are very fortunate in having such an assignment. It is an ideal date for Confirmation. The members of the class can take Communion for the first time on Easter Day, and the Rector has almost the whole of Lent for special instruction and the deepening of the religious life. This will be the third successive Palm Sunday on which the episcopal visitation has come to us. We hope that it will now be regarded as a fixed precedent and that that afternoon may be considered as belonging to St. Stephen's.

By the time that this paper appears, the class will be practically made up, although there are always some additions just at the last moment. My chief concern about it is not that the class should be large but that it should be in earnest. In the past three years I have presented for Confirmation about sixty people, and as I read over the names I am impressed with the fact that too large a portion of the class failed to enter the church as a field for service. Many do not seem to realize that the organization has a claim upon them for loyalty and co-operation. They seem to think it quite enough to come to Communion occasionally and appear with fair regularity at public worship. I hope that this next class will be distinguished for fidelity. All the other graces and gifts are rendered vain unless they are accompanied with perseverance. The blessing and reward is only for those who endure to the end.

C. E. G.

It will be a great mistake if we allow our energies to relax when Easter shall be past. In the early church, the forty days between Easter and Ascension were called the Great Forty Days. During this period the favorite posture in prayer was standing, and the church was filled with the sense of the new dignity and power that came to mankind from the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. The true climacteric for church work is Trinity Sunday. After that anniversary, the warm weather compels relaxation and a reduction of work. I hope that the various societies will continue their activities as far as possible until that date.

An appeal has been sent out to the heads of the various organizations of women in the church with the request that the members of these societies will unite with the Girls' Friendly and the Woman's Auxiliary in a service in the church at 8 o'clock on Monday, April 5th. There will be a brief service and an address by the Rector. Such an occasion of united worship will be certain to deepen our sense of loyalty to a common cause, and will bring home to the women of the congregation the extent of the institutional work done in St. Stephen's Church.

It is desirable for the members to attend in their respective organizations and sit together. In some cases this will probably be impossible, inasmuch as many persons are members of more than one of these organizations, but so far as possible it is hoped that the societies will sit together.

With the Woman's Auxiliary, the Girls' Friendly, the Female Benevolent Society, the Mothers' Meeting, the St. Stephen's Aid Society, the King's Daughters, the Three Arts Club, the Altar Society, the Kitchen Garden, and the Sunday School Teachers, we ought to have a large attendance and a most interesting service. Please make a note of the date. It is a week in which every one should be free from social engagements and able to attend special services.

The societies are requested to meet punctually at 8 o'clock at the following places:

The Girls' Friendly in the Sunday School room.

The Mothers' Meeting in their usual place of assembly.

The Three Arts Club in its own room.

The Altar Society in the Verger's room.

The Kitchen Garden and the Sewing School, in the lower floor of the Sunday School building.

The King's Daughters in the room with the Mothers.

The Sunday School Teachers in the Vestry.

These societies will march in and take assigned places.

The Woman's Auxiliary and the Female Benevolent societies are asked to take their seats in the transept before the processional.

Notes.

A Junior Mission Study Class has been organized under the leadership of Mrs. English, and meets in the Three Arts room on the third floor on Wednesdays at eleven o'clock. The class has an interested membership of nine.

The Lenten Services.

The attendance at the Lenten services has been excellent, and the ushering has been all that could be desired. The young men of the congregation have attended with fidelity, and the services have been conducted with dignity and deliberation. There has been a noticeable absence of bustle and hurry. It has been good to see so many men in the middle aisle occupying seats that are especially reserved for them. The collection of hymns drawn up by Mr. Miller, during Dr. Worcester's rectorship, has been very useful, and the congregation has taken up the singing in the right spirit. We are hoping that Holy Week will crown the work of the Lenten season with a large attendance and helpful addresses.

We are under great obligations to the clergymen who have so kindly come to our assistance, and to the men of our own congregation, who have advertised the services so well, and taken charge of the arrangements with so much zeal and fidelity.

The Easter Sunday School Celebration

Will be held, as usual, the Sunday after Easter at 4 o'clock. The Burd Orphan Asylum will come in and join in the service. Suitable hymns are now being learned by the school.

The Easter Collection

Will be devoted to the maintenance of the Summer Home at the Farm in Bucks County. The Misses Bockius have written that they will return in time to resume the responsibility that they discharged with so much efficiency last summer. This welcome news gives the assurance that this important department of our work will be conducted so as to accomplish the greatest good.

An Important Notice.

All the organizations of women connected with St. Stephen's, and all women or girls engaged in any of the Church's activities, are invited to attend the service at 8 o'clock next Monday night, at which the Girls' Friendly and Woman's Auxiliary unite in common worship with all the other societies of women.

The United Offering.

The Fifth Annual Service with the presentation of the United Offering of the Diocese of Pennsylvania will be held at St. Stephen's Church, Tenth street above Chestnut, on Friday morning, April 30th, at half past ten o'clock. Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., will make the address. All the members of this Parish are invited to attend; the members of the Woman's Auxiliary are especially urged to be present. This service is modeled on the Memorial Thanksgiving service held at the time of the meeting of the General Convention, when the entire United Offering is presented.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Lenten meeting of the parochial branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Parish House on Thursday, March 18th. There was an attendance of 28 members. There was no prearranged speaker, as is customary, so that there was time for reports of more than usual detail from each of the committees.

The next meeting will be the last for the season, therefore it is hoped that all the members will be present. The meeting will be held in the Guild room at eleven o'clock—Thursday, April 15th.

E. W. L., Secretary.

The following letter will be read with interest by the members of the congregation:

FLORENCE, March 15, 1909.

DEAR DR. GRAMMER:

I wrote to you from Rome that we had not yet decided whether we should return to America or not, but that I should let you know as soon as we did. Unless something quite unforeseen happens, we are now expecting to sail from Genoa on the Cretic on April 24th. Since our experiences a little of our former enthusiasm has gone, and we feel that coming home is the only thing for us to do. In nearly every mail come letters from our people of the farm expressing pleasure that we are still alive and their desire to see us again, so I write to say that we have decided to come if you still want us back and we can make arrangements about the boys' two weeks. The steamer on which we think of sailing is due in New York on May 10th, which would give us ample time to attend to servants, and also to visit different members of our family.

We expect to be in Florence about three weeks longer, then over to Venice, Verona, the Italian Lakes, en route to Genoa. As our steamer lands at the Azores we feel that our sightseeing is far from over yet.

Very sincerely yours,

FRANCES M. BOCKIUS.

Alpha Kappa.

The Alpha Kappa Associate Players will render their annual play about the end of April. The executive committee has not yet decided upon the play they will produce, but the members of the committee are working hard to select a play which will be very pleasing and entertaining.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the Sunday School to be used to repaint the old and dilapidated interior scenery. This scenery has been used for about ten years, and it is now in such a condition that the various societies of the church giving entertainments can hardly use it with satisfaction. In fact, the scenery and stage appliances are so worn out that the Alpha Kappa Players will have to use another hall to render their play.

Meetings of the Alpha Kappa Fraternity will be held on April 2 and April 16 in the Guild room at 8.30 P. M. J. N. A. K.

A Letter from the Treasurer of St. Stephen's Farm.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30, 1909.

MY DEAR DR. GRAMMER:

As Easter Sunday is now approaching, and the friends of St. Stephen's Farm have usually given us the Easter collection, I hope that they will continue the custom and give it to us this year. Last year was the most successful summer that we have ever had, and we took care of more people than I thought it was possible for us to provide for. We had 440 people make an average stay of twelve days, and 235 others that went out for the day and were provided with a noon-day meal. The place was a veritable bee-hive. How they took care of so many, I can hardly explain, but the family were all contented, and I have never heard anything but satisfaction expressed by those who were thus enabled to have a holiday in the country.

We are greatly to be congratulated that the Misses Bockius have agreed to act as House Superintendents for next summer. Their management has been ideal, and the success of the place has largely been due to their good judgment and untiring efforts.

From the large number which we accommodated you will naturally understand that we are entirely out of funds, and will have to appeal to our friends for support.

The Treasurer at present has less than $3.00 on hand, and unpaid bills amounting to $117.62, but from the generous way in which he has always been met, is not at all anxious, knowing that the funds will be provided.

Yours very truly,

J. HUNTER EWING.

Vacuum Cleaner.

A new vacuum cleaning system has just been installed in the church, much to the delight of the Verger, whose work will be greatly lessened thereby. The apparatus is operated by electricity and performs the double function of sweeper and duster. It needs only to be run lightly over the carpet and upholstery, and the dust is sucked through a tube and deposited in a tank. Thus not only is the trouble of sweeping avoided, but the method of cleaning is very much more effective. It is especially appreciated at this time of the year, when the numerous services in the church formerly made it necessary to spend much time and labor daily in keeping it clean.

Children's Friend Society.

The Kitchen Garden.

Of all the numerous activities in which St. Stephen's engages, perhaps none is contributing more largely to the elevation of the future generation than the work which is carried on in the Sunday School building on Saturday mornings under the name of the Kitchen Garden; and probably few of the members of the congregation are aware of the elaborate system of housekeeping that is going on in their midst. Of course, it is all on a very elementary scale, but acting on the assumption that the welfare of the classes to which the church ministers depends upon their ability to do efficient work as well as upon an active and intelligent interest in the same, we are endeavoring to create such qualities in our younger girls by laying a foundation for them which, we hope, will develop later into a thorough knowledge and willingness to serve in the humbler fields of labor. If we are to judge from the zeal shown by the scholars our hopes have a fair promise of being realized.

The first hour and a half, from 9.30 to 11, on Saturday mornings, is devoted to sewing, which is carried on under separate management and instruction in the Parish House. The children, ranging from eight to fourteen years of age, are divided into three grades. In the first two they pursue a prescribed course, in which they sew on pieces, learning the various stitches used in seams, hems and fells. In the third grade they are permitted to make simple garments and, the delight of every child's heart, to dress dolls. This is the goal toward which they strive, and furnishes an incentive to industry in the lower classes, for it is the unanimous desire to be admitted to the third grade where such a privilege is allowed.

At 11 o'clock the school is dismissed, but migrates almost in a body to the Sunday School building, where the kitchen garden, far more popular with the little ones, is held. Here each child is furnished, as far as possible, with a miniature household outfit, including small sets of dishes, tables, beds, brooms and dust-pans, and numerous other articles. Each week some one branch of housework is taught thoroughly and systematically, though at the same time combined with games and songs and other kindergarten work which makes it interesting and attractive to the children. One week they learn to make beds, another to set the table, to sweep, scrub, and wash, all of which they enter into with an eagerness which would put us "grown-ups" to shame. To be sure it is only play, and it is hardly to be expected that they will retain all of their zeal when it becomes real work, but there is everything in a good beginning, and the enthusiasm shown by these small housekeepers for the commonplace act of washing dishes is so great that it is often necessary to use a great deal of tact and discipline to ward off the quarrels which arise as to who shall wash the mugs in which milk, together with buns, is furnished them. Moulding in clay is another very popular occupation, though not quite so useful as some of the other features, all of which are enjoyed to their fullest extent. Starting with a small number of pupils two years ago, the school has increased to such large proportions that the equipment provided for it has become quite inadequate and will have to be increased next year.

The last Saturday in April will be a scene of great festivity and an occasion of much importance to the members, for then the proud mothers will be invited to view the achievements of their young housekeepers. The work of the sewing school will be exhibited for their benefit, and a prize offered by Dr. Grammer awarded to the best in each class, while a representative program of the kitchen garden work will be furnished for their entertainment. It is earnestly hoped and fully expected that the results will be most satisfactory and that the occasion will prove that the year's work has not been in vain. J. R. H.

With this issue THE PARISH NEWS closes for the season to begin a new volume next October. The record of the year's work will be found in the financial reports of the various societies and in the copy of the rector's official report to the Bishop for the Annual Convention. It must be noted that many of the societies acknowledge contributions from the funds at the disposal of the Rector, so that it would not be accurate to estimate the total receipts of the Church by adding together all the sums acknowledged by the Rector, and all the receipts of the societies. For the Convention report great care has been taken to avoid doubling the record of receipts in this way.

The work of our societies shows a healthy growth. It is particularly encouraging to note that the pew rents, which are such an index of a church's strength, have increased by $430 over the pew rental of last year. This shows that our increased attendance upon the services is producing its natural result of increased strength and a larger number of steady maintainers of the Church.

One of the chief events of the year was the organization of a chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, with twenty-two members. Mr. Charles L. McKeehan is the director, and he has with him a fine band of men. They made a notable success in conducting the great Lenten services. While the services at the Garrick Theatre nearby were well attended, the Lenten congregations at St. Stephen's reached the average attendance of former years.

At its last meeting the Brotherhood agreed to co-operate with the ladies in charge of The Farm by aiding them during the two weeks when the boys enjoy the hospitality of our rural home. A committee will relieve the matrons of the burden of discipline.

On the second Sunday after Easter the Rector called the attention of the congregation to the dilapidated condition of our frescoes and plastering, and asked them to contribute towards its renovation before they left for the summer. A rough estimate was given that the work would cost $4,000. It remains, however, to make a careful examination and ascertain the exact repairs that are necessary. One generous parishioner has shown her approval of the scheme, and her desire that the work should be done thoroughly by sending a check for $2,000. With such a start, it ought not to be difficult to raise the amount necessary to make our interior a suitable setting for our fine memorials, and a fitting environment for the worship of Almighty God, the celebration of the sacred rites of our faith, and the proclamation of the Everlasting Gospel.

The Accounting Warden makes up his annual report to the first of April, so that in addition to the gifts enumerated in his statement is to be added an endowment of $3,000, given by Miss Josephine Lewis in memory of her sister, Mrs. Campbell. The annual income is to be used by the Rector in aiding special cases of distress. Miss Lewis has also given a tablet that has been placed on the north wall of the Church to the east of the Burd monument. The inscription reads as follows:

To the Glory of God and in loving memory of
MRS. JULIET HAMERSLY LEWIS CAMPBELL.
1823-1898.
This tablet is placed on these walls and an endowment for the relief of special cases of distress is given to St. Stephen's Church by her Sister,
Josephine Lewis,
Easter, 1909.

H. Spencer Lucas.

H. Spencer Lucas, for many years a member of St. Stephen's Church, died at his home in Philadelphia, on Friday, April 16, 1909, after a very brief illness from pneumonia. His death was unexpected and came as a great shock to the entire congregation, in which he had many relatives and friends. At a special meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, held at the close of morning prayer on Sunday, April 18th, the following minute was adopted:

"The St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew desires to place upon its records an expression of sorrow at the death of H. Spencer Lucas, who died on April 16, 1909. Mr. Lucas has been for many years a communicant and regular attendant at St. Stephen's Church. He was one of those who organized this Chapter of the Brotherhood, and was one of its most active and interested members. His firm Christian faith, his buoyant, happy nature and his winning personality gave him a strong influence with other men which he faithfully used for the spread of Christ's Kingdom. He took a special interest in the poor of the Parish and was one of their most steadfast friends. The officers of the Chapter are requested to convey to the members of his family a message of sympathy for their bereavement and an expression of the regard in which Mr. Lucas was held by all the members of this Chapter."

In making a report of the Sunday School for the year just ended we are pleased to state that there has been an increase in the number of scholars, amounting to eighteen per cent., and while this increase is not made up altogether of new members, some of our former scholars having returned during the year, it is gratifying to note that a goodly number is entirely new, showing that we are progressing.

Many new features have been added during the year, among which might be mentioned the introduction of the Blakeslee System of Lessons, the awarding of Banners monthly to the two classes—boys and girls—having the highest average for punctual attendance, the awarding of prizes to scholars for punctual attendance during the year and the institution of the Cradle Roll.

We are indebted to Miss Bell who so kindly furnished a sufficient number of copies of the Spirit of Missions for distribution among our scholars.

W. J. KIRKPATRICK,
Secretary and Treasurer.

The joint celebration of the Sunday School with the Burd Orphan Asylum took place on Sunday afternoon, April 18th, with the usual success. The schools marched into the church singing an Easter Carol, others of which formed an important and enjoyable part of the service. A new feature which was greatly appreciated by the congregation was the singing of an appropriate carol by the infant school alone.

The amounts of the offerings of the various classes and their respective mottoes were brought up to the Rector and read out as usual. The bare cross in which the bouquets were inserted employed heretofore was replaced this year by a bed of flowers arranged beforehand, containing the design of a cross. Over this bank hovered a large golden butterfly, which as Dr. Grammer explained in his address to the schools, may be taken as a symbol of the Resurrection.

At the last meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, held on Thursday, April 15th, an address was delivered by Mrs. Correll, who is the wife of Rev. I. H. Correll, one of the foremost workers in Japan. Mrs. Correll has lived in Japan thirty-five years and still possesses her first enthusiasm for the Church's work there, which together with her long experience of Japanese life and thought, makes her one whose message is, not only of much interest, but of authority. It was a privilege to have her with us at our closing meeting. We also had the pleasure of having Miss Porter, of China, present.

The winter just ended has been a most successful one for the Auxiliary; indeed the best the Society has ever had. Next winter we hope to have still more come forward and help in the work. In fact we will not rest satisfied until we number every woman in the congregation. There are many, undoubtedly to whom the subject of missions seems remote and consequently uninteresting. Any subject about which one's knowledge is vague is apt to be uninteresting. But through the Auxiliary one comes in direct touch with the world-wide activities of the Church and this specific knowledge can not fail to awaken one's sympathy; and sympathy means interest. And lastly comes the personal pleasure of feeling that, however little, one is doing something to help in the great work of advancing God's Kingdom on earth.

E. W. L.,
Secretary.

The fifth annual service for the presentation of the United Offering was held in St. Stephen's Church on Friday morning, April 30th, at 10.30 o'clock. Although the weather was unfavorable it was well attended, and a large offering amounting to $4,776.01 was raised by the members of the various branches of the Woman's Auxiliary in the diocese. Owing to the fact that it was in a sense a memorial service to the late Mr. George C. Thomas, Dr. Grammer asked the Rev. Nathaniel S. Thomas, Rector of the Church of the Holy Apostles and Bishop-elect of Wyoming, to deliver the address in his place, which he did in a most appealing manner.

The contribution of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's to the United Offering amounted to $120. This is a larger sum than it has ever been before, but it is hoped for a still larger amount in succeeding years.

Miss Bell's Mission Study Class.

In response to the notice in the PARISH NEWS in regard to sending a box of books to Miss M. E. Wood for the Boone College Library in Wuchang, China, the following members of the congregation have kindly contributed either books or money with which to purchase them: Dr. and Mrs. Grammer, Miss Wilkins, Miss Washington, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Dwight Lowrey, Mrs. Lautenbach, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Blackwood, the Misses Bell, Mrs. Atmore, Mrs. Colket, Mrs. Messer, Mrs. Borie, Miss Cleemann, Miss Rynard and Miss Headman.

In all, ninety-six volumes have been purchased to be forwarded on their long journey, and the members of the Mission Study Class hereby acknowledge these contributions, with grateful thanks for the co-operation in their undertaking to help educate the inquiring Chinaman.

In a recent letter from Miss Wood, she writes: "I know you will be interested to learn that the contract for the Boone College Library has been given out, and although we have not sufficient funds to complete the second story, work has already been begun. We have purchased a fine piece of land next to our college and facing the street. We have built in front of the property a wall of brick and stone, crowned by an ornamental iron fence through which the Library can be seen to advantage. Having been in Wuchang you can probably form an idea of the location of the building."

The following letters which have been received by the Missionary Box Committee show the appreciation with which this work is met:

ARCATA, CAL., April 6, 1909.

DEAR MADAM:

The box you so kindly sent me arrived safely. I got it just as I was about to set out on my long missionary trip to Crescent City in Del Norte county. I go there once a month. It takes me two days and two nights to go there. I go part of the way by train, to a place called Trinidad, and there I stay all night. Next morning at six o'clock I start by mail coach for Requa, 52 miles through virgin redwood forests, some trees are so big around that six men all joining hands could just stretch around the trunks of some of them. I reach Requa at 6.30 P. M., then we come to the Klamath River, and the coach with its four horses, driver and passengers go right on to a ferry, and so we go across, and by seven o'clock I am at Requa Hotel having supper. Here I stay all night. Then at 7 A. M. I start by coach again, and reach Crescent City at 3.30 or 4.00 P. M. I wear out a good deal of clothes this way, so I was very pleased with your box, and feel deeply grateful to you for your kindness. Will you please thank the ladies for me? I feel like the Irishman who fell off the house, and they said to him, "Oh Pat, are you dead?" He said, "No, I'm spachless," and I myself am speechless with gratitude. May you long be spared to cheer the heart of many a lonely missionary in this Western country. May God indeed bless you all for your kindness is my earnest prayer.

HENDERSON, KY., Dec. 2, 1908.

MISS MAGEE,
1720 Walnut St., Philadelphia.

MY DEAR MADAM:

Yesterday we were very pleasantly surprised to receive that most excellent box of clothing which was so carefully prepared and kindly sent to us by the Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church.

To say that we are very, very thankful, but faintly conveys the idea of the gratitude we feel for your kindness to us.

Everything is so nice, and supplied such a real need that I am sure could the ladies have been present at the unpacking and seen the expressions upon our faces and heard the exclamations of joy as each received his share of the contents of the box, each would have felt in a measure repaid for what she contributed towards it.

The boys' and my suit could not have fitted better had we been present to have tried them on. The shoes, too, are all of the correct size, excepting the pair for the older boy. His were too small for him, but not so much too large for the younger boy that he cannot use them.

The dress sent to my wife will, after a little alteration, make her a very serviceable costume. All of the underwear was of the right size, and it is the more appreciated because to-day we had our first touch of real winter weather. The little girls are very proud indeed of the beautiful dress patterns sent to them.

For all that we received we send you our sincere and heartfelt thanks, but I wish to especially thank you for your thoughtfulness of the children's Christmas tree. I assure you that because of your kindness in sending the games and toys we shall be the happier on the morn of the annual celebration of the birth of our Blessed Lord and Saviour, and my little girl will have reason to exclaim again as she puts her arms around my neck and with tears in her eyes, "Papa, isn't God good to find us such good friends?"

Again thanking you and wishing you all individually and collectively a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, I beg to remain,

Most gratefully yours,

Girls' Friendly Society.

The associates and members have met regularly Monday evenings. The classes in Physical Culture, Cooking and Millinery were resumed this winter. The associates from 8-9 have interested the girls in various ways. Two plays of Shakespeare's have been read and studied. Talks and colored post cards have transported some girls to Japan, China, India and Egypt, while others have read and discussed topics of general interest. Still others have embroidered and sewed, and grammar has been a new subject in our band of girls. The entertainments were successful and gave pleasure. Dr. Grammer has conducted the monthly services in the Church, and we feel they have been a most helpful feature of our work. The members held an exhibition of their winter's work Monday, April 26th. The Physical Culture Class gave a fine drill and other exercises. The hats trimmed in the Millinery Class were pretty and well made. Those who tasted the dainties from the Cooking Class pronounced them good. Pretty embroidered articles were displayed and papers from the Literature Class and Travel Study Class showed that real interest had been aroused. Mrs. Caley, a diocesan vice-president, kindly gave a talk one evening. One hundred and twenty articles made during Lent have been sent to the G. F. S. Diocesan Missionary Committee. The Rev. A. R. Van Meter, on May 3d, gave a delightful talk to the girls on the life of women and girls in China.

ANNIS W. TAYLOR,
Secretary.

DEAR DR. GRAMMER:

The Altar Society has raised the sum of $229.88 for repairing the brasses in the Chancel, Font and Burd Monument.

I regret that it was impossible to have the work done before Easter, and it has now been decided to wait until the summer, when it is expected other repairs will be made in the Church.

Yours truly,
ANNA E. EISENBREY.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

In making up the last report of the season, one looks back over a year of work among the poor which is very discouraging and saddening in some respects, yet on the whole a beautiful work with its glimpses into the spiritual life and growth of many who, though poor in material things that this world reckons highly of, yet are rich in that power of trust and confidence in the Word of God and a simple dependence upon His promises.

The work does not vary much from month to month. Sometimes it seems like supplying a crutch to one who had lost the power of walking, for here one receives a much-needed lamp so she can do the sewing by which she supports a blind daughter. A family of three all sleeping in one bed, and another family with no bed, but lying on the floor, both get beds and mattresses.

Coal for the shivering, food for the hungry, money given judiciously to tide over sickness, and lack of work, medicine and certain delicacies for the sick, a comfortable rocking chair for a shut in, all these are the "Crutch" to help the helpless, the unfortunate and the sick.

The amount of money received and disbursed was $317.50. K. H. LEWIS.

Garment Committee.

In sending in my report of the Garment Committee for the work of the past winter, I wish to speak of the special cases mentioned in my account of disbursements.

A woman who had lost her husband, and was left with two small children to support, was helped with clothing and other necessities until she could find a position. She has proved herself grateful and trustworthy. A family that was too poor to have sufficient bed clothing, was supplied with a warm comfortable. A member of the congregation who was too shabby because of poverty to go to Church, was given a new black skirt. We have also been able to assist the Tuberculosis Class, by giving many of them warm clothing. These, with our regular work among the poor, have made a successful year for the Garment Committee.

There were 195 garments sold, 370 given away, making a total of 565 garments.

Female Benevolent Society.

The Benevolent Society has made during the past season 3,262 articles for the hospitals, many of them being large pieces such as clinic jackets, nurses' aprons, bed-gowns and wrappers.

The special orders have amounted to 389 pieces. These articles were dresses for girls and children, infants' clothes, wrappers, aprons, sheets and towels.

For sale by the Benevolent Society over a thousand pieces—aprons, towels, house-cloths, dusters and so forth—have been made. Sixty-two garments have been made and presented to the children of the Rev. Mr. Phillips' mission by several members of the Society.

Altogether the officers and workers are much pleased with the work they have accomplished. The women have been given steady employment and have worked cheerfully and well. Prizes have been given for good sewing, pressing the garments and keeping them clean. The result has been that the garments have made a better appearance and have been specially commended by the superintendents of hospitals, and those who have given the Society orders.

Next year we hope that the congregation will remember our work, give us orders and help us to make this department of Church work not only a blessing to the poor and to the hospitals, but also a source of power to us in giving our energies an outlet and in opening the founts of benevolence in our own hearts.

Mothers' Meetings.

The Mothers' Meetings closed on Thursday, April 29, after a pleasant and, I hope, profitable season. There has been a great deal of sickness among the members and their families, and three of our members have passed away. With the little Mite Fund they have been sending flowers to the sick, also on Christmas and Easter—and their loving tribute to their dead members. On December 3d they had their Annual Sale in the Parish House, in the afternoon and evening, and cleared $67.50. They contributed $20.00 to the "Home for Aged Couples," and the balance, $47.50, is to be expended for the Farm, in the way of table linen, toweling, etc.

April 5, at the service held in the Church of all the Women's Branches, Girls' Friendly, King's Daughters, etc., there were about sixty mothers present.

On Thursday in Holy Week, there was the annual service held for them, in the Church at 8 o'clock, at which Rev. Dr. Snively officiated and administered the Holy Communion. We are indebted to the organist and young ladies who took charge of the music.

During the twenty evenings, friends have helped entertain with familiar talks, music, readings, recitations, etc., which with the social cup of tea and cake, has helped in making a cheerful gathering. The members of the Mask and Wig again sent tickets for one of their rehearsals, in memory of our friend Mr. McMichael.

During Thursdays in July over sixty enjoyed their day's outing at St. Stephen's Farm, which they always look forward to with great pleasure. Many speak of the splendid dinner served them.

Dr. Grammer assisted in making many happy hearts at Christmas (to those who did not need the Christmas dinners) with the silver souvenir and Christmas cards given them.

From an unexpected dividend of a defunct saving fund, we were enabled to purchase a Tune Book, Prayer Book, and 72 Hymnals, with good, clear print. At the closing meeting there was an entertainment by the Puritan Musical Clubs—mandolin, guitar, etc.—eleven members; singing, recitations, informal talks by friends, with ice cream and cake.

Alpha Kappa.

The Fraternity has survived the terrible blow due to the absence of Rev. John E. Ewell who was the life to the organization; and no doubt he will win many freinds in his new charge.

The season which is about to close has been very prosperous in all departments and a favorable report is expected from each of the various committees at the closing meeting, which will be held on Friday evening, May 7th, at which time new officers will be elected. The entertainments were also successful and were enthusiastically attended by many. On Thursday evening, February 11th, an entertainment was given, and the net proceeds, which were $37.15, were donated to the Sunday School to help in procuring a moving picture machine to illustrate Bible Lessons to the children. The members of the A. K. proved themselves quite talented when they appeared in a semi-circle of black faces at an entertainment of recent date. They showed great improvement, and anticipate greater things for next season.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity is sincerely grateful to the young ladies of St. Stephen's Church for rendering their services as talented artists in the many productions which were produced during the past season.

ADAM M. HALL,
Secretary.

The Farm.

The summer of 1907 we had 312 people for an average stay of 12 days, and 190 day visitors. Last summer we had 440 for about the same length of time, and 235 day visitors. Naturally this great increase has been a source of increasing the farm expenses, and making our apparent loss larger than it was the previous year.

I have made a memorandum on the statement for your benefit. The vegetables, milk anl stage were part of the cost of the charity and supply at the expense of the farm. Our insurance on all the buildings ran out last year and I renewed it under five-year insurance policies. Therefore, only one-fifth of this should properly be charged in last year's expense. We put up a new wind mill, and made extensive repairs to our engine (see item for $192) and did quite a little repairing about the barn, and other parts of the buildings amounting to $100. These two items are, in a sense, proper expenses, but are extraordinary expenses.

The part of the report that pleases me least is to find our receipts from the farm less than they were the year before, but this is due to the fact of last summer's drought having spoiled our potato crop. We sold a great many potatoes at 50 cents a bushel that ought to have grown to the dollar side.

The Seamen's Institute sends an appeal, from which the following extracts are taken: "Contributions of books, magazines and illustrated papers of every kind are much needed, and we can use to good advantage an unlimited quantity. They should be sent plainly addressed, Seamen's Institute, Front and Queen streets, Philadelphia. A barrel is the most convenient method of sending, and may be sent by freight at small cost. The name of the sender should always be plainly marked in order that it may promptly be acknowledged. Freight via Penna. R. R. should be sent to Federal street station; via Reading R. R. should be sent to Catharine street station.

Comfort bags, or sailors' housewives, are very acceptable to those going on long voyages. Knitted wristlets, helmets and scarfs are in constant demand. Full printed directions for making will be supplied by the Chaplain.

Partly worn clothing, underwear and shoes for men are needed for destitute and shipwrecked sailors.

We are glad to have assistance in the concerts given on Tuesday evenings by and for the sailors. Instrumental and vocal music, recitations, etc., meet with hearty applause. Notice of a visit should be given to the Chaplain in advance.

"A visit to the Sailors' Concert on Tuesday evening is specially interesting.

"Queen street is between Catharine and Christian streets, and runs east and west.

"Will not the Rectors of our parishes suggest to their congregations through Chancel Notices, in their Parish Papers, and otherwise, the making of thank offerings to the Churchmen's Missionary Association for Seamen when the use of the Thanksgiving for a Safe Return from Sea is requested?"

These suggestions ought to open a door of opportunity to some one.

After nine months without an assistant minister, it is good news that the Rev. Robert Long, who was the first assistant at The Holy Apostles under the Rev. N. S. Thomas, has been secured.

He will have charge of the Sunday School at St. Stephen's, assist at the Sunday morning service, and help in the pastoral work at the Parish Church during the week days. To these duties he will also add the responsibility of the Chaplaincy of the Burd Orphan Asylum, where he will conduct the Sunday afternoon service, organize a morning Sunday School, and hold a mid-week service on Wednesday night.

Last spring the Rector made an appeal to the congregation to contribute funds for the renovation of the interior of the Church. Sufficient money was contributed almost at once to justify the Vestry in going ahead, and a contract was entered into with a firm of professional decorators and restorers. The aim was to retain the old design, but to restore the original colors in their first freshness. The plaster was also to be repaired, and all signs of wear and tear to be removed. The committee placed in charge of the work was Mr. J. Hunter Ewing, Mr. Wm. H. Hollar, and Mr. W. H. Hansell. The hearty thanks of the congregation are due to this committee for its faithful and satisfactory service. The contractor has done most excellent work, and completed his task inside of the time set apart for the repairs.

The following is the report of the Committee to the Vestry at the October meeting:

The Committee on Decorations would report that the work has been completed in accordance with the contract made with the W. P. Nelson Co., and we believe it has been done in a thorough and satisfactory manner, restoring the decorations of the Church to their original design and colors. The circular windows on each side of the Chancel have been put in iron frames and hung to open, which will improve the ventilation of the Church. One of the ceiling arches was found separated several inches from the ceiling, and in an unsafe condition, all of them are now securely bolted to the beams supporting the ceiling. The dado has been added to the walls of the vestibule, and the doors recovered, the Parish Building rooms repainted and put in good order, the cellar cleaned and thoroughly whitewashed.

At the Sunday School building the roof was put in order and all of the interior repainted.

The total cost of the improvements amount to $2,908.46, as per accompanying statement.

Respectfully submitted,
J. HUNTER EWING,
WM. H. HOLLAR,
WM. H. HANSELL.

Among the improvements made in the interior of the Church this summer is the relacquering of all the brasses and railings through the agency of the Altar Society. The railings around the Burd monument, as well as the chancel and pulpit rails are included in this renovation. The covering of the font has also been lacquered and hung in a convenient and modern way. All who contributed to the fund collected for this purpose by the Altar Society are invited to inspect carefully these renovations.

The Sewing School will reopen for the winter session on Saturday, October 23. A systematic reorganization of the classes is being attempted, and under Miss Taylor's management we hope for a successful year, but with our present forces are seriously handicapped by lack of teachers. The instruction of young children in the use of the needle is one of our most valuable activities, and Dr. Grammer will be glad to hear from anyone who is willing to help in this work.

Burd School.

The first report of the new superintendent of the Burd School, Miss O. M. Harnish, was submitted at the last meeting of the Vestry. The report is too long to print in full, but the following are the chief items:

On September 6th, the School was reorganized and now consists of A and B primary, A and B intermediate, A and B grammar; Miss Mildred Sheeder being in charge of the primary school, Miss Catherine Williamson of the intermediate, Miss Ida M. Scherer of the grammar school.

Aside from having charge of the grammar school where Miss Scherer teaches all branches except arithmetic, grammar, hygiene, music, nature-study and elocution, she also teaches history in the intermediate.

Miss Williamson, who has charge of the intermediate, aside from teaching all branches in her own school except arithmetic, language, music and elocution, teaches nature-study, hygiene and gymnastics in the grammar grades.

Miss Sheeder, who is primary teacher, also teaches elocution in the higher grades.

Miss Mumma, the governess teaches grammar and language.

Miss Wannebo teaches music, and Miss Harnish teaches arithmetic.

About twenty-five girls are at present being given music lessons on the piano by Miss Wannebo, more are desirous of taking, but owing to the few pianos which we have, no more girls can find an opportunity to practice.

There are also special classes in cooking, numbering six each, taught by Miss Godfrey, the teacher of domestic science, who also has classes in housekeeping among the smaller children.

Besides the teachers there are the house mother, C. W Housel; Bessie Mundus, matron of the kitchen, and Fannie Basehore, assistant in the kitchen.

During the summer the garden yielded vegetables to the value of $257.95, and there were also 2,600 quarts of milk.

The friends of the school will be interested in a brief statement of the previous training of our new superintendent and teachers.

Ora M. Harnish, superintendent of the Burd School, is a graduate of Lebanon College, Annville, Pa. After graduating from college she was acting general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at Harrisburg, Pa., which work she gave up after a short time to teach in Mrs. Falconer's school. She worked with Mrs. Falconer for three years, first as a teacher, then as principal of the school, and, just previous to coming to the Burd School, as assistant superintendent.

Ida M. Scherer, teacher of the grammar school and German, was educated in Philadelphia, partly in public school and partly by private teachers. She has been a pupil of Miss M. Frances Boice's school, later she studied in Berlin, Germany, where she was a pupil at Pestalozzi-Froebel House, taking a course in Sociology, Domestic Science and Kindergarten work. In Berlin she also studied the German language and literature. Since her return to America she has been engaged in social labor and kindergarten work under Archdeacon Spurr, of West Virginia, and, for four years preceding her coming to the Burd School, in private school work in Towanda, Pa.

Miss Catherine Williamson, teacher of the intermediate school and gymnastics, is a graduate of Grove City College, Grove City, Pa. Following her graduation she taught for three years in the public schools of Butler, Pa., and one year in the public high schools of Duquesne, Pa. She has been a teacher at the Burd School for two years.

Miss Mildred Sheeder, teacher of the primary school and elocution, is a graduate of Irving College, Mechanicsville, Pa. Besides the regular college course she took a special course in elocution, and has also had some training as an assistant in a musical kindergarten.

Miss Edith Mumma, governess and teacher of English, is also a graduate of Irving College, Mechanicsville, Pa., from which she graduated with high honors in English.

Miss Dorothy Godfrey, teacher of Domestic Science, is a graduate of Simon's College, Boston, Mass. After following this course she was connected with the Taconnic School at Lakeville, Conn., as house director and teacher of sewing. Following this, she was for four months Domestic Science teacher at Warren Goddard Settlement House, New York City, which position she left to take up work with Mrs. Falconer with whom she worked until coming to the Burd School.

Miss C. W. Housel, who has been the house mother since September 1st, was nurse and governess in this school for seven years.

Miss Karin Wanebo, the organist and teacher of music, is a native of Sweden, but has been in America for the greater part of the last ten years. She was a pupil of Madam Bersan-Scheel, who was a pupil of Lizt, Goddard and Greig. She has also studied with Greig and is a teacher of the Madam Thressa Carenno method. After coming to America she took up kindergarten work at the Chicago Kindergarten Institute, and then entered social work and was for some time connected with several settlements in Chicago, also with the English and Half Orphan Asylum and the Illinois Children's Aid Society. After her return from abroad in May she was with Mrs. Falconer until she came to the Burd School, September 1st.

The Farm.

St. Stephen's Farm opened its doors on the 12th of June to mothers, little children and babies, and as some of the hottest weather of the season occurred during the two weeks following, much suffering was spared these little ones, and strength was gained to spend the remaining days of summer in the hot streets of the city.

It has formerly been customary to allow everyone to remain two weeks at the farm, but, on account of the greater number of applications, it was found necessary to permit very few outside St. Stephen's Church and Sunday School to stay longer than one week in order to give more people a chance for an outing. The summer of 1908 it was felt that the limit in the capacity of the house was reached, but upon counting, it is found there have been this year more than before, an average of 460 people being accommodated for one and three-quarter weeks besides 314 people for extra meals. The number during the holiday of the Fourth of July is supposed to have been larger than was ever entertained at the farm. The girls were willing to sleep anywhere. One of them wrote: "Just let me come and I'll sleep on the back stairs or on Shep's back." Now the back stairway at the farm is not a good architectural feature, and going up and down is dangerous enough to be a source of pleasure to the younger and adventurous members of the family; and Shep is a fierce Collie dog who has been known to bite, but who is kept on account of his ability as a watch dog and as a driver of the cows, so the sacrifice the girl was willing to make in order to come to the farm is better understood!

Upon the arrival of each new crowd it is customary to be weighed and there is always considerable interest felt, especially among the male members of the guests, as to the amount gained during the stay. There are few exceptions to the fact that each one gains from two pounds up; and how could they help it, where milk and cream are almost as plentiful as water, and, besides the fresh vegetables at meals, the number of apples and pears that are consumed between whiles can hardly be counted? Upon leaving, the suit cases and bundles also gain weight in a mysterious way for they are laden with fruit for the family who have not been so fortunate as to have this holiday.

Sometimes during the day you would think there was no one living at the farm, for everyone goes, morning and evening, on long walks. The locality of Warminster has many interesting places to visit, and our people are real tourists in the sense of adding more scalps to their belts. Not far away are Washington's Headquarters, where Lafayette joined the army, the battle ground of one of our unsuccessful fights with England, where General Lawrence was killed, the old Colonial mansion of Governor Keith of Pennsylvania and Delaware, still studied as a model by architects, the Log Cabin Seminary which was the real beginning of Princeton University, not to speak of the very spot where John Fitch conceived the idea of the first steamboat and where he ran one successfully years before Fulton was ever thought of.

After supper, during the long twilights, it is customary to walk to the top of the hill for the "sunset stories" and to wish on the first star! Then come games for the little ones, followed by a Virginia Reel of which they never tire, and after this the evening is ended by some hymns and a simple prayer, when the younger members disappear to make room for the older girls.

The last two weeks of August were given up again to the boys, and this, their third year at the farm, was undoubtedly the most successful. The little boys are not allowed to wander away as are the girls, and indeed they do not care to, as their pleasure is more in games, baseball being indulged in from morning until night, the interest being increased by some matches with the local teams, as the boys of the Orange Home, or the club from Neshaminy.

Several of the church members did their utmost to provide amusements both for the girls and boys in the way of games like croquet, tennis, quoits and jig-saw puzzles, not to speak of the pleasures contained in great tins of peppermint candy, which were eagerly taken as "after dinner pills."

The little pond dammed up by the boys last year had been dug out and much enlarged, so that it made a good swimming pool for the large family, and was a very much needed addition to the one bathroom in the farm.

But this sketch cannot be closed without speaking of the Sunday afternoon meetings in the woods. In a circular spot, which seemed made on purpose, benches were built and on a straight tree in front a large cross of birch bark was fastened, and when it was decorated with flowers, nothing more beautiful than this temple made without hands, with the swaying trees overhead, could be imagined. The organ was carried down each Sunday and the woodland meeting was always fortunate in getting good singers. But best of all was the fact that each of the six meetings grew so much that on the last there were fully 350 people, some of them farmer folk who had not been to a church for years. So it is to be hoped that St. Stephen's Farm besides benefiting its own people has had some influence on the community where it is situated.

If those of the Church who are so generous in maintaining this good work could but know the difference wrought in these less fortunate ones during the short holiday, and could see the happy, healthy faces looking from the 'bus across great bunches of flowers and peppermint as they leave for the city, they would surely say: "The farm is worth while."

The Parish Visitor's Report.

The work of the Parish goes on, winter and summer, for there are always the poor left behind in the city, who need helping words and cheering visits, even when our purse is low and there is little else to give them. The Church was closed for repairs during July and August, but I was at the Parish House every other day with but few exceptions during the entire summer. I saw that a number of women and children had their vacation at the farm and a tuberculosis case that could not go to the farm was taken into the country, and they all returned delighted and happy. That farm is such a blessing.

The summer visiting disclosed some pressing needs, as it seems that there is as much or more suffering in summer than in winter, because in winter benevolent work goes on, while in summer so many people being away, there is less employment and fewer friends available to whom to apply for means to continue the charitable work.

One family I found in great distress—a young woman who formerly belonged to our Girls' Friendly, married but deserted by her husband after three children had come into the world. Now she is ill with rheumatism and suffers intensely—but has these children to support besides a poor old mother, while her father who met with an accident in an elevator and had his scalp torn had to go to the Philadelphia Hospital. I sent her a few groceries and was able to help a little, and as her eyes troubled her I had them examined and furnished the spectacles.

Another needy case was that of a family—all out of work, and a sick mother whom they could not support; she is over seventy years old and confined to her bed. We were able to get her into four different hospitals, each one helping her as long as possible, and those in charge at the hospitals treated her with great kindness and consideration, but, of course, the time was limited and then she was returned to her home. Last week we were compelled to send her to the Philadelphia Hospital, and as I saw the poor old soul carried down the stairs and into the ambulance, I lifted my heart to God that it might be the last time we would have to disturb her. I was able to do some practical things to relieve the family's distress.

We have a man who has been working around the Church for the verger (he has been doing his work faithfully and well); but knowing that this work would not be permanent, he applied for a position in a college in Baltimore, and was accepted. Upon his arrival he found he could not hold the position unless he would join the Roman Catholic Church, which he could not do; he then found work at painting. One day he was on a scaffold painting when the boards gave way and he fell, breaking his arm and injuring himself internally. The latter he did not discover until he was in Philadelphia again through the kindness of our verger, who hearing of his misfortune, sent him money to return after his release from the Baltimore hospital. His work around the Church is very painful to him owing to his internal injuries, and the physician says he should be employed at something that will not require so much effort. He understands the shoe business, and had he the tools he might get a position as I see they are advertising for helpers. Will not some one give me the money to get this man started at work that he can do?

We have a refined woman from the South in great need of sewing, as she has several children to support. She makes a specialty of children's clothes. Her business card can be had at the Parish House. K. H. Lewis.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received during the summer months:

From Church Fund through Dr. Grammer ..	$35.00
From L. M. C.	5.00
Mrs. H. F. Martin	3.00
From Miss Taggart's, Miss Lindenmeyer's and Mr. Hansell's classes of boys in Sunday School, part of proceeds of minstrel play..	15.00
Total	$58.00

The excursion to Sedgeley with about 84 in the party was enjoyed very much.

The children were nearly all very poor and for that reason appreciated all that was done by the kind friends, who assisted the members of the Society in playing games, in telling stories, and in helping to entertain them in various ways. Mr. Hall and Mr. Streaker were kept busy with the kites, and never tired of helping to make the little ones have a good time. The children have many friends who love to help on these excursions, but time and space will not permit to name them all. We thank them for their kind help. At four o'clock Mr. Jackson Blank's wagon was seen coming up the the hill, and all knew what that meant—biscuits, ice cream and cake. Just before leaving the Park each child was given several sticks of candy, and so ended a good time.

An entertainment will be given the children in November, with the proceeds of the Boys' Minstrel Show. We thank them for their kind thought for the little ones.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

Received in June from Mr. Patton's Estate, $35.75.

This Circle will have their meeting in the Parish House, October 20th, at quarter of 8 o'clock.

At the close of the season a donation of bibs was sent to the Willing Day Nursery, and a small bundle of clothing to the Country Week Association.

Some time in November this Circle will have a sale of fancy and useful articles suitable for Christmas gifts.

Shoe Fund.

Donations during the summer for shoes: From Mrs. A. F. Martin, 75 cents. With the Rector's approval the Shoe Store will open for work the beginning of November. Shoes of all kinds will be very acceptable if sent to the Parish House marked for Shoe Fund.

The Tuberculosis Class.

October 5, 1909.

Dear Doctor Grammer:

In reply to your kind inquiry as to how the Tuberculosis Class has made out during the past summer, I am very glad to be able to give you a very good report.

During the months of June, July, August and September we had 24 new cases to examine; all of these cases were not found suitable for admission to the Class, however. We have at present an enrollment of 22, which is about as large a number as we can take care of with our present equipment. Twelve of these patients are receiving milk, either one or two quarts a day, and several of them also receive a dozen eggs each week.

At the present time Miss Jacques is enjoying a well earned vacation, the Visiting Nurse Society supplying us with a nurse to take her place. We feel indebted to Miss Hines and Miss Neill, who have acted as substitutes, for their interest in and attention to the work. During the summer months about 170 visits have been paid to the patients in their homes.

The Class regrets that it has lost the services of Dr. I. H. Jones, owing to the pressure of other work.

Although everything possible has been done to make us comfortable in our present quarters we will all be very glad indeed to get back to St. Stephen's Parish House in the next few weeks.

The result in some of the patients attending the Class has been very gratifying indeed, and I feel sure that you would be interested in hearing what has been accomplished in a few of the cases.

One of our patients, a young man with a wife and children dependent upon him, after we considered his improvement warranted his returning to work, was sent to the school for chauffeurs, and is now in a position to earn a good living for himself and family. His disease is arrested and he could fill the position without any difficulty if he could only secure a trial. We regret very much that he has not been able to obtain a position as a chauffeur, as he seems to be so sober and industrious that he would prove to be a most satisfactory man for such work.

Two other men in the Class have been enabled to return to their work and continue in good health. Unfortunately they were forced to return to their old work as we were unable to secure out-door employment for them.

Several of the children, members of the Class, were sent out in the country or to the seashore for a few weeks which was of great benefit to them. We have also been able to send one of our adult members to the country for a few weeks. The expense of these trips did not come from the regular funds, but was collected from friends of the Class.

The Class also secured the admission to a sanitorium of a young girl who had been a member of the Class, who we thought could not be properly looked after at home. A little child brought to the Class was sent to one of the city hospitals.

Notwithstanding the heat which is so depressing to the sick, the members of the Class have maintained their enthusiasm and interest in a way deserving of the highest commendation. We feel that it has been a very successful summer and that the members of St. Stephen's Church are to be congratulated upon their successful carrying out of one of the most humane projects which a church can undertake. Yours very sincerely,

Frank A. Craig.

As our readers may have observed, the PARISH NEWS appears this month with a new picture on the cover, the old one having long since served its usefulness. We are indebted to Mr. Albert Snyder for the present drawing, the original of which has been presented to the Church and now adorns the wall of the Vestry-room.

St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew extends a cordial invitation to all men interested in St. Stephen's Church, to meet the Rector's assistant, the Rev. Robert Long, on Tuesday evening, October 26th, at 8 P. M., in the Parish House, 9 So. 10th street.

Representative of St. Stephen's of the Bishop White Parish Library Association.—Miss Emily Bell.

One of the clergy of the parish will be at the Parish House, No. 9 South Tenth Street, Mondays from 10.30 to 11, and the rest of the week, daily, 11 to 12. Rector's days are Tuesdays. Communications can be sent through the Verger, Mr James Carrigan, No. 1114 Pine Street, at any time.

It is well for those making arrangements for baptisms, marriages, funerals and other services, needing the presence of a clergyman of the church to see one of the clergy before fixing the time.

Forms of Bequest.

FOR THE ENDOWMENT FUND.

I give and bequeath to the Rector, Church Wardens, and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church, in the City of Philadelphia, Trustees of the Endowment Fund of St. Stephen's Church, the sum of dollars, for the purpose of said Endowment Fund.

FOR THE ENDOWMENT OF A PEW.

I give and bequeath to the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church, in the City of Philadelphia, Trustees of the Fund for the Endowment of Pews in St. Stephen's Church, the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, for the Endowment of a Pew to be called the pew.

NOTE.—The Act of April 26th, 1855, requires that a will containing a bequest to religious or Charitable uses must be executed at least one month before decease, and be attested by two disinterested witnesses. Otherwise the bequest is void.

Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 S. 10th Street. They should be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say, in November, not later than the 28th.

The Church Work Fund.

It has been the custom in St. Stephen's for years to give the Rector about fifteen hundred dollars as an official purse, to enable him to carry on the work of the Church without constant recourse to the Vestry. Out of this fund he pays for advertising, for the publication of THE PARISH NEWS, for special assistance in the Church, or for teaching in any of the Societies and it is, in general, by its aid that he is enabled to act freely, where he would otherwise be seriously hampered.

Last year the amount contributed was $1,600, and no more is asked this year, as by reason of several economies, that sum will meet all our needs, and still leave the necessary margin.

This fund is usually contributed in October, so we are a month behind our usual date. A prompt response will be appreciated. The money may be sent directly to the Rector.

At the last meeting of the Vestry it was pointed out that additional repairs were necessary if the Church was to be put in first class condition. Now that the interior has been redecorated it would have been a mistake not to go on, so the Vestry has ordered further repairs, particularly on the south exterior wall, which needs plastering and re-painting. The total cost of the additional improvements will be $400. There is on hand $57 for this purpose, leaving a deficit of $343. No committee was originally appointed to secure the money for the re-decorations. It was sufficient for the Rector to announce to the congregation that repairs were desirable, and $3,000 were subscribed. The money was raised from such a few people that it is hoped that the other members who are interested in keeping the property in good order will come forward of their own accord and make up this additional amount. The Church has been re-wired, redecorated and repaired thoroughly within, and after these exterior improvements shall be completed, the property will be in first class condition, and can be kept in good order at small expense.

A Pastoral Hour.

It has been the custom of the Rector to give Tuesday mornings to the routine business of the Church and the details of administration, but his experience in the last years has convinced him that it would be convenient for many people to have him set a time when he can be found in his office for consultation on moral and spiritual subjects. He has set apart the noon hour, from twelve to one on Thursday for this purpose. If anyone calls upon him at this time it will be understood that the conversation is not to linger in the realm of externalities but will be occupied with the soul and its needs and problems. There are many troubles that will disappear if they are frankly talked over and bravely faced. There ought to be more spiritual fellowship between a minister and his flock, and the parochial visiting ought not to be thrown entirely on the minister. The people should do their part by visiting the Rector. This custom of a noonday hour has been found fruitful of good results in a great church in London, and ought to meet a similar need in Philadelphia. The Rector asks the people who have been in the habit of consulting him on spiritual problems on Tuesdays to make a note of this new arrangement and come on Thursday.

The past month has been full of bereavements to members of the congregation. In the death of Mr. Robert Atmore, the Church lost a faithful member, and the work among the colored people in the Diocese a staunch supporter. Mr. Atmore filled at one time the place of a Vestryman at the Incarnation, but since he became a member of St. Stephen's his health did not admit such activity, although he still remained on the Vestry of the Church of the Crucifixion. He knew for many months that his tenure of life was feeble, and faced the inevitable change with the serenity of faith. He made all his preparations, and while the end was sudden, it found him prepared. The Rev. Mr. Phillips participated with Dr. Grammer in the funeral services.

Still more unexpected was the death of Mrs. J. P. Young, who was in her pew, as usual, in the transept, on the Sunday before her decease, and was full of vigor apparently, and of plans for the winter. She was one of our regular attendants and will much be missed. It is sad to think that the places that knew them shall know them no more; but it is well to remind ourselves that they are doubtless knowing better places, and have entered into a larger life. It is only twilight here; the morning breaks beyond.

The congregation was deeply grieved to learn on Sunday, the tenth of October, of the death of Miss Rachael S. Miller, the only surviving sister of the Rev. Joseph L. Miller who has so tenderly attached to himself the members of St. Stephen's by his long and sympathetic ministration in this Church. Miss Miller was taken ill on Saturday night and passed away early on Sunday. "She had another morn than ours," and day broke upon her in a region free from clouds and with a brighter luminary than the sun. Dr. Grammer took part in the funeral on October 13, and a number of people from St. Stephen's went out to Mount Airy to attend the service. May God Who (as the Church teaches us to say) in His wise Providence has taken to Himself the soul of our deceased sister, strengthen the heart of her brother and comfort him with the comforts, wherewith he comforted others in their afflictions. It was pleasant to have him at St. Stephen's on All Saints' Day, to share with us in the Communion of the Saints and to make that article in the creed more real to us.

The lectures on Sunday afternoons this fall and winter will be devoted to the origins of the Christian Church during the period in which the canonical scriptures were composed, with special emphasis on the Book of Acts. A syllabus issued by the Christian Literature Company can be procured in the Vestry by those who intend to take the course. While the Rector does not bind himself to a slavish following of the syllabus he regards it of the first importance that everyone should procure it and do the modicum of work required by it. Delay in securing the copies of the syllabus has postponed the beginning of the lectures until the first Sunday in November.

On the last Sunday in October Dr. Wood resigned his position as choir leader and organist at the evening service at the Baptist Temple on North Broad street. A special musical program was prepared for the occasion. One of the most interesting selections was a composition by Dr. Wood himself which he wrote especially for the Temple choir. It showed his unique mastery of the classical fugue. Many kind words in appreciation of his long service were spoken. It was really wonderful to see the cordiality and Christian fellowship that prevails in that great congregation. This friendliness is undoubtedly one of the great secrets of its growth and influence. It is a subject of rejoicing that Dr. Wood has chosen to diminish the great volume of his labors. He has done too much for years. We rejoice therefore for his sake as well as for our own that he has spared himself this third service on Sunday, and henceforth will give all his strength to St. Stephen's. Those who wish to hear him draw from the organ

"a sound so fine there's nothing lives
'Twixt it and silence"

must come down to Tenth street, near Chestnut.

The congregation will be much interested to learn that Dr. Snively and his family will go abroad shortly. His son, who is the assistant of the Rev. Dr. Slattery, Springfield, Massachusetts, will not be included in the party. It is pleasant to know that Dr. Snively and his daughters will spend the winter so agreeably. The PARISH NEWS will be glad to publish from time to time any items that may acquaint his friends with his movements. While Dr. Snively's resignation of the wardenship of The Burd School was offered last spring, his connection with the Parish continued in a sense till the first of November. He will carry with him on his tour the good wishes of his numerous friends in Philadelphia, and at St. Stephen's.

Literature for the Burd School.

The children at the Burd School are sadly in need of reading material. The standard books ought to be on the shelves of the library, so that their tastes may be cultivated and their minds enriched by reading good literature. The members of the congregation are asked to look over their libraries and see whether they have not copies of Dickens, Scott, and such classics as Alice in Wonderland, that no longer serve any purpose and are only collectors of dust or mementos of the past. Such books may be sent to the Vestry of St. Stephen's, whence they will be forwarded to the Burd School.

Reception to Mr. Long.

A reception was given on Tuesday evening October 26, by the men of the Parish under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew to our new Assistant, Rev. Mr. Robert Long. There was a large attendance, and lots of good fellowship. The preliminary meeting was called to order by Mr. Tatnall, chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, who announced the absence of the Director, Mr. McKeehan having been called out of the city at the last minute. The Vice-Director, Mr. Hansell, then took the chair. Mr. Long made an address which was listened to with enjoyment by all. Mr. Lewis H. Van Dusen then made a short speech of welcome on behalf of the Brotherhood to Mr. Long. Mr. Cleeman and several members of the Vestry were present. The principal address of the evening was given by Mr. Edward H. Bonsall, who spoke on the Missionary Movement, in which all were interested.

The men of the choir came out in a body and gave a number of fine musical selections which were highly appreciated. Both Dr. Anthony and Mr. Manypenny sang, and Mr. Watkins delighted everyone by his unique skill as a whistler. It was good to see so many young men of the Alpha Kappa. The value of such a gathering was manifested in that some new members were secured for the Brotherhood.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An Informal Dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church, will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday Eve., November 16th, in the banquet room of the City Club, 1418 Walnut street, at seven o'clock.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this dinner. The price of the dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

Our parochial branch of the Auxiliary held its first meeting of this season in the Parish House on Thursday, October 21st. The President made an address of welcome. The session was given over to the exchange of autumn greetings, and to the forecasting of the winter's work. Last winter was the best we have had, and this winter we are reaching forward with enthusiasm toward still greater success and helpfulness. The scope of our work is so broad there must surely be some phase which would appeal to the interest of every individual woman of St. Stephen's. We want and need every one. There are some who say they are not interested in foreign missions, or even that they do not believe in them. Even if such be the case, come and help us with home missions, help us in the work that is waiting to be done here in Philadelphia, at our very doors.

The regular meetings will be held on the third Thursday of each month at 11 o'clock. The dates are as follows:

Thursday, November 18th.
Thursday, December 16th.
Thursday, January 20th.
Thursday, February 17th.
Thursday, March 17th.
Thursday, April 21st.

E. W. L. Secretary.

Notice.

The Church Missionary Calendar for 1910, prepared by the R. L. M. Mission Study Class Alumnæ, will be issued and ready for private sale October 15th. Price 50 cents each, postage free, with box to match.

The objects of this Calendar are threefold:
To spread Missionary knowledge;
To arouse interest, and
To secure daily intercessory prayer for Missions.

There is a daily text from the words of Jesus, a definite piece of Missionary information and a prayer thought for each of the 365 days, each month being devoted to some particular part of the mission field, as for instance: February, Japan; March, China, etc.

In designing the Calendar, green was chosen to represent the longest Church Season. The texts are the Great Commission and the Promise which are placed in the conventional fish form on either side of the pad which contains the 365 leaves, and below is another text in beautiful script. There is also the Open Bible and Chalice representing the gifts our missionaries are carrying to all the world. On the pad is seen the Jerusalem Cross to remind us that the great work was begun at Jerusalem, and the four small crosses that our work is spreading North, South, East and West.

The net proceeds of the Calendar will be donated to work under the Board of Missions. It is hoped that all will join in making the sale a general one. Copies may be obtained at the next meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church, on Thursday, November 18th, or by applying to:

MRS. J. NICHOLAS MITCHELL,
1505 Spruce St., Philadelphia.

The King's Daughters.

The King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle cordially invite you to attend a sale of aprons and other fancy articles, candy and cake, Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th, St. Stephen's Parish House. Proceeds for their charitable work.

Music from 9 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. David Wood, soprano; Mr. Charles Manypenny, tenor; Miss Frances Fisher, pianist; Bernice Frysinger-Lewis, accompanist, have very kindly offered their services.

Shoe Fund.

Donation from Mrs. M. Parmalee, 25 cents. Owing to the warm weather the Shoe Store will not be open until the middle of November.

The Women's Bible Class, under the leadership of Mrs. Howard Butcher, will hold its first meeting for the winter on Sunday afternoon, November 7th, at 3 P. M., in the Parish House. New members are cordially invited.

Mrs. Taylor would be very much pleased to have anyone interested in the work, join the Embroidery Class, which meets every Friday morning at the Parish House.

It is requested that all members of the congregation who have changed their residence during the past year without notifying the Rector will leave their new addresses with the verger, so that a correct list may be maintained.

A Specimen of a Helpful Letter.

DEAR DOCTOR GRAMMER:

I think it will interest you to know we have in the house a stranger here and an Episcopalian. Probably you may find time to call. She promised to attend St. Stephen's this morning with me, but was prevented.

I trust all your family are well. I find it very pleasant to be again in the city this winter. With best wishes to you,

I am sincerely yours,

Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The following letter has been sent to the ministers of the various churches in Philadelphia:

In inaugurating the National Campaign of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Philadelphia and the adjacent territory, the Co-operating Committee feels that it can accomplish little without the active co-operation of the pastors of all the churches.

We desire to emphasize some of the salient features of the Movement.

From the first the whole idea has been to co-operate with the regular missionary agencies of the churches in the enlargement of their work. It does not divert any missionary offerings from congregational or denominational channels. All the organization asked for is a Missionary Committee of men in each congregation to work with the pastor in enlisting all members and adherents in the intelligent and adequate support and extension of missionary work.

The Movement stands for investigation, agitation and organization; the investigation by laymen of missionary conditions; the agitation by laymen of an adequate missionary policy, and the organization of laymen to co-operate with the ministers and Missionary Boards in enlisting the whole Church in its supreme work of saving the world.

The Movement presents to men the greatest possible spiritual challenge. The greatest thing in the world is the world, and men are confronted with God's imperative challenge to give to the world's need their attention and help.

This Movement makes the largest possible demands upon men. It reminds them that all life is a sacred trust, involving the stewardship of opportunity, of influence, of time, and of treasure; that spiritual values are the only permanent values; that selfishness is suicidal, while service of others brings to the soul the supremest possible satisfaction.

In order that the plans adopted by the Philadelphia Committee may be successful, and that your Church may receive the benefit of the Movement, it is necessary that the Philadelphia Committee should have your encouragement and aid, and the active co-operation of your men.

The Philadelphia district covers not only the City of Philadelphia, but the counties of Delaware, Chester, Montgomery and Bucks in Pennsylvania; the entire State of Delaware and Southern New Jersey. Throughout this territory, the Philadelphia Co-operating Committee has planned a campaign of Missionary Education, acting under the advice and suggestion of the headquarters of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in New York City.

The great inspirational feature of the Philadelphia Campaign will be the Inter-denominational Men's Missionary Convention to be held at Philadelphia, November 18th to 21st, 1909. Distinguished men in public life, statesmen, prominent business and professional men, and representatives of all the missionary boards, will participate in the discussions.

Provision will be made at the Philadelphia Convention for 2,000 delegates from the Philadelphia district, and your church should be represented in order that your people may receive the inspiration which will come from so great a gathering of men who are interested in the winning of the world for Christ.

One of our first aims is to get in touch with the Missionary Committee in every congregation. Through this committee we will work to create a deeper interest in Missions in your Church.

There will be sent to the members of the committee suitable literature bearing upon the Laymen's Missionary Movement; registration blanks for delegates to the Convention, with full particulars regarding the Convention and an invitation to attend the supper to which 1,000 men will sit down, and with which the Convention will open.

We desire to have the Missionary Committee secure delegates to the Convention, in case they cannot attend themselves, and we are anxious to have on the committee representative men who realize the importance of Missions, and men who will work.

Faithfully yours,

THE PHILADELPHIA CO-OPERATING COMMITTEE.

The following members of our Church are members of the committee:

Chairman, Edward H. Bonsall; John E. Baird, Franklin S. Edmonds, Rowland Evans, George W. Jacobs, Mahlon N. Kline, Francis A. Lewis, Ewing L. Miller, H. S. Prentiss Nichols, George Wharton Pepper, Talcott Williams.

Secretary-Treasurer.—Abram G. Tatnall.

Representative of St. Stephen's on the Board of the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society.—Miss Cleemann.
Representative of St. Stephen's of the Bishop White Parish Library Association.—Miss Emily Bell.

One of the clergy of the parish will be at the Parish House, No. 9 South Tenth Street, Mondays from 10.30 to 11, and the rest of the week, daily, 11 to 12. Rector's days are Tuesdays, for matters of church administration, and Thursdays for pastoral conferences on moral and religious subjects. Communications can be sent through the Verger, Mr. James Carrigan, No. 1114 Pine Street, at any time.

It is well for those making arrangements for baptisms, marriages, funerals and other services, needing the presence of a clergyman of the church to see one of the clergy before fixing the time.

Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 So. 10th street. They should be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say, in December, not later than the 26th.

A Prayer for Love.

O God, we have known and believed the love that Thou hast for us. May we, by dwelling in love, dwell in Thee, and Thou in us. May we learn to love Thee whom we have not seen, by loving our brethren whom we have seen. Teach us, O heavenly Father, the love wherewith Thou hast loved us; fashion us, O blessed Lord, after thine own example of love; shed abroad, O Thou Holy Spirit of Love, the love of God and man in our hearts. Amen.

HENRY ALFORD.

Christmas Dinners.

It has been the custom in St. Stephen's Church for a number of years to provide Christmas dinners for the poor of the parish, and this year the appeal is made as usual for donations for that purpose. It is sad to think of anyone being hungry on that joyous day, and there is no season of the year when we should feel more called upon to share our blessings with those who are less fortunate than we. Last year our people were more generous than ever before, and out of the sum of $331 which they contributed, over a thousand persons were supplied with a good Christmas dinner. The distribution of the baskets is carefully supervised by Miss Lewis, and only those known to be deserving are provided for. It is hoped that a generous offering will be made this year, and that even a larger number of homes will be made happy by the liberality of our congregation at this season of good cheer. Donations may be placed in the envelopes which will be distributed in the pews for the purpose, or they may be sent to the Rector.

The returns for the Church Work Fund have been very gratifying, especially in the fidelity with which the older members of the congregation have responded to the appeal. The Rector wishes to remind those of the newer members who have not contributed to this fund that out of it are paid not only many of the smaller expenses of the Church, but also the contributions which make it possible for the societies to carry on their work. It, therefore, aids largely in the charitable activity of the Church.

The Men's Banquet.

The third dinner of the men of St. Stephen's Church was held under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday evening, November 16th, at the City Club, and was the most successful affair of its kind they have undertaken. Everyone of the seventy-three men present seemed to have a thoroughly good time, many of them becoming acquainted with others who seem to be strangers, although they had been worshipping under the same roof for many years.

Mr. McKeehan acted as toastmaster, and in his delightful way introduced a number of very interesting speakers. Mr. Ludovic Cleeman, who has been a warden in St. Stephen's Church for more than fifty years, told us of many instances of his earlier connections with the church.

Speaking on behalf of the men of the Chapter, Mr. Roland Morris outlined forcibly the great field of our work and made an appeal to the men to interest themselves in some one particular undertaking of the Church, so that by giving a fair portion of their time to this object, the greatest general good to the Church might be accomplished. He also told us of the fine work that was being done by the Burd Orphan Asylum in educating girls so they will be able to earn a living and be a good influence for their fellow workers. Few of us realize how much Mr. Morris, himself, has accomplished in connection with the Burd Orphan Asylum, and we can justly hold him as an example of his own suggestion.

The Rev. Robert Long gave us a few anecdotes and made an appeal to the men for both money and time. He hopes to provide a place where the boys of the Sunday School can play basket ball, and wishes help in connection with the Sunday School of the Burd Orphan Asylum.

Between the speeches, Mrs. Wood, Dr. Anthony and Mr. Manypenny entertained us with some delightful music.

Dr. Grammer was enthusiastically called on for a speech, and expressed his great pleasure and delight in the gathering of so many men, feeling that he is now reaping the fruit of his four years of hard work, in the increased interest shown by such a large number of the men of the Church. A. G. T.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

At the October meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, at the request of the President, Miss Magee, Miss Laura Bell gave an account of our mission work in Rio de Janeiro, of which Rev. William Cabell Brown is in charge. His congregation is composed of Brazilians, and services are conducted entirely in Portuguese. The growth of the mission will soon necessitate seeking larger quarters in the beautiful tropical city of Rio de Janeiro. Dr. Brown is a noted scholar, and, in addition to his parochial duties, is engaged on a translation of the Bible into Portuguese.

The November meeting of the Auxiliary was held on Thursday, the eighteenth, at eleven o'clock. There was a large attendance of 42. Reports were heard from the following committees: The Colored Committee, the Foreign Committee, the Treasury of United Offering. A report was also heard from the Missionary Box Committee, whose work is a matter of interest to this society.

The attention of the Auxiliary was called to the fund that is being raised for the establishment of St. Paul's College in Tokyo, where the students of St. Paul's school may continue and complete a sound secular education.

A strong and eloquent address was delivered by Mr. Herbert Welsh, who has been connected with the Indian Rights Association since its foundation and who, for 26 years, has been an earnest worker for the welfare of the Indian race. Mr. Welsh visited South Dakota as early as 1882. The conditions he found there and the terrible difficulties confronting the missionary so profoundly impressed him that some years later he and others formed an organization which should endeavor to see that the Indian got fair play at the hands of the United States Government. This organization—the Indian Rights Association—is working for the Indian in co-operation with the missionary in improving the conditions under which the work of Christ is being carried forward in the Reservations of the West.

Mr. Welsh outlined the stages of the struggle of the Association for justice. There were periods of great discouragement when the authorities at Washington seemed utterly indifferent to the fraud and corruption that was going forward in the West at such great cost of the defenseless Indian. The public mind seemed to consider the Indian a hopeless people, and the Government's attitude was expressed in the phrase: "Why trouble ourselves about them, anyway." But these discouragements only caused Mr. Welsh and the Indian Right's Association to make still greater efforts in the work.

Mr. Welsh delivered some lectures in the effort to stir up public opinion in this matter. At one of these lectures, delivered in Brooklyn, he presented a few realistic word-pictures of the Indian, his pathetic struggles to adjust himself to the "White Man's" civilization, and the terrible greed and injustice to which he was exposed by that civilization. He called his audience's attention to the Indian's need of Christ, and explained that the Christ-message could not really reach these people until this barrier of injustice should be struck down. The audience greeted these facts with enthusiasm and that moment marked the awakening of the public conscience in the matter—resulting in better legislation for the Indian. Mr. Welsh closed his most interesting address by pointing out that the history of this movement affords a most remarkable illustration of the power of little things in determining large results.

The regular meetings of the Auxiliary will be held as usual on the third Thursday of each month at 11 o'clock. The dates are as follows:

Thursday, Dec. 16th.
Thursday, Jan. 20th.
Thursday, Feb. 17th.
Thursday, March 17th.
Thursday, April 21st.

Girls' Friendly Society.

The Girls' Friendly Society has resumed its meetings this winter with its usual activity, and with increased numbers. We are glad to welcome two new additions to the working force, in Mrs. Long and Mrs. Lucas. The re-organization of the candidates' class under Miss Taylor's management contributes greatly to the strength of the Society, in training the younger girls for active and useful membership when they are old enough to be admitted to the Society itself. Preparations are now being made for the Christmas festival, which is to be held on Monday evening, December 27.

On Monday, November fourteenth, Mrs. Wetmore, the principal of Christ School, Arden, North Carolina, gave a very interesting talk before the members of the Society. She told of her work among the poor mountain people of that region, describing most vividly their wretched homes and hard and uninteresting lives. Christ School, an industrial and academic school for boys and girls, and the chapel connected with it, with the daily and Sunday services, Girls' Friendly Society and other interests, have done much to brighten and broaden the lives of these people.

Mrs. Wetmore's talk appealed very strongly to all her hearers, and it has been suggested by one of the members of our Society that we show our interest and desire to help by sending to Mrs. Wetmore a Christmas trunk filled with articles to be distributed among some of her poor people. J. C. M.

Parish Visitor's Report.

This Thanksgiving we were only able to send out a few baskets, each containing a chicken, some potatoes, cranberries, a package of tea and sugar and a limited number of oranges, so we selected the very poor—or those who had nothing, because the head of the household was out of work.

Our Day of Thanksgiving brings to our minds how very much we have for which to be thankful in our work among the poor and afflicted. Sometimes things turn out all wrong (and we feel like the rooster standing disconsolately on one foot and exclaiming: "What's the use; first an egg and then a feather duster!") and we are sorely discouraged,—then something happens that brightens the horizon for us like the after-glow of the sunset and we put our failures and discouragements behind us and keep our faces toward the light.

One very pleasant thing came to us the other day when a comfortably dressed, happy-looking workman entered the Church and asked if we remembered him. Then he went on to say that he had come to us the beginning of last winter; his shoes were broken and his clothes so worn they did not keep the icy blasts out. The Garment Society gave him warm underwear, a suit of clothes, overcoat and a pair of shoes, making him look so respectable that his nerve and energy returned to him and he secured work in one of our daily newspaper offices and has kept this situation and to-day has a happy home and is able to provide for his wife and three children. He returned to thank us and show his appreciation for what we had helped him to accomplish. Dr. Grammer was present at the time and was delighted to see such a rare virtue,—"gratitude."

Another case of "gratitude," to God—a poor woman who was all crippled up with rheumatism told me with beaming face and happy smile how she had been praying to God for two weeks, day and night, for some special gift, and the dear Lord answered her prayer.

Here is a case that is very pitiful: A man comes to me continually begging for work. He was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for a number of years and has been unable to find steady employment for some time past. His children are in our Sunday School, and he would like any position, no matter how small the pay if it would just allow him food and shelter—a position as private watchman, or addressing envelopes. If nothing can be gotten for him, there is only the Almshouse.

One other item of great importance,—the King's Daughters had a fair, and from the proceeds of their work sent me five dollars for my work. I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to them, and assure them the money will be spent wisely and where it will do the most good. K. H. Lewis.

The Garment Society desires to thank the following: Mrs. T. P. Chandler, Miss McAllister, Miss Washington, Miss Lammot, Miss MacRae, Mr. W. H. Conovers, Mr. Stovell, Miss M. M. Parmalee, Mrs. Noblit, Miss Jones and Miss Lowenberg for donations received.

It has been pleasant to see so many of the Sunday School children in the church on Sunday mornings this fall. On several occasions the transept gallery has been quite well filled, and on Thanksgiving Day a large delegation from the primary department occupied several pews in the center of the church. We hope that this is a promise of better things to come, when the Sunday School will come in a body and worship with us, and a closer bond of union will be brought about between it and the church.

The Burd Sunday School.

A Sunday School was organized at the Burd school, October 24, 1909, all the children at the school and about twenty from the vicinity being enrolled. At present the school is divided into three classes, which are taught by two of the Burd school teachers and the superintendent.

It is desired that more classes be formed as soon as teachers can be secured. At present the classes number from twenty to twenty-five, but we feel that if they would be smaller in number, the teaching would be more effective.

The stories of the Old Testament are used as the basis of our lessons, and we teach directly from the Bible, no lesson leaflets being used.

The children seem to enjoy the Sunday School very much, and many are showing decided interest in the study of the lesson.

The people of Millbourne appear very grateful for the opportunity of having a place so near, to which they can send their children. New pupils have been coming in each Sunday.

ORA M. HARNISH, Superintendent.

Mrs. Grammer will be unable to receive the members of the congregation at the Rectory on Wednesday afternoons this winter, until the first of January, when, in accordance with her usual custom, she hopes to be able to resume her afternoons at home.

The Benevolent Society

Has dish towels and glass towels for sale at 15 cents, the price of the mateiral; roller towels two and a half yards long at 38 cents, gingham aprons with pockets at 20 cents, and maids' white aprons at 40 and 50 cents.

Housekeepers—please remember our Society and buy from us when replenishing your stores. Also give us orders for outing gowns, and when you are shopping for the poor see if we cannot fill your orders.

Notice.

A play entitled "Wanted—a Family" will be given by the "Sextette" on Tuesday evening, December 7th, at eight o'clock, in St. Stephen's Sunday School room, for the benefit of the Home for Aged Couples, 1723 Francis street. The price of admission is twenty-five cents, and tickets may be obtained from the Verger. The object is a very worthy one, and a large attendance is hoped for.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received in November: From King's Daughters, $5.00 On November 30th Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds showed some of their beautiful moving pictures. This was a Thanksgiving treat for the poor children from three of the classes in St. Stephen's Sunday School.

The St. Stephen's Tuberculosis Class: Why the Work Has Been Discontinued.

An abstract of the address given by Dr. Frank A. Craig before the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at its annual Banquet on November 9, 1909:

In the warfare being waged throughout the world against tuberculosis the most important weapon we possess is education, not only of the healthy people so that they may protect themselves against infection, but also of those suffering from this disease so that they may adopt those measures which will prevent it from spreading. It has been found that lectures, popular exhibitions, and articles in the daily papers reach both classes, but that they do not impress upon the tuberculous the absolute necessity of the measures of prevention, and do not see that they are carried out. For this reason the plan of having the nurses go into the homes of these patients and instructing them individually was adopted.

Only a few years ago there was but one dispensary in this city which carried out this plan of teaching the patients the rules of prevention, the sending of nurses to their homes to see that the rules were followed out, and the free distribution of milk to those cases only who adhered strictly to the rules.

As the other dispensaries were not in a position to carry out this plan the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis decided to try and get the churches interested in this movement, as this plan had been very successfully carried out in Boston in the Emanuel Church under Dr. Pratt. The Visiting Nurse Society agreed to supply the nurse, the Pennsylvania Society the medical director, and St. Stephen's Church the rooms, supplies, milk, eggs, and medicine.

The class was therefore formed, the Pennsylvania Society asked the speaker to assume charge of the work, and the Visiting Nurse Society appointed Miss Mabel Jacques as our nurse. The class continued its work for about one year and a half, meeting one afternoon a week, and was very successful largely on account of the personal efforts of Miss Jacques.

When Miss Jacques felt obliged to resign from the Visiting Nurse Society we considered the question of discontinuing the class. As we felt that we might have some difficulty in securing a nurse with the same amount of experience in this kind of work and who would take the same deep personal interest in the class we decided that we had better discontinue the work. We were also led to this decision by the fact that at present nearly all the large hospitals have regular tuberculosis dispensaries, many of them with visiting nurses in connection with them, rendering the necessity for the class not so evident.

Before breaking up the class every patient was instructed which dispensary to go to and in most instances was given a note to the physician in charge. Many of the patients I arranged to take care of in my own dispensary in another hospital. In this way none of the patients were allowed to suffer by our decision.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to Dr. Grammer and the various members of this Church for their many kindnesses and assistance during my connection with the work of St. Stephen's Church.

Very sincerely,

FRANK A. CRAIG.

One of the clergy of the parish will be at the Parish House, No. 9 South Tenth Street, Mondays from 10.30 to 11, and the rest of the week, daily, 11 to 12. Rector's days are Tuesdays, for matters of church administration, and Thursdays for pastoral conferences on moral and religious subjects. Communications can be sent through the Verger, Mr. James Carrigan, No. 1114 Pine Street, at any time.

It is well for those making arrangements for baptisms, marriages, funerals and other services, needing the presence of a clergyman of the church to see one of the clergy before fixing the time.

Fourth Sunday.—General Charities.
Fifth Sunday.—Parochial Maintenance.

Notice.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Church, No. 9 So. 10th street. They should be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say, in January, not later than the 30th.

Note.

Through an error last month a contribution of $150 to the Church Work Fund was acknowledged in the name of Mr. John W. Trinkle. It was given by him "in memory of Mrs. Trinkle," and should have been so entered.

The Rector calls the attention of those who have not yet contributed to the Church Work Fund. This fund supplies the Rector with an official purse. Out of it he pays for the necessary advertising, finances the various societies and equips numerous enterprises within the Church. Thus far he has received $1,340, and he ought to have $200 more.

Happy New Year.

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light,
The year is dying in the night.
Ring out wild bells and let him die.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

From the Rector.

TO MY OLDER PARISHIONERS:

When this reaches you, we shall have entered on the last year of the first decade of the Twentieth Century. Think of it, a decade, and it seems only the other day, that we bade the famous Nineteenth Century good-bye, and here the Twentieth Century will soon be in its teens. Well, it may rush upon us as fast as it will, but it cannot grow older faster than we. Our life keeps pace with it, and we need not feel rushed or hurried, for as the old Indian said, "We have all the time there is." Let us therefore possess our souls in peace. We are like people on the train. The landscape may flash past them, but they all move together. So we are all borne along together on this mighty stream of Time. Some may be nearer than others to the falls, where it slips over into Eternity; but we are all alike moving on towards that wondrous change; all moving in Time here, all to be united in Eternity there, we hope.

I want to send a word of greeting in this number of the PARISH NEWS to my older parishioners, who rarely and, in some cases never, come to Church in these days. There are certain words in the service that always bring you to my mind. Sometimes I am inclined to envy you, as I think how the worst part of the conflict is over, how you have passed successfully through many struggles, and I fancy you sitting in a kind of sun-set splendor, glorious and serene, watching the stars of promise grow brighter and brighter. I hope that you have such moments, nay, that you have such days; but I am sure that such idealized conceptions are only partially true. I know you have moments of great loneliness, as you remember, that

> The names you loved to hear
> Have been carved for many a year
> On the tomb.

Age has its own burdens, and its special temptations. It is no easy task to grow old gracefully, to give up power and responsibility, and to realize that one is no longer much of a factor in life. The new habits, turns of speech, fads and fancies, as well as new principles and new knowledge must often make you feel like a stranger in a strange land. Then alas, there is often the great Angel pain, that comes to teach you patience or to warn you of danger, Then there is weakness and failing capacity or faculty to humble you. Oh, I am sure that you have often a hard fight to bear up, and be brave and uncomplaining. May God sustain you in these conflicts, and deliver you from any fear of the great change that is so inevitably approaching. St. Paul said that to die is gain, that to depart and be with Christ is far better. Let us give up carrying the burden of the future, and leave it all to God, as unto a merciful and faithful Creator.

> It is not death to fling
> Aside this sinful dust,
> To rise on strong exultant wing
> To live among the just.

You may be sure that God has some work for you to do, or he would not keep you here. He is accomplishing something in you, or through you. If you are faithful, you are attaining some grace, that was not fully yours, or you are bearing some witness to His grace, or manifesting, or evoking in some way some Divine trait or truth. Let us hold fast to the end without wavering.

It must be hard to keep the flame of devotion burning, without any of the customary helps. I am sure that you know the incomparable merits of the Prayer Book as a hand book of devotion. What prayers are equal to the Collects? They are smooth stones out of the brook, and have been polished by the centuries of devotion that have rolled over them. With them you can smite many a Goliath of despondency. The psalms are rich in treasuries of devotion. Our hymnal is a splendid collection of glowing and inspiring thoughts and winged words. Above all there are the gospels and the words of Him who spake as never man spake. "The longer I live," said a celebrated theologian, "the more do I fall back upon a few great principles." Younger people may seek novelties, and modes of thought adapted to the times, but as we grow older, what we want is the simpler truths, old as time, and yet ever new and ever true, that fit us for eternity and enable us to lead the eternal life here. They need not worry that they can not keep abreast of the times, who are in accord with Eternity.

I send you, in this issue, my older parishioners, a New Year's greeting, and ask your prayers for St. Stephen's and its various ministries, and invoke upon you the peace of God that passeth all understanding.

Grant, we beseech Thee, merciful Lord, to Thy faithful people pardon and peace, that they may be cleansed from all their sins and serve Thee with a quiet mind, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

The Envelope System.

At the last monthly meeting of the Vestry, a resolution was passed directing the introduction into St. Stephen's Church of the envelope system. The feeling of the Vestry was that we need more system in our giving. We are urged on to this course by two considerations. First of all, St. Stephen's itself is in need of more general support from its members and from those who worship within its walls. There is a widespread idea that St. Stephen's is a very wealthy Church, and does not need the contributions of its members or attendants. Such may have been the condition once, though it never was a wholesome condition, for people usually do not value adequately benefits that cost them nothing. This is such an axiom that the Bible Society enjoins its colporteurs not to give away a Bible, except under very peculiar conditions, since a man who does not care for a copy of the Scriptures enough to pay something for it, will certainly never take the trouble to read it; while if he makes an investment in the book, even though it be a merely nominal sum, he will try to get something out of his expenditure. So those days when no exertion had to be made to raise any money for parochial expenses were doubtless very pleasant, and we may long for their ease, but it must be confessed that they had not the bracing weather that makes vigorous working, self-denying Christians. At any rate our good ship has moved out of those balmy latitudes. To-day the parochial expenses are about $3,000 in excess of the pew rents and the income from the endowments. A little over two years ago, the Vestry secured annual subscriptions to meet this deficit for three years. The congregation was not canvassed to any considerable extent. A few people outside the Vestry were approached, the members of the Vestry pledged themselves liberally, and the desired amount was raised. Not 25 people were brought into the matter. These supplementary subscriptions have one more year to run. At the end of that time, we ought to have in operation a system in which every member of the congregation can take a part. When the whole congregation has been canvassed, and realizes just what we need, and has given just what it can afford or is willing to give, then we shall be in a position to know whether we ought to retrench (always a dangerous proceeding), or whether we can continue to conduct our worship, and to run our work along the same lines as in the past. It is believed that the envelope system, which will enable the small givers to contribute weekly to the Church expenses, will be a substantial aid in raising our income for parochial expenses. It has been tried in some of our strongest churches with great success, and we ought to make the effort in St. Stephen's. In the second place, this system will increase our gifts for the general work of the Church. Under the present arrangement an offering which is taken up annually suffers severely if it falls on a rainy Sunday. Few think of sending the money that they would have put into the plate, if they had gone to Church. Under the new system this loss can be greatly lessened. These envelopes are all dated, and every one has his little package in which each envelope has the date, and the offering for the Sunday printed upon it. Then the offering can be put in next Sunday in its own envelope. Our stay-at-homes, who can not participate in our prayer and praise can have packages of envelopes and keep the run of the offerings and send in their gifts. There is an immense volume of testimony in proof of the power of this system to increase contributions. But it may be well to explain the plan more in detail. According to this system every communicant, or attendant who will agree to co-operate, will receive a package of envelopes for the year, with the objects for each several date printed upon it. One of these envelopes is to be deposited in the plate each Sunday. Their contents will be emptied in the Vestry and given to the Treasurer to be sent to its proper destination. The envelopes, however, will be kept and handed over to a secretary, who will keep a record of them, to see how faithfully the congregation is co-operating with the system. He will know nothing of the amounts given by any one. All that he will know will be whether A. B. C., or X. Y. Z. is sending in his envelopes with their enclosures with fidelity. No one will know the amounts, for the envelopes will be numbered and no one but the secretary, who will not open the envelopes, but will receive them after they are opened, will know the name corresponding to the number. There is no inquisition into private affairs.

The system as thus far described is the envelope system, in which the envelope has only a single pocket, but in the Duplex envelope which is specially commended and is preferred by the Rector, there is a second pocket. The idea of the great Layman's Movement is that an offering for missions should be taken up every Sunday, and the Rector hopes to accomplish this by giving one pocket in the envelope to parochial maintenance, and one to other causes. In this way every one can give something to both objects each Sunday; he can help to lengthen the cords of our tabernacle, and at the same time do something to strengthen the stakes that hold up the tent under which we meet. His prayer "Thy Kingdom come" will mean more, because he has done something to extend the Kingdom, and he will appreciate the service at St. Stephen's more because he has given something to maintain it. The method is ancient and Scriptural for it follows St. Paul's advice to the Corinthians, "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store as God has prospered him" (1 Cor. 16: 2). It is modern and practical. My successor in Norfolk has tried it in my old Church there, and the offerings have increased greatly in spite of the heavy burden the congregation is under in building a new church that will cost over $75,000. It relies on system and principle, rather than on the eloquence of an appeal and the state of the weather. It is educational, and it is democratic in its demand upon the whole membership of the Church. It is devotional for it is hoped that something, however little, may be put in both pockets of the envelope, and in this way the duty of maintaining and spreading the worship and service of God may be brought constantly to mind.

The dates of the customary offerings of St. Stephen's will be preserved, but the Sundays where offerings are now given to parochial maintenance will have the second pocket designated for missions, and its contents will be sent toward the Pennsylvania apportionment.

The system is an approved one; an admirable secretary has been secured to keep the register of the envelopes and all that is now needed is to secure the consent of our people to receive the packages, with a will to co-operate according to their power. The Rector hopes to have the system in operation by the first of February at the latest.

On Thursday mornings I will make it a rule so far as the exigencies of ministerial life will permit, to be in the Vestry from 12 to 1 for conference on matters of a personal nature. The experience of the last three months has shown the value of this hour. It evidently meets a need. Many of the visitors are not connected with the parish, and prefer to come to a stranger for consultation on some problem of personal conduct. This experiment has confirmed the truth of Dr. Worcester's teaching that people need more pastoral counsel, and the ministry should afford them more opportunity for confidential intercourse about the serious problems of life. Dr. Washington Gladden, in his interesting and thoroughly American Recollections, bears the same testimony. At Harvard the chaplain is expected to remain in his room in the Wadsworth House at certain hours to meet the students. Dr. Gladden served as chaplain for three years and said that his experience taught him the value of the confessional. It is a very modified confessional, of course, and is rather a counsel of brothers than a meeting of a Father and a penitent. The usage will be continued for the rest of the winter in St. Stephen's.

Family Prayer.

A rector in a Virginia town has sent a card to his parishioners on the subject of family prayers. It runs as follows:

"A Request From Your Rector: I want to bring before my people a very vital matter. You all must know I have the highest ideals for you. Can we not more fully realize them this year? Will you not in your homes (those who have not been in the habit of it) begin this year with Family Prayer? Ten minutes spent this way will shape many a day and bring untold blessing to you. Let it not be said by your children they have never heard their father's or mother's voice asking God's blessing upon them. Will you think earnestly of this?"

I want to make these words my own, and as many people are unused to praying before others, I print herewith a form for use at family prayers in the morning. A few verbal changes would make it equally suitable for Evening Prayer. It is probable that in most homes this would be the most convenient time for family devotions. There should first be a brief reading from the Scriptures, which will be more profitable if it follows some regular plan, and the selection is not made at random. Then there might be a hymn read from the hymnal and then this prayer, the Collect for the day and the Lord's Prayer, or the whole or part of the family prayer in the Prayer Book.

A Family Prayer.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we come into Thy presence this morning to invoke Thy blessings upon the tasks of this day. Thou hast made us to dwell together in one household and bound us together by the strong cords of love and common interests; grant that we may prove helpful to one another, and not hinderers of each other's joy or progress in the Christian life. Fill us with the spirit of sympathy, and mutual understanding. Enable each one of us to struggle manfully to bear his own burden, without leaning on others and also grant us the insight to recognize the burdens that others are carrying and the power to lighten their loads. Grant to the aged among us unfaltering faith, and a hope full of immortality, and give unto the young wisdom and docility, that they may learn without the hard teaching of bitter experience. We commend to Thy special protection our absent loved ones, and beseech Thee that no separations may ever have power to sunder our spirits, or lessen our love. Keep them from temptations and trials, which would overtask their strength. Grant unto them health of body, soul and spirit. Fill all of us, we beseech Thee, with the spirit of courage and faith and love. Help us to live as ever in Thine eye, and looking unto Thee, as the Supreme Governor, and Judge, the awarder of praise or blame. Deliver us, we beseech Thee, from the power of sin, from sins of thought and word and deed, sins of omission and sins of commission. Help us to realize our weakness and selfishness, and do Thou give us the eye of faith that we may see Thy love, manifested in Jesus Christ, and put our trust not in any thing that we do, but in the Love that Thou hast revealed in Him. Bless, we beseech Thee, all efforts to bring in Thy Kingdom upon earth. Bless the State and cause righteousness to prevail. Bless the Church, and especally our own congregation, its ministers and societies. Bless the missionaries and stir up Thy people to advance the banners of Thy Kingdom over the whole world. We invoke Thy mercy upon the sick, the miserable, the disgraced, and ask Thee to use us as channels to bless them. We commend to Thy care the thoughtless, the frivolous and the careless, and beseech Thee to give them soberness and a better mind. Above all we pray Thee to help us to put ourselves into Thy hands, without any fear, or holding back, knowing that Thou art our greatest Friend, and art yearning to help and bless us. Grant us this faith. We ask it as the followers and servants of Thy Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The New Rug.

A handsome present was given to the Church this past month by Miss Fanny and Miss Anna Magee. The Vestry room has long needed a new rug, but the old one was made to serve until this fall, when the room was repaired and re-painted, and it became out of the question to put back the old rug in this freshly decorated room. So the floor remained uncarpeted and the room had a dreary appearance. One day the Misses Magee came in, and noticed that the office of the Church had a desolate aspect. Their loyalty to St. Stephen's is not only deep, but it is also prompt to move so they surprised the Rector on the next Sunday by having in the Vestry a handsome rug of a most appropriate pattern and of a color that harmonizes admirably with the walls and ceiling. The old rug will be made over and serve in one of the rooms on the third floor.

The whole Church is now in an admirable condition, so far as its material equipment is concerned. The building is in the best order and all our furnishings are excellent. Many thanks to all those who helped so loyally and generously, and to the Misses Magee for this closing gift of the series. C. E. G.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Advent meeting was held on Thursday, the sixteenth, at the usual hour. In spite of the holiday season there was an unusually large attendance, and it was our privilege to welcome six new members. Reports were heard from the Colored Committee; the United Offering; the Foreign Committee; the Diocesan Committee and from the Missionary Box Committee.

The speaker was the Rev. Jules L. Prevost, who gave a most interesting account of the work of St. Ambrose Mission in this diocese. The growth of St. Ambrose Mission is quite remarkable and it stands now in great need of money to enlarge its equipment. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on the stated date, but in the afternoon instead of the morning. Notice of this meeting will be sent to all the members of the Auxiliary. The remaining dates are:

Thursday, January 20th.
Thursday, February 17th.
Thursday, March 17th.
Thursday, April 21st.

The following letter, received by the Missionary Box Committee, is of interest to many:

317 College Street,
Sparta, Wis.

DEAR MRS. AUSTIN:

The beautiful mission box arrived Thursday, the 3rd, and my husband and I scarcely know how to thank you and the good, kind church people for it. Everything in the box was so lovely and the clothing was perfect in every particular.

My husband was so pleased with his suit, as well as with the other articles that came for him.

We feel that we have been so beautifully remembered and are so very grateful.

Trusting that you are well and with many prayers for the good work of St. Stephen's Church, I am,

Sincerely yours,

St. Paul's College, Tokyo.

The committee for the establishment of St. Paul's College, Tokyo, sends an appeal for funds to carry on this most necessary work, from which the following extracts are taken:

In all the Orient there is, by common consent, no place where the Christian opportunity is greater than in Japan. All who are informed respecting the work of St. Paul's School, Tokyo, are agreed that there is to-day no more important factor in the work of Christianizing the Island Empire. This school including a collegiate department, has over 600 students and occupies substantial buildings, but the college department having no buildings of its own, occupies certain rooms which belong to, and are needed by the school.

At present, St. Paul's supplies, under Christian influence and in a churchly atmosphere, a sound secular education—up to and including the studies usually pursued in the first year of college work. Students desiring to enter the learned professions must now leave the atmosphere and influence of St. Paul's and finish their college work in non-Christian institutions where all the tendencies are in the direction of materialism or agnosticism. There is no Christian college of any denomination in Tokyo. A part of the Pan-Anglican offering has been set aside to found a large theological school in Tokyo, to which only college graduates will be admitted. With St. Paul's College established and equipped to meet the requirement of a modern college, the American church will have the unique opportunity of educating Japanese students during nine years, and its clergy during twelve years; for it has been arranged that the English and American church shall co-operate in the theological school.

Nineteen boys in St. Paul's School last year expressed a desire to study for Holy Orders. Without a full college course how can they be prepared for the theological school?

The Japanese desire a native church. They demand a native clergy. They are eager to evangelize their countrymen. It is estimated that with the new and improved equipment proposed for St. Paul's College, we can withdraw our missionaries from Japan within another generation.

The amount needed to carry on the work is $200,000, and in order to do this it is proposed that St. Paul's Day, January 25, 1910, be observed in the interest of St. Paul's College, Tokyo, and the offerings be devoted to that purpose.

Girls' Friendly Society.

The Girls' Friendly Society had a Christmas Masquerade party on Monday evening, December 27th. Each member of the Society had the privilege of inviting one guest, and in spite of the bad night—the blizzard preventing many from getting out—there were about a hundred and forty persons present. The Sunday School room was prettily decorated with Christmas greens and bells and the bright colored costumes of the various rough-riders, Japanese Geisha girls, clowns, gypsies, etc., made a very festive scene. After about an hour of dancing the masks were removed and everybody gathered around a brightly trimmed Christmas tree to sing a Christmas carol—"O Little Town of Bethlehem,"—and receive the presents from the associates. After this there was more dancing, followed by ice cream and cake, and the party finally broke up at about half past eleven.

A new interest for the Society, to begin the new year with will be a Savings Bank for the members, to be managed by Miss Anna Lewis.

An Honor Roll.

The Sunday following Christmas, Dec. 26, was so unusually stormy that we feel it is but a just recognition of fidelity and bravery on the part of those teachers and scholars who were present in the Sunday School on that day, that we wish to record their names. In doing this we do not forget that most of those who did not reach the school lived at such a distance that it was utterly beyond their power to do so.

Those present in the main school were:

Miss Sanders,
Miss Jane Harper,
Miss Edith Harper,
Mr. Wm. Hewson,
Lena McEwen,
Loretta Clowes,
Baxter Rowe,
W. S. Brown,
Anna Mellinger,
Emma Braley,
Helen Lootz,
Mildred Supplee,
Rose Tunney,
Alice Tunney,
Ethel Pierce,
Thekla Kauffmann,
Mary Mearns,
John Mearns,
James Mearns,
Clarence Mearns,
George Krimmel,
James Stork,
Fred Hart,
Alice Hart,
Carl Powers,
David Herszberger,
Russel Hammer,
William Hammer,
Helen Harper,
Elsie Traul,
Alma Leader,
Ada Leader,
Jurgen Kolb.

Those present in the primary department were:

Miss Goss,
Florence Gray,
Eddie Gray,
Willie Watson,
Robert Bowder,
George Supplee,
Raymond Reisher,
Tillie Stork,
Anna Stork,
Emma Stork,
Willie Stork,
John Tomlinson,
Katharine Tomlinson.

An Entertainment.

A sketch, entitled "Mr. Sprigg's Little Trip Abroad," will be given by the young ladies of Miss Denney's Bible Class, under the direction of Mr. Louis Hall, on Friday, Jan. 28, at 8.15 P. M., in the Sunday School room. Tickets may be had from the Verger, Mr. Carrigan, or from the members of the class, also at the door on the evening of the entertainment. Proceeds for charitable work. Last year the young ladies of this class gave "Anybody's Magazine," which proved a great success. We have every reason to expect that this play will be equally as good.

Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

The Senior Department of the Fraternity anticipate the most successful year of its existence, owing to the fact that among our new members elected this season was Rev. Robert Long, who has already inspired the Society with wit and encouragement.

Rev. Robert Long has made it possible through the instrumentality of some kind friends of the Church to fit up a gymnasium for which each member of the Fraternity sends hearty thanks and appreciation.

The entertainment committee reported that they will endeavor to arrange for a number of good plays and social events throughout this season.

Election of officers for the ensuing year was held at the last meeting and the results are as follows:

C., Mr. J. N. A. Kolb.
P. C., Mr. Wm. Rowe.
T., Mr. Adam M. Hall.
Q., Dr. Carl E. Grammer.
P. Q., Mr. Winfield S. Brown.
P., Mr. Robert Snydner.
A., Mr. George H. Streaker.

The adjournment of the meeting was followed by a very interesting debate which furnished ample amusement for the members of the Fraternity: Resolved, That Philadelphia has more good points than New York City. The speakers on the affirmative side were Mr. Geo. H. Streaker (extemporaneous) and Mr. Robert Snydner. The speakers on the negative side were Mr. John F. Sachse and Mr. Adam M. Hall. The judges appointed were Rev. Robert Long, Mr. J. N. A. Kolb and Mr. James Carrigan, who, after a deliberation of fifteen minutes brought in the verdict of 340 points for the affirmative, and 360 points for the negative side. These points were based upon the beautiful homes and churches in Philadelphia and the great wealth and harbor of New York.

A very popular debate has been arranged for the next meeting, to be held January seventh, nineteen-ten.

ADAM M. HALL, Secretary.

On the evening of Dec. 29th, our honored and beloved Accounting Warden, Mr. L. C. Cleemann, was taken from us. He had attended that afternoon, a meeting of the Vestry which had been called at his request. In a few hours he was carried from the affairs of the Church Militant to the Church Triumphant. The proof of this monthly had already been sent to the printer and there was no time for the composition of any minute that would express the loss that has been sustained by the Church. The publication of the official action of the Vestry must be postponed till our February number, which will also contain a sketch of Mr. Cleemann's career. All that can be done in this issue is briefly to announce our great loss. In length of service he was the senior in our Vestry by many years. The burden of the financial administration of the Church fell chiefly on his shoulders and was borne by him with unfaltering and uncomplaining fidelitv. No vestryman could more surely be counted on to be in his place on Sunday morning. No one loved St. Stephen's more loyally, or was more solicitous for its welfare. He will be missed both for his faithful labors and for his loving spirit. May God comfort and sustain by His grace and by a hope full of immortality his bereaved household.

Christmas Dinners.

It will be a pleasure to all, after Christmas is over, to know that this year one hundred and thirty-two baskets were provided to make Christmas cheer for as many families. The baskets contained, in most cases, provisions for eight persons, and the object was to leave nothing wanting to make a Christmas dinner complete. The baskets contained ten substantial items, and the committee of distribution felt that each basket would meet all the needs of a Christmas table. It is gratifying also to this committee to have had the expression of a daily paper reporter to the effect that, after having seen many other like preparations for Christmas distribution, ours was the best arranged and systematized of any. A new method was used this year, and it worked out admirably.

The committee would like to take this opportunity to join the Rector in thanking all those who contributed toward these Christmas dinners. We received for this purpose, to date $329.64, sufficient to meet all the bills.

Lent.

Christianity has brought into the world not only a new revelation of God, a new ethics, and a new literature, but also new rites and ceremonies and a new institution known as the Church. One of the snares of the Christian life is the tendency to make these rites and ceremonies into means of obtaining merit with God, or squaring accounts with conscience. The spirit of legalism is not confined to Judaism. It has made its way into the Christian Church, and bound a yoke of bondage on many patient necks. It has also caused people to substitute for the plain duties of their daily life, self-selected tasks and self-gratifying forms of devotion. They have not looked to the Spirit for guidance and have not hearkened to the inner voice, but have simply followed the multitude going up to Zion and believed themselves safe in such good company. Lent may be observed in this Judaistic spirit and so prove a source of smug self-satisfaction.

On the other hand, there is another extreme, that must be avoided. Liberty may be made a cloak for indifference. Laziness in the Christian life may pass itself off as spirituality. We must not fall into this snare. While we are in the flesh we need forms and ceremonies to express the inner spirit. We must use means of self-discipline, if we are to become spiritual athletes. We must help others by joining with them in common plans for edification. We cannot obtain our spiritual ends without the diligent use of appropriate means. It is in this spirit that we should enter upon our Lenten season. It presents not so much a duty as an opportunity. It is not a channel down which flow refreshing waters to the passive recipient, but a tool which, if diligently used, will accomplish a great task. Its observance must not be made an excuse for shirking duties, but it will, if rightly used, deepen in us that sense of loyalty and sonship that will make all duties easier and more possible.

The list of speakers in St. Stephen's this Lent is published above. We hope that our members will endeavor to attend many of these services. The best plan is to begin moderately, with the intention of continuing till the end. No man has any right to judge another in regard to his observance of Lent, but we can greatly help one another, if we are not ashamed to show ourselves anxious to improve, and will use the means of grace afforded by this season with earnestness and constancy.

C. E. G.

The regular annual Episcopal visitation to St. Stephen's will be made on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, when Bishop Jaggar will administer the rite of Confirmation. The usual Confirmation lectures will be given by the Rector on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Parish House. He will be at home on Wednesday evenings to see anyone considering this step, and will also remain in the Vestry after the Sunday services. All those who are contemplating the public ratification of their baptismal vows are requested to come to these lectures. No one commits himself to any decision by attending the class. The explanations and teaching come first, and a decision is only called for at the close of the course.

Ludovic Colquhoun Cleemann.

VESTRYMAN, 1864 TO 1909.
SECRETARY OF THE VESTRY, 1865 TO 1878.
ACCOUNTING WARDEN, APRIL 24, 1878, TO DECEMBER 29, 1909.

The Vestry of St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia, desires to put on record the following minute upon the death of its Accounting Warden, Mr. L. C. Cleemann:

"In the death of Ludovic Colquhoun Cleemann, St. Stephen's Church has suffered a loss that is difficult adequately to express. Baptized in infancy at the font of St. Stephen's, his whole life was bound up in the worship and service of this one parish. For over forty-five years he was a member of the Vestry, and for the last thirty-one years he was the Accounting Warden. His last earthly task was to attend and preside at a special meeting of the Vestry which had been called at his instance on the afternoon of the very day of his death, December 29. Only a few hours after he had been thus occupied in the affairs of the Church Militant, he heard the summons to join the Church Triumphant. Although he had not yet reached his seventieth birthday, he was by reason of the early age at which he had been elected into the Vestry, by much the senior of the body in point of service, and he had a unique position among us as our chief link with the past traditions of the parish. No vestryman came into such close contact with the members of the congregation. He had lived on terms of cordial friendship with all the rectors of his day, and had enjoyed in the highest degree their confidence and regard. It was his special delight to tell of the customs of the earlier days of the parish, and he would recount with a raciness and charm all his own, instances of the wit of Dr. Ducachet, or give some specimens of the balanced periods of Dr. Rudder. He showed himself a true son of that more devotional elder generation in his own unfailing attendance upon the Sunday services, and by his presence at the quiet week-day afternoon services in Lent. He loved the habitation of God's house and the place where His honor dwelleth.

"As Accounting Warden he bore with unfaltering and uncomplaining fidelity the chief burden of the financial administration of the parish. He was Secretary of the Vestry from 1865 to 1878, and Accounting Warden from April 24, 1878, until December 29, 1909. He was also Chairman of the Committee on Admissions to the Burd Orphan Asylum. His duties were multifarious and onerous, and whether it was the placing of an investment or the selection of a new rector, he bore a large part of the responsibility of the final decision. In the interest of the church of his love, he shrank from no responsibility, as he spared himself no drudgery. He had seen St. Stephen's rise from the weakness that marked the days of Dr. Ducachet's failing strength, to the great vigor that it attained under Dr. Rudder, and he had absolute confidence that the old church which had borne such an important part in the ecclesiastical life of Philadelphia had behind it reserves of loyalty and strength that would enable it to continue to do a large and much-needed work in the very heart of the city.

"It is consoling, in our bereavement, to recall that before he was taken from us he received at a banquet of the men of the congregation, a most spontaneous and unanimous token of the place that he held in the esteem and affection of the members of St. Stephen's. He was, indeed, a type of churchman of which St. Stephen's might be justly proud. While his chief affection was given to his own church and his tenderest solicitude was for his own beloved parish, he generously recognized piety wherever it might be found and whatever might be the form in which it exhibited itself. While the dominant note of his life was loyalty, there was nothing narrow or sectarian in his outlook. It was noticeable in his conversation that he was a man of appreciations rather than of criticisms. He loved to dwell on the things that were lovely, pure, and of good report. He had in an unusual degree the power of co-operating with others, and could accept with loyalty and cheerfulness the decisions of the majority, even when he did not agree with them. This was doubtless due to his capacity for friendship and the strength of his loyalty. Believing that the truth was the best protection against error, he gave all his influence toward protecting the freedom of the pulpit, and showed not the slightest symptom of alarm lest the Ark of God should be overthrown. He cherished the tradition of the large freedom of the pulpit as one of the peculiar glories of St. Stephen's. His faith rested in the great fundamentals that can never change or pass, the truths that cannot be shaken and must remain. Now that he is taken from us, we realize, as we never realized it before, how much he was to us, and we give thanks to God for the inspiration of the example of such a life of loyalty, faith and service.

The congregation will be interested in the following brief outline of Mr. Cleemann's career:

Ludovic Colquhoun Cleemann was the son of Gustavus B. C. Cleemann, himself a son of a clergyman in the German province of Russia near the city of Riga; his mother was, before her marriage, Miss Claramond Colquhoun, of Petersburg, Virginia. Mr. L. C. Cleemann was born in Philadelphia in 1840 and lived in the city all his life. His early education was obtained in private schools. At the age of sixteen years he entered the sophomore class at the University of Pennsylvania, from which he obtained the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1859. During his whole college career he was among the "honour" men of the University, a distinction gained by the high average in his examinations. In those days there were no systematic athletics in vogue, but Mr. Cleemann "exercised" (as the phrase ran) at a private gymnasium where many of the young men of the city congregated and was one of the foremost athletes there. After graduation at college he entered the law office of George M. Wharton, Esq., one of the most famous lawyers of that day, where he prosecuted very seriously the study of the law. He was admitted to the Bar in 1863, having passed his examination before a committee of lawyers as was the custom at that time, and thereafter devoted himself earnestly to the practice of his chosen profession. In his early career, having offices with Charles Sergeant, Esq., a United States Commissioner, he was led to some degree into the specialties of admiralty and patent law, especially the latter, being much engaged at one time in defending the carpet manufacturers of the city against infringement of their patents. On the whole, however, he was for the most part occupied in the general civil practice of the law and the management of estates. In 1885 at the request of John Cadwalader, Esq., then Collector of the Port of Philadelphia, he filled the post of Chief of the Law Division of the Custom House most efficiently, in the words of the Collector, his services being often of the most valuable nature. He relinquished this position at the close of 1889, and in 1890 became connected with the Trust Department of the Penna. Co., for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, still holding office there at the time of his death, after a service of just 20 years.

Diocesan Mission Collection.

On the third Sunday in February will be taken up the annual offering for Diocesan Missions. According to the custom of the parish the collectors will make their rounds in the previous week to secure the subscriptions, and contributions. This is the largest offertory that we give to missions. The Rector is pledged to numerous Diocesan objects and pays the pledges out of this fund. It is hoped that we will raise our usual amount, which is over eight hundred dollars.

The Pews.

Some four or five persons have taken sittings in the Church this past month. In almost every case the new attendant was secured by the zeal of some of our members. Often all that is required to bring a new member in is some kind word of invitation. As the Church is a net for gathering in, every Church member is only helping it fulfill its purpose and is not transgressing any of the proprieties of life, by trying to bring members into it. In my judgment one of the best steps that could be taken would be to assign seats to all our regular attendants. In this way we could secure one of the great benefits of the system of rented pews. All persons would have regular places where they could be looked for and from which they would be missed if absent. I believe in pew rents if they can be kept low, as the best way of raising the running expenses of a Church. The ideal plan seems to me to be low pew-rents, supplemented by voluntary subscriptions, with a liberal provision of free pews for the floating population. This gives the Church a stated income, and every regular attendant a seat of his own, which he is expected to fill. In case that the rent of a sitting is too high for a regular attendant to assume such a burden with loyalty to other obligations, then I should like such a parishioner to accept a seat as an assignment. No one should leave St. Stephen's because he can not rent a seat. The Church seeks people and the presence and interest of each member is a help to the cause. My plan is to go a little further and give such members of our Church regular seats, for which they pay as little as they choose, or nothing at all if they can not afford it, if they will fill them, and provided also that they will not be offended if they are changed into other seats in case the ones they may occupy shall be rented. Many of our valued older members have seats where they sit so regularly that they may be regarded as their proper places in the Church. But in the case of our newer members, it is eminently desirable that they should be assigned seats, and if they would cooperate with such a plan by speaking either to the Rector or Mr. Joseph Van Dusen, who now has charge of the renting of the pews, I am sure that it could be arranged. C. E. G.

A good resolution for the stay-at-homes in the congregation this Lent would be to read daily the Lenten Lessons, and to add to their morning and evening devotions a brief service at noon-day, on Wednesday and Friday, at least, and, if possible, every day. Occupation is one of the sources of happiness provided that the task be adjusted to the strength. And the best of all occupations in times of darkness is to be engaged in the things of the Spirit. It was while he was in the Spirit on the Lord's day that the vision came to the seer of Patmos. They that are after the spirit do mind the things of the Spirit. We must cultivate spiritual aspirations if we are to gain spiritual gifts. "Whilst I was in the way, the Lord met me" expresses the rule. We cannot expect the blessing if we fail to put ourselves in the way.

The mission-study classes will be conducted this Lent by Miss Laura Bell, and by Mrs. F. W. English. The former members are urged to solicit their friends in the congregation to join with them in these classes. Such study is sure to leave behind a deposit of conviction, and interest that permanently deepens faith and enlarges the Christian sympathies.

The Woman's Auxiliary Tea.

Instead of the regular Epiphany meeting of the parochial Auxiliary, a tea was given by the society in honor of the graduating Deaconesses at the Training School. It took place in the Parish House on Thursday, January 20th, and was a notable occasion affording a most delightful opportunity for the members, friends and guests of the Auxiliary to become better known to each other. More than one hundred ladies were present. Miss Magee, the president, received, assisted by a number of other ladies. The Deaconesses were introduced by the Rector.

The remaining meetings of the Auxiliary will be held as usual on the third Thursdays at eleven A. M. The dates are as follows:

Thursday, February 17th.
Thursday, March 17th.
Thursday, April 21st. E. W. L.

Mission Study Classes.

The Mission Study Class, with Miss Laura Bell, leader, will hold a series of meetings in the Parish House on Saturday mornings during Lent, beginning on Saturday, February 12, at eleven o'clock. This being the third year since such a class has been formed at St. Stephen's, it is perhaps unnecessary to explain about it, as the study of missions is now a recognized activity of parochial work.

The missionary enterprise, in its relation to the missions of the Church in foreign fields, will be discussed and a suitable text-book will be provided.

It is hoped that those who are interested in missions will continue their interest by attending this class, and also that those who are not interested in missions will come to the class, so as to have a little spark of enthusiasm kindled about the burning question, "The Why of Foreign Missions?"

A Junior Mission Study Class, under the leadership of Mrs. English, is being formed by a number of the younger members of the congregation. The country to be studied is Africa, a most fruitful and interesting subject. The members of Mrs. English's class last year are looking forward with great pleasure to the course, and it is hoped that many new members will avail themselves of the privilege offered them to learn of the work that is being done by our Church in this promising and, to many of us, almost unknown field. A preliminary meeting will be held in the Parish House, on Wednesday, February 9th, at 3 o'clock to organize the class, and decide upon the time of meeting. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present on this occasion.

Missionary Box.

The following letters are interesting, as showing the progress of the work of the Missionary Box Committee:

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Dec. 28, 1909.

MY DEAR MRS. LINEAWEAVER:

We received the box of clothing that you sent us from St. Stephen's Parish, yesterday. Please accept our thanks for the same. It contained many useful articles that we can make immediate use of.

We are having unusually severe winter weather. The warm clothing will be just what we need. We have had deep snow for more than one month, and cold, too.

Our Christmas was a quiet one this year. We were disappointed in not having our Christmas tree and exercises as usual, on account of small-pox and scarlet fever in some of our families. It has also interfered with our Sunday School and church attendance.

We find our new rectory comfortable and convenient, but the expense of heating during this cold weather is considerable. At present indications are that we will have a long, cold winter.

Again thanking you for the box which we much appreciate.

Sincerely yours,

SAVANNAH, GA., Dec. 21, 1909.
422 West Bolton Street.

MRS. JAMES M. ARRISON,
1723 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

DEAR MADAM:

I wish it were possible for me to tell you how much we appreciate the box of clothing which we have just received from the ladies of St. Stephen's Parish.

We are very much pleased with everything. I think my suit is just grand. It was quite a surprise to me for having been ill for eight months I was quite sure that there was no new winter's dress for me this year. But, thanks to your kindness, I shall not have to deny myself this necessity. When I put it on my husband exclaimed, "Oh! how nice you look," and you know I think he looks the same in his suit.

The table linen and bed linen we appreciate very much. It is just what we were in need of. The paper decorations, too, are very pretty. I have never seen a wreath just like the one you sent. I tried to get another to match it, but could not. We have two front windows and I wished to hang one at each, but now I have another plan for using the bell and wreath.

But what can I say to tell you how much we are pleased with the baby's things. Her little dresses are so pretty and her little shoes just right. The little toys attract her very much. A few evenings ago she was sitting on my lap and kept looking on the bed so I said: "Why, what do you want on the bed, baby?" You know the little rubber dog that you blow up and squeeze and it barks. Well, she imitated the noise the dog makes and I gave her the little dog and she was satisfied. . . . .

Thanking you very much for your kindness and hoping to hear from you again, I am,

Yours faithfully,

The Sunday School.

BANNER CLASSES FOR DECEMBER.

Girls.—Teacher, Miss Jane Harper.

Lena McEwen,	Grace Hillis,
Lottie Souder,	Dorothy Grammer,
Elsie Traul,	Jean Da Costa,
Alberta Curtis,	Helen Harper.

Boys.—Teacher, Miss Lippincott.

George Krimmel,	Thomas Kilpatrick,
James Rice,	Robert Brown,
Frederick Le Dent,	Clarence Means.

On Friday, January 28th, the young ladies of Miss Denney's Bible Class, under direction of Mr. Louis H. Hall, gave a sketch, entitled "Mr. Spriggs' Little Trip to Europe," for the benefit of charity.

As "Mr. Spriggs," the bachelor, returning from a banquet and repeating his after-dinner speech, Mr. Hall was perfectly at home, introducing several of his best stories in the troubles he has with his dream-wife, and the many charming young ladies who lay claim to his affections. He was irresistibly funny.

Miss Mae Hess, as "Louisa," played a difficult part, and played it well, being very sweet and lovely when necessary and energetic when occasion required it.

Miss Florence Sherrard, as a "Daughter of Spain," with mantilla, stiletto, fan, etc.; also as the "French Girl," whose heart Mr. Spriggs had won with "twenty-four roses at two dollars a piece," was charming. Later on Miss Sherrard did quite a clever bit of acting as the "Irish Servant Girl."

Miss Mary Barclay (an honorary member of the class), dressed in Persian costume and carrying a garland of roses, which she threw around the bachelor's shoulders, captivated the audience with her songs. Miss Barclay has a beautiful soprano voice.

Miss Irene Wilder, as "Katrina the Dutch Girl," was very quaint and funny, dancing in sabots and insisting that Mr. Spriggs go back with her to those "Little Dutch gardens once again already yet." Miss Wilder also impersonated a "Japanese Girl" in search of a man, carrying a lantern and parasol, and insisted on making tea for the bachelor.

Then came Miss Minnie Corrigan, as the "Russian Girl," to carry Mr. Spriggs back to Russia to "Blow up the Czar." The dance introduced here was very effective. This was Miss Corrigan's first appearance on the stage, and we hope it will not be her last.

Miss Anna Mellinger, as "A young lady from Africa," was very funny with her "Yes, massa. Yes, massa," and did not mind in the least having half a dozen cushions thrown at her.

The incidental music was furnished by Mr. H. Monroe Hilbert. Mr. Hall and the ladies deserve a great deal of praise for their work, and the class is to be congratulated, both for its dramatic ability, and for the energy which made this second entertainment such a success.

If any members of the congregation have favorite hymns which they would like to hear, the Rector will be glad to have them sung by the choir, if they will let him know of their choice. Suggestions may be sent through the editor of the PARISH NEWS.

Parish Visitor's Report.

In the rush and hurry of our every-day living, Christmas has receded into the past with many, and only a lingering memory of its sweetness and joy steals over us as our minds drift back to the beginning of our Christian year. But the poor feel and speak differently; the past is upon them and they breathe the spirit of Christmas and tell of their lives, and the letters of thanks received are very touching when one is acquainted with some of the hardships.

A poor woman who received a basket at Christmas-tide found it too heavy to carry herself and she says she sat down on a step and prayed to the Lord to send some one to help her take it to the cars. After a number of people had passed, a newsboy came along and she asked his help. He responded at once and said of course he would as he could sell his papers any place and would be glad to help her. Then she tells how happy both she and her blind daughter were made by the contents of the basket.

An interesting letter was received from one of our Tuberculosis Class, which was as follows:

"I have been ill in bed since Christmas Eve, but you have been so kind and generous to me that it seemed more than I deserved or could bear. When the day was done my nerves gave way and I had a nervous chill, which, with a severe cold, made me very miserable for a time, but I am much better now and in the harness again. That Friday afternoon I stewed one of the two chickens that were in the basket and when I was so ill I had that good broth to eat; it was so delicious and nourishing, and I was so thankful."

Another writes: "May God richly reward St. Stephen's Church for the good the congregation is doing for the poor, a generous helping hand indeed."

A special gift of money was sent to a very worthy woman who has to support a brother who is old and a great sufferer from epilepsy.

We have been taking care of a mother and two children for seven weeks—they were in a most destitute condition for the husband deserted her and she could not work. One of the children falling ill we had him removed to the Children's Hospital. We succeeded in getting the man to return to his family and we are hoping for good results.

A number of very poor families have been made happy this freezing weather by receiving coal, groceries or potatoes, donated to us by two kind gentlemen. These gifts are greatly appreciated.

Special thanks are due to the thoughtful friend who sent us so many filled cornucopias. The Infant Sunday School children each received one, and their little faces beamed with happiness. One little sick boy was sent two, and they made him very happy.

Garment Society.

The Garment Society wishes to acknowledge, with thanks, garments received from the following:

The Misses Magee,
Miss Wilkins,
Miss Cleemann,
Miss Washington,
Mrs. Pancoast,
Miss Maulsby,
Mrs. Judson.

Special thanks for a box of woolen mittens, which are being used in our Sunday Infant School.

Miss Lammot.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations in January: From Miss Cleemann, $1.00.

The children had their Thanksgiving entertainment so near Christmas that it was thought best not to have another at Christmas, but to save the money towards their summer outings.

King's Daughters.

The King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle will have their next meeting Feb. 16th, in the Guild Room, Parish House, at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

January 5th, this Circle had invited about 18 poor children to spend the evening. If you remember, the weather was dreadful, but nine little ones came and about as many of the members to entertain them.

Games of all kinds were played; prizes given to those who could get Buster Brown's hat on in the right place, and to those who could carry the most buttons on a knife. It was lots of fun for the children, and their toys pleased them very much.

Rosie Leetch, our new member, dressed a small doll which was the admiration of all the children, and was given to the youngest girl. Cakes, oranges and candy were next in order; then it was time to go home, and in spite of the weather all said they had a good time.

Shoe Fund.

Money received in January:

Church Work Fund, through Dr. Grammer ..	$10.00
From those receiving shoes	6.60
Total	$16.60
Expended for shoes	8.59
Balance	$8.01

Gave out, in January, 17 pairs of shoes and 23 pairs of overshoes. Santa Claus knew what a stormy winter we were having, so sent a nice box of shoes and overshoes to keep Jack Frost from biting the little toes. Many thanks to him.

The Bishop Hare Memorial Fund.

In Memory of William Hobart Hare 1838-1909.

"Know ye not that a prince and a great man has fallen to-day in Israel?"

It is proposed that the Church shall make a memorial to Bishop Hare. Surely he deserves it. Surely it is well for the Church to be reminded of what he did for her.

He was a great man in his modesty, in singleness of aim, in self-consecration, in fearlessness of soul, in his wisdom, patience and purity of heart. When the Church needed wisdom, gentleness and tact in dealing with difficult problems in the Far East, she sent Bishop Hare. When the Government needed a courageous Christian to stand alone before the young Indians on the war-path, maddened with the sense of injustice, and thirsting to avenge their wrongs by bloodshed, General Grant telegraphed to Bishop Hare asking him to try and prevent another Indian war; alone he faced them, alone he persuaded them, and the danger was averted. For thirty-six years his life has been one long devoted service by which he made a Christian nation of the Sioux. Where he found an ignorant and savage tribe, he leaves over 4,000 living communicants.

In the growing State of South Dakota, where he strenuously opposed the most money-making industry, where he set his face against the facility of divorce, such was the place he won in the community that from respect to him, all work was stopped at the time of his funeral, and the Mayor of the town, the Dean of the Roman Catholic Cathedral and every citizen of note paid him the last tribute of respect. A recent traveller through that country said, "Everywhere his name is beloved."

What form shall the Memorial take? Those nearest to him in affection and in the work feel that his greatest anxiety was for the future of All Saints' School, Sioux Falls, a school he established for the daughters of missionaries, army officers and those who could not afford a very expensive education,—a school which was his home. The present endowment is quite insufficient, and it is proposed to raise at least $50,000 to increase it,—one gift of $2,500 and another of $1,000 have been promised. Do you not want to share in it? Let those who can, give largely; but, above all, let those who have little do their diligence gladly to give of that little in memory of this devoted and heroic Bishop of our Church.

Cheques or pledges can be sent to Bishop Whitaker, or to the Treasurer, Mr. Arthur E. Newbold, of Drexel & Company, Philadelphia, Pa., or they may be sent through the Rector.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Stephen's Church will hold its meetings, as in former years, on Friday mornings during Lent, at 10 o'clock in the Parish House. The object of the Society is to make baby clothes for the poor, thus supplying a much-felt need. New members are earnestly desired.

One of the pleasantest sensations in life is to feel securely sheltered. Sometimes it comes to us on a blustering day, when we look out from our warm room upon the street, down which the wind is driving the rain in long slant lines. We watch the gutters rise, their waters dimpled over with the splashings, that to our childish eyes always seemed like fairy sailboats. We note with mingled sympathy and self-congratulation the passersby, vainly struggling to secure some protection from their swaying umbrellas. We are easily amused at the wild rush for home made by some hapless traveler, who has been caught without an umbrella out in the storm. The bleakness of the windswept and drenched street is pleasant to look out on, for it makes us realize how good it is to be under cover, to have thick walls between us and the blast, and to have over us a tight roof to keep off the drenching rain. It is so comfortable to be sheltered.

Still more vivid are these sensations at night, especially if we are staying in the country, and sleeping where we can hear the rain falling on the roof. It is one of the rich experiences of life, to lie awake for a time under such circumstances on a stormy night, and listen to the rain drumming upon the roof, and hear the blast rage among the tree-tops. It is all the better if we can hear in the distance the shriek of the locomotive engine, as it makes its way through the darkness and storm. The discomfort is all so near in space, only a few feet away from the warm bed, and yet so remote from our experience that we feel as if we had reached by magic the point of rest, that is said to exist in the heart of the cyclone. There is a kind of mystery about it, to be so close to, and yet so far away from, the conflict and the suffering; to be in a world of vast forces, ever interacting and working, and yet to be sheltered.

But the greatest mystery and the greatest of all experiences is to be in the midst of this scene of change, perturbation and conflict and be untouched by its agitations, and protected from its chilling forces, safe in an inner citadel or refuge, in a spiritual shelter. In the 61st Psalm, the Psalmist testifies that he enjoyed this sense of protection in God. Thou hast been a shelter for me, he writes. Without were foes, open and secret, without were the elements of destruction, the frost and mildew to blast, the lightning to burn, disease to fill his body with pain, death to wrench his heart by separations, but he knew that he was God's and he felt safe, protected, sheltered. What a mystery, what a triumph, and what a rich and blessed experience. Thousands have enjoyed it since, and confessed that it was the most sustaining experience of life. There is no achievement of earth equal to the winning of this sure confidence. It is gained, however, not by striving, but by trusting. It is a gift that is received by an open hand, not a spoil to be snatched and wrested by a strong fist. It is the gift of the Spirit of God.

I am thinking of my aged parishioners who cannot come to church, as I write these words, and I am hoping that you are enjoying this rich and blessed sense of shelter. All of us need this sense of God's protection, but our need of it increases as our strength faileth. In youth it may lead to presumption, but in age is the source both of strength and peace. Surely all experience should teach you to trust. As you look back on your lives, you doubtless remember many decisions, that you now regret and recall many storm-tossed hours of bereavement and passionate anxiety; but surely now you can see that God did not forsake you, that He was able to overrule the evil, and keep alive the spark of good, and now you can surely trust Him for the rest of the journey on this side Jordan, and can confide in Him to lead you into a mansion, or as the Greek means, "an abiding-place" on the other side. Let the present join with the past in giving you hope. You are not now exposed to all the fierce influences of this world. You are in a shelter. There is warmth for you, the warmth of human affection and also of the Divine love; there is a resting place for you, beneath are the everlasting arms; there is provision for you, for He who feeds the young ravens is your Father; there is protection for you, for God is your shelter. Lift up your hearts. The night as it draws on only makes more manifest the comforts of home, with its light and warmth, and as the twilight deepens into gloom, you may be assured that God will show Himself more and more a shelter to those who put their trust in Him. Be not afraid, only believe.

Let your assurance be the faith expressed so musically by Whittier in his verses, entitled, "The Eternal Goodness":

I know not what the future hath
  Of marvel or surprise,
Assured alone that life and death
  His mercy underlies.

And so beside the silent sea,
  I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from Him can come to me,
  On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
  Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I can not drift
  Bevond His love and care.

On Tuesday, February 22d, Miss Clara E. Gebhart was taken suddenly ill; a clot of blood, the physician said, had slipped from the heart into the brain, and after a few hours' unconsciousness she passed from these scenes of partial knowledge to that fuller communion with God which, we believe, is the portion of those who depart hence in the Lord. Our tenderest sympathy goes out to her aged mother, whom she nursed with such loving fidelity, and to her sister, Miss Frances, who was at once dearest sister and closest friend.

The funeral service at the house was read by Dr. Grammer, on Thursday afternoon, and the mortal remains were carried for burial to the ancestral "God's acre" at Dayton, Ohio.

For a time Miss Clara had been captivated by the rich opportunities for culture in European capitals, and she spent with her sister some four years in Germany, but they finally decided to make their permanent home in America, and selected the Eastern City of Philadelphia, as their place of residence. They connected themselves with St. Stephen's Church, and in the last years they have increasingly identified themselves with the Church's activities. Miss Clara will be greatly missed, especially in the Benevolent Society, where she has been for over two years one of the most faithful and efficient workers. "None knew her but to love her, none named her but to praise." Her sweet serenity was the manifest result of inward peace and contentment. Her life was hid with Christ in God.

Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord. Even so, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors.

The order has been given for the Duplex Envelopes, and it is hoped that by Easter-Sunday they will be on hand and ready for distribution. A similar system has been tried in St. Mark's with great success. Our modification is a system that invites the contributor to give something every Sunday for the maintenance of the parochial Church, and also for some outside object. It helps to lengthen the cords, and at the same time strengthens the stakes. It both extends the influence of the Church beyond its borders, and at the same time builds up the walls of our Zion. A full explanation will be made when the boxes of envelopes are ready for distribution.

Of course the whole system is worked on the voluntary principle. No one is put on the list unless he agrees to work with the system. When I point out that this method of raising money is approved by the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and is recommended by the committee of our own Laymen, which has been appointed to secure the results of these great missionary meetings, I am sure that I predispose all to give the system a fair and full trial. With greater method our offerings for all objects can undoubtedly be greatly increased without burdening anyone beyond their due measure, strength and proportion.

The Pews.

The little note in the last PARISH NEWS about the pews and sittings in the Church has resulted in so many applications for sittings, that the subject is worth renewing. It is the wish of the Rector and Vestry to enable every one, who attends the Church regularly, to secure a sitting, which may be considered his own, where he can be looked for and from which he can be missed. In part this wish is based on the natural desire to make the income from the sittings meet as nearly as possible the annual expenses, without raising a special fund for that purpose by voluntary subscription from our wealthier members, but this is not the whole reason for this wish to put the attendants in seats of their own. The benefit extends to the attendant himself. When a man has a seat rented he feels the responsibility of filling it. He knows that there is a place waiting for him. He realizes that he has a part and lot in the Church. He no longer belongs to the unattached and ceases to listen to the sermon and observe the worship in the critical spirit of a man in search of a Church. He is anchored and if he is loyal-hearted, he begins to love what belongs to him. Free-pewed churches are responsible for much ecclesiastical vagrancy and mendicancy. The most prominent "free" church in a city of my residence for some years, that was a militant exponent of the free pew system, failed to increase its gifts year after year, while its numbers were steadily augmenting. The people were but lightly attached to the Church's responsibilities, although they enjoyed its privileges. Without a fixed revenue, the Church was unwilling to give offerings to outside objects. A sentimental idea had injured the efficiency of the whole organization.

A church needs money to maintain it, and the most effective way to secure this income is, in my judgment, a method of low pew rents. In our case the pew rents are supplemented by the income from the endowment fund, which is a little over one hundred thousand dollars. This is far from being the endowment that St. Stephen's should have to enable it to conduct such services as we have for all time in the heart of this great city. But with this endowment to aid, we ought by renting out sittings to our attendants, or assigning them to them for nominal rental, to raise enough to meet our annual expenses. This can be easily accomplished by the aid of the envelope system, if it is taken up with enthusiasm by the congregation.

C. E. G.

We are obliged to give transfers every now and then to our members who move further away and go to other Churches, and we also lose members by death, but the records of this winter show that we are fully holding our own, and that more are coming to us than going out from us. The most profitable results of spiritual husbandry are obtained by the intensive method. Numbers are not so important as the depth of the impression made. We must not rely on quantity or size and bulk in a congregation. There are more delicate and more unerring tests of service that a Church renders a community and the cause of God, than counting the multitude that come to the temple to keep holy-day. Still it is good to know that even by this rough test we have reason to rejoice and be of good courage.

Our afternoon congregations have been particularly encouraging. These services are not parochial in the same sense as the morning services. They are intended to serve a special purpose, of teaching, and while we should be glad if those who attend no other Church, would make St. Stephen's their Church home, we have no desire to make any appeal to those who belong to other Churches that they should assume any obligations because they come to St. Stephen's in the afternoon. It is enough that they attend. The benefits are reciprocal. The steady attention of some of them who come great distances, is an inspiration to the minister and an aid to their fellow worshipers.

The Rector asked for $750 for Diocesan Missions, and sent out collectors according to the thorough system that he found in force in the Parish. He has received up to date $743.45, and hopes that he will yet receive the full amount, since it is a tradition worth maintaining that the congregation always gives what it is asked for. No more than is absolutely needed should be asked, and then there will grow up a conviction that the amount requested must be raised. The way in which this money is appropriated has already been explained; five hundred and fifty goes to convocational missions, a little over 100 to the Sustentation Fund—$105.70, to be accurate—and the rest is appropriated for special objects in the Diocese. It is a great source of comfort to the Rector that he has this generous collection to rely on. It is humiliating to be the rector of a large Church, and yet to be unable to make any pledges at the meetings of our various societies. The Rector of St. Stephen's is thankful that he is not so cabined, cribbed and confined, but that his people enable him through this generous collection to make pledges commensurate with the size of his congregation, and in some proportion to the part that the Rector of St. Stephen's is expected by his brother clergy to take in the work of the diocese. Through your generosity your Rector is given a free hand.

Since the above went to press we are happy to state that the entire sum asked for has been made up.

The Lenten Noon-day Services have been remarkably well attended. The Rector has been particularly gratified by the loyal efforts of the men and women of the congregation to make these services a success. The singing has been hearty, and the whole tone of the service has been reverential and inspiring. The addresses have avoided the two extremes of dull propriety, and sensational straining after effect and have been practical, pointed and helpful. The next two weeks will be the test of our endurance. There is always a little sag in the middle of an outstretched rope—that is according to nature—and it is according to nature that there should be a falling off in the middle of Lent. Now is the time to show that religion is a work of grace, and above nature and her uniformities and fallings off. Let us gird up our loins and make a good ending, as we made a good beginning.

As for the 5 o'clock services, they do not seem to meet much of a need. The attendance is so small that it seems a waste of force to have a choir, but it may be that this is a mistaken conclusion. These services will, anyhow, be continued through this Lent. On Wednesday the Rector is lecturing on the spiritual message of the poets. The first lecture was on Shakespeare, whose underlying philosophy was shown to be a spiritual conception of man as the creator of his own character and moulder of his own destiny. The second lecture was on Milton, the Puritan poet, in whom the Renaissance's love of life and beauty was united with the worship of virtue. "If virtue feeble were, Heaven itself would stoop to her" was selected as the keynote of his stately harmonies. The last lecture was on Wordsworth, the contemplative poet, who found his themes in obscure life and exalted the lowly by linking them and nature with the Divine, relying for his power on the depth of his insight rather than on the beauty of his tones. The last two lectures will be on Tennyson and Browning. On Friday afternoons Mr. Long gives an address. He also makes addresses occasionally at the other services.

Attention is called to the Confirmation lectures on Fridays at 8 o'clock in the Parish House. These lectures are informal and do not last longer than three-fourths of an hour. All are invited.

A Week at the Church.

To a large part of the congregation of this Church, St. Stephen's appears as merely a house of worship; a temple whose doors are open on Sunday but closed during the week; for of the great number who benefit by the services to God but few aid in its ministry to humanity and perhaps many fail to realize the extent of its work. We are persuaded that the Church's duty must extend to "Lazarus on the doorstep." It is therefore with the hope of making our members acquainted with the wide and ever-widening scope of St. Stephen's work that we sketch an outline of its weekly activities.

Monday is an unusually quiet day: Miss Lewis's work to the poor and sick goes on unmolested by the accustomed activity of the weekly meetings; and it is not until evening that the Church is thronged by over one hundred and fifty members of the Girls' Friendly Society—the largest branch in this city. The girls are instructed in different subjects under the leadership of the associate members. On the first Monday of the month there is an especial service for them in the Church with an address by the Rector.

Tuesday is the scene of more varied activities. In the morning, the garment committee and the shoe store sell donated articles at the lowest prices to the poor; such a slight charge helps the purchasers to obtain the necessary clothes and yet keeps them from considering themselves mere objects of charity. Every other Tuesday evening there is a meeting of St. Stephen's Brotherhood—a powerful body of the Church's most able men under the leadership of its director. It is to the zeal of these energetic men that we owe the support of our Noonday Lenten Services.

Of all the societies of this Church, perhaps the most helpful to the poorer classes is the Benevolent Society, whose meetings are held on Wednesday. Under the direction of its members, poor women without other employment are given sewing. They are paid well for their services and the articles are sent to fill the needs of the hospitals. Every other Wednesday evening there is a meeting of the King's Daughters who sew for the poor.

Thursday morning is the time set apart by the Rector for spiritual advice and help to all who seek pastoral aid; Thursday evening is the meeting of the mothers for pleasure and mutual companionship; many of the faithful members of the Sunday afternoon Bible class then assemble and talk over the affairs of the past week. The Woman's Auxiliary, an energetic body composed of most of the women of this Church, meets the third Thursday of the month to discuss and help along missionary plans and movements.

The Embroidery class in the morning, and the Alpha Kappa, a society for the young men of the Church and Sunday School, on the evenings of alternate weeks, are the principal events of Friday.

Saturday, the children's holiday from school, is given over principally to their pleasure and instruction. A class of about forty little girls ranging from six to fourteen is taught to sew. This school is divided into different classes: the younger children work on books, while those who have completed the required course are allowed to make aprons and dress dolls. After the close of this school the scholars go over to the Sunday School building where housework is taught, preceded by a march and followed by musical games. In this way we hope to extend to the younger element of the neighborhood the benefits of our Church and its work.

Lent presents added opportunities for work and instruction. A Ladies' Aid Society sews on Fridays during this season on outfits for little babies of destitute families. Two mission study classes—one held on Saturdays and a Junior class on Fridays, are conducted with benefit to all their members. And Miss Lewis' work is always going on: she aids men to get positions; cares for the sick, supplies necessary food and clothing; and comforts and helps hundreds of needy people who apply to her and the Church for aid.

We hope that through this brief review of St. Stephen's daily and weekly work her members may have a clearer idea of her vast field of missionary activitv, and that from the realization of her large opportunities, they may put forth greater effort to share with the other "laborers in the harvest of the Lord."

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The fifth stated meeting was held in the Parish House on Thursday, February 17th, at eleven o'clock, the president in the chair. The business of the meeting was unusually large, including that of the Epiphany meeting that had been deferred to date by reason of the Auxiliary's tea. Reports of double length were heard from all the committees.

The Auxiliary was very much pleased to receive a generous gift of $5.00 from the Bible Class of St. Stephen's.

The address of the day was made by Mrs. Hayden, of the St. Agnes Hospital, Raleigh, North Carolina. The hospital was founded fourteen years ago—and is situated on the grounds of St. Agnes' Mission, but is not strictly a part of the mission as it does not derive any support therefrom. Dr. Hayden spoke of the lack of hospital provision for colored people in the city of Raleigh, and of the opportunity thus given to the mission in its co-operation with the hospital. Dr. Hayden's idea of her work is most practical and her claim upon the interest of her hearers was strong and direct. Her address closed a long and interesting session.

The remaining two meetings of the Auxiliary will be held on Thursday, March 17th, and Thursday, April 21st.

Boys.—Teacher, Miss Lippincott.

George Krimmel, Thomas Kilpatrick, James Rice, Robert Brown, Frederick Le Dent, Clarence Means.

Miss Lippincott's class has completed a course of study on the Use of Opportunity, as exemplified in the life of Abraham Lincoln. An oral quiz was given and especial distinction was won by Frederick Le Dent and George Krimmel.

If any members of the congregation have favorite hymns which they would like to hear, the Rector will be glad to have them sung by the choir, if they will let him know of their choice. Suggestions may be sent through the editor of the PARISH NEWS.

Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

For various reasons, the Alpha Kappa season was late in starting. However, now that a beginning has been made, it is hoped that the Fraternity will make up for what it has lost.

On Tuesday evening, February 8th, the members of the Alpha Kappa gave an entertainment. First on the program was a minstrel show, which was a great success. William M. Rowe was interlocutor and Richard Snyder, Joseph Bergin, James Murrow and Robert Snyder were end men. Merritt Bodine, Fred Kunze, Richard Snyder, Fred Buckner, Robert Snyder, James Murrow and George Laughlin rendered vocal solos which were heartily encored. John Tobin assisted at the piano. Something new in Alpha Kappa entertainments was an exhibition of Mystical Wonders by Mr. Robert Boyd, Jr., who proved himself to be very clever. Henry F. Cooke, assisted by Frank A. Cooke at the piano, rendered some very much appreciated mandolin solos. One of the funniest parts of the program was the sketch, "Darktown High School." Mr. W. S. Brown as the professor, J. Morrow as the Dunce and J. Bergin as Patsy, were exceptionally good. The entertainment closed with dancing.

After the Lenten season has ended, the Alpha Kappa will give its annual play. The production this year will be a comedy in three acts, entitled "Dick." The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to repairing and repainting the dilapidated scenery which has been used so long in the Sunday School. It is hoped that the various societies of the Church who use the scenery will come to our support to make the play a financial success.

The meetings of the Fraternity are held on the first and third Fridays of the month. Addresses are delivered, debates held and every other month a musicale is given.

New members are always welcome.

The formal action of the Vestry on the death of our beloved organist, David D. Wood, will appear in the next issue of the PARISH NEWS, and there will be some public service later on in commemoration of his unique career and beautiful character. All that will be done here will be briefly to record our loss. He came to St. Stephen's on Good Friday, March 25, 1864, and had looked forward with much interest to the coincidence of dates this year, when after forty-six years, Good Friday would again fall on March 25th; but early on that looked-for morning he was taken seriously ill, and shortly after noon-tide on Easter-day he outsoared the shadow of our night and joined the choir invisible. As a choirmaster he was unique in his power of ruling by love and in his ability to blend many voices into a rich and harmonious whole; as an organist he was, in spite of his blindness, a finished executant, and perhaps because of his blindness remarkably rich and sympathetic in his harmonies, while his wide general culture gave him great breadth and comprehension in his interpretations. As a composer of sacred music, he was classic in form, graceful and melodious, intricate and subtle in modulation, a master of pathos and longing. As a teacher he drew to him many pupils, and fastened their souls to his with hooks of steel; as a man he knew how to bear the great limitation of his life-long blindness with dignity and entire submission. As a Christian, he had the simple faith of a child. He dwelt in an inner region of light, love and harmony, and will long be held in loving memory as a master musician and a beautiful Christian character.

By the death of Miss Anna Tilghman, St. Stephen's Church lost its oldest member. It had been years since she had been able to take active part in the affairs of the Church where she had once been a worker, but her interest and benevolence continued up to the end. No one ever met her without being impressed by the force of her intellect and the breadth of her culture, and the truthfulness and reality of her nature. She was a remarkable woman of real enthusiasm for literature. The committal at the grave was most appropriately pronounced by her close friend, the Rev. Dr. E. S. Watson.

The Duplex Envelope System.

The following letter has been sent out with every package of envelopes, and explains briefly the working of the new system:

MY DEAR PARISHIONER:

Under another cover you will receive this week a package of envelopes labeled "The Lord's Treasury," with your name and a special number on the cover, which number is also on all the envelopes within. You will at once recognize from the double pockets in the envelopes that this is the Duplex system of envelopes that has been so strongly recommended by the committee of our church, appointed to co-operate with the Laymen's Missionary Movement. It is a system that has proven most successful wherever it has been tried, and the Rector and Vestry ask you to co-operate with them in introducing it into St. Stephen's Church.

Let me explain it briefly. Its first object is to secure regularity and fidelity in giving. Why should the church lose your contribution on the Sundays when you are kept at home, or are absent from the city? Its expenses do not take a holiday with you. Its missionary and charitable work does not suspend its demands. The offering on the day of your absence may be for a most important cause, which you would not willingly see suffer; but that you forget all about it. Well, all this will be guarded against. In this package every Sunday is provided with its own envelope. We ask you to return every envelope with its own contribution. If you should be absent one Sunday, then bring two envelopes with their gifts on the next Sunday; if absent two Sundays, bring three envelopes on the third Sunday. It will be a splendid record, if at the end of the year every envelope has found its way into the Lord's treasury.

In some churches, pledges for such Sunday offerings are asked for, but I prefer to leave the amount to each person and have no desire to know the individual contributions. All that is asked is that you make a resolution to give regularly and then live up to it. If you prefer to pledge yourself to a definite sum each Sunday, there is a card in the package for your pledge and the treasurer will be pleased to receive it. I do not ask it, however; do as you think best. No record will be made of the contents of the envelopes, but the number of your package will be recorded opposite your name, and the envelopes will be checked off, as they come in, to ascertain whether the system is working successfully.

The two pockets in the envelopes are intended to give you the opportunity to contribute something every Sunday to maintain your own church, and also to give something for the extension of Christ's kingdom. This feature is in line with the great Missionary Forward Movement. Pennsylvania has agreed to do her share in this great movement and we must do our part. The special object is marked on the pocket, whether for Foreign, or Diocesan, or Domestic Missions, whether for Theological Education, or for missions in general; but the one pocket is always for some cause outside.

The other pocket is for our own charities—on the first Sunday in the month for the Communion Alms—and for the maintenance of our own Parish. In St. Stephen's our annual running expenses exceed our income by about $2,500. For the last three years this deficit has been met by a special fund raised by a few large givers, but this is not a wholesome way to maintain a church, and I hope that by this envelope system we can raise this deficit by the contributions of the congregation as a whole. Fifty cents a month from 400 members would make $2,400, in the course of a year for parochial maintenance.

Let every one try to put something into each pocket every Sunday. The contribution for the support of St. Stephen's and its charities will make you feel a deeper sense of fellowship with the Church which you are aiding to support, and the gift for the extension of the kingdom will add new fervor and reality to our daily petition "Thy kingdom come."

In conclusion let me beg no one to refuse a package on account of the necessary smallness of his contribution. The example of your co-operation will stimulate others; moreover God, who maketh us to differ in powers and wealth, values our gifts, not according to their amount, but in proportion to the self-sacrifice and fidelity of which they are the outcome. Let us all be of one mind in "showing all good fidelity."

Very sincerely your Rector,
CARL E. GRAMMER.

AN EXPLANATION.

Five hundred packages were ordered, under the impression that that number would be sufficient. It proved, however, too few, and there are some members who have not yet received their packages. There is no intention to slight them, or treat them as outsiders. Some of the "Treasuries" have been returned by the Post Office, and they will be sent out to those who wish them, or whose names have not yet been reached on the list. It is most gratifying to find such a general desire to take part in the new system. It will help the Treasurer, Mr. Van Dusen, if anyone desiring a package would apply directly to him, Stephen Girard Building, on 12th street. A postal will be sufficient for the purpose.

The Parochial Meeting.

The precedent set last year of a meeting of all the societies of the women of the Church, was improved this season. On Monday, April 4th, all the societies of every kind, the organizations of the men and boys, as well as of the women and girls, met in the Church and read their reports. The Vestry appropriately began, as the oldest of all the societies, and the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew closed the list, as the youngest. There was not one report that was not full of encouragement, and that did not speak of a growing work, and "a great door and effectual" being open. It is unnecessary to run over the list of the societies, for they are published in every issue of this paper. The Mission Study Classes of Miss Laura Bell and Mrs. F. W. English do not come under this head, however, as they are special Lenten features of the Church's work. These classes are valuable aids to the Woman's Auxiliary. The total number of persons present was 280. It was especially gratifying to have the Vestry present as a body and to bring the congregation in this way into closer contact with the men entrusted with the financial burden of the Church. The singing was led by Dr. Anthony; and Mr. Long was with the Rector in the Chancel.

It is hoped that such a meeting, by acquainting the members of every society with the work of every other organization, will arouse an increased interest on their part in the progress and work of the Church as a whole, and stimulate them on to greater activity and usefulness in their own fields.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Lenten meeting was held in the Parish House on Thursday, March 17th, at the usual hour. The reports of the committees covered many interesting points of the work in many lands. Miss Harnish, of the Burd School, made a brief address, telling of her desire to have the children of the school taught something of the mission work of the Church.

The speaker of the day was Miss Higgins, of Wuchang, China. Miss Higgins has for some years been at work in the Elizabeth Bunn Memorial Hospital, which is in the Hankow district beyond Shanghai, not far from Boone University. The hospital does a most noble work, chiefly for children, who, among the very poor in China, often suffer most horribly.

The last meeting of the season will be held on Thursday, April 21st. E. W. L.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

We are asked to call the attention of the men of St. Stephen's to the meetings of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew (St. Stephen's Chapter), which are held in the Parish House on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 8 P. M. The meeting on the second Tuesday of the month is devoted mainly to a consideration of the work assigned to the various standing committees of the Chapter. The meeting on the fourth Tuesday is a religious meeting, including among other things an address on some subject of interest to churchmen. At a recent meeting Mr. Roland S. Morris spoke on the Hymnal and gave an interesting account of its history, together with many incidents connected with the composition of various well known hymns. At another meeting Mr. Long, the Assistant Rector, read a most interesting and instructive paper on the history and scope of the Creeds. During the coming year it is planned to have a series of talks and addresses on the Prayer Book.

All men connected with St. Stephen's are cordially invited to these meetings. The members of the Brotherhood desire a better acquaintance and a closer intimacy with the men who, from time to time, attend the services at this Church. The Brotherhood meetings furnish an excellent opportunity for this, and it is believed that they will prove interesting and helpful to all who may feel disposed to attend them.

C. L. McK.

Six Months at the Burd School.

The children returned from their summer vacations on the first of September. The schools were organized and the regular plan of work was instituted on September 7th. Aside from the usual school work individual lessons in music on both piano and pipe organ were arranged for; classes in sewing and cooking in music on both piano and pipe organ were composed of six girls each, and each class was taught how to prepare and serve ordinary breakfasts, luncheons and dinners during the six months which was the length of the elementary course. These were the first lessons in cooking that the children had ever had. Great interest was shown on their part, and very good work was done.

The regular school work, which began September 7th, was continued until February 8th, with two interruptions, a vacation of two days at Thanksgiving and one week at Christmas.

On February 8th the children of the intermediate and grammar grades, with the exception of those who were planning in the near future to take up special work, as nursing and stenography, were sent to the public schools of Philadelphia. We feel that this is going to be very beneficial to the children, as it not only gives them the benefit of the splendid school system of Philadelphia, but also gives them an opportunity to come in contact with children other than those whom they see about them every hour of the day at the school, thus bringing something fresh and new into their lives each day.

Aside from the educational work various changes were made throughout the school in general. The old plan of the teachers and children having different food and at separate tables was abolished. According to present arrangements children and teachers eat at the same table and have the same food. This, we find to be the most pleasant way for the children, and the best way to teach them how to eat.

A sun parlor was built for the nursery children by enclosing part of one of the porches just off the nursery. Sitting rooms for the two older groups of girls were arranged. Some of the rooms formerly occupied by the teachers were given to the older girls as bed rooms, accommodating in all twelve girls, there being one, two and three girls in them according to the size of the room.

During the winter months the chief amusements of the children were coasting and skating. This being an especially favorable winter for the former, the children had many very happy afternoons out in the snow. During the fall, and now that the weather is becoming more pleasant, the older girls spend most of their recreation time playing basket ball and tennis. Saturday evening has been set apart as a time for entertainments, dancing and parties.

In November, a Sunday School was organized, including all the children of the Burd School and about twenty children from Millbourne. It is held every Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock. At present our school is divided into four classes—infant, primary, intermediate and senior—the total number enrolled being about seventy. For our lessons we are studying the stories of the Old Testament.

Aside from our Sunday School we invite the public to attend our evening prayer on Sunday at four o'clock, and Wednesday at seven thirty, and also to Holy Communion the first Sunday of each month.

We are always glad to have any persons who are interested in the school and its work to visit us at any time, and thus see just what we are trying to do.

The following letter was sent to Mrs. Wood by a committee of the officers of the Sunday School:

ST. STEPHEN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL.

MRS. DAVID D. WOOD.

DEAR MRS. WOOD:

The scholars, teachers and officers of St. Stephen's Sunday School, having just learned that your honored husband, their beloved director of music, has been called to God's eternal home, unite with feelings of deep sympathy in desiring to express the loving regards of every member of this school.

By his faithful, loving patience with us through the past many years, he has so endeared himself in our affections that the sudden parting brings tears to our eyes; but remembering the inspiration of his musical leadership, in teaching us music as the "noblest and most divine" of the arts, we bow reverently to the heavenly harmonies which have ushered him to God's presence on this beautiful Easter Day, and somehow our tears dry, and with Christian joys, we hear the angels echoing his Hallelujah chorus and his favorite anthem revives our spirits, as it rings in our memories: "There is no night there."

Sincerely,
ROBERT LONG,
GEORGE H. STREAKER,
W. J. KIRKPATRICK.

Easter Sunday, March 27, 1910.

Easter Festival of the Sunday Schools.

The Sunday Schools' Easter Festival was held on the first Sunday after Easter, at four o'clock in the Church.

The Sunday School organized during the winter at the Burd School, joined the Church Sunday School, and both marched by classes into the Church, carrying bouquets of carnations. During the carol service, which followed, the bouquets were presented by the various classes to be placed on a large cross erected near the Chancel. At the same time a text of Scripture and a motto from each class were also presented and were read aloud by the Rector. The amount each class contributed during the year and their Lenten offerings were also announced.

When all the classes had made their presentations and the cross was completed by the flowers it was then lit up by numerous electric lights, outlining the cross of flowers with a beautiful halo.

The hearty singing of the carols showed how every one entered into the spirit of the happy season. A short address by the Superintendent of the Church School, and a few touching remarks by the Rector on the absence of Dr. Wood, who selected the carols and trained us all in singing them, completed the programme. Statistics of the Farm.

We had at the Farm in the summer of 1907—312 guests for average stay of 10 days.
160 guests for the day and dinner.
in 1908—408 guests, average stay of 12 days.
235 guests for the day and dinner.
in 1909—460 guests, average stay of 12 days.
314 guests for the day and dinner.

You can see from the above how we have increased in numbers, and, of course, our expenses have also increased.

Unfortunately the drought of last July gave us only half a crop of potatoes (our main crop) and a sort hay crop. These two causes, the short crops and increased number of guests, have resulted in our closing the season with a debt of $386. We would ask those who have been so generous to the Farm to try and interest their friends, and by increasing the numbers of contributors, provide for our next season's expenses and payment of debt.

J. HUNTER EWING.

Children's Friend Society.

With the warm weather approaching the little children are inquiring: "When are we going to have an excursion?"

It is hoped that their kind friends will remember them before going away for the summer, that they may have their outings.

King's Daughters.

The King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle have their next meeting, April 20th, in the Parish House, at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

Donation from Miss Wilkins, $1.00.

During Lent, owing to the strike, there have only been made about 50 garments, which will be distributed later on among the poor.

Shoe Fund.

Money received from those receiving shoes in March	$5 55
Expended in March	2 75
Balance	$2 80

Have given out in March about 25 pairs of shoes and 6 pairs of overshoes.

Report of the Burd School.

At the present time the school contains twelve teachers and fifty-five pupils. The income of the endowment for the last fiscal year amounted to $18,427.69, and the expenditures to $21,002.08, showing a deficit of $2,574.39. It was because of the continuance of this deficit for a large number of years that the Trustees felt it necessary to economize in the future management of the School so that the expenditures should not exceed the income. As a result the estimated income for the fiscal year ending June, 1910, will be about $18,500, and the estimated expenditures, based on the present expenditures, $16,000, which should show a surplus over the income of $2,500. In order to accomplish this the Trustees were compelled to radically change the system of management at the School, placing a superintendent instead of a warden as heretofore, and abolishing a double system of supplies and housekeeping which had been continued under the old management. In other respects the committee believes that the pupils have had greater advantages both in the increase in the teaching force; in the supply of the food and in the greater facilities which have been given by virtue of a larger portion of the buildings being open to all the students. The property of the Burd School comprises about thirty acres and the Trustees believe that in the years to come this site will be exceedingly valuable as the city grows in that direction. They do not contemplate any change in the location in the immediate future and for that reason are preparing to expend a considerable sum of money in modernizing and improving the buildings during the coming summer. No radical repairs have been made for a number of years and certain improvements, especially in the plumbing, are imperative. In addition to this it is hoped to change in a measure the system of dormitories into one of alcoves, thereby giving greater privacy to the older girls. Among the changes which the committee have put into force in the social life of the School have been the abolition of uniforms, the sending of the older girls to the public schools in the neighborhood and the establishment of a sitting room for the girls' own use outside of their school-room. In addition it is hoped to provide adequate library facilities through the generosity of a friend of the School whose legacy will fall due some time in the late summer. The abolition of the uniforms was decided upon for two reasons: First, it was impossible to send the older girls to outside schools in uniform without subjecting them to great humiliation; second, modern educators are all agreed that a better individual development of pupils is obtained by doing away with all these outward evidences of uniform which characterized the older systems of education. In this report we have referred to the School as the Burd School and not as the Burd Orphan Asylum. In explaining this to those of the congregation who are familiar with the old term it would seem enough to say that the words "Orphan Asylum" have become identified in recent years in the minds of the community as signifying those public institutions carried on wholly or in part by State aid to take care of incorrigible or abandoned children. This is not the object or the purpose of the Burd School, which was founded primarily for the daughters of clergymen of the Episcopal Church, and secondly for children belonging to families identified with the Church, whose father was dead. In addition, as the chairman of the committee has been reliably informed, Mrs. Burd, who during her lifetime always referred to the School which she established near her home as the Burd Home and never as the Burd Orphan Asylum, in including that name in her will merely suggested a legal term rather than the term to be used in designating it generally.

Respectfully submitted,
ROLAND S. MORRIS,
Chairman.

The Sunday School.

The Sunday School is in a flourishing condition and by comparison with the year previous we show an increase in our strength numerically and financially.

We have six officers, consisting of Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent, Secretary and Treasurer and three Assistant Secretaries, the latter being made necessary on account of installing the Blakeslee System of Lessons.

We also have in our Main School 18 teachers and 148 scholars—these figures are exact as of April 3rd—scholars attending only occasionally not being considered in the count.

In our Primary and Intermediate departments we have three teachers and 45 scholars, not including the Cradle Roll, which numbers 20.

Average attendance Main School, 100.

Average attendance Primary and Intermediate, 35.

Associated with us we have an afternoon Bible Class presided over by Mrs. Butcher, which is almost a Sunday School in itself, having a membership of 26.

The very limited space in our Sunday School Building prevents our spreading out, but we are holding our own, both as to numerical strength and average attendance, and notwithstanding the fact that the inducements in other churches surrounding us may be greater, our scholars are very loyal. I might add, too, that we have a generous school, by which I mean our collections are substantial. To bear out this statement, I quote the following from a letter recently received from Rev. Herman L. Duhring: "I always have a special interest in St. Stephen's Sunday School, for no other school in proportion does better. You are generous with the Lenten Offering, first, last and all the time. Give my hearty and sincere thanks to the children for what they have given to the Lenten Offering for 1910."

We close our regular sessions on the last Sunday of the present month, but we keep in touch with our scholars during the summer by giving them several outings and we would like to continue doing so. Our finances, however, as will be seen by the report will not permit us carrying on our summer work without assistance and we should be pleased if some of our friends would help us financially.

During the year several of the classes gave entertainments with good results, but as the funds collected from this source were for special objects and were distributed by the individual classes, the amounts therefore are not included in this report.

All expenses incident to the carrying on of the work of the School have been paid, with the exception of that part attending the Anniversary exercises of Sunday, April 3rd, but we defer making a statement of the disbursements at this time for the reason that the contributions to the various missions are left to the judgment of the scholars and are made at the close of the year, just prior to making final report.

Respectfully submitted,
W. J. KIRKPATRICK,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

At the last meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, on Thursday, April 21st, Miss Schott kindly sent a paper on the Mission Work in Mexico, from which Miss Laura Bell read some interesting facts about Bishop Aires's work among the famine-stricken natives and in the Hooker School. Dr. Grammer spoke of the new apportionment to be made to each Church in the Diocese, in order to meet the general apportionment to the Board of Missions, which has been so sadly affected by the death of Mr. George C. Thomas.

The speakers at the monthly meetings through the winter have been:

Miss Laura Bell, on the Mission Work in Rio de Janeiro; Mr. Herbert Welsh, on the Indian and His Cause; the Rev. Jules L. Prevost, on St. Ambrose Mission; Mrs. Hayden, on St. Agnes's Hospital, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Higgins, on the Work of the "Elizabeth Bunn" School in Wuchang, China.

On January 20th, the Auxiliary gave a Tea in honor of the graduating Deaconesses at the Training School.

We close the winters' work with a membership increased to 108, but with the loss of a faithful and ardent worker in the Auxiliary. Much appreciation of Miss Lippincott's excellent work as secretary has been expressed on all sides, and many regrets that she has been obliged to leave us. The good wishes of the Auxiliary are with Miss Lippincott in her new life.

Missionary Box Committee.

During the year 1909-10 the Missionary Box Committee of St. Stephen's Church has sent to the Colored and Domestic Field five boxes, as follows: One to Missouri, one to Texas, one to South Dakota, one to Wisconsin, one containing articles for a fair in a Kensington Mission. The committee desires to express their sincere thanks for the many gifts of clothing sent to them. The amount expended on the boxes was $296.08, but the donations greatly increased their actual value. The grateful letters of appreciation received from the missionaries to whom boxes were sent, have added greatly to our interest in the work and have assured us of the need for it.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY DE HAVEN BRIGHT,
Secretary.

Mission Study Classes.

The purpose of the Mission Study Class is to spread information in regard to the various missions of our Church, about which it is safe to say there is little knowledge among the majority of Church members.

With the knowledge, interest in the subject develops, and therefore, to arouse interest in missions is another object of a Mission Study Class. When knowledge and interest go hand in hand, gifts and prayers for missions as surely follow, and every student feels some personal responsibility in the missionary enterprise, which is the work of the Church, and means the extension of the Kingdom of God.

During the Lenten season, seven meetings of the Senior Class were held, and there were twelve members in the class, with an average attendance of nine. The text-book used was "The Why and How of Foreign Missions," by Arthur J. Brown, and the subject of missions was freely discussed by all the members of the class. It is hoped that these meetings have been helpful in more ways than one, and that they may be fruitful in result.

LAURA BELL, Leader.

The Junior Mission Study Class, with a membership this year of twelve, met once a week for seven weeks to discuss Africa, the text-book being "Daybreak in the Dark Continent." We studied the geography, history, the religions and people and were soon aware of Africa's great need—for "knowledge gives power." We ended our sessions by an intercessory prayer service and a desire that the class may be continued next year, when we hope to take up the study of Japan.

The Benevolent Society

At the meeting of the managers of the Benevolent Society, Thursday, November 11th, 1909, the Treasurer reported:

Balance on hand from May, 1909	$131 63
Cash receipts from November 11th, 1909, to April 4th, 1910	431 02
	$562 65
Disbursements from November 11th, 1909, to April 4th, 1910	507 38
Balance on hand April 4th, 1910	$55 27

Wednesday, November 17th, the Society started its winter work. There are usually present from fifteen to twenty ladies, cutting out, parceling, paying; keeping an account of the women, the work they take out, and the money paid to them. Some examine the work, others give it out, sell the garments, take private orders, and buy materials. In this way each has her part allotted to her. Some have had illness and death during the winter and it has brought out sympathy and drawn them nearer together, and there has been a helpful, kindly, cheerful spirit through the Society all winter, making it truly benevolent. We have made garments for eight hospitals, the Pennsylvania was the first to send us work, the Episcopal, the Presbyterian, the University, the Women's, the Howard, the Church Home and the Women's Southern Homœopathic. We have made for them 2,038 garments, most of them difficult, such as clinic coats and gowns, and wrappers for men and women. We have made 260 garments, special orders of the ladies of the Society, and 855 for the Benevolent Society, things that are easily made, by the women who do not sew well, making in all 3,153 articles.

Altar Society.

The Altar Society presents its twenty-sixth annual report.

The Superintendent of the Chancel Committee reports that six stole collars and eight surplices were made for St. Stephen's Church, and four surplices for the Burd School. The Chancel Committee has performed its duties during the past year and at present numbers seventeen members.

The Embroidery Class Committee reports having finished this year:

For St. Stephen's Church:—
One veil.
Two purificators.
One green stole.
For the Burd School:—
One green stole.
One purple stole.
Donated to the Burd School:—
One white stole.

The pall, which is an elaborate piece of work, has had a good deal done to it this year.

We are greatly in need of more workers.

The Treasurer of the Altar Society presents the following report, April 1st, 1910:

Report of the Girls' Friendly Society.

The Girls' Friendly Society in America was founded by Miss Edson in 1877 and the first Branch started in St. Anne's Church, Lowell, Mass. There are now in America 37,000 members, 599 Branches in 66 Dioceses. St. Stephen's Branch was organized November, 1887, and reorganized May, 1890.

There are now in the Branch ten working associates, 18 honorary associates, 124 members, 20 married Branch helpers, 10 probationers and 10 candidates, total 192.

The classes in Physical Culture and Millinery have proved of benefit to the girls. The associates have instructed or entertained their bands in various ways. "As You Like It" has been read and studied with enthusiasm under Miss MacAlister's guidance. Colored post cards have given the girls glimpses of many strange lands. Others have read and embroidered.

Mrs. Wetmore, of Arden, N. C., gave a most interesting talk on her work among the white mountain girls and enlisted the sympathies of the members so much that they sent a trunk filled with all kinds of useful articles, and a doll dressed by Miss Newhall's band. Miss Hapwood, a student at the Deaconess House, gave a delightful informal talk on China, her future place of work; and Miss Lewis's band of girls have dressed a doll for her. Miss Hutchison told how successful a savings bank had been in her Branch in Chicago. The outcome of that talk has been the starting of a bank in our Branch. We have now in bank $200 and 38 depositors.

Mrs. Orr kindly consented to sing one evening and gave a great deal of pleasure.

The masquerade at Christmas was entered into with spirit by the members and their friends.

The Lenten sewing has been carried on as usual.

The first Monday in the month a service is held in the Church, with an address from Dr. Grammer or Mr. Long. In April an admission service was held, two associates, six seniors and eighteen probationers being admitted.

Sewing School.

The past winter the Sewing School has been meeting regularly every Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock. There are forty-six children enrolled in the class, ranging in age from five to thirteen years, and the average attendance has been twenty-one children at every meeting.

The work is divided into three departments. In the first, children entering the class are taught the rudiments of sewing. Each child is furnished with material and a pattern from which to work. Each piece of work, when satisfactorily finished, is retained, and as each child completes duplicates of all the patterns furnished, they are placed in a book to show the progress made. In the second department the work is more advanced and is carried on in the same manner. Children who have satisfactorily completed the work in these two departments are then allowed to enter the third in which they dress dolls for hospitals and make aprons which they receive on the payment of ten cents each. A prize is awarded at the close of the season to each department for the best work.

A saving fund is attached to the school. There is an average deposit made by the children of two dollars and a half each week, and the total amount to the credit of each child ranges from two dollars and a half to seven dollars and a half. The total amount of the savings averages about fifty-five dollars.

The work of the organization of a Candidates' Class in the Sewing School was begun this year; a number of cards of admittance were distributed and dues were received. The usefulness of this work is very great and it is hoped that it may be encouraged and extended during the coming year.

Annis W. Taylor,
Ex-President.

The Kitchen Garden.

The Kitchen Garden was organized in October, 1906, by Miss Lineaweaver, with about thirty children on the roll. The work was continued in 1907 by Miss Lineaweaver. In 1908 Miss Snively was in charge, and in October, 1909, it was opened with an enrollment of thirty-five little girls, with Mrs. Eastwod in charge, Miss Edith Harper as assistant; and Miss Helen Harper, musician. It has held its meetings every Saturday morning, from eleven until half past twelve o'clock, the attendance averaging about twenty, which was very good, indeed, when one takes into consideration the many stormy Saturdays of the past winter.

The object of the Kitchen Garden is to give the small children some idea of the proper methods of housekeeping—these being necessarily applied in Kindergarten fashion. With the miniature sets of dishes the children are taught how to set a table neatly and wash and put away dishes properly (after an imaginary meal); how to make a bed, how to sweep and dust; they are also given a few practical lessons in simple laundry work and in the care of linens.

The equipment, which consists of the necessary working implements in miniature, is very inadequate and the teachers have been greatly handicapped this winter because of this. The children range in age from six to fourteen years. All of the older children have been coming to these classes for two or more years and are really ready for more advanced work; but as there are no classes which would meet this need, these girls have been carried along in the Kitchen Garden, as any suggestion on the part of the teachers that they discontinue attendance has been met by vigorous objection on their part. We feel that the work for the litttle ones, for whom the Kitchen Garden is really intended has been greatly hampered by this condition of affairs, and consider its successful continuation to be dependent on these two things—improved equipment and provision for the older girls.

As a medium of useful play, it has served a good purpose and as the children spend the preceding hour and fifteen minutes in the Sewing School, perhaps we should not think too lightly of the Kitchen Garden as a means of recreation. We have tried to sow the good seed of courtesy and loving-kindness along with that of neatness and cheerful helpfulness, and we find in this, as in other gardens, the need of watchful, loving care; for weeds spring up with flowers. The two swift growing ones of discourtesy and unwillingness, we have tried very hard to uproot.

It is our earnest hope that this good seed may be carefully tended, so that it may bring forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixty-fold, some thirty-fold.

MARY E. EASTWOOD, President.

St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Chapter was organized in December, 1908, with twenty members. It now numbers thirty members. Most of the work is in charge of several standing committees as follows: Work in the Sunday School, Work among the Boys of the Church, a Committee upon interesting strangers throughout the Parish in the services of the Church, The Galilee Mission The Lenten Services, Ushers at the Church Services.

The Lenten Noon-Day Services at St. Stephen's, like the similar services at the Garrick Theatre, St. Paul's Church and Christ Church, are in charge of the Philadelphia Local Assembly of the Brotherhood. St. Stephen's Chapter, however, practically takes charge of the services at St. Stephen's, leaving the General Committee free to devote its attention chiefly to the other services.

The meeting on the second Tuesday of each month is devoted mainly to a consideration and discussion of the work entrusted to the various standing committees. The meeting on the fourth Tuesday of each month is a religious service, including among other things an address on some subject of interest to church men. The arrangements for these latter meetings are in charge of a standing committee of the Chapter.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are very cordially invited to attend the Brotherhood meetings.

ABRAM G. TATNALL, Secretary.

The Junior Brotherhood.

St. Stephen's Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, composed of the older boys and young men of the Sunday School, was organized in February last on probation and recently, after applying to the National Office, was duly chartered as Junior Chapter No. 1020. It has a membership of fourteen and is enthusiastically at work, meeting twice a month with Mr. Streaker as Director, Robert T. Boyd, Jr., Vice-Director, and Robert Snyder, Jr., as Secretary and Treasurer.

Yearly Report of the Parish Visitor.

Another year has passed in the chain of years of continuous work; work that we love and rejoice in, for although the tasks seem endless and there is constant repetition, yet in looking back over the past one we can see a great deal accomplished in the work of St. Stephen's Parish.

Nearly every hospital in the city is on our list for visiting patients. A great deal of time is consumed in this branch, yet it pays—it helps to brighten the day for the sick one and makes her feel that we keep in touch with her. There are many opportunities to reach the sick, with sympathy, and ofttimes with strongly needed material help as well.

The different branches of organized charity have been called into co-operation with our work. They have investigated a number of cases for us. In some instances, even with the utmost care, we have been "taken in," but we comfort ourselves with the thought that the world is full of mistakes and try to profit by our experience.

The Parish Visitor is interested in bringing children to the Sunday School and in looking up the absent; also the children of the Sewing School, which meets every Saturday morning in the Parish House during the winter months.

The Garment Society meets every Tuesday morning during the season in the Sunday School Building and it is a great pleasure for the Parish Visitor to be there. She is greatly indebted to the members of the congregation for gifts of all kinds, especially those of half-worn clothing which is distributed through the Society.

Special thanks are due to the ladies who made the layettes during the Lenten season. They were sent to a number of little babies who greatly needed them and would gladly have given thanks were they able to do so.

The Parish Visitor when not engaged at the Parish House receiving callers and attending to other duties, is out visiting. She averages about one hundred calls a month including the sick and well. Our people are scattered, some living long distances from the church,—some in Germantown, West Philadelphia and the extreme southern section as well as in Camden, making it really impossible to calculate one's time, as a visit is not well done if paid hurriedly and besides much tact is required in dealing with people both poor and sensitive.

Fifty bushels of potatoes were given among a number of families, each one bringing as large a basket as could be found and having it filled at the Parish House. These were most thankfully received, in some cases there being very little else in the house.

Fifteen tons of coal were donated by members of the congregation, and were given to the needy,—mostly in half-ton orders.

Sixty-four different families had groceries sent to them. Medicine and many delicacies were sent to the sick and other needs were met as they arose.

It has been our custom for some time to have an Easter breakfast for the convenience of those coming to early Communion, yet living too far to return in time for our eleven o'clock service. It was a great pleasure to have it in charge and to have had eighty-six with us this year, having had but sixty last year.

The Parish Visitor will willingly respond to a call of distress night or day.

The total amount of money received and disbursed during the year was $260.

Report of the Mothers' Meetings.

The Mothers' Meetings commenced Thursday, November 4, 1909. There are 109 names on the roll. There have been 19 meetings, with an average attendance of 61 members. Many have been absent on account of sickness, the weather, and the strike. Several notes were received where there was sickness in the family, begging that their names would not be taken off the roll on account of their absence. During the time of the strike one mother walked thirty squares, another twenty-one squares. It is very gratifying to see and know the interest taken in these meetings, nearly all living a great distance and coming through all kinds of weather. On January 6, the time of the blizzard, there were 20 members present. The Annual Sale, December, 1909, realized $78.36, the proceeds of which they donated to the "Home for Aged Couples."

At the opening of the Farm last summer, they sent three dozen forks, four dozen tea spoons, one dozen table spoons, two pie knives, one hammock and hooks, twenty-four bureau scarfs, and forty yards of toweling from the proceeds of the sale, December, 1908. Sixty-one mothers had a day's outing at the Farm, which is always thoroughly enjoyed. They were all remembered on Christmas from the Rector's special fund.

The Provident Fund, to which any member deposits five cents per week to draw from in case of sickness; and the Saving Fund, any amount deposited, to draw from at any time, is very helpful to them.

Thursday evening in Holy Week, has always been celebrated by a special service in the Church, and celebration of the Holy Communion. Quite a large number were present. On this night our good friend, Dr. Wood, took charge of the music, his last service on this earth. It will be remembered by all members present.

The work of the year closed with an extra meeting on May 5th, when the mothers were entertained with music, readings, familiar talks and refreshments.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. H. P. TAYLOR.

The regular meetings of the St. Stephen's Aid Society were held on Friday mornings during Lent. The attendance was not large but the few faithful members did such earnest and conscientious work that we were able to have a large number of baby garments to be used by Miss Lewis in her work among the poor of the Parish. Thanks are due to Mrs. Austin and to Mrs. Chandler for their generous donations. Sixty-four garments and 86 other articles were made, and the treasurer reports $20.00 received and an outlay of $19.96, leaving a balance of four cents.

Children's Friend Society.

The object of this Society is to give fresh air excursions to poor children in the summer, and to brighten their lives by various entertainments in the winter. It has taken on excursions and entertained during the year about 450 children..

In 1909 it was thought necessary to raise money for the spring outing. Dr. Wood was always interested in the poor children, and with his kind advice a concert was given in St. George's Hall by some of the best artists, at which the sum of $175 was realized, and with this, and large donations from St. Stephen's Church, the Society was able during the summer to give about 250 children a day's outing to Atlantic City. Much good was done, and many little tired ones were much benefited by the sea air.

The King's Daughters, Whatsoever Circle

Is an order of women working in His Name. Their motto is "Whatsoever thy hands find to do, do it with all thy might."

This Circle meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month, and has made up during the year about 80 garments. They have given clothing to the poor, and donations to the Home for Aged Couples, and the Shoe Fund, Dr. Grammer for poor, Miss Lewis for her people, Children's Friend Society and Day Nursery. A little party was also given for some poor children on a very stormy night last winter.

They will have their next meeting May 25th, in the Parish House at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

An illustrated lecture by Prof. Sutton Fletcher, on "The Cathedrals and Abbeys of Britain," was given in the Sunday School Room on Wednesday evening, May 11th, under the auspices of the King's Daughters and proved most interesting and instructive.

Shoe Fund.

The King's Daughters, in 1899, when giving out some clothing to the poor, found that many needed shoes. A shoe bag was started, but the little mite they had, did not go very far, until Dr. Worcester became interested and gave them their first $25. Now Dr. Grammer looks upon it as one of the most worthy charities in the Church.

Mrs. Vanderslice and Miss Mary Jeffries are at the Parish House every Tuesday from 11 until 12 o'clock to give out shoes.

Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

This Fraternity of young men and older boys, principally of the Sunday School, is now in its fourth year, with a membership of 40, and is particularly vigorous under the presidency of Mr. Jurgen Kolb. It meets the first and third Friday evenings in each month in the Parish House, and while having a religious ritual, also aims to develop and give expression to the intellectual, physical and social qualities of its members; which it does through its debates, athletics, games and dramatic productions. It is particularly strong in expressing the talents of members through its frequent plays and entertainments, and thus desires to and does add to the happy social life of the young people of the Parish.

On Wednesday and Thursday evening, March 30th and 31st, the Fraternity presented their annual play. The production this year was "Dick," a comedy in three acts and according to those who have seen several of the productions of the Fraternity, it was their best effort.

The program appeared as follows:

The orchestra begins its overture and tries
To paint the theme which in an acted story lies.
Ho! give us, then, the merry fiddle's laughing call;
With here and there a cello's sad sweet cry, to claim
The echo of an answering chord which lies in all
Who watch the actors in this little play. Its aim?
A smile, a tear, once more a smile, a happy one—
A thought for those who acted it, and the play is done.

The curtain falls, the play is done!
'Tis hoped attention has been won.
O'erlook our errors, faults and all,
Remember not the prompter's call.
"Shadows" often miss their cues,
Oft their hearers they confuse;
So stay awhile, and then, perchance,
We'll take our cues, all, in the dance.

The proceeds of the play were not what might be expected but the Fraternity takes this opportunity to thank all those who helped us in our efforts. Especial thanks must be given to Miss Bird, Miss Corrigan and Miss Showaker who so ably rendered their parts in the play.

It is the desire of the Fraternity to present at the beginning of next season a Shakespearian play or some other costume play. The Alpha Kappa is steadily improving in its dramatic talent and it is believed that a good rendition can be given of a play of Shakespeare's.

The Fraternity has organized an athletic class for Friday evenings and the members are taking quite an interest in physical development.

A pool table has been lent to the Alpha Kappa and two of the lower rooms of the Sunday School building are in use by the members on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

A Great Memorial.

A Memorial Service in honor of Dr. Wood was held in the Church on Wednesday evening, May 4th, attended by delegates from the various organizations of which he was a member, and by music lovers and friends from all over the city, who met together to do honor to our late beloved organist. The music, which was entirely of Dr. Wood's own composition, was rendered by the choir of St. Stephen's, assisted by some additional singers chosen from among the number of his pupils, and accompanied, except in the case of one selection, by Mr. Selden Miller at the organ. Addresses were made by Mr. Philip Goepp, of the Manuscript Music Society, who spoke of Dr. Wood's musical genius; Mr. John Cadwalader, president of the Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, who related his connection with that institution; and Dr. Grammer, who briefly outlined the events of his life and paid a beautiful tribute to his character. With the loving appreciation of a personal friend, he voiced the estimation in which Dr. Wood was held by the congregation he had served so faithfully for 46 years, whom he had bound to him by ties of such unalterable affection, and who crowded the Church to do honor to his memory.

The program appeared as follows:

A Memorial Service in honor of David Duffie Wood, Doctor of Music, under the joint auspices of the Rector and Vestry of St. Stephen's Church, the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, the Manuscript Music Society of Philadelphia, The American Organ Players' Club, St. Stephen's Church, Wednesday, May 4, 8 p. m., 1910.

Each of the organizations that join in this service was united to Dr. Wood by close ties of many years' duration. For forty-six years he was organist at St. Stephen's, and for fifty-seven years a teacher at the Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind. He was one of the founders and the only president of the American Organ Players' Club from its organization in 1890 until his death, and of the Manuscript Music Society he was a charter member.

The music for the evening will consist entirely of Dr. Wood's own compositions, which will be rendered by his own choir, enlarged for the occasion by some invited singers. While it was realized that many of the former singers under Dr. Wood would gladly swell the numbers of the choir, it was felt that only by a method of restricted invitation could the just balance of the parts be preserved. The practical exigencies controlled so largely in the selection that no inference can be drawn from the absence of any singers. In the case of one singer, always to be associated with Dr. Wood's musical career, the feeling of personal bereavement was too strong to permit her to sing. Mr. Selden Miller will be at the organ, except for the selection, "There shall be no night there," which will be played by Mr. Rollo F. Maitland, who has greatly assisted Mrs. Wood in reducing to writing the music of the accompaniment to this anthem.

Benediction.

On the last page were printed the following sentiments under the caption:

Some of Dr. Wood's Life Convictions in his own words:

"Music—of all the arts the youngest, the most expressive, the most universal,—the subtlest, the noblest, the most divine."

"The true musician should be a person of broad, general culture. He must not confine his knowledge to music alone, but must reach out and gain a liberal education along different lines, which will surely tend to enlarge his ideas and extend his usefulness. Such culture infallibly leaves its impress."

"To the young student I would say, aim at direct-ness and simplicity of style; avoiding for the most part, those strange, weird, and often senseless combinations of sounds which find their response chiefly in morbid natures."

"To every musician his art should be a language—not a dead language, but a living one—a medium through which he is able in some measure to convey his thoughts and his feelings to others, not only as an interpreter, but also to some extent as an original thinker."

"The ability to improvise is of inestimable value to the musician, and should be persistently cultivated. It is deplorable that in our time this exquisite accomplishment has almost become one of the lost arts."

"Enthusiasm is a power everywhere. In music it is 'the Spirit that quickeneth.'"

"Give praise, and plenty of it, too, whenever and wherever it is due."

"Our age is not measured by the number of years, but by the good we have done, and the help and comfort we have been to our fellow-beings."

(Extracts From a Letter to His Brother.)

"I cherish the conviction most firmly and solemnly, that whatever of success we have achieved in the world, we owe it all to the early guidance of a truly Christian mother."

"We all have our troubles, but we must go forward in the discharge of our duty, leaving the results to a kind and merciful Providence. I have had my share of grief and disappointment, and sometimes the burden seemed greater than I could bear; but my faith is that God is good, that He is our Father; and that He will not desert His children."

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate, now in its fourth year, meets every Friday evening in the Sunday School Building. It has a changing membership of from fifteen to twenty-five and assembles at 7.30 in the form of the United States Senate, which opens with prayer by its chaplain, followed by business, and senatorial discussions upon such questions of the day as the members may select. It then adjourns for an hour of games, athletics and the joys of the shower bath, which the Senior Brotherhood of St. Andrew and kind friends have recently added. By their kindness, too, the gymnasium equipment is being bettered and now the boys are delighted with an instructor in Physical Culture, Mr. L. W. Fountain.

In this Society, made up of Sunday School boys under sixteen, the object is to give the small boys of the Parish, not only a social meeting place during the week, but physical and intellectual training preparatory to advancement into the Alpha Kappa Society of young men, or the Junior and Senior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

We are glad to report regular and happy attendance of its members and progress in the beginnings of the art of public speaking, with which the little Senate attempts to start its future United States citizens.

Notices.

A number of pews in the church are badly in need of re-carpeting. The Church will furnish the carpet and have the work done at the lowest possible cost, and arrangements may be made with the Verger. It would be well for pew holders to look over their pews now, and if necessary, arrange to have them re-carpeted before they go away for the summer.

A tall, folding screen is wanted for the Vestry room. If anyone has such a screen not in use, it would be most acceptable to the clergy.

The Rector's Letter.

While I shall have the privilege of being with the congregation on the first Sunday in October, my duty as a deputy to the General Convention will take me away from the parish for the two, and maybe the three, following Sundays. I regret very much the necessity for my absence at the season when all our activities begin in full force, and I hope that there will be no delay in beginning work with energy.

It is borne in upon me that we completed, on the first of October, five years of my rectorship here. I think it can be honestly said that by this time the congregation and the rector have become acquainted. Our organization has been adjusted, and I believe all the departments of our activities are well organized and in a sound condition. The funds of the church are in the keeping of a safe deposit company. The church has been re-wired, re-decorated, re-painted, and thoroughly repaired, and a new organ has been given. The Burd School has been reorganized, and the report of the charman of the committee—which is published in this number—will show numerous improvements that have been made in its equipment and the successful reorganization of its administration. The report of the Matron of the Farm will be of special interest to those who maintain this important department of our work. Last season was very successful, and Miss Elizabeth Dale showed herself a judicious and wise administrator.

On the first Sunday in October the Sunday School reopens. We have lost, by marriage and departure for colleges, some valuable teachers, and need at least one man and two women in addition to our present staff. It is astonishing that there should be so much shrinking from Sunday School work, when it is undoubtedly one of the most fruitful forms of Christian service. Far better than the giving of Christmas turkeys and baskets is the holding forth the Word of Life to supply the needs of "these little ones."

Some of our enterprises have not proven of permanent value. They have only served the purpose of pioneers, and have blazed the way for other organizations. Such were the Tuberculosis Class and the Three Arts Club; but the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has undoubtedly come to stay. This organization contains within itself the promise of large usefulness for our down-town parish.

The summer congregations have been unusually good, to the great encouragement of Mr. Long; and Miss Lewis has been, as ever, sympathetic and arduous in her ministrations.

The memorial to our honored Accounting Warden for so many years. Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann, has been designed, and only waits upon the stone cutters. I hope that it will be in the church before many months.

The Envelope System, which was introduced on Easter Sunday, has met with a more cordial acceptance than could have been expected in an old established parish like St. Stephen's. The old members have consented to co-operate, and many attendants upon the church have been drawn closer to it by taking a package and feeling themselves recognized co-workers in advancing the common cause. The work of the Treasurer has been greatly increased by the System, and the Accounting Warden and I are greatly indebted to Mr. Joseph Van Dusen for acting as Special Treasurer and taking charge of these envelopes and keeping a record of them. All that he records is the return of the envelope through the plate; no record is made of the amount, which this system is not designed to bring to light. While it must be said that a great many envelopes do not come in, I hope that this fall more people will take the packages, and the system, which was introduced hurriedly and under pressure, may be perfected.

It is a great mistake to think that people are alienated from a church because it asks something of them. Just as, in my experience, scholars like a teacher who demands much of them and respect him if he thinks his subject of importance, and secretly despise him if with weak good nature he grants them a holiday on any pretext,—so in the Sunday School and the Church, the scholars and the attendants are drawn to the organization that takes itself seriously, that makes demands, and that believes that its work is worthy of self-denial and fruitful in large returns to justify much service. "He that soweth sparingly shall reap sparingly." People that can make no self-denials for the cause of God, rise no earlier to have time for prayer, spend no more carefully in order to have something to give, moderate no personal ambition in order that they may have more energy for service will find that their religion will have no reality and no power of consolation in bereavement and no anchor to hold in the storm of passion, no hopes to brighten the twilight hours of age. I believe that one chief benefit of the Envelope System is the challenge that it makes to the reality and fidelity of the religious life.

During the summer I was asked by the Bishop to make a special appeal to the congregation to meet the deficit in the treasury of the Board of Missions. I had made such an appeal the previous summer, and every one to whom I wrote had made generous response; but it seemed to be inexpedient to renew such a personal application to a few when we had just introduced this new system; and I explained the conditions to the Bishop. He agreed with me that, under the circumstances, it would be best to rely upon the Envelope System. The result has justified my confidence thus far, as the additional amounts sent in through these envelopes, for Missions, are more than was raised by the special appeal last summer.

We must do far more than we have done if we are to reach the sum that was designated at the last Diocesan Convention of the apportionment of the Diocese of Pennsylvania for the General Missionary cause. But this is too large a subject to be entered into in this greeting. Let me urge, however, upon those who have not yet taken the packages, to apply to the Verger for them.

It is hoped that the ushers will soon be in their places and will continue this winter their valuable services. From many quarters, words have come to me of appreciation of the cordial reception that is given to strangers in St. Stephen's. I believe that it is deserved. If the ushers could only find out the names of these attendants, and help Mr. Long and myself to look them up by securing their addresses, we should win many a recruit. What is needed in the Church is a more personal touch, more desire to build up the temple that is not made with hands, whose walls are living stones. It is all very well for the fisherman to be careful of his nets, but he never forgets that the purpose of the nets is to catch fish; and we must never lose sight of the truth that the purpose of all our machinery is to reach people.

Looking back upon these five years, I feel that I have much to be grateful for. We have lost some valuable members by death, and some people have moved away from us, but we have also gained some valuable members. We are a united congregation—singularly united, I believe; and this is more remarkable because our homes are so widely spread over the city. I trust that God will use us through this coming year as instruments in His hands. Let us commit our way unto Him in the sure confidence that He will bring it to pass. I should be glad to see an increase in our numbers, but our main effort must be for an increase of earnestness, a deepening of our resolves, and a unification of our life by consecration of ourselves to our Heavenly Father's will.

Mrs. Grammer sailed on Wednesday, September 28th, on the Steamship Oceania, of the Italian line La Veloce, from New York to Genoa, with her daughters, Miss Mary Page and Miss Dorothy Grammer. They expect to spend a year abroad, and will go almost directly to Lusanne, Switzerland, where they will remain for a number of months.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew meets in the Parish House at 8.00 P. M. on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. The October meetings will be held on October 11th and 25th, respectively. All men who are interested in or in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are cordially invited to these meetings and it is believed that they will find them interesting and helpful.

The attention of the members of St. Stephen's Chapter is called to the devotional meeting of the Philadelphia members of the Brotherhood to be held on Friday evening, October 14th, at 8.00 P. M., at St. Matthew's Church, 18th street and Girard avenue. Addresses will be delivered by the Brotherhood Chaplain, Rev. William P. Remington, and by the Rector of St. Mary's Church, the Rev. Geo. L. Richardson. We hope that there will be a full attendance of the members of St. Stephen's Chapter.

ABRAM G. TATNALL,

Jurgen N. A. Knoop Kolb.

On Friday afternoon, June 30th, an impressively sad and yet beautiful funeral service was held in our church over the remains of Jurgen N. A. Knoop Kolb, president of the young men's Alpha Kappa Society and a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. His body had been found in Brooklyn, where his death had been sudden, and was traced by means of his Brotherhood button to his church home of St. Stephen's. Sad was the identification and painful indeed for his many friends and the members of his societies to part so suddenly with "Jurgen,' the highly esteemed bright, buoyant, faithful helper in our Sunday School entertainments and enthusiastic worker in the interests of our boys' clubs. Sympathetic letters have been sent to his mother and stepfather out on the Pacific Coast, who were unable to be present at the services; and sorrowful and appreciative replies have come to us from them for the kindnesses of his many friends in the church. His body was placed in St. Stephen's lot in Laurel Hill Cemetery.

The Farm.

The work at St. Stephen's Farm this past summer was carried on much the same as in former years—for the betterment of those who need fresh air and sunshine and that all who come might see life beautiful.

The Farm was opened to receive guests Saturday, June 25th. In former years it has been the custom to open about the middle of June; this year, however, it was found necessary to open ten days later, so the season has not been so long as in preceding years.

This summer, in accordance with the plan of the Rector and Vestry not to crowd the Farm, the house has only been comfortably filled, and this arrangement was found to be most satisfactory. While it was impossible to accommodate all who applied for admission, applicants who were in any way connected with St. Stephen's parish were admitted, and a number from other parishes when there was room. There was an average of 432 guests for a stay of one week, also 300 extra meals were served. The guests were for the most part mothers with their children, and young girls, except the last two weeks in August, when the boys came for their annual visit, and it may be truly said they enjoyed everything to the utmost.

It will perhaps be interesting to know that this summer a company of Boy Scouts was formed at the Farm. This Scout movement is claimed to have begun in Africa in 1899 and now reaches all over the world. Its object is the teaching of character by attractive methods called scouting. It was pleasant to notice the interest displayed by the boys in trying to keep the nine points of a scout law: Loyalty, Helping others, A friend to all, Courtesy, A friend to animals, Obedience, Thrift, Smile and whistle under all circumstances. A special pride was taken in obeying this last point, and it was rather amusing to see a little fellow who had been struck with a baseball while playing a match game with a visiting team, and who was inclined to cry, change his mind instantly upon being surrounded by his fellow scouts, who, while they rubbed him vigorously, told him not to cry, but "Jes' smile and whistle." So even when a fractured finger or wrist was being set there was never a tear only a "smile and a whistle."

It is believed much good has been accomplished by having the boys at the Farm each summer, and it is surely gratifying to know that the lessons learned in politeness and courtesy during the past three years have not been forgotten.

As usual, Mothers' day was Thursday. Each week about seventeen mothers came out to spend the day—some of them bringing their little ones. Everything was thoroughly enjoyed, especially the afternon tea, which was served just before leaving and which closed a red letter day in the lives of these mothers. At the beginning of the summer the mothers sent a number of woven rugs which they made during the winter. Much credit is due these women who work faithfully in order to be able to contribute something to the Farm each year.

During the Fourth of July holiday, also on Labor Day, the Farm was given over to the members of the Girls' Friendly Society, and they formed a very happy family. The girls contributed $15.00, part of which was spent in providing entertainment on both these occasions and the remainder was used to help defray the expense of new covers for the parlor furniture.

The King's Daughters' room, which is their especial care, has been repainted, and new bed linen and a new chiffonier have been purchased. The room is now very attractive.

Through the kindness of Mr. Joseph B. Van Dusen, Jr., a new sink for washing dishes has been placed in the pantry and has proved itself most useful.

Through Miss Lewis some bed linen, towels and two pairs of blankets were received; also a hammock from Miss Townsend. Mrs. Taylor supplied the necessary drugs.

The house is very much in need of bed linen, especially single sheets, and bed spreads, also towels, a rag carpet for the sitting room, a carpet for the parlor and some rugs for the bed rooms.

The religious life was not lost sight of at the Farm. Every evening there was prayer and singing of hymns. The services in the woods were continued this year, and were very well attended. The musical part was furnished by members of St. Stephen's choir and others connected with the parish.

And now another year has gone and those of St. Stephen's who so generously support the Farm may feel that they have brightened in a great measure the lives of those who have visited this beautiful restful place.

The summer sessions of the Sunday School were carried on each Sunday this year with the exception of the weeks the assistant superintendent was at the Farm with the boys, with an average attendance of about 25 or 30. An additional purpose served, aside from the lessons, was the provision of a place for our scholars and teachers to get news and information about the Farm. As we made no effort to have picnics but urged rather the value of our Farm for summer outings, we had more teachers and scholars on the Farm this year than ever. Miss Dale did her part conscientiously and well, and gave them a good welcome and a happy time. Mr. Streaker went with the boys for their two weeks, and had Mr. Cummins' assistance for the second week. This year we had a larger number of the little boys and the fourth season for the boys was even more successful than the previous ones. This is also the fourth year for the religious meetings and they have been most valuable. During July they were held each Sunday on the lawn or porch and during August and including the first Sunday in September, in the Farm Woodland. This year we were fortunate in getting much musical talent—Miss Henderson and Miss Rulon at the organ, and Dr. Anthony, Mr. Parker and Mrs. Wood as soloists, with Russell C. Thompson as cornetist, so that an average of from 40 to 50 were attracted to our lawn meetings in July, and an average of 150 to 200 to our woodland meetings in August and September. As many of the country-side came to these latter meetings, this should be considered in the summing up of the uses of the Farm. The Presbyterians have bought acres and settled nearby, with their log college assembly, and Christ's Home for Children has now two farms and is increasing its work. Surely after our twelve years' labor we should feel encouraged in this important work of the parish. G. H. S.

Summer Outings of the Mothers' Club.

It has been customary to send the mothers to the "Farm" for a "day's outing," commencing the first Thursday after the Fourth of July. This year we sent on July 7, 16; on July 14, 14; July 21, 16; July 28, 15, and August 4, 10, making a total of 71. Many could not go because they were ill, could not leave work, or were out of town. The mothers always look forward to this trip with the greatest pleasure, and look upon the Farm as a "Haven of Rest." They speak in the most glowing terms of everything. "How lovely and kind our House Mother, Miss Dale, was to us"; "The fine dinner"; and, just before going home, "the good cup of tea." To some, this was their first trip. One told me that I could not know what that day had been to her. She had been so tired and worn out, but that restful day put new life in her, and she took up her work the next day feeling so much stronger. How I wish the members of St. Stephen's Church who go out of town before the opening of the Farm, and only return when the work is over knew more about this noble work. They would then contribute so freely that some of these hard-working women could have more than one day of rest, when they could take their little ones with them, and lay all care aside for a little while. There are some good friends of the Farm who contribute for this work, but we want new friends to contribute to a Special Fund for these worthy members.

Parish Visitor's Report.

Once again we come together with (let us hope) renewed strength and spirits for the task we have before us. The harvest is great and there will be work for all who love to give of their time as well as their means, for the relief of our less fortunate brothers and sisters, for have we not all one Father? Hath not one God created us? Therefore let us go forward with renewed ardor, thanking the good Father that our lives have fallen in such pleasant places; that He has given to us such a great work to do.

It was the pleasure of the Parish Visitor to remain in the city a great part of the summer as there were many cases in which she was deeply interested, some being pleasant and others distressing and perplexing.

The Philadelphia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had to be called upon in several instances where their help and protection were greatly needed.

As a matter of course every one in Philadelphia has heard of the terrible vitriol accident which ocurred this summer, when so many children were severely burned. Two of these children belonged to St. Stephen's sewing school, which meets in the Parish House every Saturday morning during the winter months. One of the children has since died; the other it is thought may recover. The visits made to them were almost beyond endurance, their sufferings being intense.

The Parish Visitor wishes to express thanks to a lady of our congregation who is generously helping her to supply milk and eggs to some of her tuberculosis patients, one of whom passed away during the summer months. A young woman we have been caring for in this way reports a gain of several pounds, her original weight being but 73.

Special thanks are due to the young lady who made a lovely scrap book for a poor little sick child in the hospital.

We are very grateful, also, to the person who has made it possible for the good old woman to sit down who heretofore had been compelled to stand while engaged in earning a livelihood by selling shoe strings on the S. E. corner of Broad and Chestnut streets both summer and winter. Her uncomplaining disposition has greatly endeared her to the Parish Visitor. K. H. LEWIS.

Burd School.

The Burd School opened its school year with a total enrolment of fifty-six puplis. The repairs and improvements which have been going on during the summer are entirely completed. The buildings were painted both inside and outside; the Chapel was entirely renovated and much improved. New and modern alcoves have been built in the senior dormitory and the plumbing and heating were gone over and modernized.

In addition it was necessary to buy a considerable amount of furniture to replace that which had worn out. New carpets have also been laid in the different parts of the building and a number of rooms have been entirely renovated and appropriately arranged for the purposes for which they are now used. The bequest left to the school by Clinton L. D. Eisenhower, deceased, has been appropriated by the trustees as a Library Fund. With this fund a new library has been fitted up and all the books which were left to the school under the will of Mrs. Burd have been properly classified and a large nnumber of standard works have been purchased so that we have to-day one of the best school libraries in the city. The trustees are very grateful to Miss Harnish, the superintendent, for the efficient manner in which she has managed the school during this last year. This management has resulted in a surplus of income over expenditures which surplus the trustees have been able to apply toward the payment of the improvements as outlined above. A large number of the girls at the school spent a portion of the summer vacation with friends or relatives and the average number residing at the school during the summer months was about twenty. The opening exercises, to which the graduates of the school were invited, were held on September 10th. It is expected that appropriate exercises in commemoration of Mrs. Burd will be held in the latter part of October and the trustees most earnestly urge all members of St. Stephen's Church to take this opportunity to see the school and the improvements which have been made. There have been a number of changes in the teaching force. Mrs. Middleton is the new governess in charge of the younger children. Mrs. Collins has ben engaged to take charge of the sewing room. Miss Stevens takes the place of Miss Godfrey in the department of domestic science. Miss Barclay succeeds Miss Wannebo as teacher of music and will be assisted by Miss Maus as organist. Miss Deeter has undertaken the charge of the department of physical culture and has already organized a basket ball team among the children. Miss Garvin will teach drawing and art work. We are glad that Miss Scherer, the senior teacher, who has been connected with the school so long, still remains, and that Miss Mumma, who was with us last year as junior teacher, occupies the same position this year.

There is no more important work being done by St. Stephen's parish than the work of the Burd School and the trustees hope that all members of the parish will feel at liberty to visit the school whenever they can.

Submitted on behalf of the Executive Committee,

ROLAND S. MORRIS,
Chairman.

Alumnae Day at the Burd School.

The regular work at the Burd School began September 1st, at which time all of the children who were not already back returned from their vacations. The formal reopening and reunion of the Alumnae were held on September 10th. The program for the day was as follows: Reception of the Alumnae, at which time all were invited to visit all parts of the school to see the numerous improvements made during the summer months, followed by an address by Mr. Roland S. Morris. After welcoming the Alumnae and students back to the school, he gave a brief survey of the work done and the improvements made during the past year. He also spoke of the original intention of the school, as expressed by Mrs. Burd in her will, and how we must set higher ideals for our present and future work and make a greater effort to reach those ideals than we have done in the past. To set for ourselves the standard of loyalty to each other and especially to the school, as the future of the school depends principally on its students and alumnae.

After the address all were invited to the dining room where supper was served. From the dining room the children led the way to the woods where a little woodland play was given in the twilight by the primary children, under the direction of Miss Scherer, the senior teacher. The very pleasant day was closed by a meeting of the Alumnae to consider an organization of the same.

With the opening of the school this year, three classes in cooking were formed, the regular classes in sewing and basketry to be organized after October first.

A tennis court and out-of-door basket ball field were fitted up during the summer. Two teams for basket ball have been practicing for the last two weeks under the supervision of Miss Deeter, the new teacher of athletics and physical culture. Through the kindness of Mr. Van Dusen in the early part of the summer a croquet set, hammocks, tennis shoes, balls and rackets were secured, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the small group of children who remained at the school during the summer months.

Donations received during June, July and August:

From Mrs. H. F. Martin	$2 00
From L. M. C.	5 00
From Church Fund Through Rev. Mr. Long	30 00
Miss Emily Fries	1 00
Rev. Charles Milnor	1 00
Mrs. Charles Milnor	1 00
Total	$40 00

On the afternon of July 30th, an excursion of children was taken to Sedgeley, Fairmount Park. The ride out was enjoyed by all, although the weather was threatening and many did not come. On reaching the Park, all were ready for games of ball and bean bags, London bridge, and other familiar games in which Mr. Streaker, Miss Taggart, Miss Bezzel and others joined.

Mr. Jackson Blank's wagon was seen coming up the hill and all were ready for ice cream and cake and biscuits. Just as they were finishing their cream a shower came up, but the Park police were very kind and gave the children shelter in their house until the storm was over. Then they were ready for more fun, and most of them did not reach home until seven o'clock. There was to have been another excursion, but as most of the children as well as the associates were either at the Farm or in the country, there will be an entertainment some time near Thanksgiving instead.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

During the summer a donation of clothing was given to the Country Week Association.

A chiffonier, with linen covers and sheets, was sent to the Farm for the King's Daughters' room by this Circle.

The first meetings will be October 5th and October 19th, in the Guild Room at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

Received in June from Mr. Patton's Estate	$33 41
Mrs. H. F. Martin	$ 50

Shoe Fund.

Mrs. H. F. Martin	$ 50

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the editor of the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Parish House, 9 S. 10th street. They must be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say in October, not later than the 30th.

Change of Address.

If any change has occurred during the past two years will you kindly notify Mr. Long, who is endeavoring to perfect a catalogue of the parish. A correct list is often needed for other purposes than visiting, and it is earnestly desired that this be done by any one who has changed residence within the time specified.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An Informal Dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church, will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday Eve., November 15th, in the banquet room of the City Club, 1418 Walnut street, at seven o'clock.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this dinner. The price of the dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to

MR. WILLIAM H. HANSELL,
Chairman of Committee.
904 Provident Bldg., Philadelphia.

Special thanks are due to Mrs. Thomas Harvey for a donation of children's clothes contributed early in the summer. This form of clothing is particularly acceptable to the Parish Visitor, and any donations from members of the congregation can be put to excellent use.

Vice-President.—Miss Stratton.
Secretary.—Miss Moncure.
Treasurer.—Miss Williams.

St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Meets second and fourth Tuesday in each month at 8 P. M., in the Parish House.
Director.—Charles L. McKeehan.
Vice-Director.—William H. Hansell.
Secretary-Treasurer.—Abram G. Tatnall.

The Junior Brotherhood.

Director.—George H. Streaker.
Vice-Director.—Robert T. Boyd, Jr.
Secretary-Treasurer.—Robert Snyder, Jr.

Representative of St. Stephen's on the Board of the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society.—Miss Cleemann.
Representative of St. Stephen's of the Bishop White Parish Library Association.—Miss Emily Bell.

One of the clergy of the parish will be at the Parish House, No. 9 South Tenth Street, Mondays from 10.30 to 11, and the rest of the week, daily, 11 to 12. Rector's days are Tuesdays, for matters of church administration, and Thursdays for pastoral conferences on moral and religious subjects. Communications can be sent through the Verger, Mr. James Carrigan, No. 1114 Pine Street, at any time.

It is well for those making arrangements for baptisms, marriages, funerals and other services, needing the presence of a clergyman of the church to see one of the clergy before fixing the time.

Forms of Bequest.

FOR THE ENDOWMENT FUND.

I give and bequeath to the Rector, Church Wardens, and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church, in the City of Philadelphia, Trustees of the Endowment Fund of St. Stephen's Church, the sum of dollars, for the purpose of said Endowment Fund.

FOR THE ENDOWMENT OF A PEW.

I give and bequeath to the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church, in the City of Philadelphia, Trustees of the Fund for the Endowment of Pews in St. Stephen's Church, the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, for the Endowment of a Pew to be called the pew.

NOTE.—The Act of April 26th, 1855, requires that a will containing a bequest to Religious or Charitable uses must be executed at least one month before decease, and be attested by two disinterested witnesses. Otherwise the bequest is void.

Through an error in printing in the October "Parish News," it was omitted to mention the period during which the offerings published were received. The contributions, amounting to $1.541.69 represented the collections for the entire summer, from May 1 to September 25, inclusive.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the editor of the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Parish House, 9 S. 10th street. They must be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say in November, not later than the 27th.

St. Stephen's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary will hold its first meeting for the fall on Thursday, November 17, at 11 o'clock. This will be a very important meeting, not only because it is the first of the season, but because of some important matters to come before the Auxiliary.

The Envelope System.

I must again appeal to the members of the congregation who have not taken packages of envelopes. If they will co-operate with us in any degree the church will be able to meet its obligations of all kinds, and they themselves will be wonderfully blessed in a deeper interest in Christian truth and in Christian institutions.

Let me repeat what I said last month. It is a great mistake to imagine that people are alienated from a church because it asks something of them. Just as, in my experience, a teacher who demands much of his scholars, is respected by them for thinking his subject of importance, whereas they secretly despise him if he is indulgent and with weak good nature will grant a holiday on any pretext—so in the church, people are drawn to an organization that takes itself seriously, makes demands, and believes its work to be worthy of self-denial, and fruitful enough to justify much service. Not only do they think more of such a church, but they receive more from it, for "he that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly." People that can make no self-denials for the cause of God, save no time for prayer, spend no more carefully that they may give, moderate no ambition that they may have energy for service, will find that their religion will have no reality, no power of consolation in bereavement, no anchor to hold in the storm of passion, and no hopes to brighten the twilight hours of age. One benefit of the envelope system is the challenge that it makes to the reality and fidelity of the religious life. I hope that the men of the congregation will not refuse to adopt a system that is so highly commended and has proven so successful elsewhere.

C. E. G.

The Church Work Fund.

According to the custom of years, I must appeal to the members of St. Stephen's to contribute to the Church Work Fund. Fifteen hundred dollars is needed. Out of this fund are paid a number of small expenses such as the advertising, the telephone bills, and the publication of the valuable PARISH NEWS. I also finance out of it many of the societies. In short, the fund enables me to move freely in the administration of the Church and in the development of our institutional work. The older members of the congregation give most loyally and liberally to it, and it is hoped that our newer members will appreciate the importance of this fund and contribute to it.

C. E. G.

On August 12 was buried by the Rev. Mr. Long, in the absence of the Rector, Eleanor Davies Brooks. She was the daughter of a vestryman in this church, the late Samuel B. Brooks, and was baptized and confirmed in this church, where her grandfather, Edward Davies, was one of the first pew-holders. She was a loyal and constant, loving and loved member of the parish.

A Protest.

This frank and emphatic protest will show how the proposal to change our name appears to many of our members. Of course the resolution was lost, but the strength of the vote shows that we need to make manifest the loyalty that is rooted in our present title.

"DEAR SIR AND RECTOR:

In looking over the doings of the Cincinnati convention, I was much pleased to see that you did not want any change in the name of The Protestant Episcopal Church. That name means Christianity, pure and simple, and it means business as well as religion. The idea of calling it the "Holy Catholic Church" is so absurd, and the "American Church" is not much better. The old name is the best one; as a member I oppose any change.

I want to thank you, personally, for opposing any change of name of our Grand Old Church, and let her be always a Protestant Church and God will bless her and increase and strengthen her. I love her and she is my portion and my salvation and I will stand up for her as long as my life lasts."

A Sunday in Paris.

What that means to the majority of people is a great holiday for pleasure seekers, a long round of visits to museums and picture galleries, walks, picnics, drives and frolicking, and in the evening the theatre or opera, variety shows and dance halls. Beside the advertisements of many such attractions is found of course the list of church services and music; and one modest little notice of the Girls' Friendly Society Lodge and Club Room drew us on a Sunday afternoon in October to 50 Avenue d'Iéna at the hour mentioned, four o'clock, to find assembled about sixty English-speaking, self-supporting young women chatting cosily over their cups of tea. Introducing ourselves as Honorary Associates of the Girls' Friendly Society of St. Stephen's Church,

Philadelphia, we were gladly welcomed and asked to stay to the little service conducted by Mrs. Ormsby, wife of the English Bishop resident in Paris.

We soon learned that this Girls' Friendly Club is entirely British, as American girls are mostly allied with a Students' Club in a different quarter of the city, where the conditions also are different, the Americans being chiefly students, whilst the English are principally teachers, nursery-governesses, a few house servants, and some daughters of coachmen and horse jockeys.

The Paris Lodge, from which unfortunately they must soon move, is a large, four-story building with five windows across, situated on a wide avenue, and has a quiet, cool garden in the rear. A library, assembly room, restaurant and bedrooms, with board and lodging at a moderate charge, make the place homelike and within the means of those it is planned to help, as it gives them a feeling of comradeship on meeting others who come from their home country and hearing their own language spoken, and they often speak of the Club as the brightest spot in Paris.

In her address to the young women, Mrs. Ormsby gave many practical suggestions for their life in a foreign land, surrounded by an atmosphere so dissimilar from that to which they had been accustomed, and read an admirable paper, bearing upon the same subject, written by the Bishop of London. Prayers and hymns concluded the service, and the announcement was made of who had been the hostess for tea that afternoon, as friends interested in the Society, living in Paris, England or other places contribute this entertainment each week; and, asking that we might be the hostesses on the following Sunday when we should be on the great ocean steaming toward home, we left with a pleasant recollection of that peaceful, profitable hour, and with the assurance that on the next Sunday we should have the thoughts of all present while singing the hymn "for those in peril on the sea."

LAURA BELL.

Parish Visitor's Report.

As a number of people are interested in the three little Tunney girls, they will be glad to know that the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children had them before the Juvenile Court which decided to place them in the home of a married couple living at Quakertown, the county paying a stated sum per week for each child's board.

Dr. Grammer has worked with the mother of these children, visiting her and trying to break her of the drink habit and feels keenly the necessity of separating her children from her. The devotion and love these children displayed for their mother was most touching. We earnestly pray for her recovery from this dreadful misfortune.

If it were not for the help given by Mr. Edward G. McCollin and Mr. Lewis H. Van Dusen to the Parish Visitor when she is confronted with the legal affairs of those looking to her for counsel, help and comfort, she would not know where to turn. These gentlemen willingly and gladly give their legal advice to this part of her work of the Pairsh, and by doing so make many hearts most grateful.

THE PARISH VISITOR.
(Kate H. Lewis.)

The Parish Visitor is in receipt of a letter signed "Wife of a Prominent Mason," to the effect that her first letter had been ignored.

In reply to this the Parish Visitor begs to say that the letter received from "B, 212 Bulletin Branch, 28th and Columbia Ave." was answered and mailed, Sunday, October 16th, in one of the Church official envelopes, giving the full information desired and as yet has not been returned to her, it evidently having gone astray.

K. H. LEWIS.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An informal dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church, will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday Eve., November 15th, in the banquet room of the City Club, 1418 Walnut street, at seven o'clock.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this dinner. The price of the dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to Mr. William H. Hansell, chairman of committee, 904 Provident Building, Philadelphia.

Girls' Friendly Society.

A Fair will be given for the benefit of the Girls' Friendly Holiday House at Cape May, on November 16th and 17th, from 2 until 10.30 P. M., in Horticultural Hall. The price of admission is 10 cents. On Wednesday evening tickets will be 30 cents, including an entertainment, and on Thursday evening, 75 cents, including an entertainment. There will be a Tea Room and supper will be served from 5.30 to 7.30.

It is hoped that all who have the welfare of young girls at heart will show their interest by attending this fair. All the G. F. S. branches are working for it, and it will be appreciated by St. Stephen's Branch if the other members of the congregation will give their support.

MARIA S. WILKINS.

Fair for Chapin Memorial Home.

There will be given in the auditorium of the Young Friends Association, 15th and Cherry streets, on the afternoons and evenings of November 17th, 18th and 19th, a fair to raise funds for the establishment of a home for the aged blind. Churches and charitable institutions of all kinds have been asked to take tables, and Dr. Grammer has placed in my hands that of St. Stephen's. The time is very short, I know, therefore, I am asking through the PARISH NEWS the aid of all St. Stephen's people in this noble enterprise. I want contributions of money and articles, as we do not wish St. Stephen's to be behind Holy Trinity, Church of Our Saviour and St. Mary's in its showing. Surely this worthy enterprise should appeal to our people through their affection for our beloved organist, Dr. David D. Wood. Contributions and articles may be sent to me and will be greatly appreciated.

Burd School.

The annual exercises in commemoration of Founder's Day, which were postponed from the usual date in May until the fall, on account of alterations on the buildings, took place at the Burd School on October 27. Although the weather was inclement a large representation of the church people met together, and the Chapel, where the exercises were held, was crowded to the doors. Dr. Grammer made a short address in which he praised the committee on the Burd School, Mr. Roland S. Morris, Mr. Joseph B. Van Dusen and Dr. Addinell Hewson, for their untiring efforts which had produced such satisfactory results, and called upon Mr. Morris to represent the committee in giving some account of what had been done. At the time of its founding, Mr. Morris said, the Burd School was one of the best equipped and most-up-to-date institutions in this part of the country, but the very equipment that was thought so satisfactory in its day is now antiquated and useless, and it is only by constant renewal and improvement that it is able to keep up to the high standard set by Mrs. Burd. This the committee has endeavored to accomplish in the new system of dormitories, the better methods of heating and sanitation, the enlarged reading rooms, and other improvements which enable the Burd School to retain its reputation as one of the best equipped of modern institutions.

The inspection of the alterations by the visitors was an important feature of the afternoon, after which a light supper was served in the dining room. It is hoped that these annual meetings, in addition to furnishing a pleasant social function for our people, will serve the purpose, originally intended by Mrs. Burd and so ardently desired by the Rector and Vestry, of keeping the members of the church in intimate personal touch with the work and progress of the school.

The House of Rest.

The House of Rest for the Aged has published its twentieth annual report, showing encouraging results in the work and progress of this most worthy institution of our church. The following appeal is made:

"The family at the 'Home' now consists of seventeen, exclusive of the Matron and two maids, and the household expenses for 1909 have been $3,245.00, which the committee feels, shows excellent management on the part of the Matron. The latter has kept a large house warm and comfortable and has provided a wholesome, nourishing table for a household of twenty-five people.

"Our most faithful physician, Dr. Robert

N. Downs, who gives his services to the 'Home,' has not been called as frequently to the sick bed as in some other years. Three of the 'aged ones' who were sheltered in their last years, in this Church Home, have passed from their earthly House of Rest to their Heavenly rest, during the year, and the health of the rest of the family has been good. There have been five admissions to the house, as both the new rooms were immediately filled, there is now a waiting list of those anxious to be admitted.

"If the Rectors and congregations of the Episcopal churches in this diocese could only once realize the good, quiet work accomplished by this Diocesan Home, in sheltering her faithful adherents who in old age find themselves without refuge, then the Rectors would most willingly each give us a collection once during the year, and their parishioners would give cheerfully and generously to those who are of the 'Household of Faith.'"

This appeal contains a strong message for St. Stephen's people. Although a member of our congregation has been for a number of years an inmate of the home, no contribution from St. Stephen's appears upon the treasurer's report. Cannot this deficiency be remedied this year? The House of Rest, which is situated in Germantown and is one of the most deserving and important of our charities, is dependent largely upon the contributions of our church members for its support. Any donation, however small, will be appreciated, and may be sent to the Rector, or to Mrs. F. W. English, 226 W. School Lane, Germantown.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received in October:

From Church Fund, through Rev. Mr. Long..	$5.00
Mrs. H. F. Martin.....	1.00

Date for Thanksgiving entertainment not decided yet.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

The King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle have their next meeting Nov. 16th, in the Guild Room of the Parish House, at a quarter of 8 o'clock. At the last meeting quite a number of postal albums were filled with old posal cards and will be given to homes, hospitals and nurseries. Any postals that you are tired of would be very acceptable for this work if sent to the Parish House marked for the King's Daughters.

Shoe Fund.

Received from Mrs. H. F. Martin, 25 cents.

Jack Frost will soon be here, so it is hoped that our kind friends will look through their closets and see if they have any shoes too small for them to wear, or, preferably, too large, as most of the people visiting the Shoe Fund Society wear rather large shoes.

We hope to open about the 27th of Nov., from half past ten until half past 11 o'clock in the Guild Room, Tuesday mornings.

Any shoes left in care of Mr. Carrigan marked for Shoe Fund will be very acceptable.

There will be no potatoes for sale from the Farm this year, as the crop was exceedingly small, and all that it yielded have already been sold.

The secretary of the envelope system requests that members of the congregation return their envelopes without tearing them in half as this makes the labor of sorting them and checking them up according to their respective dates and numbers very much more difficult.

Representative of St. Stephen's on the Board of the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society.—Miss Cleemann.
Representative of St. Stephen's of the Bishop White Parish Library Association.—Miss Emily Bell.

One of the clergy of the parish will be at the Parish House, No. 9 South Tenth Street, Mondays from 10.30 to 11, and the rest of the week, daily, 11 to 12. Rector's days are Tuesdays, for matters of church administration, and Thursdays for pastoral conferences on moral and religious subjects. Communications can be sent through the Verger, Mr. James Carrigan, No. 1114 Pine Street, at any time.

It is well for those making arrangements for baptisms, marriages, funerals and other services, needing the presence of a clergyman of the church to see one of the clergy before fixing the time.

JOS. B. VAN DUSEN, JR.
Treasurer.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the editor of the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Parish House, 9 South Tenth Street. They must be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say in December, not later than the 25th.

The Rector's Letter.

There are several matters that I wish to bring to the attention of the congregation through the PARISH NEWS. It strikes a jarring note in the devotional services of the Church to dwell much upon the secular side of the Church's life; yet, as Lord Morley has said, "There is a kitchen side to everything." The most splendid banquets have to be prepared in the heat of the kitchen and by many disagreeable and toilsome processes. Those fastidious folk who cannot bear to give any attention to such details remind one of the soldier described by Hotspur, as appearing on the battle-field

"perfumed like a milliner,
And with a pouncet-box which, ever and anon,
He gave his nose and took't away again."

They may be æsthetic, but they are strikingly ineffective. What the Church needs is efficient methods, and that is what real religion makes—efficient people, who are of service in the world. Perhaps I am wrong in allowing æsthetic considerations to make me shrink from dwelling upon practical counsels in the chancel. Perhaps the right atmosphere for devotion is one in which there is much emphasis upon service and it would be well if all should follow the counsel given in the Teaching of the Twelve Apostles—one of the earliest records of primitive Christianity—where it is enjoined upon converts that "all their speech should be full of doing," that is, all their talking was to lead to positive action.

Still, there are advantages in the written word which remaineth, as Horace says, and can be carried home and read over in a quiet hour. So I wish to use the PARISH NEWS to give a few pastoral counsels to the congregation.

The first is that I hope that they will do their Christmas shopping in the next two weeks if possible. A little forethought, a little exertion now will mean a great relief to the busy clerks at Christmas time in our great department stores, where Christmas Day is deprived of its buoyancy by excessive fatigue as the result of their late hours and exhaustive toil in the previous week. To begin now the selection of presents is to make the Christmas season longer, to secure a better choice and to lessen the burdens of clerks, errand-boys, expressmen and countless people. Let us make an Advent resolution to do this.

The second counsel that I am going to give does not concern the activities of life, but relates to the improvement of the leisure of the sick-room. Why should the friends of the sick person keep the minister out of the sick-room, unless the patient is in extremis? Of course there are many cases of fever and of surgical operations when quiet is so imperative a thing that even the nearest and dearest stay away, and under these circumstances no minister would expect to be admitted. But is it not a good custom in most cases to have the minister come in as a chaplain for the sick person? We all know how hard it is in sickness to collect one's thoughts, how listlessly the days pass; why not have it as an understood thing that the minister will be welcomed and expected to say a few words of prayer with those who cannot go to church and whose devotions will be helped and guided if his familiar voice utters petitions for them by their bedside? I am going to make it a rule—not a fixed rule, but a general rule—to have a prayer in such cases, and I wish to be understood that such a suggestion on my part does not imply that I regard the patient as seriously ill but that I am anxious to help him to learn the lessons of sickness or convalescence. These experiences are rich with instruction and disciplines of incalculable value if only they are rightly improved. Convalescence is not a state to be rushed through without a thought about its improvement. In those quiet hours of meditation the patient has an opportunity to reconsider his estimates of values, to take out of the cabinets of memory his choicest recollections and by the breath of prayer to drive away the clouds of earth and gaze in adoring rapture upon the stars of hope.

The third request that I am going to make is, as the Apostle would say, the same old request that I wrote to you aforetime; for to write the same things to you, to me indeed is rather grievous but for you it is safe and wholesome and the only way of being effective; for, as Morley says,—to quote again a favorite writer—"Literary people may dislike repetition, but every propagandist knows that its avoidance in his work would mean sheer ineffectiveness." So I return once more to the Envelope System and ask that every one connecting himself in any way with our church will kindly take a package of the envelopes and begin at this date and keep up with the system. It has many merits, and I believe that those who once undertake it will find that the sense of satisfaction that results from carrying out a systematic plan in one's giving will do much to sweeten Sunday. Every effort for the sake of Christ brings Him nearer to us.

The Envelope System is working admirably, but not more than a third—certainly not one-half—of the congregation is co-operating with it. The Verger has the packages and will gladly furnish them to any one who will accept them. The treasurer does not know the individual contributions, nor does he make any note of the amounts severally contributed but only keeps a record of the envelopes to see if they are coming in with regularity. There is no question about the success of the system for it has proven a great success. The only problem is to make it more successful by persuading more people to co-operate with us.

Christmas Dinners.

It has been the custom in St. Stephen's Church for a number of years to provide Christmas dinners for the poor of the parish, and this year the appeal is made as usual for donations for that purpose. Last year out of the sum of $329 which was contributed, over a thousand persons were supplied with a good Christmas dinner. The distribution of the baskets is carefully supervised by Miss Lewis, and only those known to be deserving are provided for. It is hoped that a generous offering will be made this year, and that even a larger number of homes will be made happy by the liberality of our congregation at this season of good cheer. Donations may be placed in the envelopes which will be distributed in the pews for the purpose, or they may be sent to the Rector.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The first meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church for the season 1910-11 was held on November 17th in the Guild room.

The president, Mrs. Magee, was in the chair and Dr. Grammer opened the meeting with prayer. After roll call, which showed an attendance of thirty members, interesting reports from each of the sub-committees were read. Miss Bell was unable to be present, so the report of the Foreign Committee was read by Miss Headman. Miss Bell stated that the $50,000 needed for St. Paul's College, Tokyo, had been contributed after unusual exertion on the part of the committee in charge of the fund. She also reported the need for two men doctors and a trained nurse in St. Luke's Hospital, Shanghai, where 50,000 patients are treated each year. Articles of bedding and clothing are needed in this hospital and in several schools in other parts of China.

Mrs. Lautenbach, reporting for the Indian Hope Committee, told of the efforts being made to rebuild St. Mary's school for Indian girls.

Mrs. Lucas spoke of the last meeting of the Diocesan Committee and mentioned Bishop Whitaker's appeal for aid for two aged and infirm members of the clergy. In answer to this appeal a check for $50 was sent to the committee through the Missionary Box Committee. Mrs. Lucas also spoke of an appeal made by Mr. Gazlin, of the Seaman's Mission, for old magazines. Any magazines sent to St. Stephen's and marked "Seaman's Mission" will be forwarded to Mr. Gazlin.

Miss Bright reported that the Missionary Box Committee, by starting the year with a balance, had been able to answer promptly an urgent appeal from Chilten, Wisconsin. A box of clothing valued at $75 has already been sent, and a note of acknowledgment was read at the meeting. This committee also contributed $50 towards the cases for which Bishop Whitaker appealed.

Miss Magee reported $231 toward the United Offering last season. There was no balance, but since the convention $66 has been collected.

Mrs. Colket reported for the Domestic Committee and Miss Magee read a letter from Bishop Thomas asking for $300 towards his work.

Mrs. English spoke of the amount of information on Church and Missionary matters contained in the Church Calendar and urged the members to buy copies for their friends and for themselves. The price of the calendar is 50 cents.

A letter from our president, Miss Magee, informed us that her many pressing duties made it necessary for her to resign her office in this society. With deep regret this resignation was finally accepted and a committee of five were appointed to confer with the Rector on the choice of a successor.

As there was no outside speaker the meeting then adjourned.

Parish Visitor's Report.

Thanksgiving Day was so lovely and bright that indeed it would have been hard not to be thankful, especially when one viewed the baskets of groceries and necessities as well as medicine that we were enabled to distribute among the sick and suffering, through the generosity of St. Stephen's congregation.

We want to thank the King's Daughters for their share in this work.

The fruit from the Thanksgiving harvest was distributed among the sick.

One of the cases the Parish Visitor had during the summer was most distressing. The woman was a widow with three children, the oldest only eight years, all depending upon the mother who had been a member of our Tuberculosis Class, and, as long as she was able, attended the Mothers' Meeting. She tried to earn a living by keeping a cheap apartment house and slept in the dining room, as she was unable to be upon her feet much during the day or to go up and down stairs. The children slept in the kitchen. It would be hard to describe the extreme squalor and desolation of these rooms. The poor woman refused to go to the hospital until the last day of her life, when she begged to be put in one, or that something might be done that would make her well for the children's sake.

The Parish Visitor spent a great deal of time with her each day or evening as she grew worse. The doctor who attended her was very kind and exceedingly attentive, doing all that could be done for her, and a trained nurse made daily visits. At that time the entire house seemed to be in the care of the eight-year old child. She took care of the baby sister, swept, dusted and did some washing. At last death came, and the Parish Visitor gives thanks to God that she was enabled to console her to the very end, promising the dying woman that she would never lose sight of the children while they were children, which promise she will try most faithfully to keep.

Two unmarried sisters living in the country have given the children a home. The little eight-year old girl is tubercular, so it is most fortunate that her life is to be spent in the country.

A few weeks ago the Parish Visitor made them a short visit, to see for herself how they were getting along and if it were necessary to put the child in the hospital. She found she was being attended by the Tuberculosis Society and everything possible was being done to help her regain her health. The home the children have is comfortable and the sisters want to keep them together as long as they are able, but they themselves are poor, as one works in a mill, while the other remains at home to take care of the house and the three children. The addition to the household is a great expense. For instance, three loaves of bread, baked during the week which were sufficient for the two sisters when alone, must now be increased to ten loaves a week, and other expenses in proportion. So, any contributions to the Parish Visitor of clothes for three girls aged eight, five and two, or any contributions of money, will be most gratefully received.

Can we not help these little girls to have a happy Christmas?

K. H. Lewis.

Result of Fair.

The Fair given in the auditorium of the Young Friends' Association on November 17th, 18th and 19th, in aid of the Chapin Memorial Home for Aged Blind, netted in all about $1,500. Of this St. Stephen's table sent $134.15. May I, through the Parish News, thank the members of St. Stephen's for the generous support they gave me. Considering that it was all done in about two weeks' time, I feel that the showing is very fair, but without the help of the congregation it could not have been accomplished.

It is hoped that all interested friends of the Chapin Home will continue to remember it, together with the other charities that claim their interest, and I will be only too glad in the future to receive contributions for the same. It is a charity that speaks for its own worthiness and is entirely dependent on public subscription for its support.

Ella H. Headman.

Our Brotherhood of St. Andrew's Annual Dinner.

It is most encouraging and an aid in centering our work among the men of the Parish, to see our Rector sit at table with most of his Vestry and the men of St. Stephen's to the number of 83, all united under the auspices of our Brotherhood Chapter for sociability and fellowship purposes. On this occasion, the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 15th, the blessing was given by the Rev. Fleming James, and we had as our guest and special speaker, Mr. Edmund B. McCarthy, who, as president of the Local Assembly of Chapters, most ably outlined the purposes and ideals of Brotherhood work. Mr. Ewing, of the Vestry, and Mr. Hollar both gave points of view facetious and exhortive, and impressive indeed was their call for rising toasts to the sacred memory of Ludovic Cleeman and David D. Wood. Dr. Grammer closed the speeches with kindly references to the good work of the Brotherhood members and his gratification at the united support and harmony among his parishioners. Our Director and the Dinner Committee deserve credit for their management, and particularly those on the musical program, which was so exquisitely rendered by the well-known artists, Mrs. D. D. Wood, Dr. Anthony and Mr. Parker, of our choir, with Mr. Frank Phillippe Anton, violin soloist, and Mr. Beaumont Glass and Mr. Selden Miller at the piano. Miss Bessie Clayton, with skill and sweetness, proved that St. Stephen's is continuing its well known musical standards. So another annual dinner among the men proves that the old church is very much alive. G. H. S.

The Work Among Our Boys.

Will the gentlemen who so kindly and generously responded to the appeal last winter for the needs of the Boys' Club—physical instructor, gymnasium apparatus, etc.—for their winter evenings, kindly give again, through Mr. Carrigan, Mr. Boyd or Mr. Streaker. They will gladly welcome contributions from anyone else who may desire to give to this important work among our own boys and the many boys who come to us. Surely, if you will visit us any Friday evening, in the Sunday School building, and see the many boys, off the streets and happy in their games, or making speeches in their United States Senate, or in their Physical Culture drills under Dr. Fountain, you will feel repaid. On Friday evening November 11th, the following standing was made in the gymnasium tests on the mats and dumb-bell drill, by R. Brown 88 per cent., J. Stork 92 per cent., T. Reed 71 per cent., F. LeDent 73 per cent., C. Marbet 75 per cent., Jenks 74 per cent., G. Supplee 85 per cent., W. Reed 75 per cent., F. Hart 75 per cent., R. Dodge 81 per cent., Fritzie Brotbeck 70 per cent., and H. Dodge 89 per cent. The next test will be held Friday evening, Dec. 16th. G. H. S.

Notes of Interest.

The Alpha Kappa Society will give "A memory of the good old summer-time," illustrated with the new electric lantern on Thursday evening, Dec. 8th, at 8.15, in the Sunday School building.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew had an admission service in the Church on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 27th, after the regular four o'clock service, when Dr. Grammer duly admitted Theo. Hein, Luther Fisher, William Pedrick, Robert T. Boyd, Jr., and Walter Gove, into this active organization of young Church workers.

The corporate communion of the men of the Church and Brotherhoods, at 8 A. M., on Sunday morning, Nov. 27th, encouragingly brought out a large number, who after the solemn service in the church, thus so appropriately beginning the week of prayer, assembled in the parish house at a breakfast, thoughtfully prepared at the Rector's suggestion. With Bishop Kinsolving at the head of one table and Dr. Grammer at the head of the other, the scene will be remembered as another advance in the progress of St. Stephen's.

Children's Friend Society.

Donation received from Miss Cleeman, $1.

Many happy little faces were upturned to Mr. Willis E. Reynolds on Wednesday evening, November 23rd, when he mounted the platform of the Sunday School room to address a few words of greeting to the children invited there by the Children's Friend Society, to witness an exhibition of moving pictures conducted by him. He announced to them that he was "the easiest fellow in the world to get along with, if you only behave well," and they must assuredly have found him easy to get along with, for they behaved admirably. Both boys and girls were well represented, some of them being very tiny tots indeed, but a restless movement or a word of interruption was not heard, from the moment the lights were turned down to admit of flashing the pictures on the screen, until they were turned up again as a "Good-night!" signal.

The pictures were very good indeed and depicted dramatic successions of events which greatly delighted the audience. Two series of delineations of Indian life in Colonial days were given, "The White Man's Medicine," and "The Sea Child," and the children were deeply thrilled, first by the exciting chase by Mohawk Indians of the tyrannical, bullying "White Medicine Man" and his gentle, unselfish wife who saves the day for them, and then by the vicissitudes of the little Salem maid persecuted by the witch-burning fanatics of that old town. The humors of "Ferdy on His Vacation" made them laugh heartily, and the romance of "Under the Apple-Tree," a love story, whose principal participants were children, also pleased them.

One of the most popular features of the entertainment was the singing in between the numbers of well-known songs by the sweet voice of Mrs. Reynolds, the children joining in the choruses—and be it added that no child there was too small to know both words and music. The audience dispersed at 9.30 P. M., in a highly satisfied frame of mind, with which was mingled much gratitude to the kind friends whose generosity had enabled them to spend a happy evening.

An Eye Witness.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle have their meetings Dec. 7th and Dec. 21st, in the Guild Room of Parish House, quarter of 8 o'clock.

A family of five received a large basket of provisions for Thanksgiving from this Circle.

Money received and expended for this purpose from:

Mrs. Parmalee	$ 75
Miss Bertha Walsh	25
Miss E. Bezzel	25
Miss Irene Wilder	25
Miss Hedwig Kauffman	25
Mrs. Vanderslice	25
Total	$2 00

From Mrs. Robert Adams, jelly.

Shoe Fund.

Mrs. Parmalee	$ 25
Miss Cleemann	1 00
Total	$1 25

Will be very glad for small children's second hand shoes. Any kind will be acceptable if wearable.

The secretary of the Envelope System requests that members of the congregation return their envelopes without tearing them in half as this makes the labor of sorting them and checking them up according to their respective dates and numbers very much more difficult.

A piano is needed very badly for the Infant Department of the Sunday School. An upright is preferred on account of lack of space. If anyone has a piano not now in use here is an opportunity to put it to excellent service in this way, and it will be greatly appreciated if either given or lent.

All articles or notices for the PARISH NEWS should be addressed to the editor of the PARISH NEWS, St. Stephen's Parish House, 9 South Tenth Street. They must be sent not later than the last Sunday in the month, that is to say in January, not later than the 29th.

The Rector's Letter.

On passing along Thirteenth street near Walnut last week I saw that the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind has opened a salesroom and exchange at 200 South Thirteenth street, where orders are taken for piano-tuning, chair-caning, carpet and rug weaving, baskets, brooms, whisks, crocheted articles, etc. This store has been opened with the truly philanthropic purpose of helping the blind to help themselves by giving them work. I know that the congregation of St. Stephen's is particularly interested in helping the blind, for our members gave a most substantial proof of it in their liberal response to the appeal which Miss Headman made in behalf of the Chapin Home for the Aged Blind, and it gives me pleasure to call their attention to this salesroom. I inspected the articles, and they seemed to me remarkably well made.

This number of the PARISH NEWS has been delayed a week in order that it might contain an account of our Christmas festivities. The New Year's greetings, therefore, are behind time. Still, the year is so young that it is not inappropriate to wish all our readers a Happy New Year.

Entering, as we do, upon the second decade of the twentieth century, we seem to feel the wind made by the wings of Father Time in his rapid flight, and all around us are the proofs that his scythe is ever at work. It was just about a year ago that we had that tremendous snow-storm which blocked almost all the street-cars of the city. It is pleasant to recall how Dr. Wood's love of conquering difficulties showed itself and how he made his way by new routes to the Church and came in rejoicing to find that a number of the members of the choir were on hand, resolved not to be outdone by their chief. People who allow themselves to be checked by little things miss some of the best pleasures of life. None of us who were present on that Sunday will forget the joy of the service. It was not simply an occasion of rest, but also marked a little victory over laziness and inertia. How good it was to worship while the elements were blustering about, a little band of worshippers sitting together in communion with God, in "a tumultuous privacy of storm." The remembrance of that Sunday a year ago will long remain with those who were present.

It is borne in on me, as Cromwell would say, that at that time our honored Accounting Warden, Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann, was then still with us. A few days afterwards he was taken from us by a death so sudden and painless that it was a veritable translation. It is a matter of regret that the completed memorial to him could not be unveiled on the Sunday nearest to the anniversary of his death, but it has been exceedingly difficult to obtain a suitable piece of marble for the bust; for, as every reader of Browning knows from that famous poem in which the Bishop Orders his Tomb, the selection of the piece of marble for a monument is an important matter. We wanted no "gritstone, a-crumble," but "marble—the rare, the ripe." Many marble yards were searched before a suitable stone could be found. The bust will before many weeks be placed in the niche that has been prepared for it on the east wall of the church, at the intersection with the transept, near to Mr. Cleemann's pew where he sat so regularly. An inscription will be placed beneath on a small brass tablet, giving the years of his service in the Vestry of the church. The congregation must not expect to see in the bust which will fill it a likeness of Mr. Cleemann in his last years, for we have preferred to portray him in the fulness of his vigor, when he showed in his carriage the result of those athletic exercises that had distinguished him in his youthful days.

No new year can open with any "relish of salvation in 't" unless some new resolutions are made. I hope that those new members who have not yet taken the envelopes will make a resolution this year to co-operate with the system. This advice is particularly meant for our newer members. Of course we would like to reach out and gain more members and find wider fields for influence, but it is still more important that the people who now attend the church should be united to it by bonds of service, by participation in the work and by Christian fellowship. I do not believe any one who has not tried the envelope system knows the pleasure that can be gotten out of systematic giving. It raises the blessedness of him that giveth to a higher power; for the gift comes not out of the demands of the occasions or in response to a momentary impulse but is the outcome of a determined purpose and is the expression of one's whole personality. It means that the giver consecrates himself and his substance to the service of God, and has loyally accepted the duty of advancing His cause in the world, according to his ability.

Mr. Van Dusen's admirable reports will show exactly how the system is working. It has already greatly increased our offerings.

There is another way, however, of advancing the cause, which must not be neglected. A loyal church member not only brings himself to church, he also tries to bring others. I know a whole group of people in St. Stephen's Church who have been brought there through the zeal and enthusiasm of a few persons. The churches that succeed are the churches in which every member feels himself a part of the society and charges himself with the duty of helping the cause. I hope that our missionary activities will show themselves both in giving, and also by gathering many of the churchless people into our fold.

Christmas Dinners.

The Christmas Dinners Committee takes great pleasure in reporting to the congregation and all who contributed toward the annual dinners provided at this season by St. Stephen's. We might say, to be brief, that this year was practically the same as last year —the same number of baskets provided—the same articles of food placed in each (eleven articles in all)—and the same system of distribution followed. The contributions this year fell a little below those of last year; but by careful estimating, also by St. Stephen's farm supplying the potatoes, and especially through a splendid gift of sixty chickens from one who remembers this object every Christmas, we had ample to make up quite generous baskets, completed, many of them, by two pies —the gift of another generous friend.

We want to take this opportunity of thanking all who contributed toward this worthy object. Good will to men is at least one-half of the Christmas message, and the fruit of good will is often in the form of generosity in material things. Using the sentiment of the poet may we not say that such gifts are twice blest; they bless those who give, and those who receive.

Committee on Distribution.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The December meeting of St. Stephen's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday morning, December 15, at eleven o'clock. There were twenty-five members present, and Miss Magee occupied the chair as president for the last time.

After a short opening service conducted by Dr. Grammer the usual routine business was transacted and reports were heard from the different committees. All the reports were interesting, but one pictured so graphically the splendid type of young people in our mission fields that Miss Magee must repeat the story to a larger audience.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Thursday, January 19th, at eleven o'clock and the speaker will be the Rev. Amos Goddard, of China. Miss Bell, the newly elected president, will enter into office.

Respectfuly submitted,

Mary De Haven Bright, Sec.

At the last meeting of the Domestic branch of the Woman's Auxiliary the address was delivered by the Bishop of South Dakota, who told that both the young clergymen in his diocese were Harvard graduates and splendid workers. He had known them while in the University and afterwards, in the Theological Seminary. After his ordination one of them said that he wanted to go West, but that he was engaged to be married. The Bishop advised him to tell the young lady that they would be obliged to live on $900 a year and in a bungalow rectory and probably in a rough place. The young man did as the Bishop advised and soon returned saying that the young girl said that she would go. The next year the Bishop called again, saying that he had a little money and would like to make him and his wife a present of a piece of furniture to make it more homelike, which he declined, saying they were very comfortable and had no needs. A little later the young man asked the Bishop's advice about some work not exactly in keeping with his profession. The baseball club had asked him to coach them in a game, but he would not answer without his approval. The Bishop said that he would consider the matter and advise him. When the Bishop sent for him he asked, Do you think after you have prepared your sermon and attended to all the duties of a rector that you will have time to grant their request? He answered that he thought so. Then, said the Bishop, I see nothing in either canon or rubric that forbids, so I consent. The young man had been the Harvard coach, and won for the club a splendid victory. He was told that they were a profane set, but acknowledged that not an oath had been uttered while he was with them or indeed afterwards for they respected him and his profession too much for that. A few days later a committee waited on him with a letter of thanks, expressing their appreciation, signed by 100 men, asking him to accept a gift of $100 for his services. He declined the gift. They then offered him a piece of furniture or something for the house. That was declined also. They then said, We will give you something which we think you must accept, a furnace for your church. This was accepted with grateful thanks, as it was a real necessity. The Bishop told this with much pride to show what the example of this splendid young man had been to these plain, rough men, with an effect that preaching could not reach.

All glory to the noble, self-sacrificing priest and his brave young wife.

Fannie S. Magee.

Sunday School Festival.

The evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, December 27 and 28, are memorable in the history of the Sunday School as the occasion of one of the most successful Christmas entertainments that we have had for a number of years. The play was well chosen and appropriate, and served the purpose not only of furnishing amusement to a crowded house for an evening, but of embodying and emphasizing the important truth that there really is a Santa Claus for all who love one another, and that he is that spirit of love who prompts our gifts at this happy season.

Mr. Streaker not only selected and coached the play, with his usual zeal and enthusiasm, but played the important part of Santa Claus himself as well. The rôle of the heroine, Molly Jackson Brown, was ably rendered by Stella Rose, who charmed the audience with her sweet songs. Several novel and amusing features were introduced into the programme, such as the chorus of foot-ball boys in the second act and the ever-popular musical selections of our versatile favorite, Jack Lewis. The terrible "Yama Man" was so vividly pictured by Misses Florence Sherrard and Irene Wilder, in appropriate costumes, that it almost made the audience feel afraid to look behind them, and caused them to breathe a sigh of relief when the lights went on.

Another important feature of the programme was the singing of the Christmas carols, which was accomplished with deserved credit under the able leadership of our kind friend, Dr. Anthony, with Miss Frances Fisher as accompanist. Dr. Grammer furnished sauce to the pudding, as it were, by adding the finishing touch to the occasion with one of his interesting speeches, and his amusing stories were enjoyed by all. After the distribution of candy, cakes and oranges, the children departed for their homes loud in their praises of "the cast" and especially of Mr. Streaker, whose untiring energy at this season of the year never fails to make successful the Christmas festival, which both provides us with appropriate entertainment for an evening and unites us in the bonds of good fellowship under St. Stephen's roof.

Girls' Friendly Society.

The St. Stephen's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society held its Christmas entertainment on the evening of Thursday, December 29. The most popular feature of the occasion consisted in a number of recitations which were both amusing and ably rendered, and held the attention of the audience with breathless interest. Several popular airs were played by means of a number of ingenious devices, such as the ringing of a set of bells and the spinning of metal disks of varying sizes; and some selections on the piano completed the program. The entertainment was followed by a short dance, after which refreshments were served, and the audience adjourned after what was voted a very enjoyable evening.

Special Notice.

Anyone not now receiving the PARISH NEWS and desiring to do so will confer a favor upon the Rector by sending name and address to the Editor. It is desired to make this paper a useful instrument in bringing together the members of the Church and its societies in mutual acquaintance and interest, and the Editor will gladly see that it is mailed to anyone upon request.

Notice.

A play, entitled "Won by Wireless," will be given in the Parish Building of the Church of the Advocate, at 18th and Diamond streets, on Tuesday evening, February 7th, at 8.15 o'clock, for the benefit of the relief fund of the P. E. Sexton's Association. The price of admission is 25 cents, and tickets may be obtained from Mr. Carrigan.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received in December:

Mr. Samuel Moore	$10 00
Mrs. H. F. Martin	1 00
Total	$11 00

The Thanksgiving Entertainment being so late, the children will enjoy their Christmas treat later on.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

Have their next meeting January 17th in the Guild Room of the Parish House at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

Two families, making in all twelve persons, were made happy with groceries and other good things by this Circle on Christmas Day. Willing Day Nursery was also given a good size bundle of bibs, books and other things.

Several postal albums filled with postals were given to the poor and were much enjoyed.

Money received to buy the good things for the Christmas baskets:

From Miss Bertha Walshe	$ 25
Mrs. M. Bodie	50
Miss Irene Wilder	25
Miss Anna Mellinger	25
Miss B. Townsend	50
Miss E. Bezzel	25
Miss Taggert	1 00
	$3 00

Miss Anna Taggert, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Vanderslice, groceries.

Expended for the baskets, $3.00.

Shoe Fund.

Money received in December from Church Fund through Dr. Grammer	$25 00
From Mrs. H. F. Martin	25
From Mrs. Galbraith	1 00
From those receiving shoes	8 25
Total	$34 50
Expended for shoes	15 93
Balance	$18 57

Gave out in December 23 pairs of shoes and 7 pairs of overshoes.

Donation of two pairs of shoes from Miss Swift.

Received from Santa Claus a large box of shoes, and a box of overshoes.

I fear that the girls were not so good this year, as most of the shoes and overshoes were for the boys.

On motion of Miss Fanny S. Magee the following resolution was passed by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Parish:

WHEREAS it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst our faithful associate and dearly loved friend, Miss Ellen Cleemann,

Resolved that we desire to place upon record our sincere appreciation of the loveliness of her character and her deep and unfailing devotion to St. Stephen's, the church of her love from her earliest childhood until her death.

Gentle, unobtrusive and pure in heart, firm in character, but ever considerate for the opinions of others, she exemplified to her friends, and all were such, the beauty of holiness. Amiable, loving, she inspired affection in all with whom she was associated. Years of constant intercourse with her in our numerous church duties endeared her to us all, and now that God has taken her to Himself, our hearts are filled with sorrow, but with thankfulness for the bright and beautiful example she has left us.

The following minute has been adopted by the Benevolent Society:

It is but fitting that the Benevolent Society of St. Stephen's Church should pay a tribute to the memory of Miss Cleemann, its president for a time and a member for many years. Her constant attendance at all meetings and active interest in its work, will make her absence sorely felt.

During the winter, as her health began to fail, she was forced to abandon her other benevolent activities, but almost up to the end she bravely attended her church and The Benevolent, whose work was close to her heart. A true Christian gentlewoman has gone from among us and her place shall know her no more.

These resolutions show the affection and respect felt for Miss Cleemann by the women of St. Stephen's, and their sense of loss at her death. It is fitting, however, that as Rector of the Church, I should add my testimony to theirs and speak of the beauty of her Christian character. She was one of our very oldest members, not by reason of her age, for she had not exceeded by much the seventy years anciently regarded as our allotted term, but in virtue of her connection with St. Stephen's from her infancy. Like her brother, our honored late accounting warden, Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann, she was baptized in our font and spent her whole life in faithful attendance on this Church and in loyal labors in its societies. The dominant notes of her character were sincerity and unselfishness. Singularly detached from the ambitions and self-seekings of the children of this world, she spent her life in ministrations of loving-kindness. Not many days before she died she had the pleasure of seeing the model of her brother's bust placed temporarily in its niche that the sculptor might judge of the effect, and it is gratifying to recall that she was pleased with the likeness, and improved the memorial by some helpful suggestions. Among the influences that moulded Ludovic C. Cleemann into the shape and figure of manhood that evoked this enduring memorial, he would himself, I am sure, have given a high place to the consistent Christian example and loving influences of this unselfish older sister, and the memorial to him will be, therefore, also a memorial of her, who was ever, as the Latin motto has it, aliorum memor, immemor sui. C. E. G.

A Generous Addition to the Endowment Fund.

Shortly after the death of Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann, his heirs, Miss Ellen Cleemann and Dr. Richard A. Cleemann, informed the Rector privately that they intended to contribute $10,000 to the endowment of St. Stephen's Church out of their brother's estate after it had been duly and legally settled, inasmuch as they felt that such a legacy would have been made by their brother if his will, which was of an early date, had been drawn later. They desired, therefore, to fulfil in this way the spirit of his life regardless of the letter of his testament.

This sum was placed last month in the hands of our Accounting Warden, Mr. J. Hunter Ewing. The actual transfer occurred after the death of Miss Cleemann, but though acting now singly, Dr. Cleemann carried out by this action the common purpose of himself and his sister. This addition is to be considered, by their desire, as a gift from the estate of Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann. This wish will, of course, be complied with, but it is impossible that we should disassociate Miss Cleemann, or Dr. Richard A. Cleemann from this benefaction. We are the richer by this token of brotherly and sisterly loyalty and love on their part, as well as by this substantial increase to our interest-bearing securities. All three are really joined in this gift to the Church where all three were baptized. It is, however, to be emphasized that the money comes out of the estate of Ludovic C. Cleemann and is given as an interpretation of his purposes by those who knew and loved him best. It is unnecessary to say here how greatly such additions are needed to insure the future of our down-town Church; and how much the Vestry is aided by this generous and fraternal gift.

The Rector's Letter.

THE ENVELOPE SYSTEM.

It will soon be necessary to order from the printer the envelopes for the year that begins with Easter. The system has proven so measurably successful that I feel sure that it will solve, to a large extent, all of our problems if it be universally adopted and faithfully worked. A committee will be appointed to see if more members cannot be induced to take the packages. There are two misconceptions to be guarded against: the first is that there is anything inquisitorial about this method of raising money and that it is intended thereby to discover the amount that each person gives. All that is recorded is the return of the envelopes and the fact that one or both pockets contain gifts. The amounts are neither recorded nor known. The second misconception is that the envelopes are only to be used on the days when the holder attends church. It is one of the great objects of the system to make the offerings of the church independent of the weather and the various hindrances that interfere with regularity of church attendance. It is hoped and expected that those who are absent on one Sunday will bring two envelopes with their offerings on the following Sunday, and it ought to be a matter of pride that all of the envelopes should, if possible, be returned with some offering however small. Those who have tried this plan will testify that the system adds new pleasure to giving. After the service last Sunday, a man who had been attending church recently came in and said: "I wish you would give me one of those packages; for I can't get here every Sunday and on the days when I am prevented I should like to send my offering and be present that far." He was a man who had been struggling against intemperance, and is now leading a new life. He felt that the Church would be more of a power in his life if he could unite himself more closely to us in this way. It was a sound and true instinct. My zeal for the system is awakened largely by its splendid reflex action upon those who use it. It is said of Alexander Hamilton that he so administered the Treasury Department that be bound the states together by closer ties and welded us into a nation. The same force may be utilized on a smaller and yet higher scale, and a congeries of people, hardly knit together at all, and only associated by propinquity, may be bound up into a true brotherhood in Christian service by their common support of the church and their common self-denials for the extension of the Kingdom of God.

THE OFFERINGS FOR DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

In spite of the inclusion of Diocesan Missions in the lists of offerings printed upon the envelopes, during the week before February 19 the collectors will be sent around, according to custom, and ask for these offerings. This parochial custom of many years' standing is retained, in spite of the envelope system, first because it has been unusually effective and it would therefore be a mistake to interfere with it. We have done remarkably well with it, and I cannot risk falling short of the usual amount as there are definite pledges to the Convocation that have to be met and the assessment for Diocesan purposes must be paid out of the offering. And, second, there are a number of generous contributors, members of the parish of long standing and proven loyalty who respond faithfully to all appeals but do not use the envelope system and prefer the old ways; they will look for the collector with his books. Those who use the envelopes though they have been accustomed to contribute through the collector, can either give him their contribution or place it in the proper pocket in the envelope. Personally, I prefer that they should give him the contribution and reward him for his labor in that way. In such cases, I will give a list of the names to the Treasurer, with instructions to mark that envelope as returned in his list.

LENT.

We publish above a list of the Lenten speakers. The Brotherhood has been remarkably successful in gaining men of eminence to come from abroad and deliver their messages in this city.

The Bishop of the Diocese has honored us by consenting to deliver the address on Ash Wednesday, officially opening the series. It will be a great pleasure to the people of St. Stephen's to hear Dr. Worcester again, and he will undoubtedly fill the church with people anxious to hear his spiritual message. The chief speaker for the following week will be the Rt. Rev. Charles David Williams, Bishop of Michigan, whose speech at a recent banquet in New York, where ex-President Roosevelt and other distinguished men also spoke, was regarded as the most brilliant speech of the evening. He is a Christian leader of great courage, energy and originality. His successor as chief speaker for the week following will be the Rev. Dr. Hugh Birckhead, who has followed with such remarkable success Dr. Rainsford as rector of St. George's Church, New York. No words of encomium are necessary for Bishop Lloyd, president of our Board of Missions, who will take five days of the week following. After him will come the Rev. P. F. Sturges, of St. Peter's Church, Mooresstown, who has been most warmly commended to me by Dr. Worcester as a speaker of beauty and power. The other days and Holy Week will be filled by local clergy and the Rector of the church. With such assistance we ought to have services of splendid efficiency.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

Forty-four members were present at the meeting of the Society held on Jan. 19th. Miss Almy, president of the Junior Auxiliary in Philadelphia, addressed the meeting, urging that a Junior branch be formed at St. Stephen's and offering her help in organization. Mrs. English undertook this important work.

The Foreign Committee told of Bishop Kingsolving's work in Brazil. He has under him twenty-nine clergy with thirty-seven parishes to visit.

The Diocesan Committee described the rapid growth of St. Paul's Church, 15th and Porter streets. When Mr. Parsons took charge of the parish there was an average attendance of eighty-seven. There are now three hundred and seventy-five communicants. Mr. Parsons greatly needs a large parish house and it is hoped to erect one in memory of Mr. George C. Thomas.

Miss Anna Magee reported $130 towards the United Offering. She said that last year had given $36,000 to missions.

The Rev. Amos Goddard, of Shasi, China, made the address, describing very clearly the old conditions in China and the changes that are now taking place in education, customs and the opium trade.

Under the old system of education only one man in 100, and only one woman in 1,000 could read. There were no Chinese schools for girls until 1900 and in the schools for boys the doors of learning opened only towards the past. All education consisted in memorizing the works of the ancient Chinese sages. There are now 40,000 schools where the Chinese, and Western language and sciences are necessary before one can obtain a degree. Since 1900, when the Empress Dowager issued her edict favoring education for women, all large cities have schools for girls.

Foot binding is going out, largely because of the influence of Christian schools, which refuse to receive any girl unless she has "large," or unbound feet.

The Chinese have shown their earnestness in abolishing the opium traffic by making public bonfires of their pipes and by turning their poppy fields into wheat and rice. This great country has just awakened to the importance of Western thought and civilization. She needs our prayers, our thought and our money. In Shasi there are 70,000 people and around are four outstations, 150,000 people in all. There is no doctor, nurse or hospital in this great district and no mission but ours.

The next meeting of the Society will be held on Thursday evening, February 16th, at eight o'clock in the Sunday School Building. Reports will be read from the different committees, followed by an address on "The Work of the Church in Alaska," illustrated with slides, by Rev. Charles E. Bettschur, Jr., of Fairbanks. Members are urged to attend and to bring their friends.

The Junior Auxiliary.

At the request of the Rector it has been decided to organize a Junior Auxiliary in St. Stephen's Church. It is sincerely hoped that all the young people will rally to our help in this very desirable undertaking so forcibly presented by Miss Almy at the Auxiliary meeting last month. The purpose of the society is to raise up in our midst a body of young women who will be able later to fill the places of those now in the Woman's Auxiliary. There will be an organization meeting on Ash-Wednesday in which officers will be chosen by the members and the work decided upon. It is earnestly requested that all the girls in our congregation be present at the organization meeting, in the Vestry room at three o'clock on Ash-Wednesday.

MINNIE TAYLOR ENGLISH.

A Mission Study Class will begin on the first Saturday morning in Lent for the study of the work of the Church in Japan. The text-book used will be "Sunrise in the Sunrise Kingdom," by John H. de Forest. The class will be held in the Parish Building at eleven o'clock, as usual, under the leadership of Miss Laura Bell. Names of those desiring to join the class should be sent in advance.

Meetings of the Woman's National Foreign Missionary Jubilee will be held in Philadelphia from February 11 to February 14, notices of which will be found in the daily and religious papers. Women interested in missions, and more especially those not interested in missions are asked to try to attend at least one of these meetings.

The friends of the Girls' Friendly Society may be interested to hear that the total receipts from the fair held in November for the benefit of the Cape May Holiday House amounted to $1,672.76. We take this opportunity of thanking those members of St. Stephen's who helped to make this fair so successful.

The Boys' Club.

The attention of the congregation is called to the needs of our boys. Our gymnasium is very inadequately equipped, which makes it difficult for us to hold our boys, against the modern and better equipped establishments of several of our near-by churches. We have an able teacher, and under his instruction the boys are doing excellent work, but they are sadly handicapped by lack of apparatus. About $100 is needed, and donations will be greatly appreciated if sent to the Rector or to Mr. Robert T. Boyd.

Parish Visitor's Report.

Though it may seem to the Parish Visitor that her work appears monotonous to those reading about it, it is not so in the performance of it; for day by day it presents an infinite variety to one who can enter into the daily life of many, by the sympathy and encouragement she is empowered to bring to them through the channels of St. Stephen's people. Each case has its own particular interest, although they may appear similar when writing them up.

Quite a nice sum of money was sent to the Parish Visitor for the aunts who have taken charge of the three little girls mentioned some months ago, and their gratitude was unbounded. In the letter of acknowledgment the aunts send their heartfelt thanks to the friends whom God had touched and they promised that the money should be used for clothing for the children, which they so much need. A box of toys was also received, with the request that it be sent to them and the little hearts were made very happy, the dollies especially giving unbounded pleasure. A great load of financial worry was lifted from the shoulders of the two hard-working women who have these children under their care, by these donations.

Other hearts were made glad too by the baskets we distributed at Christmas time, to the appreciation of which a number of letters testify as well as word of mouth. Many a "God bless you" and "my good Samaritan friend" were contained within these letters, which I pass along to the people of St. Stephen's, as I am only their messenger and could do nothing were it not for their generosity. I quote portions of two letters, which read as follows: "To be old and cold, Miss Lewis, you may believe is not pleasant and so you will know what a good thing it is to feel that there is a whole ton of warmth and cheer in the cellar. Thanking you and all the kind friends for wishing us to share the joy of Christmas time. . . ."

And another letter reads: "I should indeed be ungrateful were I not to thank you and those who make it possible for you to help me, as you have done this Christmas. My brother has been having hemorrhages again and again and is very weak. I was wishing for a chicken to make some broth when the young man came with not one, but two. King George could not have finer, besides the other things. It seems this year I have only to pray for a thing and it is laid at my feet." This shows that our work is not in vain.

K. H. LEWIS.

The Junior Brotherhood.

An admission service for the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held in the church on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 15th, and our Rector received into the fellowship of this young organization of church workers, Herbert Leitsch and James Mearns.

The following prayer which was originally set forth by Bishop Stevens, and again licensed by Bishop Whitaker, has been sent forth by the Diocesan Secretary, in answer to many requests and with the permission of the Bishop:

Almighty and Everlasting God, the fountain of all wisdom and strength, we ask Thy blessing upon Thy servant whom through the way of sorrow and bereavement Thou hast called to be the Bishop of this Diocese. May he be wise with Thy wisdom and strong with Thy strength. Replenish him with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit that he may always incline to Thy will and walk in Thy way. May his administration be in righteousness and the end thereof be peace: We ask it through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen.

The following message from the Bishop was read by the Rector on Sunday morning, February 26, and the announcement was repeated in the afternoon:

The Bishop Whitaker Memorial Fund.

To the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese of Pennsylvania:

Since the death of our beloved and revered Bishop Whitaker, there has been a wide-spread demand in the Diocese that a permanent memorial in the shape of a Church to bear his name should be erected, either in Philadelphia or its immediate vicinity. Such a demand cannot but meet with the loving sympathy of every parishioner in the confines of the Diocese. It is, indeed, not the first time that a similar feeling has been manifested. Some years ago it was suggested that it should take shape in the form of a permanent edifice for St. Barnabas' Mission in the western part of Philadelphia. Bishop Whitaker, however, forbade the movement on the ground that it was not fitting that a memorial should be erected to a living man. This objection, as we now know to our grief, no longer obtains, and as the Bishop was particularly interested in St. Barnabas' Mission—which he regarded as one of the most promising in the Diocese—our hearts naturally revert to it, and impel us to believe that it lay very close to his desires. Indeed, on his being asked not long ago what memorial building he would recommend to any well-to-do Church member who wished to erect one in connection with some beloved name, he innocently answered that any sum of money given to erect a church for St. Barnabas' Mission, West Philadelphia, would be well invested. This remark has not been forgotten either by me or by others who heard it. We now, therefore, commend it to the Diocese, and suggest that the raising of money for this purpose should, in order to express the affection of the Church at large, take shape in a general subscription by all the members of the Diocese of $1.00 apiece from every man, woman and child who belongs to any Parish within our borders. This sum of $1.00 will be asked from each, but in case any one should desire to give a larger sum, or to have their own particular subscription given for some other special purpose, subscriptions so designated will not be refused.

It has been suggested that the Woman's Auxiliary Society in every Parish should accept the gathering of this sum as their especial duty, and that the Rectors should urge them to accept it, making the president of such an auxiliary the local treasurer of the fund.

The amounts so raised can then be forwarded to Mr. Ewing L. Miller, Treasurer, Church House, 12th and Walnut Streets.

I remain, your servant, for Christ's sake.

ALEX. MACKAY-SMITH,
Bishop of the Diocese of Pennsylvania.

The President of the St. Stephen's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, Miss Laura Bell, has accepted the treasurership of this fund, in accordance with the Bishop's suggestion, and donations may be sent to her at her residence, 1428 Spruce street.

An Old Favorite: The Gifts of God, by George Herbert.

When God at first made man,
Having a glass of blessings standing by,
Let us (said He) pour on him all we can:
Let the world's riches which dispersèd lie,
Contract into a span.

So strength first made a way!
Then beauty flowed, then wisdom, honor, pleasure:
When almost all was out, God made a stay,
Perceiving that, alone, of all his treasure,
Rest in the bottom lay.

For if I should (said He)
Bestow this jewel also on my creature,
He would adore my gifts instead of me,
And rest in Nature, not the God of Nature;
So both should losers be.

Yet let him keep the rest,
But keep them with repining restlessness;
Let him be rich and weary, that, at least,
If goodness lead him not, yet weariness
May toss him to my breast.

"O God, our heart is restless till it find rest in thee."—St. Augustine.

The Rector's Letter.

THE LENTEN ARRANGEMENTS.

Once more the season for self-examination, for self-discipline, for self-dedication has come upon us. We are fortunate that it is later than last year, and that Easter will fall in days, when the early spring flowers are blooming. It is good, too, that the season of Church work should be thus prolonged by the lateness of that great feast, for there is always a falling off shortly afterwards. We are happy in having such eminent religious teachers come to us from abroad to deliver their message from the pulpit of St. Stephen's. Doubtless the attendance will be large. As the afternoon services meet no need, since those who come to them also attend the morning service and their numbers are too small to make it seem a wise expenditure of energy to conduct them on the old lines, they will be discontinued. If any people write me requesting it, however, brief services will be held at 4 o'clock on Wednesday and Friday throughout Lent. On Friday at 8 o'clock the Confirmation class will meet in the Vestry. The Bishop of Wyoming, Dr. Thomas, will administer the rite of Confirmation at St. Stephen's on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, April 9th. The Rector will be absent making addresses in Pittsburgh from March 14th to 17th inclusive, and will deliver the noon-day addresses in Norfolk, Va., from March 27th to March 30th; but the rest of Lent he will be at home. While the approaching confirmation makes this a poor time for him to be absent at all, it seemed to him that such services should be rendered other parishes, if for no other reasons, as a return for the help that other parishes are rendering us in sending us such helpful speakers at our Lenten services.

A SUGGESTED MEMORIAL.

The other day I was called on by an expert at tuning bells, who proposed to tune our bells for the astonishingly small sum of $300. He has devised a new process of tuning, by means of electricity, and has credentials from the presidents of Columbia University, New York, and Kenyon College, Ohio, which show that he tuned the bells of those institutions most successfully. A little conversation convinced me that he understood the proper principles of tuning, and was a dependable person. The contract that he offered to make, conditioned all payments upon the approval of the result by a committee of expert musicians. At my request he examined our bells and reported that they were what is known as "sand bells," that is to say bells cast in sand moulds, and were of a fine composition, though, as we all know, greatly out of tune. The smaller bells were too close together in weight and diameter to produce a uniform tone color, and even if they were in tune, the result would be much as if "A" were sung by a soprano voice, "B" by an alto voice, and "C" by a tenor voice—the notes would be correct but the overtones would be diverse. To render the chime perfect substitutes should be put in for those upper bells, but inasmuch as they are smaller and lighter, this would not be expensive, for the chimes could be tuned and enlarged and put in best musical condition by this expert for $600. With all our heavy expenses the Vestry cannot consider this luxury, but it has occurred to me that some member of the congregation might like to give this as a memorial to some beloved one, who has been taken from them.

While a jangling chime is an annoyance amid the noises of a city, a sweet, musical chime is a refreshment and conveys an invitation and message that floats over the roofs into many windows and reaches many a passer-by. I have heard that the sufferers in the wards of a hospital near by would welcome it. Few memorials, it seems to me, would more appropriately commemorate a beautiful Christian life, or perpetuate its calming and uplifting influence on the world. Such bells would be a valuable addition to our equipment.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The February meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in the Sunday School room on the 16th of last month at 8 o'clock, and there were 52 members present. After a short opening service conducted by Dr. Grammer, and the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's statement, interesting reports were heard from the following committees: Domestic, Colored, Indian Hope, Diocesan, and Missionary Box. Miss Washington, reporting for the United Offering, announced that the amount received for that fund had reached a total of $155.

Miss Bell, the president, gave the announcement of the Mission Study Class, which is to meet as usual on the Saturday mornings in Lent, and stated that there were still a few vacancies in the class. She also spoke of the inspiring meetings of the Woman's Jubilee in the interest of foreign missions, held recently in Philadelphia, and particularly of the Episcopal rally held in Holy Trinity Church. At this meeting an appeal was made for funds for St. Margaret's School, Tokyo, which is unable to comply with the conditions imposed by the Government and will not be allowed to stand unless support is given.

The principal feature of the evening was an illustrated lecture on Alaska by the Rev. Charles E. Betticher, of Fairbanks. Starting at the southern boundary, Mr. Betticher carried his audience along the Tannah River into the interior, describing in a most interesting manner, with the aid of beautiful colored slides, that picturesque country and the mode of life there. His own parish, situated at Fairbanks and including a number of mission stations outside, consists of both Americans and Indians, and shows remarkable improvements in the period of five years during which Mr. Betticher has been stationed there. Substantial buildings,—churches, hospitals, and libraries—have taken the place of the rude log cabins of a few years ago. An especially strong appeal was made for reading matter for these people among whom it is so scarce, and particularly for books for the George C. Thomas Memorial Library, the most beautiful building in the Alaskan Mission.

Mr. Betticher finds the Indians of this district particularly appreciative; so much so that St. Luke's Mission Chapel was built entirely by the volunteer work of the congregation, and in two stations when a collection was taken to meet the apportionment a sum exceeding three times that asked for was raised. In the Sunday School at Fairbanks $350 was presented as a Lenten offering from 40 pupils, and the Sunday Schools of Alaska rank second in proportionate amount of that offering to those of only one other diocese in our country.

Mr. Betticher particularly emphasized the work among the children, who are the chief hope of the missionary. To these little ones, brought up almost like animals in this country where it is such an effort to live, and soon overwhelmed in a struggle for food and shelter, coming under the influence of the Christian missionary, means the dawn of a new life, and the rapidly increasing external changes are indicative of the internal changes which mean the lifting up to a higher plane of the spiritual life of the Indian of future generations.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Thursday morning, March 16th, at 11 o'clock, in the Parish House. There will be the usual committee reports, and an address by the Rev. John A. Staunton, from the Philippines.

Mission Study Class.

The Mission Study Class will hold meetings every Saturday morning during Lent at eleven o'clock in the Parish House, to study the conditions of the Church in Japan. Miss Laura Bell, leader.

Girls' Friendly Society.

The Girls' Friendly Society held its annual entertainment for the benefit of Fatima, the little girl whom our branch supports in a Christian orphanage in India, on Monday evening, February 20th, and in spite of a stormy night, the house was crowded to the doors. Those who attended were well rewarded for their trouble, for the sketch, entitled "An Afternoon Tea," reflects great credit upon its author and actor in the star rôle, Miss Florence Sherrard. To amuse the guests at an afternoon tea supposedly members of the Girls' Friendly Society of St. Stephen's, Miss Sherrard devises this entertainment which is a take off of the various classes in the Friendly, and shows in a very clever and amusing manner the peculiarities of each. At the end, Miss Van Horn, who wishes to join the Society and is endeavoring to make her choice of a class, is so bewildered that she flees from the stage in despair. The touches of "local color" were greatly appreciated by the members of the Society, who recognized in the amusing caricatures the peculiarities of the different bands, grossly exaggerated and made ridiculous in a spirit of fun, which caused great merriment on the part of the audience. The success of the evening was made complete by the songs rendered by the cast, and particularly by Dr. Anthony, who, assisted by Miss Rulon, so kindly came to our assistance, on this, as on many previous occasions. The entire cast, as well as the principal actors, certainly deserve great credit for giving their audience a most delightful evening.

Benevolent Society.

Every one is going. Are you? Do not miss it.

Note the time, the place and your greatest opportunity.

Time.—Thursday, March 9th, 1911, 10.30 A. M. to 12 noon.

Place.—St. Stephen's Parish House, 9 So. 10th street.

Opportunity.—To purchase something you need of good material and at cost price, and at the same time help others. House-cloths, dish towels, glass towels, cheese-cloth dusters, gingham aprons, and some children's dresses and adults' wrappers.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

On February 3rd, the "U. S. Senate" or "Boys' Club" of St. Stephen's gave a gymnastic entertainment. It was a success, in showing their improvement in athletics under Mr. Fountain and financially, squared their accounts and proved entertaining and instructive with drills and moving pictures, particularly the closing one, an Indian Legend of Niagara Falls, explained and exhibited by the President of the Boys' Club. This last picture presented thrilling and moving scenes from the great cataract at Niagara, and showed the educational value that can be had from motion pictures. Mr. Adam Hall, with his electric club swinging was much appreciated. Kind friends and the Rector having come to the assistance of this work among our boys, have given renewed encouragement to those in charge.

Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

This Society of the young men and older boys of the Sunday School is planning an entertainment for the latter part of April and are meeting each Friday evening.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

This active young chapter of Church workers had a meeting on Tuesday evening February 28th, that inspired its Director and its members to renewed energy. The plan to have a joint meeting of the Junior Chapters of the Church of the Incarnation, St. Andrew's and St. Stephen's, more than succeeded. Wm. Pedrick, of our Chapter, opened the evening's subject, "The Power of Prayer in a Boy's Life," showing an admirable study of his subject. Richard Shryock and Fred Schofield, of the Incarnation, were the leaders among the boys from their chapter, and made excellent speeches, while William Burk led the members of St. Andrew's, who quite equaled the others. Our own Luther Fisher took his valued place at the piano and Robert Boyd was inspired to assist his chapter in the discussion. Mr. Vivian Ginder and Mr. John Shryock, the vice-president of the Junior Brotherhood, most ably closed the evening's discussion. The Director gave four reels of moving pictures, instructive and entertaining, after the regular meeting had adjourned to the Sunday School Room. We are indebted to the ladies of the Sunday School who kindly assisted with the refreshments.

On Friday mornings in Lent, the Aid Society will hold its meetings in the Parish House at 10 o'clock. The object of the Society is to provide baby garments to be distributed by Miss Lewis in her visits among the poor of the Parish. Many sad cases of want come to her knowledge, and she constantly finds the advent of these little ones entirely unprovided for. The aim of the Society is to supply this need.

If there were more workers on these Friday mornings, the result of this Lenten work would prove more satisfactory, and an invitation is extended to the women of the congregation to manifest their interest and approval by joining the Society.

The Chancel Committee desire to announce that two stoles and four sets of Bible and Prayer-Book markers are required for the Chapel of the Burd Orphan Asylum.

Members of the congregation willing to help in the preparation of these articles will have an opportunity of doing so by attending the Embroidery Class on Friday mornings, where all the necessary materials will be supplied along with instruction by Miss Davis should such be required. An opportunity will also be given to permit anyone to do the work at home, should she find it more convenient to do so.

The treasurer of the envelope system reports that the following numbers have been taken out with no corresponding names: 123, 182, 212, 443, and 469. Will the persons holding the packages containing these numbers kindly send their names and addresses to Mr. Jos. B. Van Dusen, Jr., Stephen Girard Building.

Balance from January	$5.78
	$9.63
Expended in February	$5.66
Balance	$3.97

Gave out in February 18 pairs of shoes and 10 pairs of overshoes.

Perhaps some of the members in St. Stephen's Church who have small children might find some second hand shoes for some of our little folks, say 5, 6 and 7 sizes; they cost so much and one gets so little for their money.

They would be very acceptable if sent to the Parish House, marked for Shoe Fund.

The Farm.

The attention of the congregation is called to the fact that St. Stephen's Farm will soon open its doors again for another season, and this year as always, funds are needed to carry on this good work. The Easter collection will be devoted to this purpose, and it is hoped that it will be a generous one. Our church carries on no more important work than this which makes it possible for those who live in the dirt and heat of the city during most of the summer months to get a glimpse for a few days or weeks, of green fields and fresh air and sunshine. In addition to the usual funds needed for carrying on the running expenses of the farm, considerable of the equipment must be replenished this year. The house is very much in need of bed linen, especially single sheets, and bed spreads, also towels, a rag carpet for the sitting room, a carpet for the parlor and some rugs for the bedrooms. It is hoped that the friends of the Farm who have supported it so generously in the past will bear these objects in mind, and see that an adequate equipment is provided to insure the comfort of our guests.

The Rector's Letter.

THE DUPLEX ENVELOPES.

On the Sunday after Easter we will begin a new year with the envelope system. It has proven itself a valuable method well adapted to our conditions, helpful both for the Church and Missions through an increase of the offerings, and also for the givers through its training in system. More intelligence and conscience is brought into our giving, and our offerings can be made without regard to the weather, and with less dependence upon the phrasing of the appeals.

Between this date and Palm Sunday we hope to hear from all to whom a letter will be sent. The system was introduced hurriedly, but now that it has been tried, we hope that the number of users of the envelopes may be doubled. That would establish a record for us. Let us attempt something worth while. If all of us co-operate we can face the coming years with assurance that the voluntary offerings will grow and meet all our needs, and all the reasonable demands upon us.

This is the letter that will be mailed to each parishioner. It will be an unintentional oversight if any one fails to receive one. Those who have changed their address in the last six months are asked to leave their new address with the Verger or to mail it to the Rector at the Church.

My Dear Parishioner:

Will you not sign the enclosed card, and use the duplex envelopes for the year beginning the Sunday after Easter? The system has proven so effective this past year that it would solve all our problems if it were more generally adopted. With a membership of 600, we have had only about 200 active envelopes, yet about $1200 more than in previous years were given for parochial maintenance and the offerings for all purposes have been larger. Never have I had such a charitable fund at my disposal. If every one will take a package, and co-operate faithfully, we can easily double the amount for parochial maintenance and so solve the problem caused by the diminution of the income from pew rentals, and can also increase our contributions to missions without burdening any one. Our gifts to our own church will make its services more fruitful of good to us and our regular contributions to missions will give depth and meaning to the petition "Thy kingdom come."

The amount of the individual gift is not registered or known; but the fidelity with which the envelope is returned is recorded. The method is approved by experience and I hope that you will see your way to adopting it.

Sincerely,

YOUR RECTOR.

RETURN CARD.

Please send me a package of envelopes for the year beginning the Sunday after Easter. I will endeavor to co-operate faithfully with the system.

Signed,

.....

Address.

On the Monday evening, after the Sunday after Easter, that is to say on Monday, April 24th, we will have the annual parochial meeting. Presidents, secretaries and treasurers of every society in the Church are requested to work together and to prepare the report of their society for reading on that occasion. We have a large and safe platform that will be erected on that evening and the speakers will be expected to speak from its secure elevation. The proper person to report for each society is the president or some one designated by him or her, a substitution that is recommended if the president has not sufficient vocal power to be heard. Much of the interest will be taken away from the occasion if the reports are sent up to be read by the Rector or Mr. Long. Reports should be brief, of course, but the statistics of the year's work should be given. Comparison with last year's record will be helpful and stimulating. It is hoped that the attendance will be larger than ever before, and everyone is urged to keep this night free from other engagements.

The Confirmation Class is asked to meet the Rector and Mr. Long on Sunday evening in the Parish House at 8 o'clock. There will be only two more meetings. If possible all the members should be at the next two. It is regrettable that a form of admission for communicants from other churches, more adapted to their case has not been provided by our Church; but nevertheless in spite of the service's inaccuracy in details, we believe that it is wisest for communicants from other churches to come into our fold by this rite, and so feel themselves solemnly adopted and admitted authoritatively to the feast of Christian love and perpetual remembrance of Jesus Christ.

As was announced on the Sunay after the appeal for $600 to retune and enlarge our chimes, the money was given by one of our new members almost as soon as the appeal was made. I hope that the tuner will soon get to work, and that we may hear the chimes ringing out sweetly over the city before we disperse for the summer. It is a beautiful way of sending abroad through hymns the gospel invitations and messages.

As I write these notices I recall that one year ago, this very day, Dr. Wood was taken sick, to linger for parts of three days in suffering and on the third day, which was Easter as it happened, to leave these scenes of struggle and preparation and enter into that more abundant life which we are persuaded, waits for souls like his in the beyond, where there is no more night, and where there is unceasing praise. Surely he has joined the choir invisible, but he still lives too on earth, in souls made better by his example, and enriched by his genius. It is good to know that some of his compositions have been published by Novello & Ewer, the great musical publishers, and that more have been accepted. They will be his truest and most enduring memorials, but it is to be hoped that some suitable memorial of his genius, his unique career, and his beautiful character may be erected by his friends within and without St. Stephen's in the Church which he served so faithfully and efficiently. Surely the musicians of Philadelphia, and the lovers of good music will respond to any movement to erect such a memorial in St. Stephen's, if our people lead the way.

All the speakers this Lent have been exceedingly helpful, and the general appreciation of their message has been shown by the large attendance, which has been unusual in its size and in the proportion of men. But in view of Dr. Worcester's former relation to the parish, it will not be invidious to say that his messages had behind them reserves of affection and personal influence that gave them extraordinary weight. It was a great pleasure to have him, and the impression made by his inspiring addresses can never be lost. We trust that the following weeks have ripened the seed then sown and sown more seed. Let us unite in prayer that some great blessing may come on us as a parish from this helpful season, some new consecration, not merely more purity of heart, more elevation of sentiment, more freedom from earth's slaveries; but also more power to win others for Christ, more serviceableness for the kingdom, more brotherliness, more of the power of the world-to-come, that is to say, more of a type of character that is not produced by prudence, but is the result of taking Jesus into our hearts as our ideal, and conversing with him in prayer. That is what we need. I believe that a new yearning that Christ may be found in us has come to many of us. This longing is the first step to attainment. Now, if we give ourselves to prayer the rest will follow, and we shall receive the blessing promised in the beatitude to them who hunger and thirst after righteousness.

On Sunday afternoon, March 12th, Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of the Johns Hopkins University's celebrated medical school, made an address to a congregation that filled the Church. In a most interesting and direct manner this great surgeon and medical authority gave his testimony that the religion of Jesus worked, and that there was nothing in medical science to interfere with its full acceptance. A large number of medical students, physicians and trained nurses were in the congregation. It is especially desired that this occasion may prove the means of bringing more of the Jefferson medical students to our services.

The congregation is reminded that Miss Laura Bell as the president of our parochial branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, is the treasurer for the Whitaker Memorial Fund. She reports that she has received contributions amounting to seventy-six dollars, representing thirty-seven women and seven men of the congregation. We are asked to give as much as $600, i. e., an average of one dollar for each communicant. It is hoped that some will give more and that all will give something.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The March meeting of the St. Stephen's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was most interesting, and the Rev. John A. Staunton, Jr., who addressed the meeting after the regulation business had been disposed of, should have been heard by more than the 46 members who were present.

Mr. Staunton and his wife are stationed at the Mission of St. Mary the Virgin, Lagada, Philippine Islands. Mrs. Staunton is a trained nurse, and Mr. Staunton has studied dentistry, so that he helps his people physically as well as spiritually.

There are two classes of work done in the Philippines: that amongst the whites—soldiers, sailors, teachers and civilian employes, and that amongst the natives.

No native work has been done in the lowlands or the large towns as the people have been under Roman Catholic influence for 400 years, and it is Bishop Brent's policy not to interfere with them. There are 7,000,000 inhabitants in the Philippines, 6,000,000 of whom are Christians. Of the remainder one-half million are uncivilized and live in the mountains or remote islands. They are head hunters and worship fairies. Mr. and Mrs. Staunton were the first to go into this district. They took medical aid to the people and taught them to build better houses, erect saw mills and make roads. These natural relations established, religious instruction followed, and the mission has now 1,000 adherents. There will soon be eight workers in this promising field, and it seems impossible for the work to be properly carried on without adequate equipment. The first workers lived like the natives in grass roofed huts but in this land of storms and typhoons they should have dry houses. A building for a girls' school has been promised, but $20,000 should be provided to build a church, a boys' school, a hospital and homes for missionaries. The present church will only accommodate half the congregation at once under its thatched roof. In conclusion I must quote Mr. Staunton's own forceful words: "Now, my dear friends, this successful work is yours; I am your representative in the field; what are your commands? Shall I push it, or shall I drop it?"

The next and last meeting of the winter will be held in the Parish House on Thursday, April 20th, at eleven o'clock. Following the reports of committees there will be an open discussion on Japan, the field and the work.

The Reception to Dr. Worcester.

The Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester received a most cordial welcome, during his recent visit, as one of the speakers who gave five days of Noon-day Lenten Sermons for us. He not only crowded the church each day to its full capacity, but kindly preached at a special service Thursday evening, March 9th.

On Wednesday evening, March 8th, the Rector and the Brotherhood of our church, desiring that he should meet the men socially that they might express their appreciation for his kindness in coming over from Boston, gave him a reception, which brought out, besides the Brotherhood, many of the men who are his admiring friends. The occasion was informal and enjoyable, and his reminiscences made good fellowship. His story of "The Blizzard Days at Old St. Stephen's" brought hearty and happy applause. Surely, as is often said by those who return, our loved church grips the hearts of all who come into its fold and never quite loosens the strings. G. H. S.

Parish Visitor's Report.

This month I have such a comforting story to tell that I am sure it will please all those who read it, particularly those who were interested in Mr. W.

About three years ago in my work in a tenement house I met and became interested in an old gentleman and his wife. They were both well educated, he having been instructor in a private school for young men in Falls River, Massachusetts,—a teacher of seven languages and other branches,—but through unfortunate business transactions, reverses, and ill health, he found himself at this time without means of support for himself and wife, though still able to teach or do almost any kind of work. It is hard to get work at seventy-nine. Alas, that years and experience should weigh so lightly in the balance compared with youth and inexperience!

I requested him to come to St. Stephen's Church and we did all we could to keep the wolf from the door and tried at the same time to interest different people in them so that odd jobs of work might come his way. The ladies of St. Stephen's Benevolent Society gave the wife sewing every week during the winter months, the husband coming for the work every Wednesday morning. One could not help being impressed by his general appearance, for he was always neatly clothed, although very, very poor. The ladies were very kind in sending him coal, groceries and other necessities.

We thought all their troubles ended when we learned of a legacy left in charge of a charitable organization to place a couple in a home, and this couple answered all the requirements. We were all delighted to hear of such a fine opportunity but they did not regard it as such; they would rather endure privation and precarious living than live in an institution and be under rules. It seemed as if they were coming up to a stone wall, but before reaching it a path was opened to them, and oh, such a pleasant way out; a path that led to the country, and a little home and flowers and birds and green things growing, and the shining sun and work that the old man loved, and the teaching of little children for the wife, which all brings in enough for their simple needs, and it came about in this way: A brother and a sister having an ailing brother who was always fretting and complaining that it was his work in the city that made him sick, put their savings together and bought a small farm and proceeded to place the brother and his family on it. The man worked one week and by that time was disgusted with country work and was glad to travel back and forth to the city to his old business.

The sister put the old couple in a tiny little house on the farm—the work does not overtax the man's strength, the house is comfortable and they are happy, which all goes to prove:

"There is a Destiny which shapes our ends, Rough hew them as we may."

and I in my blindness tried to rough hew the Destiny of those dear old people.

If positions and riches were found for all those who are able and willing to work, what a happy world it would be,—the best kind of charity is to make people self-supporting as we all know.

The Parish Visitor is very much in need of a strip of old carpet or rug for a poor crippled woman who has been confined to her room for a number of years. We think she takes cold from the floors being poorly laid and without covering, and very little fire in the house.

We would like to call attention to the Garment Society by telling the congregation that clothes of all kinds are very acceptable; also old linen or old muslin. At the present time we have four suffering people to supply and it takes considerable, as the physicians order all that is used to be burned, thus depleting our stock.

Concert.

On Wednesday evening, April 26th, at Griffith Hall, Miss Elizabeth Cleeman Clayton, soprano, will give a concert for the benefit of giving summer outings at St. Stephen's Farm. She will be assisted by the following artists: Mr. Horace R. Hood, baritone; Mr. Hedda Van Den Beemt, violinist, with Miss Marion C. Ritchie at the piano.

It is hoped that the congregation will give their hearty support to this worthy cause.

The A. K. Society.

On Thursday, April 20th, at 8 P. M., the young men of the Sunday School and members of the Alpha Kappa Society, will give an "Evening with the Minstrels," followed by their usual social festivities—an orchestra having been kindly offered for the occasion by Mr. Gibbs. The purpose is to provide funds for "Our Boys" on the Farm, and a contribution to Christ Home for Destitute Children. Cards of admission can be had from the members of the society, or Mr. Carrigan. Contributors of twenty-five cents or more will be cheerfully admitted. The concluding sketch, "The Daughter of the Regiment," will be worth coming miles to see.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle have their next meetings April 5th and April 19th, in Guild Room of Parish House, at a quarter of 8 o'clock.

The Lenten sewing goes slowly owing to the stormy evening at the last meeting. We are glad for visitors to help and spend a pleasant evening.

The Parochial Meeting.

The assemblage in St. Stephen's on Monday evening, April 24th, of over three hundred persons, all associated in one way or in another with the various institutional activities of the Church, was an inspiring sight. It was one which was literally instructive as well, for, after listening to the roll-call of the many helpful organizations connected with the parish, each auditor came away better equipped to answer the question, "What is St. Stephen's doing?" and convinced that "the returns" showed a grasp, in part at least, of the idea expressed recently in pungent phrase by a former Rector from its pulpit, when he said that the Christian religion was founded "for something more than that people might sit in pews on Sunday mornings."

Especially pleasant was it to see the meeting open with a long line of members of the Girl's Friendly Society marching up the aisle and into the pews, while singing, "The Church's One Foundation." After brief devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. Long, the reports of the parochial organizations were read in turn, in most instances by one of the officers of the society, and each had some distinctive quality of interest. The account given by Mr. Morris of the changes and improvements in the Burd School left an agreeable impression of the genuine home atmosphere enjoyed by its young charges, and of the stimulating effect created upon the older pupils by their admission to the strenuous competitive life of the public schools. The story of the excellent work done at St. Stephen's Farm during the past summer was equally interesting, as told by Mr. Ewing.

How far the candle of good influence lighted at St. Stephen's throws its beams among the young people was still further demonstrated by the reports, not only of the Sunday School, but of the Girls' Friendly Society, the Children's Friend Society, the Kitchen Garden, and the Boys' Club. Those who know one side only of the average urchin's nature should all have been present to hear Mr. Streaker tell how, in the midst of his work and play, the unsuspected spark of genuine religious feeling has been known to be struck from the seeming flint of boyish reserve. After the reading of the report of the Sunday School, the Rector repeated the statement which had been made by Mr. Long at the annual choral celebration held on the previous Sunday afternoon—that he had never, in the course of his entire experience, met with a more faithful body of teachers than those connected with St. Stephen's school.

What the church is doing for women along various lines of helpfulness was presented in the annual statements of the Benevolent Society, the Garment Committee, St. Stephen's Aid Society, and the Mothers' Meetings. The reports of the Altar Society, the Missionary Box Committee and the Woman's Auxiliary reviewed the work accomplished during the year. The report made by Miss Bell regarding contributions received to date for the Bishop Whitaker Memorial included the notable fact that the contributors numbered four-fifths women to one-fifth men. The review given by Mr. McKeehan of the endeavors to extend the Kingdom of God among men, as carried on by St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, referred to the impressive speakers and equally impressive audiences at the noon-day Lenten services, and struck the deeper spiritual chords in an appeal to all church workers to keep in sight the supreme ideal of service to God. The meeting was concluded by a brief address from the Rector, in which he spoke of prayer as a creator and renewer of spiritual energy, and of the almost irresistible power which would endow a church united in constant prayer for its members, its organizations, and its Rector.

Report of the Choir.

The Organist and Choirmaster reports of the past season as follows:

The choir at present numbers 17 singers, one having been lost since Easter of 1910, and four gained. This number was, as usual, augmented for the Easter afternoon music, twenty-one singers then taking part. The regular choir is composed of 6 Sopranos.

4 Contraltos.
3 Tenors.
4 Basses.

There have been no changes made in the first three quartets during the season.

Since the beginning of the late fall season, about one-half of the music used has been new to this church.

It has been and will continue to be the effort of the Organist and Choirmaster to hold as nearly as possible to the standards of music and execution reached by his distinguished predecessor and teacher.

Report of the Sunday School.

Since the report last year several changes and additions have occurred in the helping force of the School.

A beloved teacher in the Intermediate Department was called upon to relinquish her duties there on account of her marriage. Our regrets and good wishes were expressed to her on leaving. She was indeed beloved by her scholars, and was most efficient and faithful in her office. Mrs. Schoonover will long be remembered among us.

Mr. Howell, a teacher of a boys' class, found that it was impossible for him to reach the School in time and deemed it better for the class to relinquish it to another. It is now in the care of a young, but thoughtful and sincere teacher—a young man who has grown up in the School—Mr. Hein.

A new class was added recently, and Mr. Hepburn kindly volunteering to teach in the School, this class of younger boys was assigned him.

The vacancy occurring by the departure of the Intermediate teacher is being filled by Miss Edith Harper, aided by an assistant, Miss Leader—both of whom are most faithful.

An addition to what we might call the officers of the School was an addition desired by all the School, officers, teachers and scholars. But it was some time before Dr. Anthony could see his way clear enough to take upon him the added Sunday duty of not only leading the Sunday School in its singing but also in teaching us new hymns. The whole School is most thankful to have him.

Through the goodness and generosity of the Rector we have been provided with the music edition of the new Mission Hymnal. This is a splendid help to our service. So, with Miss Helen Harper still continuing to preside at the piano, we might say that the musical side of the Sunday School is thus at its best.

As a report of the Christmas entertainments was published in the PARISH NEWS at the time it is unnecessary to speak of them here; but I want to bear testimony to the self-sacrificing loyalty of those who have the responsibility of carrying the entertainments through with such success.

The sessions of the School are from October to the end of May, and a Summer School is continued through the intermediate months, in charge of the Assistant Superintendent, Mr. Streaker.

I am provided by the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Kirkpatrick, with the following as a summary of the statistics of membership and financial matters:

Number of Officers	6
Number of Teachers	20
Number of Scholars, Main School	143
Number of Scholars, Primary and Intermediate Departments	65
Total	234

This is exclusive of an Adult Bible Class, which meets Sunday afternoon, with a membership of 15.

Last year the Lenten Offering was $126.00, thus showing an increase this year of about nine dollars.

As the Lenten Offering of the Sunday School of St. Stephen's Chapel at the Burd School is for the same object, I might state that added to ours it makes the total for the Lenten Offering $154.13—the Chapel having contributed $19.53—a splendid addition for this one object.

On account of the transfer of the work of Grace Church from 12th and Cherry to 41st and Girard avenue, a number of Sunday School scholars of Grace Church Sunday School have joined themselves with us. We are glad to welcome them, and want to assure them that we will endeavor to make St. Stephen's Sunday School as real a home for them as doubtless their former school was.

The officers and teachers do not desire thanks from me for duties faithfully done, but I do wish to bear testimony at this time to the steady and conscientious discharge of the responsibilities which each one, I am entirely confident, regards as sacred.

This is our section of the Lord's vineyard. May we be consecrated more and more with the spirit of loving service, so that our part of the field may be cultivated to bring forth a hundred fold in the lives of those committed to our care. Respectfully submitted,

THE SUPERINTENDENT.

The Women's Bible Class reports that it has been meeting regularly since the middle of December, with an average attendance of from eight to ten members.

One of its older members, Louisa Wernecke, died in February.

Quite a proportion of the members have not missed more than one meeting, and as all are busy women this has been very gratifying to the leader.

ELIZABETH E. HOLMAN.

The Burd School.

On behalf of the Executive Committee of the Burd School, I desire to report that at the present time the school contains fourteen teachers and fifty-six pupils. In addition to this the school has also eight other workers to manage the housekeeping, farm and dairy work. The total income for the fiscal year amounted to $19,481.07, and the total expenses, exclusive of permanent improvements, amounted to $17,700.06, showing a surplus of $1,781.01—as against a deficit as shown in the preceding report made to the parish of $2,574.39. As was explained to the parish last year, this surplus, which is the first one appearing on the books of the Burd School for over twenty years was only obtained by a radical change in the entire management of the school. In addition, during the year, it has been necessary to make a large number of permanent improvements and by authority of the Vestry, the Executive Committee has expended from funds borrowed from the principal account, the sum of $12,800. Of this amount the saving on income has already permitted the committee to return to the principal account in repayment of this temporary loan the sum of $2,000.

All of the plans which were outlined in the previous report of the committee have been carried into effect and have added greatly to the efficiency and helpfulness of the school. The dormitories have proved a great success and the heating and plumbing systems have worked admirably and the school now has the appearance of a modern up-to-date boarding school.

We have had during the past year approximately ten applications for admission, but in all save two cases the girls were beyond the maximum age of entrance. This has again revived the question as to the possible enlargement of the age to meet modern needs and it is possible that we may obtain from the courts permission to accept girls up to twelve years of age where other conditions would seem to warrant such action.

The experiment last year of sending the older girls to complete their education at an adjoining public school in West Philadelphia has proved thus far an unmixed blessing. The girls get a better foundation than our means would permit us to give; they get outside the institutional atmosphere which cannot ever be wholly dissipated; they are thrown in contact and competition with other girls of their own age coming from normal American homes and all this has spurred their aspirations, enlarged their vision and brought back a larger and better spirit to the school. There are now thirty-three out of the fifty-six girls attending the public school and the balance are being educated in our primary and secondary departments, except those who are taking special courses in professional work. We are proud to report that a number of our girls are leading their classes in the public school and we are hopeful that all who compete will succeed in obtaining admission to the High School.

We believe that at no time in the history of the school has the physical condition of the girls been on the whole better. We have engaged a dentist on a yearly retainer who takes entire charge of the teeth of the girls and we have recently employed, under the supervision of Dr. Hewson, of the committee, a younger physician to examine carefully the girls from time to time and make recommendations in regard to individual cases as well as the diet, hygiene and sanitary conditions of the school as a whole. We have also instituted, at the suggestion of the Superintendent, a system of tabulated statistics which we hope will be of value in pointing out various new and better arrangements in the care of the girls.

Apart from the regular work the girls have had a number of entertainments planned by themselves, including a little woodland play by the primary children; a Christmas play and drill by the intermediate girls; weekly informal dances, as well as one or two more formal dances where the girls were permitted to invite approved friends and brothers. In addition to this Mr. Robert Boyd, Jr., gave an entertainment which was very much appreciated by all the girls; Mr. Frank Stephens on two occasions lectured with stereopticon views and told the girls Uncle Remus stories. In addition Miss Bell gave a most interesting lecture on Old Testament stories, and the Rev. Mr. Long gave an illustrated lecture on China.

It is proposed to have on the 23rd of June a regular school commencement which will include a reunion of the graduates of the school who have during the year, with real enthusiasm and interest organized themselves into an Alumni Association. The commencement exercises will be held on Saturday afternoon, June 24th, and a play will be given by the girls following the commencement exercises. A most earnest invitation is extended to all connected with St. Stephen's parish to hold that date open and be present at these exercises. There will also be a memorial service in memory of Mrs. Burd, on Sunday afternoon following the regular commencement exercises. To this service also all who are interested in the school are most cordially invited.

Respectfully submitted,

ROLAND S. MORRIS,

Chairman of the Committee on the Burd School.

The Burd School Sunday School.

The report of the Burd School Sunday School was omitted, through an oversight, at the annual exercises of the combined Sunday Schools of the parish on Sunday afternoon, April 23rd. We hope it may reach all those who are interested in our work at the Burd School, through the PARISH NEWS.

The Sunday School of the Burd School Chapel of St. Stephen's parish was organized just two years ago, for the benefit of the girls at the school and the children of Millbourne, the district lying round about. At present there are about 75 children regular in attendance in the Sunday School, about 20 of them being children from outside the Burd School. The school is divided into four departments or classes: the Senior, Intermediate, Junior and Primary classes. The Primary Class is taught by Miss Mildren, with Miss Helen Crockett, assistant. The Junior Class teacher is Miss Stevens, one of the teachers at the Burd School; the Intermediate Class is taught by Mr. Terry, who has given us his time during the past winter and helped so much to make our school what it is intended to be. The Senior Class is taught by Mr. Cummins. Miss Harnish must also be remembered for she has rendered valuable assistance in always being present at the Sunday School sessions, and acting as "Supply" in the absence of any of the teachers. She has given her time and counsel to the work of the Sunday School at all times and has helped to make the Burd Sunday School the success that we believe it to be. The girls are interested in the work of the school and attend the sessions with excellent regularity.

The school grows but slowly. As we have said, a number of the children from the neighborhood come in each Sunday morning and we are always glad to see them. An effort has been made to canvass the town of Millbourne and this may bring forth good results. Prizes, such as books, etc., are given for regular attendance once each year.

The school is serving its purpose, we believe, and is helping to teach those who attend, not only the stories and teachings of the Bible, but also some idea of the great Church of God to which they belong and its history and development. Occasionally talks are given on such subjects as "The Christian Year," "The Early History of the Church," and "The Teachings of the Sundays in the Church's Calendar."

The Sunday School needs teachers. If one or two more teachers could be had, our Sunday School would be greatly improved and we feel confident that the love and affection of the scholars will repay anyone for whatever trouble or inconvenience they might have to undergo in order to be with us.

We shall be very happy to welcome anyone who may care to visit our school on any Sunday morning at ten-thirty o'clock. The regular sessions of the Sunday School close the latter part of May and resume again the first of October. During the summer a short session is held each Sunday morning at the regular hour.

JAS. DIRICKSON CUMMINS,
Superintendent.

The Farm.

In the summer of 1910 we had 432 guests for an average stay of one week, and 370 for the day. The season was a very successful one, and the work done about the same as that of the previous year. In 1909 there were 460 guests, and 314 for one day. From these figures you will note that there were not quite as many permanent boarders, and more daily visitors.

We began the season last year with a debt of $386.00. This season a large beam in the barn gave way, and cost to repair between $200.00 and $300.00; so that we find ourselves, at the end of this season, with a debt of $1,095.88. We have for some time been satisfied that the farming part of our work was very expensive, and have this spring reorganized and rented the farm. The farm contains about 100 acres. We have reserved the large house, the land between it and the public road, and the woods. This is all that we need for our visitors, and we are in hopes that, having eliminated the expense of farming, we will be able to pay off our debt and keep within our means.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The Woman's Auxiliary has held six stated meetings during 1910-1911, with an average attendance of thirty-nine. The delegates have been faithful in their attendance at the monthly meetings of the Pennsylvania Branch, and have brought back interesting reports and many appeals; and have also filled the pledges expected annually from St. Stephen's Auxiliary. The Treasurer reports that $805.83 have been received and $718.35 been paid out to the different committees—Indians' Hope, Diocesan, Colored, Domestic and Foreign—leaving on hand a balance of $87.48, to be distributed among them as voted.

The Missionary Box Committee reports having sent a cassock and three boxes of clothing, etc., to clergymen in different States, at an expenditure of $268.82.

An opportunity to hear of foreign and domestic work from missionaries in the field was afforded the members of the Auxiliary at three of the meetings, at one of which Rev. Amos Goddard, of Shasi, China, told of conditions in that part of the country, and at another Rev. Charles E. Betticher, Jr., gave an animated account of his work in Fairbanks, Alaska, illustrated with colored slides, and at another meeting, Rev. John A. Staunton, Jr., drew a realistic picture of affairs in the Philippines at his station at Sagada. All of the speakers made the fact quite clear that it was the work of the Church they were doing, and it was the work of those at home to help in equipping the workers far afield. Thus, missions and means are indissolubly connected, and every one given a share in God's plan for the spread of the Gospel.

At the last meeting for the season, the members of the Mission Study Class discussed the problems confronting the Church in Japan. This class has been systematically studying the foreign missions of the Church for four years past, during Lent, and the quiet hours spent by them in the "upper room" have been fruitful in more frequent Bible study and prayer, in knowledge gained, in added offerings and in stimulated interest in all people and matters connected with missions.

An attempt was made to form a Junior Auxiliary, but conditions were not favorable at present, and it was not accomplished this year.

With the suggestion that every woman in the Church might feel that it is a privilege, a duty and a pleasure as well to attend the meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary, so as to know their missionaries and become familiar with their work, this report is respectfully submitted.

The Bishop Whitaker Memorial Fund for the building of St. Barnabas Church, collected from St. Stephen's parish, amounted to one hundred and forty-one dollars, and was handed over on the appointed date, May 1, 1911. This amount represented contributions from seventy-four members of the congregation, sixty-two of whom are women and twelve are men.

LAURA BELL,
Treasurer Memorial Fund from St. Stephen's

The United Offering.

The object of the United Offering is to assist the Board of Missions with the means to carry on woman's work in the mission field. It includes the training, testing, sending and supporting women workers, also the care of such workers when sick and disabled.

The amount contributed at the General Convention was $243,361.45, which has supported 160 missionaries in the Domestic and Foreign fields. $15,000 of this amount has been devoted to the erection of suitable buildings.

The offering for this purpose from St. Stephen's Church for the past three years was $415.50.

ANNA I. MAGEE,
Treasurer.

St. Stephen's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society.

The membership of the Girls' Friendly Society is not of rapid growth, as the admission of new members is often balanced by the loss through resignations, marriages and deaths. The membership is now:

Working Associates	10
Honorary Associates	22
Members	132
Probationers	4
Candidates	7
Married Branch Helpers	22
	197

As against 192 of last May.

I think I may speak with confidence when I say the members have spent a profitable and happy winter. The Millinery Class has been successfully carried on, taught by a member; and a class in German has for its teacher a member. The Elocution Class, though not large, is an enthusiastic one and one of the Associates has kindly held a class for making shirtwaists, assisted by our devoted Associate, Mrs. Hall. On May 1st, in the Sunday School Room, we had an exhibition to show the results of class work, and also the interests and studies of the different bands and the results were most encouraging.

One Monday evening, instead of our usual meeting, after tea, we attended the Young People's Jubilee Missionary Meeting, which was interesting and inspiring. On December 12th, a little play was given by the members of one of the bands, and, of course, we had our Christmas Festival of fun and good cheer. February 20th, a very creditable entertainment was arranged by the Senior members, for the benefit of the Indian orphan we support. The piece was written and staged by one of the members, and Dr. Anthony kindly assisted us. And as our girls are quite famous for their candy, a candy sale was held on the same evening. From the proceeds the members were able to send $30.00 to our Indian orphan, donate $25.00 to the Cape May Holiday House and $25.00 to St. Stephen's Farm, and $5.00 to Miss Hopwood for her work in China.

The Savings Bank reports 41 depositors and $235.65 in bank.

The members through Lent have been sewing, and on May 4th sent about 200 articles to the Diocesan Missionary Committee. About 20 garments have been donated.

The Married Branch Helpers met through Lent in the afternoons for the purpose of making booklets for the hospitals and sent 800.

Several services have been held in the Church, Dr. Grammer or Mr. Long officiating.

We have in the treasury at present a balance of $60.31, and out of that has to be paid our annual assessment.

I hope our readers will pardon so much detail, but I wish them to realize the life of the Society, and what it is trying to do in the way of bringing brightness and helpfulness into the lives of our girls. Above all we try to keep before us the best and truest standard of womanhood and are, we hope, bound together by the sweet cords of friendliness.

The Sewing School.

The Sewing School opened on the last Saturday in October with an enrollment of twenty-five girls. For the first three Saturdays we were seriously inconvenienced by lack of teachers, but Miss Harnish very kindly came to our aid by sending us three girls from the Burd School—Miss Mary Ashley and Miss Anna Mulcaster to teach in the Sewing School, and Miss Winifred Horscroft to provide the music for the kitchen garden. These young ladies have been most faithful and a very great help in this work.

The attendance has not been so large as that of last year, the average being about fifteen. The quality of the work is much improved and the amount accomplished quite satisfactory.

For the older girls who have now finished the model books and made an apron or petticoat or dressed a doll, we have planned to extend the length of the lessons next year and to instruct these girls in the use of the sewing machine and in making their own underwear.

We regret to have to report that the Saving Fund has not been so well supported as in other years except by a few, and we feel quite sure that the moving picture shows are largely responsible for this. We hope, however, to guard against this another year and to get all the children back to the good habit of saving their pennies and nickels.

Miss Wilkins has been coming in very frequently at the close of the lessons to talk with the older girls about the Girls' Friendly Society, for which they are candidates, so that they may understand the meaning and purpose of that organization. This has been a very good influence for them.

On the whole, I think we can note improvement and encouragement for a continuation of this work.

MARY E. EASTWOOD,
President.

The Kitchen Garden.

The kitchen garden which immediately follows the sewing class on Saturday mornings and is attended by the same children has added one new feature this year; raffia or simple work in basketry for those girls who had become proficient in the regular work of the class.

We hope these little girls have learned some lessons that will be of use to them in their homes and enable them to be of some help to their mothers.

A flutter of interested excitement was caused at our last meeting by the reading of the invitation to the little girls to attend the wedding of Miss Lineaweaver who organized and first taught this work several years ago.

Instead of the usual closing exercises in the Sunday School Room we will this year have an outing with lunch in Fairmount Park on the second Saturday in May.

MARY E. EASTWOOD,
President.

Parish Visitor's Report.

The winter of 1910 and 1911 has closed, we hope, in a manner satisfactory to all as far as our work and finances are concerned.

The number of unclassed poor people applying to the Church for assistance has been fewer than in former years, which proves, we think, that the army of the unemployed has been less.

Our work has been largely with those of whom we had knowledge; people with employment who, from sickness or slack in business or failure of a firm, have been thrown out of work for a time, but even that short time means much suffering and privation, and they have to be helped over it,—for with the high price of living, and the low wages received, there can be little if any money laid aside for a rainy day, with the great majority of the poor. It is a pleasure to note that these people are not pauperized by this occasional lifting of the burden, for as soon as they can, they are struggling to regain their footing and are gladly working as the opportunity presents itself, and although they may never apply for assistance again, or at least not for a long time, it is always given to them, or others as they need it.

The Sunday breakfast after the early communion service on special occasions has become an institution of our Church life. We have had four this year; one for the Brotherhood of St. Stephen's Church; one on Christmas Day; one for last year's Confirmation Class, and another on Easter Sunday, in order that those living at a distance from the Church could remain for the regular morning service and for Sunday School. Dr. Grammer gave a delightful and instructive little talk at the breakfast given to the members of last year's Confirmation Class. When he called the roll there was only one member from whom we did not hear.

Twenty dollars was given by a lady and her daughter as a memorial and, with their consent, it was given to a poor woman and her daughter. These two refined women had once lived in affluence but through illness and reverses were struggling with great misery and poverty, and never was money more gladly received or more appreciated.

Through the kindness of several men of the congregation, money was donated for clothing and other necessities for the support of three little orphan girls.

During the year, when milk was ordered by a physician and the family or families were too poor to purchase any, it was sent to them for months. Coal was furnished when it was absolutely needed and board was paid for two young girls for a short time while out of employment.

Fifty bushels of potatoes were distributed among a number of families. Groceries were also sent to the needy. Several air cushions were bought to help relieve pain, and medicine and delicacies were sent to the sick.

Many of the hospitals were visited as we had a number of patients in them.

The Sunday School and Sewing School scholars are visited from time to time. The women who obtain sewing from the Benevolent Society, also the women from the Mothers' Meeting (numbering 120) are always visited in times of sickness and death in the family.

The usual number of baskets were distributed on Christmas so that many poor families were assured of a good and substantial dinner.

The total amount of money received and distributed during the year was $275.00.

In concluding this, her Annual Report, the Parish Visitor wishes to add that the daily visits of help and encouragement will continue and when there is need, service will always be promptly given. Respectfully submitted.

K. H. Lewis.

The Garment Committee.

In sending my Annual Report, I should like to remind the congregation of St. Stephen's that there is such an institution in the parish as the Garment Committee. It may be that with the loss of many old members, the new members of the congregation are not sufficiently aware of the importance of this committee in the work among the poor and how many cases of distress it is called upon to relieve. There are many of the very worthy poor who prefer to pay the little they can afford for clothing and we accept this, no matter if it is but a small fraction of the cost of the garment. It cannot be called a profitable business, however, and I would like to appeal to the congregation for contributions, if they have not clothing to send, any small amount of money in lieu thereof, will be most gratefully received. There were four hundred and ninety-seven garments distributed by us during the winter, and assistance rendered to a great many most deserving families. I append my report of receipts and disbursements for the season of 1910-1911:

Grace V. D. Lucas,
Treasurer.

The following Wednesday the Society opened for work. The hospitals had been notified a week before that we were ready to receive articles. Last year we finished 3,153 garments, and towels, and this year only 2,348. This deficiency was explained when we looked into the hospital reports and found they had sent more difficult work. Last year the Pennsylvania alone sent us 700 towels at one time; this year a small number. We do not feel discouraged, as we have done finer work, and next year will ask for our share of towels.

Our attendance has been good, most of the women take a great interest in their work and we feel they give us their best, and the hospitals have written that our work is better than any they receive.

Our committee of ladies are most faithful, coming in bad as well as good weather, and when it was suggested to them to come two more days and make some articles for St. Stephen's Farm, they did not hesitate, and now we have ready to send, as soon as the house opens, 42 sheets, 84 towels and two dozen dusters.

We have lost two of our number, one who was very dear to us, by death, Miss Cleemann. At one time she was president of this Society; the other, Mrs. Cromburger is no longer able to help us. We miss her gentle presence.

Our President has been missed by the whole Society, and it is a great happiness to feel that next winter she will again be with us.

Cornelia L. Ewing,
Vice-President.

The Mothers' Meeting.

The first meeting of the Mothers was held November 3, 1910. There are 120 names on the roll book. There have been 22 meetings, with an average attendance of 67 members. There has been a great deal of sickness and some deaths among the members and their families during the winter. It is very gratifying to see the interest shown by the Mothers in all things connected with the members, especially in remembering the sick and those in trouble by sending from their Mite Box flowers and plants.

At their Annual Sale on December 3rd, they realized $101.75. The following distribution was made: To the Boys' Club, $10.00; Home for Aged Couples, $45.50, leaving a balance of $46.25 to be expended for necessary articles for the Farm. From the quantity of carpet rags contributed by them, were made 15 rugs for the Farm, and 72 yards of carpet donated to the Three Arts Room of the Parish House, all at a cost of $30.86, which was paid for by one of their friends.

Sixty mothers had their day's outing at the Farm, which they always look forward to with much pleasure.

All were remembered on Christmas Day, for which they express thanks to the Rector.

The special Communion Service held in the Church on the evening of Thursday in Holy Week, was well attended, some 75 Mothers being present.

The Provident Fund, five cents per week, to draw from in case of sickness, and the Saving Fund, are very helpful to all depositors.

Thanks are due to the many friends who entertained them with music, readings, and recitations, thus giving them many happy hours. The kind friend who gave them a fine treat of ice cream and cake, comes in for special thanks.

The great interest in the work shown by the two assistants and secretary has been fully appreciated. Respectfully submitted,

Mrs. Henry P. Taylor.

The Altar Society.

The Altar Society presents its twenty-seventh Annual Report:

The Superintendent of the Chancel Committee reports: A Fair Linen Cloth made for St. Stephen's Church. A member of the Chancel Committee presented eight gold book markers for the prayer books and hymnals used in the Chancel. The same member embroidered and presented a Credence Cloth. A special order was given by a member of the Altar Society for six stole collars as a gift to Dr. Grammer. The Superintendent also reports the installation of a Piscina, a stationary basin with running water for the cleansing of the Communion vessels. This has been placed in the room adjoining the vestry. The Chancel Committee has now fifteen members.

The Embroidery Class Committee reports having finished this year: One stole for the Burd School; white, red, purple and green book markers are being made for the school, but are not yet finished; work on the Pall has been continued. It is hoped that the members may be able to finish it next year.

The Treasurer of the Altar Society presents the following report, April 24th, 1911:

Balance on hand April 1, 1910	$1 52

St. Stephen's Aid Society.

The St. Stephen's Aid Society held its meeting on Friday mornings during Lent, the object of the Society being to provide baby garments to be distributed by Miss Lewis in her work among the poor of the parish. When it is taken into consideration that the work of the Aid Society is confined to the Lenten season, it is remarkable that so many garments are finished. This is largely due to the interest a few members manifest in this very necessary work. Four new members were welcomed to the Society this year and have helped to make it quite a successful season. Twenty complete outfits were made. The Treasurer reports $15.00 received from Dr. Grammer, and $5.00 each from two members, making a total of $25.00.

Bills paid	$24 34
Balance on hand	$ 66

E. K. Campbell,

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Stephen's, having secured its charter in February, 1910, is now over a year old, and with few exceptions its members are regular in attendance, meeting the first and third Sundays in each month after Sunday School.

The Rector has led them in two admission services in the Church, when the members were officially admitted. Though a few have dropped out, others have taken their places. Recently two were admitted on probation. Its members are interested and have entertained two other Chapters in a conference on the subject: "The Power of Prayer in a Boy's Life." On Easter Monday evening, the Junior Chapter of St. Andrew's Church, Eighth and Spruce, entertained us, with Incarnation Junior Chapter in a conference on "The Brotherhood Boy, His Example." It is most encouraging to see our members enter heartily into these discussions. Personal work is being done, and our members are making themselves useful as secretaries and assistants in the Sunday School as well as in ushering and other duties in the Church services, including the Noon-day Lenten Meetings. Recently they conducted a very successful evening service at the Galilee Mission, taking an active part in the speaking, reading of the Scriptures and in prayer; so that we can truly say the Chapter is full of progress. From their own funds they will make a contribution to the Philadelphia Local Assembly, and some of its members are planning for a visit to the National Convention of the Brotherhood at Buffalo in the fall.

GEORGE H. STREAKER,
Director.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

During the past year this Fraternity of the young men of the Sunday School has very much felt the sad death of its former presiding officer, Jurgen Knoop Kolb. His mother has left to their use and care his fine collection of books as a memorial of his keen interest in the society. Since his death the meetings have been called by the Chaplain and at each meeting, from those present, a presiding officer has been elected for the evening, thus giving all a chance at leadership. The other officers have remained unchanged, except Wm. Hammer, who has been elected to the office of secretary in place of Adam Hall, who resigned. It has well served its aim of fellowship and sociability by giving on December 8th, last, an entertainment entitled "Memories of the Good Old Summer Time," illustrated by lantern slides and moving pictures, arranged by its Chaplain. An orchestra was procured and members of the Girls' Friendly Society and the Sunday School were invited to enjoy the occasion. Recently it gave a minstrel entertainment and dance, including a sketch, "The Daughter of the Regiment." The same audience largely attended this event, which was heartily enjoyed and voted a success. It is planned to donate part of the net proceeds to Christ Home for Destitute Children. The proposed Shakesperean play was laid aside for this season, but a play is being planned for the fall. In order to assist these efforts in dramatic expression a new proscenium and interior scenery is badly needed, and it is hoped it may be obtained.

GEORGE H. STREAKER,
Chaplain.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

This organization of boys of our Sunday School, from nine to sixteen years of age, has had a promising year. It meets every Friday evening at seven o'clock; first, as a United States Senate for conducting its business and discussing questions of the hour; then, adjourning for an hour of athletic instructions under Mr. Fountain; these being followed by games. It occasionally meets on other evenings for games and athletic competitions. By reason of the Sunday School joining the Sunday School Athletic League, it was enabled to give its members swimming lessons at the Young Men's Christian Association during Christmas week and to take part in their athletic meets. It also takes part in the interchurch meets at Cooper Battalion Hall. On Friday, February 3rd, the boys gave a gymnastic exhibition interspersed with moving pictures and filled the Sunday School hall with their friends. From the proceeds they were enabled to pay off their indebtedness, including the fee to the physical instructor and the kind loan of Mr. Boyd. With their dues and subscriptions from the Rector's Fund, from Mrs. Taylor, the Mothers' Meeting, and kind friends, their treasury has a credit balance of $48.46, at this date, so that they are in prosperous condition.

G. H. STREAKER,
President and Treasurer.

To the Boys.

Mr. Cummins, the Lay Reader of the parish, is interested in an excellent boy's camp on Lake George, among the Adirondack Mountains, and desires to hear from, and meet if possible, any boys, or parents, who are interested in anything of this kind. Mr. Cummins is personally acquainted with the conductor and owner of the camp, and expects to be one of the counsellors. He will be glad to call upon, or talk with, anyone who would like to hear of this camp. A catalogue will be sent upon request. He may be seen at the Vestry Room after the four o'clock service on any Sunday afternoon, or communications may be addressed to J. D. CUMMINS,
Philadelphia Divinity School,
5000 Woodland Ave.,
Philadelphia.

Mr. Cummins has been with the St. Stephen's boys on the Farm for the past two summers.

Children's Friend Society.

This Society is well known in St. Stephen's Church for the pleasure it has given to so many poor children, both in the parish and in the smaller streets of the city.

In the winter time about 250 children were entertained by Mr. Reynolds with moving pictures.

In the summer they are taken on excursions to the Park, the number of outings during the past year having been less than in former years, on account of there being not so many dollars to spend, as many of the kind friends who were always interested in these children have died.

Our Rector has kindly promised $30.00, so we hope to give more little ones an outing.

FINANCIAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR.

Dues from members during the year	11 75
For Thanksgiving Baskets	2 00
For Christmas Baskets	3 00
		$83 57
Expended during the year		$72 32
Balance		$11 25

Donations have been given during the past year to the Willing Day Nursery, on Pine street; to St. Stephen's Farm; to Miss Lewis, for her poor; to the Country Week Association; to the "Sheltering Arms"; also flowers have been sent to the sick. The Lenten sewing has not yet been all distributed.

Shoe Fund.

Money received from Church Fund (through Dr. Grammer)	$25 00
Donations received	6 50
Received from those who were furnished with shoes	26 00
		$57 50
Expended during the year		$56 75
Balance		$ 75

Received at Christmas one large box of shoes and one box of overshoes.

Have given out shoes, mostly to our own parish, 140 pairs of shoes and 100 pairs of overshoes.

This has been a most encouraging year, with shoes for all who applied, and who have been grateful, and glad to help others by paying a small sum for what they received.

A Musical Event.

On Wednesday evening, April 26, an event of interest to St. Stephen's people occurred in the form of a recital given by Miss Elizabeth Cleemann Clayton, for the benefit of the Farm. Miss Clayton was assisted by Mr. Horace R. Hood, baritone; Miss Hedda Van Den Beemt, violinist, and Miss Marion C Ritchie at the piano. The large audience which filled Griffith Hall were well rewarded for their trouble, for the music was all of the highest order, and the entire performance was one of surpassing merit. The proceeds, which have been donated to the Farm, amounting to over $400, testify to the success of the evening. Miss Clayton and her assistants deserve much credit and are to be heartily congratulated for the admirable entertainment which they provided for their guests.

Sunday School Athletics.

The athletic Inter-Church Meet at Cooper Battalion Hall, on Thursday evening, May 4th, under the leadership of our Physical Instructor, Mr. Fountain, was a success. Our boys were delighted when Turner, of our Sunday School, though handicapped two inches, agile as a deer, beautifully cleared the bar in the high jump, and won the medal; then amid hearty applause made an exhibition record of 5 feet 4 inches. This inspired our athletes and we went on to success: James Mearns won first place in the 35-yard dash; Wm. Kunzer got third place in the quarter mile run; Luther Fisher got a medal, as well as Turner's younger brother; Carl Powers got first prize in the potato race, and Harry Dodge a third place in the dash of 35 yards, with William Reed doing finely in the half-mile run; so that with the bringing home of so many medals, our athletic work is progressing.

Anniversary of the Sextons' Association.

The seventh anniversary of the Protestant Episcopal Sextons' Association of the Diocese of Pennsylvania was held in St. Stephen's Church on Tuesday, May 9. The exercises opened with a celebration of the Holy Communion at 9 o'clock, followed by a business meeting, at which the following officers were elected: President, F. H. Simonds, of St. Matthias' Church; vice-president, James Carrigan, of St. Stephen's; secretary, Edwin Andrews, Prince of Peace Chapel; treasurer, James Dawson, Incarnation; trustees, Messrs. Taylor, Needham, Andrews, Wilkinson, and Schneidt. At one o'clock the meeting adjourned for luncheon, at which a number of the clergy were present as guests. Dr. Grammer presided as toastmaster, and interesting speeches were heard from the following: Rev. Dr. Floyd Tomkins, Rev. Dr. Charles C. Pierce, Rev. Henry M. Medary, and Rev. C. Rowland Hill. Mr. George H. Streaker, of our own church, spoke on behalf of the laymen, and Mr. Andrews, the secretary of the Sextons' Association, represented that organization in an interesting speech which told of the purpose and aims of the Association. The business meeting was continued during the afternoon, and the session closed with a theatre party in the evening.

King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle will have their next meeting May 17th, in the Guild Room of the Parish House, at 8 o'clock.

The Rector's Letter.

MY DEAR FLOCK:

I know of no better term for you than a flock, for it indicates the elements in our relation that are of enduring value I like to think of myself as a shepherd—an under-shepherd. Not that I mean thereby to claim any great disciplinary power over you, and subtilely to suggest that I bear the staff of discipline, for co-ercive jurisdiction has largely ceased to be exercised in our Church. Those who are not in sympathy with the ethical ideals and standards of Christianity feel uncomfortable in the communion of the Church drop out of it of their own accord. Likewise they who have ceased to accept the great pivotal truths of our Faith voluntarily abandon, as a rule, its worship, or any participation in our most sacred rites. The disciplinary power of the keys in our Church is really wielded by the public opinion of the Christian communion operating on the individual conscience.

Neither do I like the name because the shepherd is an autocratic leader—rules the flocks without collecting the votes of the sheep, for I believe that one of the greatest needs of our Church is a livelier sense on the part of the communicants and worshippers that as members of the congregation they have responsibilities and rights, that the Vestry are their chosen agents, and that they are each members of a religious club. We need less narrow parochialism, that restricts its sympathy to the parish and more active congregationalism, in which the congregation refuses to throw the duty of worship, praise, prayer or giving, on a few, and each member individually assumes his or her full measure of responsibility—responding in the prayers, taking part in the singing of the hymns, and contributing regularly to worthy objects.

What commends the term flock to me, is that it emphasizes my duty to care for you, to walk before you in the right way and to provide for your spiritual nourishment. It emphasizes in a way that ought to have a helpful effect upon me, the user of such speech, that it is my duty to serve and help you—that this duty constitutes the reason for my relation to St. Stephen's.

Of course it will be very difficult to effect this object unless we are personally friends, and therefore it is in a subsidiary and a subordinate way my duty to please each one of you, as far as I can, and your duty to meet me half way, but nevertheless it must be always borne in mind that such friendship does not exhaust by any means the purpose of our relation. For instance, as a teacher it is not always my duty to say pleasant things, nor even to speak comforting and consolatory words: my duty is to speak the truth, as God has given me to see it, in so far as it is for edification, for the word of truth must be rightly divided. Our influence on one another must reach back behind the social life to the soul life, the true life.

It is a source of thanksgiving to me that in these past years we have made some progress towards establishing relations of friendship in the congregation. I know you far better now than some years ago and I believe that the members of the congregation are more generally acquainted. This has been largely brought about by fellowship in Christian work in our various organizations. As far as possible everyone should join some society in the Church. Why should not every woman belong to the Woman's Auxiliary? Why can not every man enroll himself in some department of service? In this way the work would be lightened for the faithful people who now serve, and could also be extended.

I am convinced that the Envelope System has done good in making every one who has taken a package realize that he has a part—lot in this matter, and so extended the sense of fellowship. Let us now see if we can not utilize this good feeling by bringing in others, and by seeking to help one another.

One way in which every one should try to co-operate is by regular attendance at Church on Sunday. It is wonderful how much the service is improved if there is a good congregation of earnest worshipers. Let us not forsake the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is. Even after Goldwin Smith had lost his faith in some of the chief distinctive historical or doctrinal teachings of Christianity he continued to go to Church for the sake of the devotional impulse he received from common worship. It made him feel both the needs of the soul and the solidarity of mankind.

There must be something wanting in our hearts if we are not helped by common worship. Nor do I believe that it is easy to lead the Christian life without hearing sermons or taking part in Christian ordinances.

But I am not emphasizing that side of Church going now. I am pleading for it, as a contribution to the general welfare and an aid to the general devotion. There have been few customs more hurtful to the due observance of Sunday, or as the early Christians reverently called it the Lord's Day, than the custom of having week-end parties. We need to protect our day of worship and to form regular habits of Churchgoing.

After an unusually long vacation, I return, I am thankful to say in good health, bringing all my family with me to these shores. I feel that in spite of our national weaknesses and our civic shortcomings and failures it is good to be an American, and after attending the services of our Mother Church in England, I feel that if the mother is fair, the daughter is fairer, and it is good to belong to the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. May we have a happy and useful year of work together.

Inasmuch as you have brought me into this community, you will be interested, I doubt not to learn of some philanthropic activities in which I am taking part. It has always been a conviction with me, that a minister ought to help in some cause, in addition to his own particular task, in which necessarily his own personal welfare is to some extent involved. So I accepted on my arrival in this city an election to the Executive Committee of the Indian Rights Association; for I have always been profoundly interested in the backward races. Later on when a divergence of opinion arose in the society, as to the right course to be pursued, I was asked to be president as the representative of a more aggressive policy, and I have held the office for three years. During this period we have secured an important legal victory, and delivered from a military prison Indians who were held in imprisonment at hard labor by the Commissioner, Mr. Leupp, without any trial, civil or military, and so have established the right of Indians to the protection of the law; we have secured a change of agent in an important reservation in Montana; numerous schemes to defraud the Indians have been exposed; better terms for them as to lands and concessions have been obtained; and just in the last month, through zeal and ability of our agents, Mr. M. K. Sniffen and Mr. Brosius, we have secured the dismissal of J. B. Alexander and five assistants, and delivered from their malign influence and unscrupulous exploitation about 6,000 Indians. It is a very great victory that must tone up the whole Indian Service. We are indebted to the new Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Fisher, and to the Commissioner, Mr. Valentine, for their action in this matter, but it is not too much to claim for the Indian Rights Association the merit of inaugurating the investigation and of contributing to the solution that never would have been so triumphant a vindication of justice, and so complete a deliverance of the injured without its co-operation. The return of Mr. Herbert Welsh to this country from a seven months' sojourn abroad will greatly stimulate this organization of which he is the founder, and will lighten my responsibilities this year.

Another organization to which I give whatever time I can spare is the Armstrong Association for the Uplift of the Colored People of Philadelphia. Mr. John T. Emlen is the secretary, and has made this association a real power in the city. We have meetings in the colored churches, and seek in every way to aid the colored people to secure a training that will fit them to play a useful part in our civilization, and preach to them the gospel of thrift and efficiency, in season and out of season. I am also the president of the Church League for Work Among the Colored People, so you see that through various organizations I am in constant contact with the problems set our Christian civilization by the presence of these backward peoples.

I do not believe that such activities interfere with my work in the parish to any extent, and I am sure that it is the duty of the Christian Church to make its influence felt on these questions. I know of no other way for the Church to bring this influence to bear except by the personal activities of her members on these fields. An international convention was held in London this past summer to consider in all its bearings this "race problem" which is more and more engaging the attention of the scientists, publicists, statesmen and philanthropists of the world. The statistics that are being gathered are of great value, for direction of energy, but the only creative source of energy that has been disclosed is the religion of love and service. More and more am I convinced that without the religion of Jesus Christ, in its unselfish methods and pure morality, these peoples will be degraded and destroyed by the advance of our civilization upon them.

Affectionately yours,

CARL E. GRAMMER.

The Church Work Fund.

The annual appeal for The Church Work Fund is now made to all who can and will contribute to this useful fund. Out of it is published the PARISH NEWS, by it is procured a teacher for the Embroidery class, flowers are provided for the services, advertisements are inserted in the papers, necessary printing and typewriting are paid for, contributions are made by the Rector to the various societies, and the general work is maintained and stimulated. There has been made no provision by the Envelope System for any of these purposes, and the Rector needs this official purse just as much as before that system was introduced.

Fifteen hundred dollars is needed and I hope that all the former subscribers will contribute, and that new members will make some contribution also. Checks or money should be sent to the Rector. I cannot too earnestly repeat that the Envelope System provides no money for the purposes met by this fund and these ends are essential—with but slight modification—to the usefulness of the parish.

CARL E. GRAMMER.

St. Stephen's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society desires to express its sorrow at the death of Mrs. J. Edgar Johnson. After several years of suffering, she passed away this summer. Mrs. Johnson organized St. Stephen's Branch of the G. F. S. many years ago, and as long as her strength permitted, freely gave of her time and energy to further its interests. She had the Society's welfare near her heart, first as Branch Secretary, and then as Treasurer. A faithful and devoted Associate, she will long be remembered by the older associates and members. To her husband, the Rev. J. Edgar Johnson, the sincerest sympathy is extended in his bereavement.

The Farm.

The season which has just closed marks fourteen years since the opening of St. Stephen's Farm—June 14, 1898.

In reviewing the work of the past year, it might be well to mention the new plan of renting the Farm, which has been tried this year with the hope of eliminating the expense of farming. Although this arrangement has not been entirely satisfactory, at any rate, it has proved a great saving of money, which is very important; and it is to be hoped the plan, undoubtedly a good one, may later be perfected, for it has been proven to the entire satisfaction of those in charge that the Farm can be run independently, with little or no inconvenience to the farmer.

This past season there was an average of 457 guests for a stay of one week, and 287 extra meals were served. The guests were for the most part members of the Girls' Friendly Society, who came as usual over the Fourth of July, and Labor Day, members of the Mothers' Meeting with their little ones, who found the Farm the same restful spot, a number outside the Parish, and last but not least, the Boys of St. Stephen's, thirty strong, who were unfortunate in having a whole week of rain, and were obliged to remain indoors; but on the whole they were a pretty good lot, and managed not to be very miserable, although they were deprived of the usual outdoor sports.

In consequence of the increased cost of living, it was found necessary to raise the rates from three dollars to four dollars per week, for those outside the Parish. This additional charge was cheerfully met, and proved quite profitable.

It is generally agreed that this past summer has been exceptionally warm, and the Farm, so beautifully situated among hills, woods and fields, proved a most comfortable spot during the heated season. A number of our people had been ill and were very weak, and a few felt they could not have lived had they been obliged to remain in the heat of the city. All, however, returned refreshed in mind and body, and many were the expressions of gratitude and appreciation for the Farm and its comforts.

The pleasures too, were thoroughly enjoyed, not only the exciting straw ride and the sports on the lawn, but the quieter delights of a walk along the country road; a visit to the beautiful winding Neshaminy, and an outing to Easton by members of the Girls' Friendly Society, are also pleasant memories.

This past year great interest has been shown by the various societies of St. Stephen's in helping the work. The Mothers' Meeting expended $46.00 for glassware and china, a new hammock, a tennis net, table linen, and a number of articles which were very much needed. The contribution from the Benevolent Society of single sheets, towels and dusters, made glad the hearts of the house mothers. The Girls' Friendly Society beautified their room by the addition of new matting, and furnishings for the bureau. The King's Daughters also added to the furnishings of their room, and other friends sent gifts of books, hammocks and fruit for preserving.

Through the kindness of Mr. Wm. H. Hollar, fire extinguishers were placed on each floor, thus ensuring greater safety in case of fire.

The needs of the Farm for the coming year are many. Several of the rooms need new paint and paper, and a carpet for the parlor has now become a necessity; also a rag carpet for the sitting room would be very acceptable.

It has been suggested by the G. F. S. that this coming winter, they bend their energies toward raising money for a bathing pool, (which would be a very great pleasure as well as a blessing) or a sleeping porch. These are matters for consideration in which no doubt the friends of the Farm will be very much interested.

When we think of the lives made brighter, and the number who have been benefited and made stronger, and who eagerly look forward to their visit each year, the thought that comes to us is that the undertaking is indeed worth while, and what seemed at the beginning merely desirable, has now at the close of the fourteenth year, become a necessity. E. D.

The Summer Sunday School.

This summer after several sessions in June, we made an interesting experiment, hoping thereby to make our Sunday School lessons more attractive by use of lantern illustrations. We screened the windows around the platform and got fairly good pictures even in the morning light. Our general subject being, "The Early Missionary Heroes of the Church," from St. Paul, Ignatius and Polycarp, to those "Soldiers of the Cross" of Mediæval times, we succeeded in a measure by using colored lantern slides. In July we tried to improve, and introduced moving pictures, "Noah and the Deluge," "The Life of Moses" and "The Life of Christ." It meant much effort to get the needed reels and we used in all, eight to ten thousand feet of film. Moving picture reels of the proper subject are difficult to get, particularly at the time you want them to illustrate a special subject, and while there was some crudity, on the whole the experiment was valuable and instructive.

As the summer advanced many went away on vacations and the school dwindled some. The attendance of the boys, strange to say, was far in the majority during mid-summer. Probably a hundred scholars were at the opening session in June and about the same number at the last session, September 24th.

Our Summer School has the advantage of being a sort of clearing house for the Farm Outings, where scholars can come for endorsement of applications for the valued privilege of a vacation there. It is encouraging to see more scholars enjoying the Farm than ever. It was the writer's opportunity, in the Open-air Meetings which he held on the Farm Lawn every Sunday evening at twilight during July and early August, thus to keep in touch with the scholars and so keep our Sunday School work continuous and connected, both in the School and on the Farm.

The Boys' two weeks at the Farm (averaging some thirty boys present) was of course a success in spite of seven days of rain. Coming as they do from our Boys' Club and Sunday School, it gives their leader a chance to get the personal touch, in these two weeks of life lived together, which could not otherwise be had. So I most heartily express our hearty appreciation to the House Mother for her many kindnesses, to the Farmer for his help and to the Vestry and the kind friends, all, who assist in giving this out-of-door blessing,—so valuable to all who go and to our Summer Sunday School. G. H. Streaker.

The Boys' Church in the Woods.

This summer, this institution of our Farm Outings, now in its fifth year, had but a few sessions. The twilight Sunday evening services on the Farm lawn seemed to fit in better. Its first session held in our beautiful woodland, Sunday afternoon, August 20th, was well attended, with our good friend Mrs. Taylor, a number of guests and all the boys present. Mr. Cummins gave us a good address. Its second session, owing to heavy rain on August 27th, was transferred to the Farm living room. John Mearns, of our Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew, was the reader, with Harry Dodge, of our Sunday School, as soloist, and Carl Powers, of our Junior Brotherhood, was the preacher, his text being "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and favor with God and man." Preaching to one's fellows is not easy, but the many boys who made up the congregation were attentive and reverent. This meeting was an advance especially encouraging to the writer.

Though the boys were not present at the closing Woodland service, September third, yet in their name it was held and several hundred were present. Mrs. D. D. Wood was our soloist, and she surely felt the beauty of the scene, judging from the sweet, inspiring tones from her hymn of praise. Rev. J. J. D. Hall and Dr. Albert Oettinger both made stirring addresses. Nor shall we forget the special prayer and hymn by the many members of our Girls' Friendly Society who were present. Our seating capacity was too small—the children from Christ Home, the neighbors and visitors in carriages and automobiles, came in such large numbers that the Christ Home people had to come to our rescue with the hurried loan of more benches. Thus encouragingly closed our Woodland Meetings for the summer.

Parish Visitor's Report.

As the Parish Visitor reviews the results of the past summer's work among the needy, the sick and the infirm, she feels convinced that there is almost, if not quite as much distress, (though from different causes) as in the winter.

With a limited purse, in the absence of our Rector and most of my generous supporters, I have sometimes wondered how it was possible to help all who needed assistance. Money, however, while being necessary, is not always the most essential.

I submit a letter from a woman whom I found in the depths of trouble and despondency. It will tell its own story better than I can, and without watchful care and sympathy, money would not have been sufficient to restore her to health and self-confidence:

Dear Miss Lewis:

I came back from St. Stephen's farm yesterday and feel and look so much better. I gained several pounds while away. It is hard to realize that I am the same desperate hopeless creature who came to you only seven weeks ago.

I had been in a melancholy condition for a year past, and gradually my energies became utterly paralyzed. I was forced to resign my position in a large mercantile house some time ago, as I could not concentrate my mind upon my work, and as I am entirely dependent upon myself the only way to get money was to sell piece by piece, my clothing and several pieces of jewelry.

At the time I met you I was completely destitute and I know I was in a very dangerous mental condition. I had not had sufficient nourishment for several months and on one occasion was without food for sixty hours. I did not know of the temporary home and other charities intended for women in my helpless condition; I thought people without home or money had to go to the Alms House, and I had not the courage to do that. So I feel, dear Miss Lewis, that your kind help has saved me from starvation or insanity, for I don't believe I could have held out one day longer.

I am happy to say I start to-morrow in my new position in a large retail house.

With heart-felt thanks for your kind sympathy and help, will close.

Since sending this letter the writer is doing beyond our expectations. She is holding a good position with a very fair salary, which is sufficient to meet her expenses. The mental strain was so great that the Parish Visitor still has her under her care.

A whole family in distress and sickness was cared for during nine weeks before the heavy cloud was lifted from their horizon, besides many isolated cases, so that the Parish Visitor feels she has much to be thankful for that her Heavenly Father has shown her a way out of difficulties which at first, seemed almost insurmountable. K. H. Lewis.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The first meeting of the winter, held on October 19th, was interesting despite the fact that there was no regular speaker and that several of the committees had no meeting to report.

Clothing is needed by the Mission at Cape Mount, Africa, and linen by the Hospital at Anking, China.

Last year land was secured for St. Paul's University in Tokio, and now $150,000 is needed for buildings and equipment.

The Bishop Whittaker Memorial Fund still lacks $1,200 of the amount decided upon.

This year Pennsylvania's apportionment for Missions has been raised to $158,000. St. Stephen's sent $200 to the United Offering last year and hopes to do better this winter. Eleven dollars have been received, and contributions may be given to Miss Anna Magee, the chairman of the committee who has this work in charge.

The Missionary Calendar, containing interesting facts about the Mission work of the Church arranged for every day in the year, has been reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents. Last year 3,000 copies were sold, but there is already an advance order for 6,000 copies this year. An edition of 10,000 copies is being printed.

The Missionary Box Committee starts the winter in a flourishing condition, with $459.73 in the treasury. It is particularly glad to have this money on hand now so that boxes may be sent before the cold weather finds families of missionaries unprepared.

The Annual Meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in Holy Trinity church, on November tenth.

The November meeting of St. Stephen's Branch will be held as usual, on the third Thursday of the month at eleven o'clock. Mrs. Wetmore will tell of her work among the Negroes in the South.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement.

Begun in this city in September, the "Men and Religion Forward Movement" is now actively at work, not only here but in ninety of the large cities, as well as in hundreds of the smaller ones. The National Committee of Ninety-seven has been at work many months completing an immense and comprehensive plan for the winter's campaign. In Philadelphia, the local Committee of One Hundred, of which our Rector is one, is now in full swing. Over $40,000 of the required $50,000 necessary to finance the organization, have been raised. The Movement proposes by means of a thoroughly considered plan, a great advance in vital Christian effort. It seeks to assist each church: (1) to bring the largest possible number of men and boys into its membership; (2) to greatly increase the enrollment in Bible classes; (3) to continue the Missionary emphasis; (4) to demonstrate that social service is an essential part of Christianity; (5) to arouse boys to their religious obligations.

In consequence when the year's campaign has passed, the success of the movement will be measured by the extent to which its plans and inspiration have stimulated men and boys within each local church. In order to get vitally in contact with the individual church, the city has been divided into twenty districts, with an interdenominational committee in each district to secure the co-operation of the churches and to further the interests of the Movement in that section.

We are in the seventh district, of which Rev. F. DeWitt Talmage, Rev. J. J. J. Moore, Mr. Homer L. Pound, Mr. Asa S. Wing, and G. H. Streaker, are on the interdenominational committee.

It is desired that this district committee keep in touch with a delegation of five men in each church who are willing to help in the activities above mentioned and to secure for their own church the benefits of the Movement. To that end Dr. Grammer has appointed a delegation of five men from St. Stephen's, namely: Mr. William H. Hollar, Mr. George H. Streaker, Mr. Robert T. Boyd, Mr. Abram Tatnall, and Mr. Charles K. Gibbs.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Annual Meeting of the Local Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of this Diocese, usually held on St. Andrew's Day, will this year be held on Wednesday, November 29th, afternoon and evening, at the Church of the Saviour, 38th and Chestnut street. Bishop Rhinelander is expected, and a memorial to Mr. Kline will be unveiled. All Senior and Junior members are cordially invited.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate met at 7 P. M. the first Friday in October to resume their regular meetings. Mr. Fountain, as leader of Physical Instruction, will gladly welcome all boys of St. Stephen's into his Friday evening classes, both seniors and juniors, from 8 to 10 o'clock. The Senate meets promptly at 7.15 P. M.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

The young men of the Alpha Kappa will meet informally on Friday evenings as usual to plan for their social meetings and dramatic events of the coming winter.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An Informal Dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church, will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday evening, November 14th, 1911, in the banquet room of the City Club, 1418 Walnut street, at seven o'clock.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this Dinner. The price of the Dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to Mr. William H. Hansell, chairman of committee, 904 Provident building, Philadelphia.

Children's Friend Society.

Donations received in June, July, August and September:

From	Mrs. A. F. Martin	$ 4.00
"	Mrs. H. P. Taylor	2.00
"	Mr. W. H. Hollar	5.00
From	Mrs. Charles E. Milnor	1.00
"	Rev. Charles E. Milnor	1.00
"	L. M. C.	5.00
(From church through Rev. Mr. Long)		30.00
Total		$48.00
Expended during the Summer		20.43
Balance		$27.57

The children enjoyed their outing to Sedgley Park very much; some of the young ladies from the Sunday School assisted the ladies in entertaining them, and in playing games, and many of the children sang and recited and told of the good time they had in the country during the summer. They were told of the death of one of their little friends who had always made it pleasant both on the excursions and at entertainments by her songs and recitations, little Clara Katz. Her death is deeply regretted by all.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

The King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle held their first meeting October 4th, in the Guild Room of the Parish House, quarter of 8 o'clock. Will be glad to have anyone join in our good work this winter.

Shoe Fund.

Donation received during the summer from Mrs. H. F. Martin, $1.00.

The Sunday Evening Song Service and Social Hour.

On November the 12th, the Rector had his first Sunday evening of song and fellowship in the Parish House. It was a rainy night, the waters coming down in floods, and the Sunday School teachers who had agreed to take supper together in the Parish House in connection with their monthly meeting, were quite willing to remain awhile afterward and help to make the occasion a success. Some friends joined them, and as Mrs. Wood and Dr. Anthony were present to lead the singing the evening was much enjoyed. About twelve persons came in, and the whole company spent a profitable and pleasant hour or more together. The whole number present was thirty-two.

On the next Sunday, Nov. 19, there were no teachers to swell the party, and the attendance of 23, though smaller, was a better proof of the need of such a social hour.

On the third Sunday, Nov. 26, without any special invitations except two or three and an invitation to Miss Denny's class, the numbers rose to 48.

On the evening of Advent Sunday, in spite of the rain, the attendance was 37. The Rev. Mr. Miller was present and spoke some helpful words.

The indications are, therefore, most encouraging that a rich field has been found. All around us are people living in boarding houses, or in the far more isolated life of apartments, or rooms, and here in St. Stephen's Parish House will be open to them a pleasant hour and a half of Christian fellowship, such as obtains on Sunday evenings in countless Christian homes. There is no formality, hymns are sung; there is social converse, and the evening is brought to a close at about 9 o'clock by some words from the Rector and a brief prayer. The service will last from 7.30 to 9 every Sunday. It is held in the room on the second floor of the Parish House.

The annual reminder is now in order to considerate and thoughtful people to get through their Christmas shopping, if possible, early in December. Such early shopping will confer a double gift and be the means of giving a real Christmas to the clerks in the great stores and to the drivers.

A special confirmation service has been promised by Bishop Garland for Dec. 19, and any candidates who failed to be present at the last Confirmation, and would like to embrace this opportunity are invited to speak to the Rector.

The Sunday afternoon addresses will be on lessons from the lives of Great Saints of the Church. The opening lecture was on Ignatius, the zealous martyr. The second will be on Polycarp, the disciple of St. John. The series will come down the centuries in chronological sequence, and the treatment will bring out the Christian graces of these heroes of faith rather than their systems of thought or views on Church government. It is a great defect in the popular religious knowledge that with most Christian people the whole period from Paul to Luther has hardly any religious meaning and message. While they are not as ignorant as the expounder of the Scriptures, who explained that Ananias was the local preacher at Damascus in the days of St. Paul, still their views of Christian life and experience are almost as crude. It is undoubtedly a source of strength to Romanism that it teaches its members, history of the Church. Ecclesiastical history will be made subordinate in these addresses to the biography of the great characters discussed, but it will necessarily be taught in some measure. The chief aim, however, will be practical edification from the good examples and inspiring lives of those who were choice vessels of grace and the lights of the world in their several generations.

On Tuesday, Nov. 28th, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew began its course of study of the Prayer Book. Barry's Teacher's Prayer Book was taken as the text-book. Dr. Grammer was the teacher for the first evening and gave a brief outline of the history of our liturgy, of the various Uses, of the two Prayer Books under Edward VI., and pointed out the special features in the Collects, Epistles and Gospels for the next two Sundays. Much interest was shown. The next meeting of the class will be on Tuesday, Dec. 11. Such a study is certain to make more intelligent Christians, and increase the interest in the services.

The clergy should be consulted before the arrangements are made for funerals. They are willing to make every effort to meet the wishes of the bereaved family, but they often have previous engagements that must be kept. All difficulties could be avoided by prior consultation. A competent funeral director, like Mr. Joseph Clayton, knows of this rule, and will advise the family properly. The clergy always feel assured that all arrangements will be rightly made when Mr. Clayton has charge of a funeral. C. E. G.

Christmas Dinners.

The distribution of Christmas baskets is a well known incident in the work of St. Stephen's Church, and needs no words from me to commend it. I want to say that one hundred and twenty-three baskets were filled last year with eleven substantial articles in each, and I am confident that this year the funds will be contributed to supply at least as much. It is necessary to know at least three days ahead the amount of money at the disposal of the committee for this purpose. May I, therefore, ask that the contributions be forwarded on or before the 22nd. If checks or money be sent directly to the chairman, Rev. Robert Long, with the name of the sender, it will prevent possible confusion at such a busy season. Names are, of course, private.

ROBERT LONG, Chairman.

I wish to add a word of endorsement to this appeal. These baskets have become a regular feature of our work, and any failure in their provision would bring trouble to many humble homes. What could be sadder than for wistful and hungry children to gather at such a season around a scanty board while their sad-eyed parents tried to cheer them up by the promise of Christmas joys at some future day. These baskets are visible tokens of Christian love. They preach good will to men most powerfully. They lighten the burdens of the heavy laden, and sweeten the bitter cup of extreme poverty. I hope that we shall be able to distribute the usual number of well-filled baskets. C. E. G.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The November meeting of St. Stephen's branch of the Auxiliary was held on Thursday, the 16th, at eleven o'clock in the Parish House.

All of the thirty members present appreciated the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Wetmore tell of her educational work among the poor whites of the mountain districts surrounding Asheville. Mrs. Wetmore explained that these people are not the degenerates that they have been pictured, but rather a case of arrested development caused by lack of opportunity and intense poverty. There are almost no towns of any size, Asheville, with a population of 1,600, being considered quite a metropolis. The country people being very poor and the taxes necessarily low, there is almost no money available for educational purposes and unless they have help, these descendants of Scotch immigrants must be gradually exterminated by the new civilization that is crowding in upon them. Christ's School, Arden and Patterson School are striving to teach these people how to help themselves, how to conserve their forces, their woods, their waters and their young people, all of which are menaced by the spirit of modern commercialism. The people show they are worthy of help by the valiant efforts they make to grasp the opportunity offered them. Many of the day scholars walk long distances to school each day, and those who live too far away, work hard to earn the small sum of fifty dollars charged a boarding pupil.

Christ's School is industrial and Patterson School agricultural. The boys and girls have had so few possessions and responsibilities that it is hard to teach them thoroughness. One little fellow, when asked why God commanded Noah to take the animals into the ark, replied naively, "I reckon it was to save himself the trouble of makin' them over again."

The expenses of these schools must be raised by the superintendents, excepting the salaries, which are paid by the Board of Missions. Mrs. Wetmore told us that $10 would run the school for a day and that $50 would provide a student with a boarding scholarship. Her wholesouled enthusiasm and consecration to her work were very contagious and before she left us the Auxiliary and individuals had pledged her $114. Of this amount $50 is to be used as a scholarship for a young theological student named Boston Lackay who hopes to work among his own people, and the remainder is to go to the general support of the school.

On hearing of the death of Bishop Alexander Mackay-Smith, on November 16th, the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church, which had its regular meeting on that day, after prayer for those in affliction and a thanksgiving for the example of those who were the lights of the world in their generation, adopted the following minute:

Resolved, That the Woman's Auxiliary express to Mrs. Mackay-Smith and to her family, their sincere sympathy with them in their great loss. The women of Pennsylvania always realized the profound interest that Bishop Mackay-Smith took in the missionary work of the Church and in their work in it. Greatly will they miss his helpful words and presence at the annual meetings. Never can they forget his heroic struggle in his last years against sickness, his generosity to the diocese and to every good cause, his self effacement, his faith and courage. In a most difficult post he bore himself with magnanimity and self forgetfulness.

They pray that God may comfort Mrs. Mackay-Smith and her children with the hope, full of immortality that has been brought to us by Jesus Christ and by the conviction that the name, character and labors of Bishop Mackay-Smith will never be forgotten in the diocese of Pennsylvania.

FANNY S. MAGEE,
Chairman.
(MRS.) MARY PAGE GRAMMER,
MARY DEHAVEN BRIGHT,
Secretary.

On All Saints' Day a window in memory of the late Robert E. Atmore was unveiled and formally presented to the church by his family. It is situated on the south side of the church, next to the McDowell window, and on the west of it. The subject is the interview of Nicodemus with the Saviour. The maker is Tiffany, and the subject is treated most artistically in the characteristic tints of this maker.

At the service, Dr. Grammer gave a brief memorial sketch of Mr. Atmore, speaking of his career as a successful Christian merchant, his interest in the colored work, his liberal contributions to it, and his service as vestryman of the Church of the Crucifixion. His last years, spent in retirement from business and semi-invalidism, were remarkable for the extraordinary serenity of his spirit, and the beauty of his closing days. In his life was fulfilled the picture in those well known verses of Henley, which were quoted by the speaker:

"A late lark twitters from the quiet skies
And from the west,
Where the sun, his day's work ended,
Lingers as in content,
There falls on the old gray city
An influence luminous and serene,
A shining peace.

So be my passing,
My task accomplished and the long day done,
My wages taken and in my heart
Some late lark singing,
Let me be gathered to the quiet west,
The sundown splendid and serene,
Death."

On the Sunday after Bishop Mackay-Smith's death the Rector preached a memorial sermon in which he dwelt upon the spiritual power manifested in the life of Bishop Mackay-Smith, enabling him to rise superior to the limitations of wealth and high social position, and dedicate himself to a life of service. The largeness of his spirit and the magnanimity that he displayed in all his relations in the difficult position of a Co-adjutor, was especially dwelt upon.

Our late Bishop made the confirmation visitations for years in St. Stephen's, and also for many years preached the sermon on Christmas Day. He will be greatly missed in our parish, and his memory will always be revered.

One of the beautiful services of our Church is the early morning Communion Service. This is recognized by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and the First Sunday in Advent is appointed for the Chapters all over the United States to have a Corporate Communion at 8 o'clock. Dr. Grammer welcomed not only the members of the Senior and Junior Chapters, but the men of the Church, and twenty-six joined in the service. The hospitality and thoughtfulness of Miss Lewis and Miss Kirkpatrick added greatly by inviting all to breakfast in the Parish House, and twenty-two, including Dr. Grammer, enjoyed a very pleasant repast.

Next year it is hoped more men will attend, and that this Advent morning service will become an important feature in the calendar of St. Stephen's Church.

Parish Visitor's Report.

A difficult problem confronts us for lack of funds. If we had a little more of the "Root of all Evil" a most beautiful tree would grow and blossom, bearing golden possibilities. I will try and lay the whole matter before you as clearly as I can.

We have a family of Scotch origin under our care. The husband can work when he is not possessed by the demon, drink. When he is under its influence he is unbearable, wicked and cruel and the wife and four children suffer. We gave the woman cleaning to do in the church until her strength failed, owing to her condition. When her baby was born she was sitting up in a week as there was no one to attend to her children. The husband is a good mechanic, but there is no dependence upon him, as the habit is likely to overcome him at any time. Mr. Long has tried in every possible way to reform him and he does well for a short while, then goes back again. They are now living in the Tenderloin, which is a place of horror for the poor children have been subjected to many enticements and the poor mother has her hands full in putting extra care upon them. Mr. Long and I have tried to change their rooms into a better neighborhood but have always been hampered by sickness or drink.

Now, here comes the golden fruit of opportunity, if we could only plant the root to bear the tree.

The woman's parents live in Scotland. They are comfortably enough fixed to help their daughter and care for the children, but have not the ready money to send to pay the expense of their passage across the water. We have tried to raise this money and have applied to the well-known Scotch Society of St. Andrew for help and by them we were referred to the Organization of Charities, which did a little in a general way, but we still have them on our hands. We have visited the British Consul in regard to the passage money and find it will cost $75 for the wife and four children. If the husband insists upon going he would have to work his way over.

The parents have written to us that they would like to have their daughter and her children and perhaps the man may do better if he could get away from the environment he is now in.

I feel sure that there are many people in St. Stephen's who are both able and willing to make up the sum of $75 and thus send this family to Scotland. It would be a most glorious Christmas gift if it could be done.

The parents in Scotland have had public prayers offered up for the welfare of this family in the church in which the parents attend.

Below is a letter from the clergyman of the church in Scotland where the parents worship:

DEAR MADAM:—Mrs. Rodges one of the members of my Church here showed me to-day a letter from her daughter who lives in your city in whom you have taken a kindly interest. She is earnestly desiring to get back to Scotland. I know her people well. Her father and mother, are members of my Church and very respectable, well doing people. If the family could be sent home they would be well looked after. The husband of a sister would be willing to give him employment and the wife and children would be well cared for as the Rodges are in comfortable circumstances, but not able to go to the expense of the passage money. If there is any society that would help them home, it would be a great boon. Mrs. Rodges is greatly worried over her daughter being in feeble health and so far from home and feels if she were in Hamilton she could receive care and attention. Her daughter speaks in glowing terms of the many kindnesses received through your thoughtful sympathy and her mother is exceedingly grateful. If you can do anything which will lead to the family getting home, you will add considerable to the debt of gratitude she owes.

Yours most sincerely,
(Signed) EDWARD LAST.

P. S.—Ten dollars has already been subscribed.

K. H. LEWIS.

Three beautiful new table cloths have been donated to the Parish House by Miss Ewing. We used them for the first time Sunday morning for the breakfast given in the Parish House to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. We are very grateful and feel quite rich in this new possession. K. H. L.

Christmas in the Sunday School.

The festivals for the Sunday School are being planned to take place: the Main School on Wednesday evening, December 27th, at eight o'clock; the Primary Department, in connection with the Mothers' Meeting, on Thursday evening, December 28th, at the same hour.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

On the Friday evenings of November the boys have been addressed by interesting and instructive speakers. First, by Mr. W. E. Lockwood, who most kindly gave them an illustrated lecture on the development of the locomotive. He used some fifty lantern slides to show the wonderful growth, from the first little English engine to the modern triple-expansion high-speed flyer. It was sad news to the boys, when the next week they learned that their venerable friend, who had seemed in good health when addressing them, had been taken with pneumonia and died within the week. Thus, Mr. Lockwood's last public speech was to the boys of St. Stephen's, whose monuments he so much admired and whose Sunday School he frequently visited.

The next Friday evening the subject of Church Chimes and the hanging, tuning and ringing of bells was given them by the skilled bell manufacturer, Mr. Vandusen, who is now at work on our chime of bells. A week later, followed Mr. Barry Hepburn with a most interesting account of his experiences in trying to work for clean voting at the recent election. Then the following week young Mr. Fury gave a good description of the journey to the Philippines, via San Francisco, Japan and China, with an interesting account of the natives and his experiences as a teacher to these wild islanders of our far away possessions.

So with instructing talks by their leader and others, with games and with physical instruction, under the guidance of Mr. Fountain, the boys are full of activity and are planning an exhibition or entertainment for the mid-winter.

The Alpha Kappa.

The early part of December the young men of the Alpha Kappa Society will give an entertainment to help along the sociability of the Sunday School. Moving pictures and the lantern will be used to bring back "memories of the good old summer time." Many pictures will be shown illustrating our summer outings, and the boys and girls on St. Stephen's Farm.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Junior Brotherhood is adding to its membership and having had several delegates at the recent convention in Buffalo, was pleased to hear their impressions and experiences so well described by John Mearns, one of the delegates, before a meeting of the Seniors and again before the Sunday School. A number attended the supper and annual meeting of the Local Assembly, and listened to the new Bishop's charge to the Brotherhood of the Diocese on Wednesday, Nov. 29th.

By the new method of apportionment a lump sum is asked for the dioceses and churches. For this year the amount is $1,483,610, which is expected to be raised from the following sources:

The apportionment for General Missions	$1,,313,610.00
The United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary	79,000.00
From Interest	86,000.00
From Miscellaneous Sources	5,000.00
	$1,483,610.00

Pennsylvania's share of this apportionment is $157,970, of which St. Stephen's is asked to contribute $3,000. Everything that the Church gives to the Board of Missions, whether through the Treasurer of the Church, or through the Woman's Auxiliary, except the United Offering, or through the Sunday School—counts on this apportionment, if it be not designated for some special purpose over and above the obligations of the Board. The fiscal year of the Board begins in September. From Sept. 1 to Dec. 1, three months, St. Stephen's contributed, according to the quarterly statement of the Treasurer of the Board of Missions which is in my hand as I write, $478.19, of which $469.19 came from the Church, and $9 from the Woman's Auxiliary. The other gifts of the Woman's Auxiliary must have gone for "specials." If we keep up our contributions at this rate we shall have contributed $1,800 in the course of the year. It seems to me that if the Woman's Auxiliary and the Sunday School will exert themselves we might raise $2,500. While our expenses are heavy, as the condition of doing any work in our location, we are helped by an endowment. It is true that we have to supplement our income by a special appeal, but nevertheless a comparison with the burdens borne by new congregations building their edifices will show that we are not overburdened. We have 600 communicants. We have a great deal of latent strength. The great duty is to develop what resources we possess. Let us put the case on the right basis. This apportionment is not a tax. Missions are supported by gifts, and a tax is not a gift. The legalism of taxation would slowly corrupt the religion that we seek to extend by missions.

The true view of the apportionment is that it is a suggestion and request, as when a collector of funds for some charitable purpose comes round and asks whether we will be one of 20 to contribute $50 or one of 40 to contribute $25 or one of 100 to contribute $10. So we are asked if we can contribute $3,000. My reply is, that we will do our best. To that end we have put in operation the highly recommended and well-thought out system of Duplex Envelopes; whereby an opportunity is given to everyone to contribute something to Foreign Missions every Sunday, and we will also try to inform the congregation on the subject by bringing missionary speakers before them. We are fortunate in having secured Bishop Spaulding, of Utah, and the Rev. Mr. Wellbourne, of Japan, for a Sunday each during the next three months.

On January 14 we will have our chief offering for Foreign Missions, and on Jan. 21 for Missions to the Colored People, but on every Sunday it is possible to put into one of the pockets of the envelope something to hasten the coming of God's kingdom upon earth.

Let not our poorer members think that their gifts are too small to count. And let not our wealthier members wait to see whether the congregation as a whole does its share, so that they may decide as to what they ought to do. Their share is not determined by the fidelity of others, but by their abundance and their zeal for the cause. Whether we can reach this apportionment or not, let us do better than last year, and show ourselves as improving in generosity and zeal. Let us do our best.

But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give, not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.

The New Year dawned upon us bright and beautiful, but its cheer was overcast by the severe illness of Mr. Long. The attack of grippe that seized him in the fall seemed to have drained his vitality somewhat, and after he had made all the preparations for giving out the Christmas turkeys and baskets on the Saturday before Christmas, he was taken seriously ill with pneumonia on both lungs. As I write two nurses are at his bedside and all that medical skill can devise is being done for his relief and comfort. The issue is in the hands of God. Earnest prayers for the recovery of this faithful and loved minister were offered in the Sunday School, Church and at the Burd School.

The usual Christmas play was not given this year, and the celebrations of the Sunday School and "the Mothers" were enlivened by the sleight of hand tricks of our accomplished prestidigitator, Mr. Robert Boyd, Jr., and his associate.

The children were much delighted, and it was most interesting to observe how the smallest children simply accepted the jugglery as magic. One little wide-eyed boy said out loud, in explanation of the whole performance, "He is a magic man," while the children a little older paid absolutely no attention to the clever talk that plays so useful a part in directing the attention, and undeviatingly watched the hands of the performer. They constitute a difficult class to outwit, and Mr. Boyd did remarkably well in eluding their keen observation. The tricks which he performed in such a manner that the spectators were led to believe that they had discovered the method, and then conclusively shown that they were not as clever as they thought themselves was particularly enjoyed. The Christmas music under Dr. Anthony's skilful direction was very good—the selections were fresh, and the singing was inspiring. It was generally agreed that the order was unusually good. Many thanks are due to the committee in charge.

During this season of Mr. Long's illness Mr. Miller has been of great assistance. Not only has he taken some of the special services of the season for the Rector, but he has also officiated at the Burd School, and helped in the morning services at St. Stephen's. His ministrations are greatly enjoyed by the congregation. It is good to hear his voice in the services, to see him in the chancel, and to have him associated with our work and worship.

Ladies who will be willing to assist in the ministrations of the Altar Society are invited to join its membership. The duties are to prepare the Chancel for every service, to arrange the markers, the flowers, and the proper hangings, and if there be a celebration of the Holy Communion to see that all things are arranged decently and in order. The work is divided around among several chapters, and is not onerous for any member. All members are required to be communicants.

The illness of Mr. Long makes it impossible to render the usual account of the baskets distributed on the Saturday before Christmas. One hundred and forty baskets were given out and on an average each basket would feed ten people. The full account will be rendered later. In general it may be said that the baskets were more abundantly filled than ever before.

Miss Harper has most kindly and efficiently acted as the editor of this little monthly, and the Rector is greatly indebted to her for collecting the reports from the various societies and arranging the material and reading the proofs. He must appeal to the secretaries and other officers and members who send notices or articles to the PARISH NEWS to help the editor by sending in their material more promptly. The monthly must come out by a fixed date if it is to serve its full purpose.

C. E. G.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

In spite of the near approach of Christmas, thirty members of the Auxiliary were present at the meeting held on December 21st in the Parish House.

Opening exercises were followed by the usual committee reports. The balance in our treasury is $35.85, and the United Offering reported $137.50 on hand.

The Missionary Box Committee sent out three boxes which should be received in time for Christmas. One went to Texas, one to California and one to Colorado. Another very good box worth $100 is about to be sent through the Colored Committee.

For the remainder of the hour Mrs. Lane told us of the work and workers in China.

Our Mission is located entirely in the valley of the Yang-tse River, in the districts of Shanghai and Hankow. The Shanghai district has a population of 38,000,000 souls. This great Church of ours sends to look after these souls one Bishop, 13 foreign priests, 7 medical missionaries, thirty-five teachers and two trained nurses. This territory is about the size of the State of Tennessee, only in Tennessee, the population is 2,000,000 instead of 38,000,000.

The district of Hankow has over half the population of the United States and there we have one Bishop, eighteen priests, four medical missionaries, eleven teachers, and three trained nurses. Working with them are about 220 natives. Mrs. Lane then described in detail the work carried on in St. Mary's Orphanage, St. Hilda's School, the Hankow Training School for Bible Women, St. Luke's Hospital, St. John's University, and other institutions.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House on Thursday, January 18th, at eleven o'clock. Mrs. A. W. Fisher, secretary of the Church Periodical Club of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, will make the address.

Christmas in the Sunday School.

The illness of Mr. Long was particularly felt in the Sunday School during Christmas week, and he was missed from the celebration on the evening of December 27th. At this annual festival of the Main School, the Carols were particularly well sung under Dr. Anthony, and the entertainment went off with unusual smoothness and much merriment. The Rector's address was particularly happy; the moving pictures appropriate and young Robert Boyd's feats of magic skillfully performed; the arrival of a barrel containing little Frank Wenrich in the character of young Nicholas, son of old Kris, was jolly indeed and well introduced Santa Claus who, as usual came down our chimney, loaded with candies, cakes and oranges, which the good people of St. Stephen's made it possible to distribute, with an abundance of good cheer that made the teachers, scholars and officers of the school all happy.

On Thursday evening the Mothers' Meeting united with the little ones of the Primary Department and we made merrier even, than the night before. Dr. Grammer read from "A Christmas Carol." "Christmas from the birth of Christ up to this 20th Century," was shown by "Moving Pictures." Two added moving picture stories gave much merriment. And our "King of Magicians" was even more wonderful than the night before. Besides he brought his partner, who was most jolly in a humorous recitation. Little Nick arrived in his barrel. Santa came down the chimney with his gifts for every one and the sweet voices of the children in their closing carol gave a fitting benediction for everyone. "God bless everybody," we were all happy.

G. H. STREAKER.

The Religious Census.

The recent visitation of Philadelphia homes to take a religious census of our city in two hours was and is still incompleted, owing to the lack of workers. To their credit, four volunteered from St. Stephen's. It is too bad that others did not hear this call to go "out into the by-ways and gather them in."

The Boys' Club.

Our Boys' Club had a general merry making at its closing session for the year, December 22nd, when their Christmas gift surprised and delighted their President. Mr. Boyd came in with Mrs. Lucas and delighted and surprised the boys with Christmas remembrances for which they were very grateful.

Six of our older boys and two of our boy workers were delegates at the "Older Boys' Conference and Banquet of the Men and Religion Forward Movement," held at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, December 15th and 16th, when some 400 representative boys of the Protestant churches of Philadelphia met to confer on their Christian duties and to plan for their large institutes and campaign of January 20th to 28th. It was cheering to hear one of our boys, Ablett Flury, enter into the discussion on the effect of moving pictures on boys.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

The social evening of the young men of our A. K. Society, on Thursday, December 7th, entitled "Memories of the Good Old Summer Time," brought together many members of the Sunday School and Girls' Friendly Society in a happy time. The Sunday School room was crowded to the door. Mr. Streaker illustrated with the lantern, scene after scene to the number of eighty, in which St. Stephen's people were happily grouped, enjoying those "good old summer days" in outings and vacations. Merritt Bodine's illustrated songs, "Day Dreams" and "Summer Days," added more zest to the hearty applause when "all joined in on the chorus" and the dance which followed the very funny "Moving Pictures."

As most of the scenes were photographed by our young folk at the Farm, they served to show its great value as an adjunct to the many activities of our Church.

On Friday evening, December 29th, this Society invited the teachers of boys and all the young men of the Junior Brotherhood and Sunday School to an informal luncheon and entertainment in the Guild Room of the Parish House. Every one present took part in the festivities, from Harry Bush's reminiscences to Winfield Brown's costumed representation of "Kris Kringle." In the distribution of gifts all were remembered, from Mr. Carrigan with a "Dolly" to a "Rattle" for the young benedict Russel Hammer. Thus merrily went out the old year.

On Thursday evening, February 15th, the Alpha Kappa will present the jolly little comedy, entitled "Uncle." Don't forget the date and be sure and procure a ticket.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement.

On Monday evening, December 11th, an enthusiastic meeting of the Men and Religion Forward Movement of our seventh district was held in our Parish House. Rev. Mr. Simons, of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church, made a strong address on the needs of evangelism in our thickly populated seventh district (South of Market, East of Broad to the River and North of Washington Avenue), and the urgent necessity of outside help in the problem of reaching the vast numbers of unchurched foreign born people in this section. Mr. Homer L. Pound, of the District Committee, spoke on Bible Study, and introduced Rev. Mr. Waygood, of the Bible Society, who made a fine talk on the value and ways of getting the Bible into the men's and boys' hands for intelligent study. Rev. Mr. Moore was unable to be present and speak on his line of work in the movement, "Social Service," and the "Missions" part was taken up by Mr. Sparks, of the Mariner's Bethel Methodist Church, in the absence of Mr. Asa S. Wing, of the Twelfth Street Meeting. The chairman, Mr. Streaker, spoke on the "Boy Problem," and the definite plans already made for its survey and solving, in the winter's campaign. Rev. Stasio, of the Tenth Street Italian Church, gave a most hopeful view of the Italian situation. The meeting adjourned after prayer by the Rev. Della Cioppa and the Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian Church, to meet again at the call of the chair at the First Italian Church, Tenth street, near Washington avenue.

A meeting of all committee men will probably be called for January 9th. It is hoped that all of our St. Stephen's representatives will be present and hear the plans for the coming "eight days' campaign," January 20th to 28th.

Parish Visitor's Report.

The Christmas work was heavy, although we had grave fears it would be light; for the money was slow in coming in—but I am happy to say it did come in freely at last and 140 baskets made glad the hearts of 140 homes. According to his usual fine Christmas offering, a barrel of turkeys was received from Mr. Ristine, which went a long way in filling the baskets. We sent turkeys or chickens, potatoes, onions, celery, tea, sugar, apples, oranges and a mince pie; we must not forget to mention a box of candy toys.

"HER LAST CHRISTMAS BASKET."

In a little gloomy street up town live two sisters; one does a little sewing if she can get it to do between whiles,—she waits on her sister who is very near her end. When the usual card we send each recipient at Christmas time, requesting a call for the basket, was received, and which I must explain had been sent by mistake for we knew she couldn't come for it, the Doctor was present, and she said to him, "Oh, Doctor, I'm going to lose something so nice, so nice." He asked what it was—"A basket from the Church; I can't send for it." "Never mind," he replied, "I'll send my boy, and you'll get it—I'll see that you do." The Doctor sent for the basket according to his promise and the basket was taken to them. Can you imagine the joy with which this last Christmas basket was received?

K. H. S.

We had a real Santa Claus at our Church, the Scotch family—a family whose husband was out of work, another family whose head and support has been ill for months were all visited and relieved and rejoiced—and Santa Claus and his helpers must have realized in their work that Christmas Eve—

"That it is more blessed to give than to receive."

On the morning of Thursday, Feb. 1st, the Reverend Robert Long's illness ended and he fell asleep to wake, we believe, in a higher and fuller life. He had not been well all fall, and the pneumonia seized upon a system weakened by sickness. He made a gallant fight, sustained by an unfaltering faith in God, and by the brave and unselfish spirit of his devoted wife. All that medical skill could devise was done for him and he had the best nursing. The prayers of the congregation went up to God in his behalf, and we doubt not were heard and answered, though the spirit and not the letter of our petitions was fulfilled.

He had been at St. Stephen's over two years and was much endeared to all who knew him. His nature was sweet and pure; his learning was extensive and ever increasing—his piety was real and not professional. He was faithful in all relations to duty and high principle. The sense of loss at his death will be general and greatly will he be missed in St. Stephen's. The sympathy of all goes out to Mrs. Long and his little daughter.

May God comfort them by faith and trust in Himself.

The Lenten Services will be conducted according to our custom by the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The list of the speakers is given below. We count ourselves fortunate in having secured so many religious leaders from outside of our city to visit us, and deliver their messages in our midst. Most of them have never been heard in Philadelphia pulpits, and will therefore possess the charm of fresh voices. Dr. Charles Wood, who was for a number of years pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, on the corner of 21st and Walnut streets, is an exception. When he shall occupy our pulpit with the permission of the Bishop of the diocese under the famous 19th Canon he will find many old friends in this city, who will rejoice in his presence in our Church as a token of the Christian unity that underlies all our diversities of organization.

The addresses on Saturdays and in Holy Week will be made by clergymen of Philadelphia. We regret that Bishop Rhinelander could not be secured for any service, but it is good to have Bishop Garland for Ash Wednesday. Lent would come in strangely if Bishop Talbot did not make the address on its second day. We appreciate his constant helpfulness. To all these helpers in our work we are deeply indebted for their promised aid.

The parochial Lenten Services on Wednesday and Friday afternoons were so poorly attended two years ago, that last Lent they were discontinued, after the announcement had been made that their continuance would be ensured if a sufficient number of persons would ask for it. No requests were received by the Rector. It is, however, conceivable and indeed certain that some people valued these services, but did not care to make a special request. The Rector would be very glad to know the wishes of the congregation—not what they would like to have going on in the Church, but what services they wish to participate in, for these are two very different conceptions.

Confirmation will be administered, as usual in St. Stephen's for the past five years, on the afternoon of Palm Sunday, which comes this year on March 31st. The Confirmation Class will meet for the first time on Friday, March 1st, at 8 o'clock in the Parish House, and will continue to meet on Fridays till Palm Sunday.

The noonday services answer the purpose of parochial services, as well as minister to the public at large, and it is hoped that those who can do so will give them their loyal support.

Early in the morning of Saturday, Jan. 13th, a fire broke out in Lubin's moving-picture show next door to our Sunday School building. Providentially there was hardly any wind stirring, and the snow on the roofs was an excellent protection. The fire department turned out in force, and prevented the conflagration from extending any further than the next building to the west, which had just been taken by a man who had obtained, in spite of our protests, a license to conduct a saloon in it. This building and Lubin's show were reduced to a mere shell of tottering walls by the fire. St. Stephen's Church was practically unharmed. Not a memorial was injured, and if the furnace, which is under the Sunday School building and was submerged by the waters that washed in under the foundations, could have been put in operation, Divine Service could have been held on the morning of Sunday, Jan. 14th. The Rector and choir went out to the Burd School and had the morning service in its chapel. Mr. Hollar, who has charge of the care of the property, took energetic and efficient action for the protection of the property against any falling of the walls of the burnt buildings. On Jan. 21st, the Sunday School had to meet in the Parish House, and the congregation had its services as usual in the church, but on Jan. 28th both Sunday School building and Church were used in the customary way. All the friends and members of St. Stephen's are profoundly grateful that the Church was spared, and that we are not confronted by the difficult problems that its destruction would have thrust upon us, and the city and the Church are not deprived of our beautiful memorials. Our grateful praise is due to the firemen for their efficiency and kindness.

A purse of nearly $150 has been made up by some of those having memorials in the Church, and will be sent through the proper channels as a recognition on the part of some members of St. Stephen's, of our debt to the firemen.

On Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 13 and 14, during the fire hot coffee and bread was served to them in the Parish House, and the Hosemen, Laddermen, Drivers, Stokers and Tillermen Association has sent us, through its recording secretary, the following letter:

HOSEMEN, LADDERMEN, DRIVERS, STOKERS, AND TILLERMEN ASSOCIATION

PHILADELPHIA FIRE DEPARTMENT

Philadelphia, January 20th, 1912.

To the Rector and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church,

Gentlemen:—

It affords me much pleasure on behalf of the Hose and Laddermen's Association, of the Philadelphia Fire Department to express to you the sincere thanks of our members for your courteous and considerate action at the fire at 928 Market Street, on January 13th, 1912, for serving the men of our department with coffee and refreshments. We greatly appreciate your treatment and trust you may be many times repaid by the Great Almighty in the future.

Respectfully yours,

H. L. D. S. & T. Assn., IRVIN W. RODEBAUGH, Recording Secretary, Park Ave. & Cambria St.
Truck Co. No. 12.

On Sunday, November 12, 1911, the Rector began in the Parish House "A Social Hour and Song Service," lasting from 7.30 to 9 P. M. The time is spent singing hymns, and in Christian fellowship. In the course of the evening tea or coffee is served. At the end there are a few remarks and a prayer. Never a Sunday has passed since the service began that some stranger has not dropped in, now an actor, whose wife was playing in Cincinnati, and who, in passing through the city, stopped over to see the minister who married him, and so spent the evening at the Church; now a youth who had not been in a church for five years; now a "roomer" near by, who enjoys society on Sunday evening; and so on, the list might be extended. Besides there are regular attendants or members of St. Stephen's who attend to assist in forming a receiving party and enjoy the Christian fellowship and the service of song. The attendance one Sunday reached as high as 55, and it has never been under 30.

A Lenten Resolution.

What better resolution could we form for the approaching season, than a determination to bring the highest motives to bear upon the smallest affairs—to make ourselves realize that nothing in the realm of morals, is too small for motives that take hold of eternity. It is in little things that the battle of life is lost or won; little self-denials, little self-sacrifices, little charities of thought or speech, little acts of self-control or resolution, framing in us gradually the Christian character, or little self-indulgences, little enmities, little vacillations and little compromises preparing us for some dreadful fall. Well did Bunyan know human experience when he portrayed Christian as having had before his desperate conflict with Apollyon many little slips in his walk, of which he took but small note. When I say that we should try to bring great motives to bear on small duties, it is not meant that we should always claim them, or profess them as if they were the sole reasons for our conduct. It is Pharisaism or cant to look around for the highest motive in sight, and then claim it as the range-light by which we are steering. We are drawn along by many motives. Often expediency and righteousness lie obviously in the same direction. But our life can not be strong or unified unless we can bring the highest to bear on all of it. This is what religion means: an effort to connect our finiteness with infinity and to steady ourselves in this tossing world of Time by conforming to the cosmic and eternal order. It is a mistaken, though popular, theory that the lower motives can be more safely trusted to do the work. A real motive of a low order is more efficient than a sham motive of religion, as the poorest fire of peat will warm more than the picture of a fire. But when the higher motive is really present it brings along with it a higher power. It unites the man's whole nature, and brings in like a tide from the great ocean of being, the forces of God.

The great trouble with us is that we do not bring God in enough, and so do not live in His sight, or by His power, or in His fellowship. We do not knead the motive of religion sufficiently into our lives. Let us try to realize this Lent that there is nothing too small for God's assistance—that He will not only take care of our souls when they leave these bodies, but that He will help us to rule the body and care for it rightly; and that His glory is involved in whatever we do, whether we eat or drink, or work or play, and that His power can be procured according to our faith, He that is faithful in least, is faithful also in much.

A Mission Study Class.

At the urgent request of the Rector and the solicitation of Miss Bell, the president of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. F. W. English has agreed to teach a Mission Study Class this Lent, and the Rector is anxious to secure a good class for her. Mrs. English proved herself in the Junior Mission Study Class a teacher of ability and inspiration. These mission study classes are invaluable feeders, supplying Christian workers and missionary leaders. There is no better way to keep Lent than to join such a class and learn what is being done to extend the Kingdom of God in the world. The information is not mere dead knowledge, but is a living source of inspiration.

The hours have been decided upon, and will be published later. Notice is now given that such a class is in process of formation.

Members of former Mission Study Classes, and those who can spare the time are earnestly requested to join.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle have their next meetings Feb. 7th and Feb. 21st, in Guild Room of the Parish House, 8 o'clock. On account of the fire the regular meeting was put off until January 24th, when an infant's outfit had to be finished and packed to be given to a mother whose family is in a very destitute condition. A little boy, who is to put on his first trousers was given six pairs of trousers and four little shirts by one of the members of this Circle, although partly worn, he will be a very happy little boy when he gets them on.

Come, some time, and spend the evening with us and see what a happy time we have working for others in His name.

Shoe Fund.

From Mrs. H. F. Martin	50
From those receiving shoes	5.00
Total	$7.00
Expended for shoes	3.39
Balance	$3.61

Have given out in January, 17 pairs of shoes and 14 pairs of overshoes.

Mr. Horace Magee.

The sympathy of the congregation goes out to Miss Fanny and Miss Anna Magee and to Mr. James R. Magee on the sudden death of their brother. It is not yet six years since this family was bereaved by the sudden death of Miss Eliza J. Magee, for many years the Treasurer of the United Offering, whose memorial is the great organ that so much enriches our worship. And now, after a brief illness, while still in the fullness of his powers Mr. Horace Magee has been taken. Heavy indeed is the loss and great is the sympathy for his stricken household. The daily papers have duly recorded the high position that Mr. Magee held in the life of the city and his unusual abilities as a constructive financier. Here we must commemorate his devotion to St. Stephen's. As the Church in which he had been baptized, and nurtured, where his father had been an honored vestryman, where are the memorials of his parents, and his sisters, he loved it devotedly. He was zealous that it should be preserved with all its beautiful memorials, as one of the most interesting churches of the city, and was always ready to come forward to aid in maintaining the dignity and beauty of its services.

No appeal was ever made to him on its behalf to which he did not generously respond. Greatly will he be missed by those in charge of its affairs. The memorials in the Church will testify as long as they last to his strong family affection and his love for St. Stephen's.

Parish Visitor's Report.

This winter's work has been mostly with the sick. There are so many people ill that much of the time has been taken up with visiting and helping to relieve them. Individual cases vary in degree of poverty and privation as well as in severity of sickness, ranging from bad colds often developing into pneumonia and pleurisy, etc., and in some cases organic and incurable diseases.

Of our Scotch family, for whom we need some thirty dollars to send them across the water, four of the children are afflicted with whooping cough, so while we are working and waiting, perhaps it is all for the best, as by the time we get the balance of the money necessary to send them home, the children will have recovered from his illness.

We also very much need a good black skirt or material to make one, for a mission worker who devotes her time and strength in rescuing women and girls as well as teaching in the slums the necessity of cleanliness. She has brought cases to me in which it has been in my power to be of assistance to her. If we could help her this time it would be greatly appreciated.

One of the gentlemen of the congregation donated two tons of coal. One ton was divided between two families, both having very severe illness. The other was given to a woman who has a sick mother and two children to support, by all of whom it was greatly appreciated.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

Two young men were fast friends in an Eastern theological seminary. After they were ordained one took a city church, but the other went to a lonely mission in the far West. Ten years later the city rector was near the mission and decided to look up his old friend. As he entered the little boarded cabin he could see nothing but a flickering candle near the ceiling. His friend, one of the most intellectual men in his class, was perched on top of a ladder reading an old newspaper that was pasted around the stovepipe.

Will you help to supply reading matter to this man and hundreds like him? At the January meeting of the Auxiliary Miss A. W. Fisher told the members how the Church Periodical Club plans to use our magazines after we have read them. Some one in the South or West, or in far Alaska earnestly desires every periodical to which you subscribe. Miss Fisher promises that the magazines will be used well. They are literally read to pieces, a better fate than a corner of the attic or being sold for old papers. If you are willing to forward your magazines each month or to send them to St. Stephen's to be mailed, please write your name and the names of the magazines on a card and send to Mrs. Howard Butcher, 206 S. 42nd street. She will communicate with the Church Periodical Club and tell you who wants just what you have to offer but who cannot possibly afford to pay for it.

The Sunday School.

The new year began in the Sunday School with renewed consecration of its members to its purpose of character building. Mr. Long's illness is heavy on our hearts with the earnest prayer of all for his recovery. Then in the middle of the month, Saturday, Jan. 13th, came our narrow escape from the loss of our sacred Church and school building by that memorable fire in the adjoining moving picture factory. With the frigid weather down near zero, the heroic firemen, particularly those of the company, Tenth and Cherry, fought the flames most valiantly and confined the destruction to the two Market street buildings and we escaped, most grateful for their successful defense of our property. The freezing weather made an unusual scene. The many streams of water coating walls with ice, formed great icicles and high ice hills, in both our back street and Market street, until we had a picture comparable to "Niagara in Winter." The Rector, Mr. Van Dusen, Mr. Hollar, and our faithful Mr. Carrigan were early on the scene and arranged for church services on the following day, Sunday, the 14th, at the Burd School, but we of the Sunday School were compelled to lose a session. On Sunday, the 21st, we assembled in a cosy session in the Guild Room of the Parish House, and on Sunday, the 28th, were back again as usual in our school building.

On Monday, the 15th, our lay Superintendent and five of the teachers attended the Sunday School Institute of the Diocese at Holy Apostles Church, and got much valuable information for the advancement of our school's interests at this annual General Conference of Sunday School Officers and Teachers.

At a meeting of our teachers, on Sunday, the 21st, it was agreed to have a question box; to have a review of the lessons on the first Sunday in February with lantern pictures; and to begin on this date the giving of "Cross and Crown" badges or pins to every scholar and officer and teacher in attendance. This pin is to be exchanged for bronze, silver and gold pins, as each three, six, nine and twelve months' constant attendance warrants. The winners for constant attendance of the twelve month badges will then finally possess these, and the others are to be returned. If absent visiting, or on a vacation, a certificate of attendance at any other Sunday School for that Sunday or Sundays would keep one in good standing. Any absence not so certified to will necessitate the beginning of a new record.

G. H. Streaker.

The A. K. Society.

Under the auspices of the Alpha Kappa the young men of the Sunday School, together with several of the young ladies of the school, are busy rehearsing the delightful three-act comedy of "Uncle," to be presented in the Sunday School building, Thursday evening, February 15th, at 8.15. Subscription tickets for 25 cents are now on sale. Of course the usual happy social time will follow the play.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement.

The great intellectual advance of the 19th century, man's overcoming of the forces of nature and conquering of material things, was so vast that it has led him into truths which were undreamed of before, at least by the masses. Now, in the beginning of the 20th century, it appears that these great truths are but leading to deeper, higher and better ones. In every phase of life, industrial, political, social and religious there is a demand for improvement, for better things. Our young nation is going through the growing pains of youth into the prime of manhood. The eyes of all nations are upon these United States. Shall we measure up to what is expected of us?

But for us of the churches, the question comes—"Shall the spiritual, the religious, the best lead, or be overwhelmed by merely material conquest?" The signs of the times say, "No! There is an uplift all along the line" Co-operative and improved plans are uniting us and all denominations to assist in pulling together, to develop the best in our religious ideals One of these nation-wide plans is now at work; the Men and Religion Forward Movement, with its comprehensive six-fold message, in which "Bible Study," "Boy's Work," "Evangelism," "Social Service," "Community Extension" and "Missions" are all emphasized as one united whole. It has just finished its "eight-day campaign" in our city. It asks each local church to take the best of its ideas and plans and apply them to its own problems, and with its own organizations reinvigorated, begin at once a crusade to bring more men and boys to God through Christ. Our Diocese has taken it up at a meeting at the Church House last week which, with the presence of both Bishops, moved for an educational team-of-experts plan of progress for us of the Episcopal Church.

Monday night's dinner of 1,000 men of the Episcopal Communion at the Academy of Music, to honor and stand by our newly elected Bishop Rhinelander, emphasized and endorsed this plan for renewing our zeal, reinspiring our lives, "re-dedicating," as Mr. Pepper so well put it) re-dedicating our lives, our all to Christ the Master and in service for our fellows. Let us of St. Stephen's be not behind in this onward march. Our clergy needs every man and boy of our loved Church to help in this great cause. In our regular services, our Sunday School activities, our Sunday evening Song Service, our coming noon-day Lenten Services, our Confirmation class, our Holy Communions, may each man and boy of us make a better effort than heretofore and have within our sacred Church life a "Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Our Sunday School and boys' organizations have had delegates to the recent conferences of the "Movement" who have caught the "Forward" spirit for the work among boys. Our men's committee appointed by Dr. Grammer has been flooded with literature and read this or attended the conferences and meetings.

Let us hope that all we men of St. Stephen's have caught the real get-together spirit of this message and by immediately applying it, be of service to God and our fellow men and boys.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement.

To the Rector's appointments on this committee of our church has been added Mr. John W. Schell.

The work of this movement is so large in our city that it has been found necessary to arrange the churches into districts. We are in the seventh district, which includes all Protestant churches east of Broad street, south of Market and north of Washington avenue.

The chairman of this seventh district called a meeting of all the committees of all its churches at St. Stephen's on Monday evening, November 27th. After prayer by Dr. Grammer and an outline of the Movement by the chairman, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, men from the Italian missions, representatives from the Jewish-Christian and other churches and missions of this part of South Philadelphia, all most harmoniously and enthusiastically entered into the conference for forwarding this campaign among the men and boys of our district and for conserving its inspirational and other values to the individual churches. Work among boys received definite impetus and all agreed to assist in sending boy delegates and workers to the Educational Conference for boys to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on December 15th and 16th next. Bible study and other phases of the Movement were discussed and it was unanimously agreed to meet again at St. Stephen's, Monday, December 11th, at 8 P. M. The meeting closed with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Brown of the Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian Church. It is hoped that every member of the committee of St. Stephen's will be able to be present at the next meeting, December 11th, 8 P. M.

The memorial notice of Mr. Long which appeared in the February issue should be supplemented by some record of his funeral, which took place on the afternoon of Saturday, Feb. 3rd, at 2.30 o'clock. Bishop Rhinelander and Bishop Garland were both present. The former read the Creed and prayers and pronounced the benediction, and the latter read the great chapter of Corinthians. Mr. Miller took the opening sentences. The Rev. H. M. Medary, of the Church of the Advocate, who was a classmate and close personal friend of Mr. Long, was also in the Chancel, with Dr. Grammer, whose cold incapacitated him from any participation, except by his presence, in the services. The honorary pall-bearers were the members of the Vestry of St. Stephen's, and the active pall-bearers were the Rev. Geo. G. Bartlett, the Rev. Fleming James, the Rev. Norman V. P. Levis, the Rev. Richard J. Morris, the Rev. W. Arthur Warner, and the Rev. Philip J. Steinmetz, Jr., members of the same clerical club with Mr. Long. The attendance of clergy in their vestments was numerous and the church was filled with sorrowing friends of St. Stephen's congregation, and also from the Church of the Holy Apostles. The Hymns were: "Lead Kindly Light" and "Tarry with me, O, My Saviour." The Anthem was a composition of Dr. Wood's that Mr. Long particularly admired—"There shall be no more night there." The service at the grave was read by the Rev. Mr. Medary.

At the conclusion of the service in St. Stephen's a committee was appointed to draft a resolution in the name of the clergy, and to publish it in The Churchman. Their minute appeared in the issue of February 15, and was as follows:

THE REV. ROBERT LONG.

As representatives of the clergy who attended the funeral of the Rev. Robert Long, we desire to record the high esteem in which he was held by his brethren, and their sense of loss at his death. A graduate of the Philadelphia Divinity School, Mr. Long spent his whole ministerial life inside the bounds of this diocese—either in the arduous work of the City Mission, or as one of the staff at the Church of the Holy Apostles, or at St. Stephen's church. Whatever his post, the thoroughness with which he did his work was recognized by all who came in contact with him, and also the singleness of his motive and the mingled dignity and sweetness of his character. His love of learning was deep and ardent and he was ever increasing his store. The ministry was conceived of by him as a prophetic office, and he was profoundly interested in the application of Christian principles to social problems. While our sympathy goes out to his sorrowing family and kindred, our thanks also arise to God for the life and character of the faithful servant of our Lord.

H. CRESSON MCHENRY.
CARL E. GRAMMER,
WILSON R. STEARLY,

The minute records the salient points in his character and the chief incidents in his all too brief career, but how little after all is recorded in this way. There is here, of necessity, no record of his varied tastes, his love of music and his accomplishment as a musician, his taste for literature and his fondness for making verse, his quiet humor and entire reality. What is said is true, yet how much there is that defies analysis and specification. Still at least this much is commemorated that he was loved and respected and that he was recognized as one of those who live the life of faith and service. Many faithful hearts will long remember him and even when they cease to beat, the influence of such a life will go on working towards the bringing in of God's Kingdom.

YANGCHOW, Jan. 25, 1912.

MY DEAR MRS. GRAMMER:—

Thank you and your good man very much for the New Year remembrance in the shape of the Missionary Calendar. Besides the gratifying personal message, it makes one realize constantly that at home those who are working and praying in behalf of the cause so dear to us are not few. And certainly as never before in China, we can report blessed results. Since the breaking of "Old Custom" and sentiment, we have observed such interest as was never before shown in our message. You, dear Mrs. Grammer, would have wept with sympathy could you have been here to see how, while we could hear the booming of the siege guns at Nanking, the poor refugeless women crowded to my wife to find out how she could be calm under the apprehensions from which they found no relief. Ladies from the highest official households came for comfort, and certainly got the knowledge, however dimly, that somewhere there is a refuge from fear and trouble. Among the men, the door is wide open. Within two months we have had nineteen new "inquirers," all in earnest; one of them a man of high official rank, and the best boys in our school are all confessed Christians. We long and pray for more missionaries. If Christians at home knew what is the need here now, they would come. St. Stephen's has some grand missionary material: How shall it be developed? Tell, please, its good Rector that we have got of course to have houses, etc., but we want some Missionaries from St. Stephen's and want them soon. The house matter can take care of itself. Bishop Graves has long had registered at home an appeal for two ladies for Yangchow; why not find them at St. Stephen's? Pardon me if I am over personal. We are so longing for more Missionaries at this glorious time. I read the Church and Missionary papers somewhat, and can truly say, I think just now the world nowhere else holds out such a call for Christians to teach the way as here in China. With much love to you all, I am,

Yours Sincerely,
BENJAMIN L. ANCELL.

P. S.—We hope to reach Philadelphia (the East) by August or September.

The congregation will remember Mr. Ancell as one of the missionaries who has presented his cause in St. Stephen's. He was a student in the Virginia Seminary when Dr. Grammer was a professor in that institution, and on his graduation went directly to China, where he has been very successful. He was a classmate of the Rev. Cameron Farquhar McRae, whose sister, Miss Katherin McRae, is one of our communicants, and the two friends went out to China together. They have been rewarded for their courageous self-devotion to a great cause by the joy of finding themselves privileged to do a great work in the world for God. It is clear that in China the seed-time has given place to the season of reaping, and the fields are white for the harvest. May God raise up for them helpers. It would be a great joy, if a volunteer could be found at St. Stephen's, saying, "Here am I—send me."

The Bells.

An appeal was made last spring for $600 to put in tune our bells and increase their number, so that more tunes could be played and those in a more tunable fashion. The money was immediately given by a generous friend, and Mr. Geo. Van Duzen, of Cincinnati, was given the contract. He began his special process of tuning last fall, and has met with numerous obstacles; but on Ash Wednesday the bells were rung to our great delight. Mr. Van Duzen has not yet entirely completed his work, and the chime will not be submitted to the judgment of experts till he feels that he has done all that can be accomplished with the material at his command to make the bells uniform in tone-color, as well as correct in pitch. The latter is much the easier task. The former is the real difficulty. Few, indeed, if any, are the chimes where all the bells have the same timbre. Mr. Van Duzen has largely accomplished this with our bells, and made it possible to play on them harmonious chords. The notes that can now be played are C, D, E, F, F sharp, G, A, B flat, B, C, D. We have an additional bell, about G, that might wisely be exchanged for two upper bells E, F, at a small additional cost, giving us a chime of 13 bells. It would also be an improvement if the shutters in the windows in the tower could be opened, so that the sound could issue forth more freely and fully. When carpenter work is done, the neighborhood will enjoy more fully the sweet music of what Cowper calls "the Church-going bells." Undoubtedly our chime has helped to bring in people to the Lenten services. Mr. Van Duzen has worked upon them with indefatigable zeal. In the next number of our paper we hope to give the judgment of experts on his achievement.

Never in all his ministry, except in the fall of 1894, when he was recovering from a serious illness of typhoid, has the Rector been kept so long out of his pulpit by sickness of any kind. However the cold may have been caught, and there was too great an interval between the fire and the appearance of this cold to trace its origin to so romantic a source as exposure on that bitter night, it soon settled in the larynx and made it impossible for him to speak in public. Fortunately Mr. Miller was on hand with his ever ready and helpful services, and such preachers as Dr. Geo. C. Currie, Dr. Groton and Dr. Foley have come to our assistance.

On the first Sunday in March the Bishop of Utah, Dr. Spaulding, will preach for us by an arrangement of some months' standing. By that date the Rector has every reason to believe that his throat will be in good condition.

The class of candidates for Confirmation will meet on Fridays during Lent at 8 P. M., in the Vestry. The members of the last class, confirmed in December are invited to attend, as well as all those who may be contemplating this step. No one commits himself to a final decision by coming to the meetings of the class. Its sessions last from 8 to 8.45. The Sunday School teachers are urged to bring this matter to the attention of their scholars, and parents and sponsors must not let the season pass unimproved. Without making an iron rule, the Rector prefers that members of the class should not be under fourteen years old. This should be the minimum age. Of course there are spiritual prodigies, as there are mathematical and linguistic prodigies, but such exceptional cases can be dealt with in an exceptional way when they make their appearance.

The noon-day services are in charge of our Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and are therefore just as truly Brotherhood services as those at the Garrick or St. Paul's or anywhere else. They are also intended, not merely for the members of St. Stephen's, but for all who can and will come to them. Their appeal and invitation extends as widely and indiscriminatingly as the music of our chimes. Most of the speakers come from outside of the city. They are men of spiritual power and wide vision and we believe that we confer a blessing on the city in bringing to it fresh voices of faith and love. In one instance with the permission of the Bishop, we have availed ourselves of a new opening afforded to Christian love and comprehensiveness and have secured a prominent Presbyterian minister, well known in this city for his catholic temper and message.

Our services are not parochial in their invitation, nor even denominational. They are truly catholic services, urbi et orbi.

But they are in this sense parochial, namely, in that they take the place of parish services. Everyone in the parish is especially invited to attend and take part in the singing, or ushering, in the prayer and devotion, and in the contributions for their maintenance and for the missionary box. This custom of noon-day services, in Lent, has spread like a banyan tree, and now has many points of observance; but the loyalty of our people is due to St. Stephen's. Surely they can find no environment so helpful for prayer and praise. An eminent college president testified the other day that he had early adopted the rule of fidelity to his own church and avoided any tendency to ecclesiastical vagrancy. He who would be steadfast in life must practise himself in steadfastness.

During Lent there will be a Communion every Sunday; on the first Sunday in the month at the eleven o'clock service, and on other Sundays at 10.45. It is hoped, however, that the early Communion will not be made a substitute for the sermon at eleven o'clock, except for cause and occasionally. There has been a good deal of criticism of the Morning Prayer in the columns of the Churchman, but those who love our Church's services and have been trained in its worship from childhood cannot endorse the criticism. Not that the Morning Prayer is absolutely perfect. Some of the lessons are too long and not well chosen. There ought to be some short and evangelical chant as an alternative for the long and elaborate Te Deum, which should be obligatory only on great days, like Christmas, Easter, Whitsunday, Trinity Sunday, and perhaps on the Sundays in Advent and Lent. For other Sundays a shorter chant with more of Christianity in it then the song of the three Hebrew children would be a gain.

With greater flexibility and enrichment the service could be improved. If the reading of the ten commandments in the Ante-Communion service were required only once a month, it would be more feasible to combine the Morning Prayer and Ante-Communion service, as of old and so have a service of remarkable wealth of prayer, praise and Scripture readings, all arranged in such a way as to relieve the strain on the attention, and at the same time enlist the co-operation of the worshipers. It would be a great loss to give up such a service as the regular morning worship and to substitute for it the celebration of the Holy Communion, which makes its chief appeal only to the communicants and demands far less of the congregation and has less variety of posture and of teaching.

When the Presbyterians argued against the observance of Easter, on the ground that our Lord's resurrection was commemorated on every first day of the week, when we meet to worship then instead of on the Jewish Sabbath, our divines replied that such hebdominal celebration failed to bring out like a less frequent observance, the unique and glorious character of the Resurrection. The same spirit that created the Church Year teaches that the extraordinary rites of our Faith should not be put in the place of the ordinary and routine services. Let us not lose our beautiful and unique service of Common Prayer.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

There was no outside speaker at the meeting held on Thursday, February 15th, but the different committees had so much of interest to report that the lack was hardly felt.

The meeting was called an "Auxiliary Conference," and its aim was to show just what part the women of our Church are taking in the Forward Movement of Missionary activity. Mrs. English explained the "United Offering" and told what it had done in the past. She urged that every member of the Auxiliary take some part, however small, in this great thank-offering by women for women. The apportionment system was then taken up and an effort was made to understand just when contributions will count toward the sum we must raise, and when they will be considered "Specials."

The Mission Study Class, led by Mrs. English, will devote this Lent to "The Conquest of a Continent," a history of missions in our own country. Those who, for any reason, were unable to join the class, were urged by our president to buy and read the text-book during Lent.

Mrs. Butcher, chairman of our branch of the Church Periodical Club, said that she had received offers of forty magazines. Copies of the Ladies' Home Journal are much in demand.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Thursday, March 21st, at eleven o'clock.

Children's Friend Society.

Donation received from King's Daughters Circle in February $1.00.

An entertainment was given February 28th, when Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds showed some of their beautiful motion pictures.

Subjects presented were selected from the following: Barbara Fritschie, Declaration of Independence, David Copperfield, Dorothy's Family, The Missing War Messenger, The Tale of a Cat, The Toss of a Coin, Fat Woman, and Tweedledum's Riding Boots, and others.

This Society invited the Sunday School, both infant and main schools, as their guests to this entertainment.

Mr. Reynolds's beautiful pictures and lecture and Mrs. Reynolds's singing were very much enjoyed. The children always talk of the entertainment the whole year.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

The King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle have their next meetings in the Guild Room, March 6th and 20th, at 8 o'clock.

February 21st was a larger meeting than usual, having two visitors which we are always glad to see. A box was packed with another infant's outfit, containing slips, sacks, flannel wrappers, a little cap, a baby's blanket, socks, etc., and will be given to Miss Lewis for a poor family where a little stranger is expected.

Shoe Fund.

Donations received in February:

From Mrs W. J. Galbraith	$1.00
Those receiving shoes	50
Total	$1.50
Expended for shoes in February	69
Balance	$ .81

Donations of seven or eight pairs of second hand shoes from Miss N. Swift. Gave out in February 12 pairs of shoes and 10 pairs of overshoes.

Miss Bella Townsend has been assisting Mrs. Vanderslice with the giving out of shoes this winter.

If any one in the congregation has a pair of wide women's shoes, number nine, they would be very acceptable. We can not get shoes wide enough for some of our poor people.

Perhaps a soft gentleman's shoe would answer the purpose.

Notice.

There will be a Mass Meeting under the auspices of the Interdenominational Committee of Young Women for Foreign Missions, on Tuesday evening, March 5th, at 8 o'clock, in Calvary Presbyterian church, Locust street west of 15th. The speaker will be Mrs. Helen Barret Montgomery.

As this is the first opportunity since the Jubilee to hear Mrs. Montgomery in Philadelphia, and it is expected that the meeting will be most inspiring and helpful, a large audience is hoped for. All the women of the congregation are invited to be present, and the younger women are especially urged to attend, as the meeting is being held particularly in their interest.

Parish Visitor's Report.

The severe cold weather of this winter and the inevitable suffering that accompanied it and followed in its train, was mitigated to a considerable degree to those who shared in the generosity of Mr. Hollar's gift of coal. Two tons in January made three families rejoice and two tons in February were received with joy. Imagine what a home would be like in freezing weather without a fire—even if the home consists of but one or two rooms, with the wind whistling outside, banging the shutters, finding many a crevice and loose board by which to enter and the thermometer down to zero. Then think what a ton of coal means. More than nuggets of gold.

On such a cold day, our sympathies were stirred by a young married woman coming to the church with a baby in her arms. She had been one of our Sunday School girls and also a pupil of our Parochial school when it was in existence. Now at nineteen, with a husband out of work, and a baby, her outlook into the future was bitter indeed, for they were in deep distress. It was gratifying to us that in her trouble she turned first to the church.

As is generally the way, when working and receiving wages regularly, those who depend upon the weekly wage, never seem to think the time may come when those wages may cease. And this woman and her husband were no exception to the rule—they had been buying their furniture in their little home on the instalment plan and after thirteen dollars had been paid the work gave out, the weekly wages ceased, and all searching for employment proved futile, so the proprietor of the instalment house removed all the furniture, only leaving them a mattress for their thirteen dollars. Then the food gave out and with nothing to eat, despair staring them in the face, she came, bringing the little baby, whom Mr. Long had baptised, to the Church as her refuge in time of trouble.

Our Scotch family can return to Scotland when the children are over their whooping cough through the bounty of Mr. Samuel Moore, Mrs. C. M. Richardson and Mr. Colket, who responded to the appeal of last month for the balance of the fund. What joy it will bring to her parents and sister; what a fullness of joy for the children, removed from a house of three rooms in a court of the slums, to the sunshine and air and fields of heather. their opportunities of education and of being reared in the wholesome home atmosphere of love of relatives. May God's richest blessing rest upon those who have made this possible and who out of their abundance and their tender sympathies gave so freely to those less fortunate. In the meantime the family have to be helped for the husband is out of work but not drinking.

We have secured positions for two this month; one is placed in a household as maid and the other as a companion to a blind woman.

Mrs. D. W. Lane responded generously and gave the material for a black skirt for Sister Magdaline, the Mission Mother, who gives her time and labor for the uplift of the poor, receiving no compensation. She lives by faith.

A box of good warm underwear, marked G. F. S., came to us and we were most glad to see it.

The Burd School.

To the Members and Friends of St. Stephen's Church:

In behalf of all connected with the Burd School, I wish to take this means of thanking you most sincerely for the great interest which you showed in the Burd School Chorus Concert on February 17th, not only by securing tickets and helping us to make it a financial success, but by your presence as well. It will be gratifying to those interested to know that financially it was even more of a success than we had dared to expect, and we hope all who were present felt that the concert itself was a success.

Very sincerely,

ORA M. HARNISH.

The Work Among Our Boys.

Friday evenings are finding more boys in hearty enjoyment of the discussions of their miniature Senate, of the Physical Instruction and games, and particularly of Mr. Fountain's talks on "First Aid to the Injured." We have also added for their increasing interest moving and lantern pictures at the close of their meetings.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Junior Brotherhood is increasing in membership and its members are assisting in the Sunday School, in the Church services, and in the Rector's Sunday evening service of song, as well as at the Noon-day Meetings, and several will be in the Confirmation Class. They recently had their annual meeting at their Director's home, renewing their interest in their obligation of prayer and service. Their next meeting will be the second, instead of the first Sunday in March, in the Sunday School Building. Their Secretary, Theo. Hein, is in charge of the fund which the members are accumulating towards sending members to the next annual convention in Chicago, September 4th.

Men and Religion Forward Movement.

In all churches which had committees for forwarding work among men and boys on the plan of this Men and Religion campaign the object now is local to each church, that is, to conserve the values of the recent meetings and continue its five-fold activities of "Boy Work," "Bible Study," "Evangelism," "Social Service," and "Missions." Our old church has the committee and every phase of these activities. All it needs is more workers with a willing spirit to assist in making these activities hum with renewed zeal.

The Alpha Kappa.

The Sunday School room was filled with a sociable and merry throng on the evening of the Alpha Kappa's play of "Uncle," Thursday, February 15th. Winfield Brown, as "Uncle," quite surpassed himself, as also did Charles Moore, who, as "Uncle's Nephew," put into the character the necessary realism to bring out the comedy. The care-free, happy-go-lucky, loving "Jack," Harry Bush, did "splendidly," as some one said. Miss Burd deserved and more, the flowers which she received as the curtain went down on her faithful portrayal of "Mrs. Beaumont," and Miss Corrigan's fetching humor, made a principal part of the character of "Sarah." Carl Powers made a good beginning as "Dooner's Chef" and the first appearance with us of Miss Crockett, a graduate of the Burd School, now a member of our Sunday School, won hearty applause, which she well deserved in her play of "Emily."

The young men of the Alpha Kappa are much indebted to all the players, particularly to the young ladies for their kind assistance, and to Miss Sanders for her cordial hospitality at rehearsals, besides, everyone was pleased with another happy evening so cheerfully given to the social work of the Sunday School.

The Sunday School.

None of us who were present at Mr. Long's funeral service will forget its silent, solemn tribute to his memory so sweetly expressed by the quiet presence of a church full of sorrowing friends, from the Bishops and Clergy down to the many members of our Sunday School. We miss him and repeat his favorite collect each Sunday morning in our prayer, preceding Bible study.

The lay Superintendent is now reviewing the lessons on the Early Apostolic Leaders, on the first Sunday in each month by means of the lantern and pictures. The first Sunday in February he showed Life in Rome under Nero, to get the condition under which these early Christians struggled for their faith. The first Sunday morning session in March he will show pictures from the Life of St. Paul.

The "Cross and Crown" system of wearing a button badge or pin, for constant attendance and getting more valuable ones up to a gold one, as a reward for constancy, is working with success. For the last few Sundays every teacher and almost every scholar have been faithful in attendance and the school is in a very encouraging and vigorous condition. Miss Denny's class and the Alpha Kappa have given entertainments which have added to the happy social life. A number have started in with Dr. Grammer's class on Confirmation, and we can cheerfully say the main purpose of the school, its spiritual life is growing to fruition.

The annual Parochial Meeting will be held according to our custom on the second Monday after Easter, April 15th, at 8 P. M. All the societies and organizations connected with the Church, from Vestry down, are requested to attend, and the members are asked to sit together as far as possible.

Notice has been sent to the presidents and secretaries, and reports will be read as usual. Please make a note of the evening, and reserve it for this important congregational meeting. The invitation to be present is extended to everyone who is in any way connected with St. Stephen's.

The Duplex Envelopes.

This system has come into the Church to stay, and is steadily spreading. The most conservative parishes are rapidly adopting it. It was inaugurated in St. Stephen's two years ago with most beneficial results; but no system will work of itself. We must exert ourselves to extend it. Everyone who is confirmed and brings a letter of transfer ought as a matter of course to receive a package, as this is our method of receiving offerings. There is absolutely nothing inquisitorial about it, for no one knows the amount contributed by individuals. All that is recorded is whether the envelope is returned and whether only one or both sides are used. The following letter has been sent out:

Lent, 1912.

MY DEAR PARISHIONER:

System is as necessary in the Church as in secular affairs. It forms good habits, and it also produces results of value. Even the most spontaneous acts such as prayer, need to be cultivated, and performed according to some rule. This principle holds good of our giving. Only by regularity can we gain the habit of worshiping the Lord with our substance, or give a worthy amount to the maintenance and extension of the Church. To attain these important ends, we introduced the Duplex Envelopes into St. Stephen's two years ago. The results have been encouraging. Our offerings increased at once. But it is clear that we can do much better. There are many who have not accepted the boxes, or make no use of them. Others who have taken them use them only fitfully. Let us start this year, with the resolve that every envelope in our box, shall carry an offering into the Church's treasury. Secondly, let us endeavor to get every one in the Church to accept a package of envelopes. Thirdly, let us try to put something into each pocket every Sunday.

Let us each give according to our abilities; the poorer members not discouraged by the necessary smallness of their gifts, and the richer not wearied by the number of the demands that come upon them from many quarters, but giving as God hath prospered them.

The money placed in the pocket marked simply "Missions," will go to the Apportionment.

Three thousand dollars are asked of St. Stephen's for this object, from Sunday School, Women's Auxiliary and Congregation. Let us do our best. The Board of Missions assumed definite obligations and looks to us to aid in their fulfilment. May God give us the spirit of liberality.

If you are willing to co-operate, won't you sign the enclosed card and return it to me at your earliest convenience, in the self addressed envelope, which you will find enclosed.

Your friend and rector,

CARL E. GRAMMER.

The following appeal has also been sent out by the Rector. Some responses have come in but about fifty dollars more is needed. It is hoped all communicants, who have not contributed, will send in their offerings promptly:

March 19, 1912.

My Dear Parishioner:

May I remind you that your annual contribution has not been made this year to Diocesan Missions?

The Church is pledged to the Convocation for $550, and also for the Sustentation Fund, $106.89. Besides, there are pledges for the colored work in this city.

I have on hand $556.42. If those who heretofore have contributed will send their money, and if some of the new members who have not contributed, will take up this obligation, we can easily raise the amount expected.

It is the custom that communicants who can afford it, should contribute five dollars, but if that is too large a sum we are glad to receive whatever seems best.

Sincerely Yours,
Carl E. Grammer.

A careful list has been made of the contributors, but it is possible that you may have put your offerings in the plate and so have sent in your gift already. In that case, this reminder is not meant for you.

The Bells.

All through Lent the chimes have been rung and the sweet strains of familiar hymns have greeted the passer-by, and summoned to worship the dwellers in the neighborhood. It can not be doubted but that they have increased the attendance at the noon-day services, for at the Sunday Evening social hour in the familiar converse that is a feature of the evening, it has been confessed by many of our visitors that the music of the bells arrested their attention as they passed, and lured their feet into our fold. These improved chimes constitute a valuable addition to our equipment, thanks to the generous donor. Everyone agrees that they are greatly bettered, and reflect credit on the skill of the tuner. Whether he has exhausted the resources of his art will be decided by experts. His task was most difficult, for in addition to securing the pitch, he had to reckon with the overtones that tend to vary the tone-color, and prevent the uniformity of timbre that is so desirable. It is a question, whether the windows in the tower should not have slats that will open, and so let out the sound more freely. The notes in the chime are C, D, E, F, F sharp, G, A, B flat, B, C, D. Three additional bells have been added, and one of the old bells has been laid aside so the total increase is two bells.

Mr. Geo. H. Streaker has been the chief bell-ringer thus far, and in conjunction with Mr. Chas. Moore is forming a guild of bell-ringers of the boys and girls. Much enthusiasm was shown in the Sunday School about such a guild. Mr. John Graff has selected and transposed a number of hymns, and furnished a goodly list that can be played upon the notes of our chime.

Bishop Rhinelander confirmed on the afternoon of Palm Sunday a class of 29. One candidate was too ill to be present, and will be confirmed later. This was the Bishop's first official visitation to St. Stephen's, and he received a hearty welcome. After the service he met the members of the Vestry in the Rector's room. We are grateful to the Bishop for continuing Palm Sunday afternoon as the date for Confirmation in St. Stephen's.

At the request of the Rector, the Bishop has appointed Mr. Geo. H. Streaker lay-reader in St. Stephen's Parish under a license that permits him to deliver addresses in that capacity. Mr. Streaker has been serving in this way since the death of Mr. Long.

The Sunday evening song service continues successful. The average attendance last month was about sixty. We need to be advertised by our loving friends, and we also need a committee that will look up the strangers.

The noon-day services have been splendidly attended. All the speakers gave us most helpful addresses. The largest attendance at the time of our writing has been during the week of Dr. Charles Wood, whose friends embraced this opportunity of hearing him. On one day the numbers reached fourteen hundred. There was also much interest in observing the working out of the provisions of Canon 19. Dr. Wood, in the historic Genevan gown and with bands with his Princeton hood was an impressive figure, reminding everyone of the scholarly ministry to which he belongs, and delivered a series of most impressive and helpful addresses. His unifying thought was that Christ's religion is given us that we may have life more abundantly.

The splendid pall which was begun at Dr. Worcester's suggestion some years ago, has at last been completed. Some suitable arrangement must now be made for hanging it. The magnificent piece of needlework is the result of many years of faithful work on the part of the ladies, who under the leadership of Mrs. H. P. Taylor have embroidered it assiduously. Any ladies who may be interested in this ornament, but have not been able to join the workers, are invited to contribute to the cost of the fringe and hanging, which will amount to about $40.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Charles Noblit, or to Mrs. H. P. Taylor. The pall will be on exhibition in the Church on Monday, April 15th.

The Work Among Our Boys.

The smaller boys are busy every Friday evening from seven to ten o'clock in their Senate and its business session, their physical culture drills and games, and particularly their studies in "First Aid to the Injured." On Friday evening, April 19th, at eight o'clock, they will give their Annual Entertainment, with music, drills, a new demonstration and the ever-popular "Moving Pictures." Subscriptions will be ten cents, admitting to all the festivities, and it is hoped their friends will all be present.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

The players of this Society did so well with their recent production of "Uncle," that they have been requested to give it again on Thursday, April 11th, at 8 P. M., at the Episcopal Church of St. John, in their large Parish House, at Elkhart and Emerald streets, Kensington, for the benefit of their Bible Class of Adults. The young ladies of the play, Misses Burd, Corrigan and Crocket, are in rehearsal with Messrs. Bush, Brown, Moore and Powers to make it an even greater success than in February, and it is hoped that many of their friends of St. Stephen's will be there to assist them by their presence.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

This young brotherhood, which is actively assisting in the Sunday School, tries to be of value in the Church services and the Sunday evening service of song. Its usual first Sunday in the month meeting will be postponed owing to the activities of Easter Sunday, to Sunday morning, April 14th, when it is desired that all members be present.

The Sunday School.

The Sunday School has been particularly well attended during the past month. We were glad to welcome Miss Shellenberger back from her South American trip and her little ones are heartily at work in the Primary Department and happily preparing for their part in the Easter Carol Festival.

They joined us on Sunday, March 3rd, when we tried to illustrate our lessons on the life of St. Paul with lantern slides and moving pictures. The morning sunlight was too strong to get good results. The Rector brought in Bishop Spaulding, and his Western missionary stories made bright the occasion. Since then, Charles Moore, of the Sunday School, has very kindly put on the old discarded shutters to the windows and on the last Sunday in March we were enabled to illustrate beautifully the lesson of Holy Week, "Christ Crucified," by means of the Wm. Hole pictures.

The Confirmation of many of our scholars by Bishop Rhinelander on the afternoon of this last Sunday in March, makes "Palm Sunday," 1912, a most sacred day in our calendar.

We are busy under Dr. Anthony, learning our beautiful Easter Carols. The teachers' meeting of March 17, planned for a repetition of Mr. Kirkpatrick's beautiful decorations of last year. And we look happily forward to Sunday afternoon, April 14, at 4 o'clock, in the church, when we have our Easter Carol Service. Everyone should make it a point to be present on this festival occasion, when all the children and scholars and officers of the Burd School and the Sunday School of St. Stephen's unite for their Annual Easter-tide Carol service.

George H. Streaker.

Woman's Auxiliary Notes.

The Lenten meeting of St. Stephen's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on March 21st, at 11 o'clock. Those who braved the storm felt well repaid after they had heard Miss Elizabeth Wood tell of her recent experiences in China and of the conditions there during the first days of the revolution. Miss Wood spoke to our Auxiliary five years ago, when she was raising money for Boone Library which is now an accomplished fact and a great influence for good. She showed us photographs of the beautiful Grecian building in Wuchang and told us that many of the books which started the library came from Philadelphia. She says that the young Chinese who are the backbone of the revolution look to America with great admiration, and that their recent articles of confederation are modeled on ours. Is it not important that in this formative period we should give them the best and not the worst that our civilization has to offer?

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House, on Thursday, April 18th, at 11 o'clock.

The Altar Society.

A suggestion has been made to the Altar Society that the members of the congregation would like to commemorate some special date, either in their lives or in that of others, by offering flowers for the decoration of the table of our Lord on the Sunday nearest to that date. Accordingly, a list is here printed, of the Sundays for the year, beginning with Easter Sunday, April 7, and the names of members who wish to supply the flowers on specified dates, will be filled in as fast as received. It is earnestly hoped that all those will respond, who, in this way, wish to keep alive a hallowed memory; it may be a sad one, or one full of joy, but, in every case, it will prove, that in this practical world, the sentiment of affection is ever present in our lives, and that one is all the better in spirit and in mind for yielding to its touch.

The cost of flowers for the altar is one dollar and a half each Sunday, which amount should be sent at the same time with your name and date chosen. Send to the secretary of the Altar Society, Mrs. William B. Campbell, 1711 Pine street, and help fill up the unallotted Sundays, for, in all probability, they will eagerly be applied for. By sending the money at once with your name, address and specified date, the acknowledgment will be made by having your name printed opposite the date selected, and will appear in the next issue of the PARISH NEWS, and the Altar Society will gladly carry out your wish to decorate the altar on that Sunday.

Special Notice.

An illustrated lecture on "The Conquest of the Continent" will be given by Rev. Hugh L. Burleson, on Tuesday evening, April 23, at the New Century Drawing Room, at eight o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to the members of St. Stephen's congregation to attend this lecture, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the author of the book describe the steady march of the Church across our continent.

It was suggested that this text-book be read during Lent by members of the Woman's Auxiliary, and it must be a source of gratification to the author and the Board of Missions to know that ten thousand copies were sold in six months, three thousand in two weeks. As the edition was exhausted, and many were unable to procure copies, the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's are glad to announce that Dean Burleson has consented to come to Philadelphia on the date mentioned to relate in person the contents of the book, and illustrate it with lantern slides. The audience is not restricted to St. Stephen's Parish only, although the lecture will be given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of our Parish, but every man and woman will be welcome who is interested in the growth of the Church at large, and the spread of Christianity.

JOS. B. VAN DUSEN, JR.,
Treasurer.

The Envelope System.

The report of the Treasurer of the Envelope system shows how the plan is working. There can be no doubt but that the system is most excellent; the trouble is that it is not universally accepted, nor faithfully worked by all who have agreed to accept the packages. Our Church is supported in part by the income from the endowment, in part by the pew rents, and in part by voluntary gifts, most of which come through the envelope system. By these packages everybody has an opportunity to contribute to the support of the Church that ministers to him. Surely everyone ought to have a package. Moreover, our Church is charged with the duty of aiding the Diocese, and the General Church. The channel through which most of our gifts come for these objects is the envelopes.

How can we do our part towards the diocese and the Church as a whole if we do not work with the system?

A record is kept of the return of the envelopes and a note is also made as to which pocket contains a gift, so that we can tell how the system is working. On examining the records, which are kept with most business-like care and neatness, the Rector found that some people used them only fitfully or apparently soon forgot all about them. Let us begin this season by using these carriers faithfully. Envelopes can be obtained on application to Mr. Jos. Van Dusen, Jr., the Stephen Girard Building.

This Church is asked to contribute $3,000 towards the apportionment. In the year ending with the first of September we contributed from the Church, $1,432.54; from the Woman's Auxiliary, $304.86, and from the Sunday School, $361; total, $2,098.40.

We are bearing the needs of the Board more loyally than in the past, but we can do better. Let us see whether we cannot reach the goal. I hope every office bearer in the Church will set a good example, and co-operate with the system. How can the rank and file be expected to keep step if the leaders do not march to the music?

About the first of October the Rector issued the following appeal and statement in behalf of St. Stephen's Church Work Fund:

The Rector appeals to the members and attendants of St. Stephen's for their annual contributions to the Church Work Fund. A summary is given below of the uses to which this fund has been appropriated since it was collected last November. Some of these items will be diminished this year, notably the appropriations to the Altar Society, whose funds will be largely derived from subscriptions for flowers on special Sundays, and whose embroidery class will be discontinued. The telephone bills will also be paid henceforth by the Treasurer of the Church, as one of the regular expenses.

On the other hand, much more should be expended for the services of a secretary, such as all large churches now have, in order that the Rector may not spend his mornings acting as his own clerk. At least three hundred dollars ought to be devoted to this use. More money will undoubtedly be needed to finance the Girl's Friendly, now that the church has sustained the great loss of Miss Wilkins. An additional expense has been assumed in the informal services of Sunday night that were inaugurated so successfully last winter and ought to be continued. The work will be hampered unless fourteen hundred dollars shall be contributed. For that amount the Rector asks earnestly. He hopes for a prompt and general response, as the treasury is about empty.

The unusual promptness and generosity of the responses to the appeal for the Church Work Fund has enabled the Rector to improve the equipment of the Parish House by ordering the installation of a new elevator that will connect the Guild Room with the kitchen in the third story, and to make some needed improvements in the kitchen. These repairs will cost a hundred dollars, but they will do away with the necessity of tables in the Guild Room, when refreshments are served, and so will enlarge the capacity of that room, and will also be a great saving of time, exertion and china; for under the present condition the cups and saucers of nearly a hundred women have to be carried down and up stairs every Thursday night, when the Mothers' Meeting is in session.

Out of this fund the Rector also hopes, if the contributing continue, to provide a metallic screen that will satisfy the fire insurance company, and obtain permission from them to use the splendid magic lantern which Luban presented to the Sunday School. This fine lantern's moving pictures have been a great source of pleasure and profitable instruction to our Sunday School, and various societies, and it has been a great limitation to our efficiency that we have been deprived of its use. Some admirable lectures on ethics, illustrated by moving pictures of scenes in daily life that are highly recommended and would be available if we had such a screen, cannot be given under present conditions. Neither can we have the reviews of the Sunday School lessons by pictures that were so popular last year. I hope that such a screen can be constructed for a moderate sum.

Our new assistant, the Rev. F. B. Cannon, comes to us from the diocese of Harrisburg, with letters of high commendation from his Bishop, and from the Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim, who sat under his ministrations this past summer at Blue Ridge Summit. He has been in our ministry about two years. In addition to assisting at the services in St. Stephen's he will minister at the Burd School on Sunday afternoons, on Wednesday evening, and will have a communion in the School Chapel at 8 o'clock on the second Sunday of every month.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An Informal Dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church, will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday evening, November 19th. Notice of the place will be given later.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this Dinner. The price of the Dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to Mr. William H. Hansell, chairman of committee, 904 Provident Building, Philadelphia.

Woman's Auxiliary Meeting.

The first meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday, the 17th of October, at 11 o'clock.

A message was received from the president, Miss Laura Bell, who was on her way home from Europe. In her absence Dr. Grammer presided. The minutes were read and approved, and the Treasurer's report showed a balance of $165.30. The five committees were represented, and after the reports Dr. Grammer paid a beautiful tribute to Miss Wilkins, who died last summer. A committee consisting of Mrs. Grammer and Mrs. Lucas was appointed to draft a memorial minute, and it was announced that a memorial service would be held on the first Sunday in November.

It was voted that the funds should be divided among the five committees, the funds received from the Treasurer of the Church to be devoted only to causes that will count on the Apportionment, after which the meeting adjourned.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

This Circle will have their next meetings Nov. 6th and Nov. 20th, Guild Room, Parish House, quarter of 8 o'clock.

New members welcome.

Shoe Fund Society.

The Shoe Fund Society will open the second Tuesday in November, from 11 until 12 o'clock in Guild Room of the Parish House.

Miss Townsend and Mrs. Vanderslice will be there to give out shoes to those who need them.

Donations of shoes or money for this work will be very acceptable.

Parish Visitor's Report.

On the threshold of a new season of our work the Parish Visitor looks back with a heart full of gratitude to our Heavenly Father that the summer has gone by with less intense suffering than in former years. The weather was greatly in our favor and the times being more prosperous, we had little difficulty in placing those who applied for work.

Many of our congregation, although away for the summer, had such loving sympathy for those bearing the heat and the burden of the long summer days in the hot city, that they sent money to allow some of the children to go to St. Stephen's Farm and to assist three mothers with their babies to the Sea Shore House at Atlantic City. One sick woman was kept at the Mercer Home, Atlantic City, five weeks by another lady. The woman intended going for one week, but the physician in attendance insisted that she remain five, the lady paying for the full five weeks.

Milk was sent each day all summer to tuberculosis patients and paid for by those whose good work continues the year round.

During the summer months our Sunday School had four delightful picnics. One of these was on Memorial Day at the Burd School. Later in the summer an excursion to Asbury Park and another to Cape May. Special rates were given for the day and each one paid his or her own expenses. The teachers and the large boys and girls only went on these later excursions.

The behavior of the boys and girls on these picnics deserves commendation. We have fine, large boys and girls in our Sunday School. They all seemed so happy to see the Ocean and spend a day on the sands that we felt we had made a good choice in selecting the spot for a picnic.

Our last one, but not least, was for all who attend our summer Sunday School. I think we had about sixty little children, with a number of our older boys and girls, who did much to make the little ones happy.

Dr. Grammer had so many demands for money that he could only leave ten dollars for this picnic. Mrs. H. P. Taylor sent us a donation and Mrs. Vanderslice sent tickets for the Zoological Garden, and Mr. Streaker proved a good financier, providing for carfare, ice cream and cake for all.

If some of the questions asked by the little ones at the Zoo could be repeated, it would be very convincing that there was considerable gray matter in those dear little heads.

After these bright, sunshiny picnic days we went home very tired, but also very happy.

As Thanksgiving Day is drawing near the Parish Visitor is hoping for some contributions much needed for our good work.

KATE H. LEWIS.

The Farm.

There is probably no work carried on by St. Stephen's which succeeds in carrying more happiness into the lives of our people than that of the Farm, and the relation which it bears to the summer life of the Parish is a most important one.

As usual, the Farm opened on June 15th. The first two weeks of the season our guests were for the most part mothers and their young children. Some of these women still recall when they, as children, visited the Farm under the tender care of kind Sister Elizabeth. On two holidays—the Fourth of July and Labor Day—the Farm is given over to the members of the Girls' Friendly Society. These house parties are indeed unique, and it is needless to say very much enjoyed. On last Labor Day the party was larger than usual; about 46, in fact more than could be comfortably accommodated, but everyone was willing to "squeeze in anywhere," so that they might come. It was a pleasant sight to see the girls assembled in the dining room, to look into their happy faces, and listen to the singing of the blessing—"Be present at our table, Lord"—to the tune of "Old Hundredth." In the midst of this happiness came the sad news of the death of our dear Miss Wilkins. While it was known that she had been ill, it was thought she was steadily improving, and her death was a great sorrow to those who knew and loved her so well, and to whom her life meant so much. On Sunday, September 1st, the usual service was in memory of Miss Wilkins, with an address by Mr. Streaker and appropriate solos by Mrs. David D. Wood and Mr. Charles Manypenny of St. Stephen's choir.

An innovation this season was the week-end visit of the Sunday School teachers as the guests of Dr. Grammer. This was voted a great success, with the hope that it may be repeated next year.

Another interesting feature was the day's outing given each week to the members of the "Mothers' Meeting" who cannot for many reasons go into the country for a longer time. A party of sixteen or seventeen came out each Thursday. The mornings were spent in exploring the grounds, enjoying the beauties of the country from the porch, or resting under the trees on the lawn. There was a specially good dinner, and afterwards music and entertainment. Tea was served just before leaving. It was always a happy, jolly company, and to show their gratitude and appreciation of the comforts of the Farm, these "Mothers" this past season expended $164 (the proceeds from a fair held last December) in purchasing a new carpet for the parlor, and a number of other articles very much needed. This in itself is most praiseworthy, that the "Mothers" should give such substantial support, and take such delight in doing it.

And then the "Boys."—This summer an experiment was tried of having the boys work for a part of each morning. The older ones were employed in cutting down dead wood in the orchard, and repairing the fences, while lighter duties were assigned the younger ones. Most of them worked very hard and were kept so busy at work and play, that there was very little time to get into mischief. Swimming, long walks, nature-study, not to mention baseball, all had their place. At the Presbyterian Sunday School picnic our boys carried off all the prizes, much to the astonishment of the Presbyterian boys, who were quite overcome by the wonderful feats performed by the boys of St. Stephen's, one of our younger members diving to the bottom of Neshaminy Creek (clothes and all) to rescue a baseball. Wet clothing for a whole day had no terrors for this little chap.

There has been great interest shown by our people this past year, and through their generosity the house was made very attractive. As the piano furnishes a large part of the entertainment at the Farm, and as the old one was almost past using, the splendid instrument presented by Mr. and Mrs. William R. Taylor was very much enjoyed and many were the expressions of gratitude and appreciation. The furnishings in the Van Dusen rooms were replenished by the members of that family, and through the kindness of Mr. Emory McMichael new linoleum was placed on the dining room. It will be remembered that the dining room and also the large dormitory was originally furnished in memory of the late Mrs. Clayton F. McMichael. There were gifts of medicines and fruit from Mrs. Henry P. Taylor, a carpet from Mr. Colket, which was placed in the Library, and from other good frends, books, stationery, and table covers, a hammock and a screen. The Girls' Friendly Society contributed $10, and a gift from Mrs. Lucas's band of beautifully embroidered pincushions and bureau covers for the McMichael Dormitory; also, the King's Daughters renewed the furnishings in their room. Another gift greatly enjoyed, was the library of about 200 volumes from the G. F. S.

The season closed September the 14th with a total of 424 guests for a stay of one week and the serving of 426 extra meals to day visitors. For those who have had the financial management of the Farm, there has been careful thought and anxiety, but it surely must be a source of gratification to know that after all, so many people were given such pleasure and happiness.

E. D.

On Saturday, August 31st, after a week's illness Miss Maria Sanders Wilkins died at Bar Harbor, Maine. Her health had been poor last winter, and she had made her arrangements for giving up housekeeping this year; but no one realized that her vital powers were so much depleted and that the end was so near. When she was seized with the fatal illness she was staying at Sorrento on the main-land close to Bar Harbor. At first appendicitis was feared, and she was carried at once to the hospital at Bar Harbor. This diagnosis was not borne out by the further developments. It soon became manifest that her heart was losing power, and her sister was summoned to her side. Her cousin, Miss Sanders, was in Bar Harbor, and had gone to her as soon as she was taken ill. Mrs. Homer Smith arrived just in time to see her before her death on Saturday.

The loss to St. Stephen's, as well as to her friends and relatives, it is difficult to express. She was the Secretary of St. Stephen's branch of the Girls' Friendly Society, which had steadily grown in numbers, and in loyalty under her inspiring influence. Faithful to all the duties of her office, she exercised an unusual influence over the members by the serene beauty of her lovely character. Crowned with a sweet continual control, she ruled by love and gentleness, and was to the girls both an inspiration and a model. She was also a leading member of the Woman's Auxiliary, as a member of the Committee upon Missions to the Colored People. Her position in the parish was so unique, and influence so helpful, and pervasive, that there will be a special memorial service in her honor on Sunday, November 3, at 11 o'clock, which the Girls' Friendly of the parish will attend in a body. On the way from Bar Harbor to Pittsburg, the body of Miss Wilkins was brought to Philadelphia on September 2d, and remained for a few hours at the home of Miss Sanders, where a brief service was conducted by Mr. Pitblado, the minister then in charge of St. Stephen's, and the members of the Girls' Friendly, then out at the Farm, and a few of Miss Wilkins's friends in the city were present. The service in Pittsburg was read by the Rev. Dr. McIlvaine of that city, whose wife was one of Miss Wilkins's intimate friends, and the burial was in the family burying ground. On the Sunday after her death, Sept. 1st, the regular evensong at St. Saviour's, Bar Harbor, was turned into a service in memory of her, and the Rector, the Rev. Stephen H. Green, paid a tribute to the beauty of her character. For many years she had been a summer resident of Bar Harbor, and the congregation at the service showed the widespread sense of bereavement at her death.

Her memory will long be cherished at St. Stephen's, and her influence can never perish. Never can her friends forget the beautiful nature that irradiated her face with such sweet serenity and cheerful loving kindness. Long will the example of her hospitality remain to teach the rightful use of privilege. She was indeed a gracious gift of God to this Church, and to His name be gratitude and praise even in this hour of bereavement.

Resolution.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Church desires to express its great sense of bereavement in the loss of Miss Wilkins.

With saddened and full hearts they met together on October 17th and listened to the short account that the Rector gave them of her last days. He recalled her interest in her own department, the Colored Committee, and pointed out that it was not limited to one committee, but that it was pervasive and extended even to individuals. As he spoke, all remembered vividly her interest in the mountaineers of the South and her friendship with its missionaries, and that one of our pledges, a scholarship in Mrs. Wetmore's school in North Carolina, stands as a memorial to Miss Wilkins's effort to bring the work before us.

While feeling her loss to be irreparable and extending their sympathy to her family and friends, the Auxiliary gives thanks for this life of sweetness and love and prays that her example may be a continual inspiration to each one of us.

Signed:
MARY W. PAGE GRAMMER.
GRACE VAN DUSEN LUCAS.

The Benevolent Society of St. Stephen's will resume its beneficent activity on Wednesday, Nov. 6th, at 10 o'clock.

The first meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held on Tuesday night, Oct. 29, and arrangements were made for a banquet of the men of the congregation on Nov. 19th, at 7 o'clock.

The Social Hour and Song Service was inaugurated on October 20th, at 7.45 A. M. Sunday night, with the usual attendance and with cordial expressions of pleasure by the former attendants at the resumption. The underlying idea of the service is that an opportunity for such Christian fellowship as is afforded in a Christian home ought to be opened to any one who wishes to spend Sunday evening in that manner. The Rector is, therefore, present in the Parish House at 7.45, and usually the assistant is with him. The first evening the attendance was 46, and the second evening 66. The time is spent chiefly in singing hymns from the Church's Mission Hymnal. Some remarks are made and before the evening closes some verses from the Bible are read and briefly commented upon. In this way the Gospel of St. Mark will be read through this winter. The exercises close punctually at 9 o'clock.

After taking the opinion of the attendants upon the afternoon service, as to the most convenient time for the organ recital, it has been fixed at the half hour just before the afternoon service. Mr. Thunder will hereafter open the recital at 3.30 P. M. on Sunday and will play to 4. This will be his rule, though on the first Sunday in the month he may introduce some singing into this period. Mr. Thunder's zeal for the development of the work is much appreciated, and has already shown its good effects in attracting new attendants to our afternoon service.

Mrs. Grace H. Spencer Lucas has accepted the secretaryship of the Girls' Friendly, and has entered upon the duties of that responsible post with the cordial good wishes of her fellow associates and all the members of the Society. This is a time when all the friends and members of the Girls' Friendly need to stand by it after the severe blow that it has sustained in the death of Miss Wilkins. The members show that they realize this fully and are rallying around the new secretary. It is good to have two new workers among the associates in Mrs Edward McCollin and her daughter, Miss Frances. The regular bands and classes will begin in November. In addition to the customary instruction, classes in singing and in dancing will be inaugurated.

A Memorial to Dr. David Wood.

Another year ought not to be allowed to pass without a memorial to commemorate the long service of Dr. Wood in St. Stephen's and express our sense of admiration for his genius and character, and our gratitude for his remarkable career. The proper form would be a bust or tablet on the north wall of the Church beneath the gallery of the nave, if I may apply such a gothic term to our architecture. The Rector advocates a tablet with a half figure of Dr. Wood in high relief, with his hands on the keyboard of the organ. With the inscription, "O, may I join the choir invisible," and the name and dates of his service at our organ.

The details could be safely left to a committee. An appeal is hereby made for contributions and tokens of interest. The matter will be taken up vigorously by the friends of Dr. Wood who are waiting for St. Stephen's to give the signal. The feeling is general that the proper place for a monument to Dr. Wood is in St. Stephen's. His genius was chiefly exhibited in the composition and rendition of religious music, and it is in the Church with which his fame is associated that his memorial should be erected.

Sunday School Notes.

The regular sessions of the Sunday School began Sept. 29th, with a "Rally Day," the teachers and scholars cheerfully assembling in response to the cards sent out by the Superintendent. The following Friday evening a Teachers' Meeting was held at the Rectory and Dr. Grammer presiding, the winter plans were worked out and primary and other teachers appointed.

At the Jubilee Convention of the State Sunday School Association, held in early October, we were represented by Mr. Streaker. Miss Lewis, Miss Sinclair and Wm. Pedrick were at some of the inspiring meetings.

The great Song Festival held at Convention Hall, Broad and Allegheny avenue, Tuesday evening, October 8th, with its wonderful chorus of over 6,000 Sunday School scholars and teachers, had eleven of our scholars and teachers in its choir. Our Rector was present, exclaiming as he came in: "This is glorious." Never has there been such a scene. Twenty-five thousand Sunday School people crowded the immense building. Seven of our young men were among the several hundred ushers required to handle the throng. Thousands who wanted to be present and hear its marvelous music were unable to get in so great was the demand for seats.

For the first time in our Sunday School history we took part in the Sunday School parade of Saturday afternoon, October 5th. Charles H. Moore with Miss Lewis led our little group to the Assembly of South Philadelphia schools at Passyunk Square, while our Superintendent was called upon to preside at Powers Park. We plan to have a deeper interest next year and have already had wagons offered us to convey the little scholars.

We had five teachers and officers present at the Teachers' Institute of our Diocese held at Holy Apostles Church, October 21st. The Bishop's address on the Power of the Holy Spirit was fine, and the after-conference most helpful.

The Teachers' Meetings of our school are now appointed for the last Friday in each month. On Friday evening, October 25th, at 6.30 our teachers met at supper in the Guild Room, with about every one present, and with Dr. Grammer at the head of the table. Every one was happy. Miss Lewis deserves great credit for serving us so bountifully and so deliciously. The Rector was called away and we reassembled at 7.30, the presiding officer gladly welcoming the Rev. Mr. Cannon into our work. A word of welcome was also extended to the new teachers, Miss Dale, Miss Carrigan, and Wm. Pedrick; also to Miss Nodine who is now our pianist. The Cradle-Roll, Home Department, Teacher Training and Lesson Study topics were in turn discussed. A committee on tableaux was appointed and Christmas Festival plans opened. For the latter we need new scenery badly. From the G. F. S. and the A. K. Society we have in hand $25 for this purpose. Should any one reading this, desire to contribute to this need in Sunday School equipment, it would be most gratefully received. It will take about $75 to put our platform in good shape for Christmas and other festival occasions.

G. H. STREAKER, Supt.

The Summer Sunday School.

This year's Summer Sunday School was the best we have had. Insurance regulations prevented our using the lantern illustrations which were so attractive last year, yet the attendance of from 50 to 100 each Sunday morning during June, July, August and September, quite surpassed other years. On the first Sunday in August, the award of badges for constant attendance since last February was made, and as many of the scholars are trying for the silver badge, due in November, and the gold badge, due next February, this incentive no doubt helped our numbers during the summer.

Of course our excursion to Asbury Park, July 16th, and the delightful outing to Cape May, August 3rd, not forgetting the excursion to the Zoo of August 10th, when the whole strength of the Summer School turned out, gave an additional interest to our summer sessions. The school as usual had its keen interest in the Farm, where nearly every one enjoyed its delightful privileges.

The summer studies were the Missionary Heroes of the Church, from St. Paul to David Livingstone, the school receiving instruction from the Superintendent, all being assembled as one class. It was most helpful to have the assistance of our Miss Lewis and gratifying to see the frequent attendance of many of our teachers. G. H. STREAKER.

Our Boys on the Farm.

This summer our boys spent two most delightful weeks on St. Stephen's Farm. The last two weeks in August having unusually fine weather, the moon smiling cheerily and full on the merry group. The Farm house never was in better shape and Miss Dale most cordial, kind and forgiving, to her happy and noisy guests. Though the farm itself was a problem to the church, yet it never served its purpose better than this summer in giving healthful outings to its many guests from the Sunday School Teachers' assembly and "Retreat" in June, to the "Boys-two-weeks" and on to its close. The boys tried to help a bit to solve the farming perplexities by each morning doing something useful. The new Sunday School orchard was weeded and cultivated. Dead trees and branches were cut down and a never-to-be-forgotten strenuous day was the threshing of the wheat and oats with their assistance, besides the building of a small pond for the younger group. We were organized as "Boy Scouts" in order to preserve discipline and enjoy the "Camp Fire" and study the wonders of woods and fields. Never had we so many afternoon ball games in which, as a rule, we won and this year the delivery of the Woodland-Church Notice to the Hatboro newspaper was accomplished by a relay of our boys, inside of sixteen minutes, surpassing last year's record by several minutes. The Boys' Church-in-the-Woods attracted many. Mrs. Wood most kindly added her voice and musical skill, often being assisted by her talented brother. I wish we could picture the processional one Sunday afternoon, of one hundred boys—including those from Christ Home and the Orange Boys with their band leading down the lane into the woodland to the "Boys' Service," where the congregation, seated on the crude benches we had constructed, approvingly and heartily sang, "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Surely the Farm is serving a good and useful purpose and those who have enjoyed it are grateful to all who have assisted in overcoming its problems. G. H. S.

The Boys' Club and the U. S. Senate.

On Friday evening, October 11th, the Boys convened for this winter's work, and on successive Friday evenings of this month were addressed by Wm. Pedrick, Charles H. Moore, and their Director. The Physical Instructor, Mr. L. W. Fountain, will be on hand Friday, Nov. 1st, when the athletic classes will begin.

The Alpha Kappa Fraternity.

This Society of the young men of the Sunday School had its opening session Wednesday evening, October 23rd. Its Chaplain presided. Mr. Winfield Brown was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Messrs. Streaker, Moore, Bush and Brown were appointed as the Entertainment Committee. Mr. Alfred Snyder was warmly welcomed after his long absence in Chicago. A schedule of winter entertainments was arranged: A Social Evening for early December; a play for January, and plans made for two social evenings following Lent.

The Men's Bible Class Parade.

Twenty-seven thousand men and older boys of the Philadelphia and Pennsylvania churches and Sunday Schools paraded on Broad Street on Thursday evening, October 10th, as members of Adult Bible Classes. It was more than a demonstration of Bible students; it was a service, a processional, showing the widespreading progress of our adult Bible classes. The Superintendent of our Sunday School was the leader of the Seventh District in this parade.

We of St. Stephen's had 25 men and older boys in line. Charles H. Moore was chief aide to the Seventh District, while Winfield Brown and Harry Bush marshalled our forces. We are most grateful towards those of our Parish who aided us with their contributions towards the band and other expenses incurred by the Seventh District Committee, and thus helped this cause to its splendid success.

The Legal Aid Society.

Much of the bitterness of the lot of the very poor arises from their inability to secure justice or the protection of the laws. They know that they are being wronged, but they are also aware that legal aid is costly. They, therefore, suffer passively. To meet such cases the Legal Aid Society has been founded. The offices are on the corner of 15th and Race streets, where legal counsel is as freely dispensed to those in legal difficulties as medical advice is given out from medical dispensaries. It is most interesting to read a record of the cases helped. Only this past week a wife who suffered much from the brutal violence of her husband, came to Dr. Grammer for advice. She was a foreigner who had married young and found herself in a strange land, far from all her friends, tied to a savage bully and without any means. The Society took up her case promptly. A few cases will be given here to show the value of such sociological work.

Case No. 9955. F. has been doing a thriving business selling forged deeds and collecting bogus claims among the colored people of this city. From one old woman he got $100 for collecting a mythical legacy alleged to be payable out of a large estate in process of settlement in the Orphans' Court. From another old woman he obtained $300 for an alleged deed to a valuable house and lot in Atlantic City, which, he explained to her, had recently been left to her by a deceased uncle. When she called to inspect her new property she found it occupied by a family who could show a clear title to the same. The Society has arrested this enterprising conveyancer, and has recovered the money in both cases, and has taken steps to put an end to any further imaginative efforts of this nature.

Case No. 10439. James M. worked for a large company in this city. Owing to sickness of his wife and children he got behind and borrowed $30 from a well-known loan shark, giving an assignment of his wages as security for payment of $46. He paid back $25 on this, and under threat of attachment of his wages, executed another note, of $23, or more than double the usury still remaining unpaid. He was not able to keep these payments up and consulted the Legal Aid Society. This Society took the matter up with the shark, obtained back the notes, and freed James from the burden which harasses many of the poor of this city.

Case No. 10459. When Mrs. W. was married in Germany her old father gave her a gold coin for a luck-piece. This was kept for thirty years. Frantz, a boy of twelve, recently acquired the moving-picture habit. Being short of funds he annexed his mother's heirloom. He showed the gold coin at the corner drug store, and was there told by the proprietor that it was brass and worth about eight cents. The boy finally sold it to the druggist for five cents and again occupied the front row at the nearest moving-picture show. When Mrs. W. discovered the theft the boy confessed. The proprietor of the drug store refused to return the coin.

The Legal Aid Society obtained back, after much negotiation, the original goldpiece, and also gave some sound advice along the lines advocated by Solomon for the training of Frantz, which Mrs. W. has promised to follow.

Case No. 10549. Mrs. R. owned a little cemetery plot. One of her neighbors lost his wife by a sudden illness. As he was unable to make arrangements for her burial Mrs. R. loaned him the deed to her plot, which he placed in the hands of his undertaker. Soon after the death of his wife he lost his job and left the city still owing a balance on his undertaker's bill. A short time ago Mrs. R.'s little girl died suddenly during the heated term. The undertaker refused to surrender the deed of her cemetery lot until she paid her neighbor's indebtedness of some twenty dollars. She had no means, and her child's body was in danger of being buried in the Potter's Field.

The Legal Aid Society recovered her deed from a much-frightened undertaker in about fifteen minutes, and her child was buried in consecrated ground.

By sending aid to such a society, people gain the right to refer freely to it such cases as may come under their observation.

Christmas Dinners.

It is our custom to give out about 125 well-stocked baskets at Christmas, whose distribution is carefully supervised by Miss Lewis. It would be sad that anyone should go hungry on that joyous day. Shall we allow any of the children in the homes to which our baskets usually go, to be disappointed? Let us remember how costly food is at this time and help out our less fortunate brethren by liberal gifts. Envelopes will be distributed in the pews. Let us pass happiness around.

The new schedule of Episcopal visitations has been printed and the date for Confirmation at St. Stephen's has been set for Sexagesima Sunday morning, January 26th, when Bishop Garland will confirm. The first confirmation class will be held on Friday, January 3d, at 8 o'clock in the Vestry. The Rector will be glad to have candidates make themselves known to him before that time, and asks the parents in the congregation and teachers in the Sunday School to co-operate with him in securing members for the class.

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

Annual Sale.

On Thursday, Dec. 5th, The Mothers' Meeting of St. Stephen's church will hold its Annual Sale in the Parish House from 3 to 10 o'clock P. M. Useful and fancy articles, well-dressed dolls, candy and cake will be sold at reasonable prices. The members of the congregation will be able to find both useful and beautiful Christmas gifts among the articles offered.

The proceeds will go toward replenishing our Farm home with many articles badly needed, and which must be had; so that in patronizing the Sale our members will be able not only to encourage those who get it up, but also to assist in one of the most useful charities of St. Stephen's church. Last year a good velvet carpet for the parlor, the painting and papering of this room, also the papering of the House-Mother's room; a large, handsome flag and streamer, twenty-five comfortables for the beds, and the weaving of forty yards of rag carpet (which had been sewed by the Mothers) were provided for by the proceeds of the Sale. As good results are hoped for from this one, if we have a large attendance of church members.

The Envelope System.

The Rector has sent a letter to everyone connected with the congregation, who neither takes a sitting, nor has accepted a package of envelopes asking him to co-operate with the envelope system. He also asks all the pew-holders to use the new method, which is now adopted all over our Church with such good results. A special letter has been sent to those confirmed during his rectorship who have not asked for packages, urging this method of giving upon them.

The Rector's first and supreme wish is to get everyone to commit himself to a systematic method of giving. System forms a habit. It attaches the user of the system more firmly to the Church. It is good for the giver. It is also good for the Church, and brings in the largest returns in the way that distributes the burden most widely, and evokes the most general loyalty.

We ought to be anxious to do our part in furthering the Church's missionary work and in helping our Parish. The committee that has suggested the manner in which Pennsylvania's apportionment should be raised, has certainly overestimated our strength and resources, when it indicates that $6,435.35 would be our proper share of the apportionment.

I shall be gratified if we can raise $3,000. In another number I will take up this question of the apportionment more fully. The Board assumes certain obligations, and the churches must help it out. But the contributions are gifts and not payments of a tax, and the Board's reliance must be upon the free-will offerings of the people, and not upon the coercion of taxation.

The latter is the Jewish method, but it was rejected by the early Church which adopted the voluntary system. Over and over again we have been told that the apportionment is not an assessment, but a suggestion: we still rely upon free-will offerings. But the weight of a suggestion depends upon its wisdom and practicability. Now, $6,435.35 from St. Stephen's is not a practicable proposition. As a down-town church, we are struggling against the movement of the population, and we have a steadily increasing charitable work. Our position requires a large equipment, if we are to avoid the fate of other down-town churches. The next suggestion to St. Stephen's will take a juster measure of our powers. Let us not be discouraged, but let us do the best that we can. Last year registered a wonderful improvement on the year before. Let us take heart.

Our great need is a more general acceptance of the envelopes, and a more faithful use of them by those who have agreed to adopt the system, but have thus far only used it sporadically and without any conscientious regularity.

The Wood Memorial.

The time has arrived when a concerted movement ought to be made to erect a monument in St. Stephen's church to David D. Wood, Doctor of Music, who was its beloved and gifted organist for forty-six years. A committee has been placed in charge of the matter.

Mr. C. Howard Colket, 2008 De Lancey Place, will act as Treasurer of the fund.

One friend has already sent in a subscription. A letter has been received from Baltimore, saying: 'The PARISH NEWS for November has just been received and I can assure you that it received a hearty welcome. If you will let me know when the signal is given I would appreciate the opportunity of adding my mite to the memorial tablet to be erected to the late Dr. Wood in St. Stephen's church. * * * I shall never forget 'Silent Night, Holy Night' as rendered by him. I hope that you will not fail to give the signal for the memorial tablet."

We believe that our Baltimore correspondent expresses the feelings of many hearts in Philadelphia and throughout this section. The unique career of our blind organist and composer calls for some monument in the church he served. His pupils must appreciate the propriety of erecting such a memorial in St. Stephen's. Dr. Wood's most enduring fame will be as a composer of sacred music. His monument should be in a church. It ought to be of real artistic value. I hope $1,000 will be contributed by the congregation of St. Stephen's. If more can be secured, so much the better; but this much we can surely contribute. More will undoubtedly come from outside friends. My idea is a tablet on the north wall under the gallery in the space between the two windows, that open into the passageway to the Vestry. Of course the details must be left to the artist selected and the committee. On the tablet Dr. Wood's service in the church would be recorded and perhaps the words "There shall be no night there." "O, may I join the Choir invisible." The contributions to the Church Work Fund have been so liberal, that I shall not ask anything more this year for that fund, and request those who have hitherto made a practice of giving to it, and have not yet sent in their gifts, to give them instead to the Wood Memorial Fund in addition to what they would have given in any case.

During the past month the church met with the loss of two of its members of long standing. The first was Mrs. Josephine M. Hansell, who was one of the founders of the Girls' Friendly in the diocese, and an active worker at one time in our branch. Her mother, Mrs. C. M. Richardson, is now our oldest communicant, and her son, Mr. Wm. H. Hansell, is the secretary of the Vestry. She died suddenly after having spent a pleasant evening at a concert with a friend. She may be said to have passed from the music of earth to the psalmody of the skies.

Our other bereavement has an additional sadness in that it was the death of the last survivor of a large family. Dr. Richard Alsop Cleemann was the twin brother of our late Senior Warden, Mr. Ludovic C. Cleemann. An honor graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, a surgeon in the U. S. Army during the war, a manager of the University Hospital for years, a frequent contributor to medical journals, a Director of Charities and Corrections, and a State Quarantine Commissioner, he filled many useful positions as a physician, and enjoyed many public honors. He also occupied a prominent place in the social life of Philadelphia. The beauty of his character was manifest to all who knew him. He knew that death usually came upon the members of his family suddenly; but he never allowed this knowledge to lessen his cheerful serenity. Greatly will he be missed from his accustomed place. Long will he be held in affectionate and admiring recollection.

A Memorial Minute.

Monday evening, November 11th, the members of the Girls' Friendly Society were astounded to hear of the death of two former branch secretaries, occurring within the past few weeks, namely, Mrs. Hansell and Mrs. Boden. This, coupled with the great loss sustained in the going home of our late well-beloved secretary and friend, Miss M. Wilkins, acted as an electric shock on the older, or Senior members of the Society, some of whom can look back eighteen years, or more and recall the kind presence of Mrs. Boden, while others may remember the energetic activities of Mrs. Hansell, if not as branch secretary, then in her various connections with the G. F. S. of the diocese.

These departed ones have all been loyal workers, ever willing to aid and encourage the girls, leading them in the way to the goal (ideal womanhood) and ever striving to carry out the motto of the society, in word and deed; their example will encourage emulation, and their memory will live in the hearts of many members of our great society. May they shine as stars in the firmament forever. A. B.

Memorial Flower Fund.

In April of this year a member of the congregation suggested that we start a Memorial Flower Fund. This was done at once and the alacrity with which the members of the church responded was an evidence of their approval. It is hoped that this interest may manifest itself again during the coming church year.

Parish Visitor's Report.

Again the festive season is upon us and the call of the poor is heard, that we forget not in the midst of our own rejoicing our less fortunate or less prosperous brethren. J. M. Barrie says: "Those who bring sunshine into the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

A Thanksgiving gift was received from a little boy, which will be used in making another little boy happy, whom we have known since he was about four years old. He has been a little cripple since babyhood, owing to a fall, which affected his spine. He is now twelve years old and cannot walk, nor is he even able to talk plainly, but is able to dress and undress himself as well as to feed himself. A number of us have tried to get him in almost every institution in the city, but so far have failed. One institution claimed that he would in time be feeble minded; another could not admit him because he was not feeble minded; another said he would require a special nurse, which they could not afford, and so the excuses have gone on. Recently he has been admitted into one of our public schols, starting in the Kindergarten and is now in the first grade. The teacher takes great interest in him and he is learning chair-caning under her instruction during leisure hours, but he prefers schooling and shows a tendency to learn. He has a wheel chair, which was loaned to him from the Shut-In Society, of which he is a member. The scholars seem to be very fond of him. They wheel him to school and then make a chair of their hands and carry him in that way to the school room. He is unusually healthy, aside from his affliction. The Parish Visitor has had him in mind for years, knowing as he grew older he would be more of a problem to handle at home. His mother died three years ago.

If any one can do anything or make any suggestion for the betterment of this child it will be most gratefully appreciated.

Baskets containing a chicken and whatever else was especially needed or desired were sent to the Shut-Ins and the sick.

One dear, old lady eighty-two, asked me eagerly: Did I think I could afford "just a small chicken" for her. She is entirely destitute and is "only waiting to be taken home," as her family and friends have all gone before her. KATE H. LEWIS.

The committee in charge of the Farm makes the following statement of the needs of that property. I hope that it will appeal to the members of the congregation, and will ask that they also read the letter about the Farm.

C. E. G.

AN APPEALING STATEMENT.

There are a number of repairs and improvements that should be made at St. Stephen's Farm, the main house needs painting both inside and out, fences need repairing and new fences should be put up around the garden, farmer's house, chicken house and paddock. We also require a carpenter to do some necessary repairs to the main house, barn, wagon shed and farmer's house. All this work we think can be done for five hundred dollars.

COMMITTEE IN CHARGE.

DEAR DR. GRAMMER: In reading Miss Dale's most interesting report of the work at the Farm this summer, in the last PARISH NEWS, I felt that there was one omission; probably the outcome of the modesty of the writer.

This was that she did not mention the delightful home atmosphere of the Farm, an atmosphere which must not only give happiness to those who stay or visit there, but which must inevitably provide ideals of what a home should be. For it is just that; there is nothing of the institution about it; no flavor of charity in the chilling sense of the word,—though there is plenty of it in the true and Christian sense—it is just a happy, cheerful, pleasant, beautifully kept home.

When I first saw the Farm, several years ago, I was surprised that it was such a pretty, homelike place—just like one's grandfather's in the country, and the house charmed me still more. This year I have had the pleasure of staying there several days, twice, and this impression has deepened; and I find that many members of the church have just the same surprise which I had, on their first visits. One said to me, as I took her over the place, "Why, I am so surprised; it doesn't look at all as I expected; everything is so beautiful and orderly; it's as nice as any one could want!" I asked her if she had expected something different, and found she had expected to find a place furnished with cast-off furniture, cheerless and utilitarian; a Home spelt with a capital, instead of the pretty homelike home to which we invite our young people and tired mothers. And I feel that if more of the congregation would visit the Farm, either when it is opened, or when it is "working" they also would be charmed and surprised, and that the interest would deepen in their hearts and minds as it does with all who see it and its work.

As secretary of the Mothers' Meeting I know what happiness its comfort and peace gives to our members: "Oh, isn't it pretty here!" they say, and the going there even for one day is an event looked forward to for months.

And in justice I must add a tribute to the patient, loving whole-hearted work of the Housemother, Miss Dale, the presiding genius of the place; the real home maker. How it is possible to preserve such perfect neatness in the house, such order and beauty in the dining room, such an atmosphere of cheerfulness and good will is a marvel to me, when one considers the care and economy necessary to run the place successfully. And when in addition to this one sees the real true interest of the heart which she takes in all of those who are her guests, no matter of what age or character, one marvels the more.

I sincerely hope that next year many of our congregation may take advantage of the opportunity to see this good thing we have as part of the leaven of happiness and Christian life in our St. Stephen's church.

Sincerely, E. E. H.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The second meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Thursday, the 21st of November, at eleven o'clock, thirty-four members being present.

Miss Bell was in the chair, and Rev. Mr. Cannon opened the meeting with prayer.

The minutes were read and approved, and the Treasurer's report showed a balance of $34.80.

There were seven interesting and comprehensive reports given by representatives of the various committees.

Mrs. Thomas Neilson, president of the Pennsylvania branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, was present and gave an instructive talk upon the Apportionment. She complimented the Auxiliary of St. Stephen's upon the fact that it was always prompt and to be depended upon for generous contributions.

Archdeacon Windiate, of Tennessee, was also present and told us something of the work among the Negroes of the South. They are so much in need of workers to teach the gospel and cleanliness that he takes young men who are preparing for the ministry and prepares them himself, the young men in return, devoting what time they can to teaching in the mission schools.

On motion, the meeting adjourned.

The Emery Fund.

A project has been started to collect contributions from individual members of the parishes in this Diocese as well as throughout the country for the Emery Fund, a fund to be presented to Miss Julia C. Emery in recognition of her long and devoted service as secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary. Members of this parish who wish to contribute will kindly send their gifts to Miss Ella Headman, 118 North Eighteenth street, Philadelphia.

The banquet at Dooner's Hotel of the men of the congregation under the auspices of the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was a marked success. Mr. Dooner supplied a fine dinner and everybody was in good spirits. The speaking was all of an extemporaneous character and was much enjoyed. The singing by Mrs. Heaton, Mrs. Beale, Miss Bessie Clayton, and Mr. Manypenny was uplifting. Mr. Hollar made a stirring symposiarch.

Sunday School Notes.

The Life of St. Paul was reviewed with lantern slides by the Superintendent the first Sunday in November. On Sunday morning, December 1st, pictures will be again shown, illustrating scenes from the lives of Peter, Paul and John, and their journeys, being the closing of the "Apostolic Leaders" series of lessons.

With the Advent season we begin with our own Diocesan graded lessons on "Old Testament Characters" and The History of the Hebrew People. These lessons being agreed upon by the teachers at their last meeting.

The silver "Cross and Crown" badges for constant nine months' attendance were awarded November 4th, and distributed to the happy winners on Sunday, Nov. 17th. The value of the badges was shown on the stormy Sunday morning of Nov. 24th, when so many were present, especially those who are trying for the gold badge to be awarded for constant attendance when the year ends, February 2d, 1913.

The Christmas entertainment will this year take place on Friday evening, December 27th, the Primary, Intermediate and Main School together. As the merry yule-tide is fast approaching we will soon be at Carol practice. Already a Christmas play is in rehearsal with some thirty of the scholars, officers and teachers taking part. It will be very much different from previous ones and promises in its story, music and scenes, a good success.

The Advent offering of this year will go to the "General Board of Religious Education," which met in Philadelphia last spring and recently at Sewanee, Tenn. G. H. S.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Juniors now meet on the second and fourth Sunday evenings of each month, previous to the Rector's Song Service. At the meeting Nov. 24th, plans were made for attendance at St. Paul's Memorial church, November 30th, where the Annual Meeting of the Philadelphia Local Assembly will be held, when the Director of our Chapter is up for reelection to the presidency of the Junior Department.

The Boys' Club.

Mr. Fountain, the Physical Instructor, is busy with the boys each Friday evening. Many new faces are seen. Should the plans for protecting the room be passed and sufficient donations be received and regulated basket ball be approved—it is believed many boys will be added to the school. Mr. Robert Boyd or Mr. Streaker would gladly receive any contributions.

The Song Service and Social Hour.

It would be a good plan if everyone who finds this service helpful would make a point of bringing a friend. There are some people whose faces are seen in the gallery Sunday after Sunday, that the Rector hopes will avail themselves of this opportunity to know better the ministers who serve them. The average attendance thus far has been about 60. Some particularly interesting people have come to the service.

The musical feature is not quite so prominent as last year, and more time is given to informal conversation. The evening closes with some expository remarks on the Gospel of St. Mark, which is being read through in regular order—a small selection being discussed every Sunday night. The general scheme is half an hour to sacred song, half an hour to fellowship and a quarter of an hour to expository talk.

In this number a beginning is made of publishing advertisements. The list is not as large as we had hoped. Our agent has been rebuffed by some people who have profited by the Church's business for years. He expects to be more successful next month, and to be able to make the paper earn a considerable portion of its cost. The experiment is worth trying, and we bespeak for him the assistance of our friends—and ask that our advertisers may be borne in mind and patronized. With more advertisers we shall be able to circulate the paper more widely in hotels and boarding houses, as well as diminish the expense of publication.

A Unique Experience.

Last month a case of need was brought to my attention through Mr. Miller. After investigation had proven that aid would help a man to hold his place, and discharge his task, the assistance asked was given. Some ten days passed, and then at Thanksgiving time, a letter was received of thanks. There had been a previous expression of gratitude at the time the help was given. This was, of course, the usual thing in such cases. The noteworthy experience was that the gratitude continued and sought renewed expression. I was convinced that the case was worthy before, but this letter gave confirmation doubly sure. There is no gift that is so thoroughly satisfactory as a gift to a worthy person, that helps them to hold their own in the struggle of life.

The A. K. Society.

The Alpha Kappa Society will entertain the Sunday School, giving a "Social Evening" on Wednesday, December 4th, 1912. One of the members, Charles H. Moore, will assist by giving a lecture on "Panama," illustrated with lantern slides showing the progress of this vast undertaking. The Society is also planning to give a play in January.

A MEMORIAL TO DAVID DUFFLE WOOD.

The unique career of David Duffle Wood, Mus. Doc., calls for some monument that will perpetuate the memory of his genius and the inspiration of his heroic conquest over difficulties. A leader in the musical development of Philadelphia, a noted interpreter of Bach, a great organist and choirmaster, a composer of profound feeling and masterly art, this blind musician contributed largely to the musical and ecclesiastical life of Philadelphia. His career and beautiful character call for some memorial which should be in a church, because David Wood's most notable achievement was as a composer and interpreter of religious music, and the proper church is clearly St. Stephen's, where he presided at the organ for forty-six years.

The monument should be a work of art to commemorate fittingly a real artist, and to be in harmony with the other memorials in that church. It is hoped that the response to this appeal from the friends, pupils and admirers of David Wood, will be so liberal and general that something adequate and beautiful can be erected in St. Stephen's Church. The committee hopes to raise at least two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500).

Please send the contribution that you may be willing to make to such a memorial, to Mr. C. Howard Colket, Treasurer, 2008 De Lancey Street, Philadelphia.

Confirmation at St. Stephen's has been set for Sexagesima Sunday morning, January 26th, when Bishop Garland will confirm. The first confirmation class will be held on Friday, January 3d, at 8 o'clock in the Vestry. The Rector will be glad to have candidates make themselves known to him before that time, and asks the parents in the congregation and teachers in the Sunday School to co-operate with him in securing members for the class.

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

The committee of three appointed by the Vestry to take measures for the erection of a suitable memorial to our late organist, invited some other friends and admirers of Dr. Wood to join with them, and formed a larger committee that issued the appeal that is printed above.

The congregation will be gratified to note in the Parish Visitor's report that the usual number of well-laden baskets were sent out the day before Christmas. The Verger gives the exact number as 140, each basket having meals for ten persons Miss Lewis worked hard and faithfully over the distribution of these baskets. Mr. Carrigan bore the burden of purchasing the supplies, and Mr. Jos. B. Van Dusen kindly acted as treasurer of the fund. Others helped, but these bore the main burden. The congregation contributed all that was asked and there is a small balance on hand for the Christmas baskets next year.

On Tuesday, December 17th, the oldest communicant of St. Stephen's, William S. Price, Esq., died in his 96th year. He was the son of an officer in the British army, and came of long lived stock, his mother having lived to be nearly 100 years old. He had been confirmed by Bishop White, and at the time of his death was the oldest member of the Philadelphia Bar. For over fifty years he was a vestryman of Trinity Southwark, and for a number of years the Chancellor of the Diocese. He made a special study of canon law and was counsel in a number of celebrated ecclesiastical trials. His connection with St. Stephen's dated back to 1878, in Dr. Rudder's rectorship. Full of interesting reminiscences of the first half of the 19th century, and of the forensic and ecclesiastical debates of Philadelphia, we lose in him a most interesting link with the past. His last days were sustained and comforted by the loving devotion of his daughter. Long as he had lived, he had not outlived his friends, and quite a number of people attended his funeral.

A Vision and an Appeal.

The immediate task of our congregation is to maintain a successful working Church in the heart of the business section of the city, and to meet the demands that are rightly made upon us to aid the Diocese and the general work of the Church, in our own land and throughout the world. The chief energies of our members must be directed to these ends, and so I cannot appeal to the Church to put up a new Sunday School building, for I fear that it is beyond our purses, and more than we ought to attempt when the Diocese is asking us whether we cannot give more on the apportionment. Yet we are sorely in need of a better building for our Sunday School and various societies. Our present building is miserably designed. The lower floor is execrably cut up, and is of comparatively little use. The ground floor should have a nice, large room, where the various societies of the Church, such, for example as the Woman's Auxiliary, or the Brotherhood of St. Andrew could conveniently meet, withdrawn from the noise of Tenth street, and on the ground floor. The main entrance should be on Ludlow street, which is a broad and well lighted street. People shrink from the narrow alley that is the approach to our present entrance. A large room on the ground floor, with its main entrance on Ludlow street on the S. W. corner of the building would enable us to double the attendance on the Social Hour on Sunday night, which has shown itself one of the most promising features of our work. Our average attendance is now 55; in a good hall in the Sunday School building, with a roof sufficiently high to let the music have the necessary space, for sweetness and clearness, we ought to be able to increase this to over a hundred. There is not a Sunday night on which we are not afforded proofs of the value of such a service for people in the midst of the business section.

We have no suitable rooms for our boys and their sports. If some of our parishioners could see their way to giving us a new Sunday School building, four or five stories high, with an assembly room on the ground floor; with the entrance on Ludlow street, with a fine Sunday School room above, with an improved platform and stage scenery, with rooms for the verger and societies on the third floor, and with a gymnasium on the fourth floor, we should have an equipment that would enable us to do the work as a social centre, that is properly expected of a down-town church. The justification of the tying up the large amount of capital that is involved in such a site as St. Stephen's is the duty of the Church to minister to the people in the heart of the city, as well as in the purely residential sections and in the suburbs. But a church cannot reach the people unless it is something more than an oratory, or a hall for preaching. It must also be a laboratory for Christian workers and a place of assembly. It must be a social settlement house if it is in down-town section.

It is well to put in memorial windows and to erect tablets and monuments to beautify our church; but the finest memorial that could be erected in connection with St. Stephen's would be a new Sunday School building to be called Memorial Hall, that would also serve as a new parish house.

Such a building rising up four or five stories high and standing in the rear of our church would be a great protection against fire, if it were built of structural iron and fire proof material as it should be. The main entrance on Ludlow street could be made imposing and attractive. The whole edifice would be a beautiful memorial, and also an equipment that would enable us to do the splendid work of a social settlement house. What Toynbee Hall accomplishes in East London, such a building would enable St. Stephen's to essay in the centre of Philadelphia.

May God put it in the heart of some of our people to give us such a building. It is my duty to point out the opportunity. May we be able to utilize it!

A most helpful addition to the equipment of our Parish House was made by Mr. Jos. B. Van Dusen, Jr., and Mr. William H. Hansell by the present of a hot water heater for the kitchen in the third story. Hot water can now be readily procured in abundant quantities to the great delight of the different societies that use the kitchen, and also to the great convenience of the Verger.

The Envelope System.

Responses continue to come in to our appeal for co-workers with the envelope system. The monthly reports of the Treasurer of the Envelope Funds will show how greatly the system increases the Church's gifts to charitable purposes. I wish that it could be said that by this system our gifts to missions were equally increased. We need to pay more attention to the pocket marked for "Mission." The report of the Treasurer of the Board, issued on December 1st, credits St. Stephen's with only $135.55 received since the first of September on the apportionment for year ending Sept. 1, 1913. It is probable that this amount will soon be increased by a remittance from our treasurer; but it is well to realize four months of the apportionment year have passed, and that we must set to work and give systematically, and according to our ability if we are to discharge our duty and so front the critics who expect greater things of us than we can accomplish with the sustaining consciousness that we have done our best. The exact number of new users of the envelopes that have thus far been added to our list in response to our appeal is thirty-seven. We hope that there will be still further additions.

The Social Hour and Song Service.

In December these services were enriched by the music of a violin and violincello, and a kind friend, Mr. George Ridings, made unusual exertions to advertise the service more widely. Some most interesting people came in to spend the evening. One was an actress whose wandering life shut her off from a church home. She has agreed to write a letter monthly to the Rector that he may know of her movements. Her letter at the end of the first month was a proof that she intends to keep in touch with the parish, and hopes to find in it a church home.There are salesmen who drop in to spend an evening with us, and then there are some of our own members who have formed the habit of spending Sunday evening in this way. Our service compares to the larger evangelistic services as a garden dug over with a spade compares to a farm cultivated by the plow. The work is intensive rather than extensive. Yet it would be well, if it could be extended still further—for a certain dignity and size makes for deeper impressions and greater fervor. The average attendance this past month has been between 55 and 60.

Memorial Flower Fund.

In April of last year a member of the congregation suggested that we start a Memorial Flower Fund. This was done at once and the alacrity with which the members of the church responded was an evidence of their approval. It is hoped that this interest may manifest itself again during the coming church year. Any contributor desiring to commemorate any loved one on the Sunday nearest to the date selected last year, is requested to notify Mrs. Wm. Campbell, 1711 Pine street. Many smaller additions to the equipment of the Parish House, or Sunday School building, have been made by the Rector out of the Church Work Fund, such, for example, as a movable electric light stand to throw light upon the music of the pianist in the Sunday School room, more chairs for the Mothers' Meeting, new hat racks, and a new dumb waiter; but there is a larger need for which the Rector appeals to the congregation. The Mothers are crowded in their room over the vestry, and it would be a great improvement if the cumbersome square piano, that now occupies so much space needed for members, could be replaced by an upright piano. Is there no upright piano lying unused in the homes of any of our members? If so, send it to us, and it will be put to good service. It will lead the devotions of the Mothers, help our Social Hour on Sunday night and play marches and dances for the little girls of the Sewing School on Saturday morning.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

If St. Stephen's congregation could have seen the smiles and words of gratitude from the many old (poor and sick) and the young working on half time, earning a mere pittance, whom they have helped by their generosity, they certainly would feel amply repaid for all they gave.

Everybody seemed eager to give, so St. Stephen's Church sent out 140 baskets to these poor and destitute people, the day before Christmas. Each basket contained two chickens, white and sweet potatoes, turnips, onions, cranberries, sugar and tea, apples, oranges, a box of candy and a mince pie. Many homes were cheered and many hearts made happy by the warm and active sympathy extended. The work was much facilitated by the kindness of Mr. Jos. B. Van Dusen, Jr., who acted as treasurer and received and acknowledged, when necessary, all contributions to the Christmas dinners.

We were about to send some coal, as well as a basket, to a poor old dressmaker, when word came to us that she had been stricken with paralysis. We went to several hospitals in the city and begged for her admittance, and after a great deal of visiting and persuasion, we at last found one who would take her. It was one o'clock Christmas morning before we saw her safe and comfortable in a clean bed. It was with aching limbs and weary frame that we at last reached our own home, but with hearts full of gratitude to think that this poor woman was made so comfortable and not left to suffer alone and destitute.

KATE H. LEWIS.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

There were twenty-seven members present at the December meeting of St. Stephen's Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary which was held the 20th, in the Parish House, at eleven o'clock.

Miss Bell, the president, presided. The minutes were read and approved, and the Treasurer's report showed a balance of $89.30.

The five committees were represented and gave full and interesting reports. Two letters were read from recipients of missionary boxes which have been sent since the November meeting—one to Virginia and one to Tennessee.

Rev. and Mrs. B. L. Ancell, missionaries from Yangchow, China, were present and gave most interesting talks of their work there.

Mr. Ancell said the conservative element in Yangchow had long kept the doors closed to missionaries, but that now official and social conditions in China are rapidly changing and they (the missionaries) have an opportunity which they never have had before, to do good work.

The best way to make a beginning in all missionary work, Mr. Ancell thinks, is by making social acquaintances first, for by making a friend among those people you make a Christian. The next step is to establish schools and teach English.

This was done in Yangchow. A school for boys was established in September, 1910, and only two pupils were enrolled. In February, 1912, their capacity of sixty had reached its limit, and the school is entirely self-supporting.

Mrs. Ancell works among the women and girls and she is here making a plea for funds for a woman's room and a girls' school. In the twenty millions of people in the province, there is not a school for non-Christian girls.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ancell made a strong plea for more women workers.

On motion, they were given $25 from the treasury and $25 was given by an individual.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be on Thursday, January 16th, at eleven o'clock.

The Church Periodical Club.

At one of the meetings of the Ladies' Auxiliary, last January, an interesting account of the Church Periodical Club was given by Miss Fisher, correspondent for the Diocese of Pennsylvania. We learned that the Club was formed for the purpose of sending magazines, books, papers, etc., to clergymen and others who were unable to obtain this kind of literature in any other way. From the first, there was a constantly increasing demand for the periodicals. And letters sent by the recipients from the far West, the South and the lonely country places in the mountains showed that the work was much needed.

The plan of this work is very simple. Subscribers send every month, or week, regularly, a magazine or periodical—one, or as many as they will, to the names and addresses furnished them by the "librarian" of their Church Club, who obtains these names from the central office in New York. The names having been sent to this office by the Bishops and other clergy from the dioceses throughout the United States.

Our St. Stephen's Club has a list of fourteen subscribers with thirty periodicals. The committee desire to increase this list and ask for requests for addresses for magazines, books and papers. There is a demand at present for an "Outlook," a "Garden Magazine," and for several of "The Spirit of Missions."

Please notice, it is necessary to prepay the postage on all magazines, etc., as otherwise they will not be distributed from the post-offices.

It is probable there are some who would become members of the Club, but who consider it a task to mail the papers at stated intervals. To these we would say: Send a subscription, including postage—for any periodical you may mention—to your St. Stephen's committee. They will attend to it as a welcome part of their duty.

The Christmas Celebrations.

The celebration of the Mothers was held on Thursday, Dec. 26th, in their customary room. For the first time they had their Christmas festival apart from the Sunday School. One reason for this separation was the growth of the Mothers' Meeting, which now has about 150 members, and has about grown to the limits of our capacity. With music and exhibitions of artistic skill, and gifts the evening passed most delightfully. One gift in particular calls for mention, the presentation by the Mothers of a silver platter, or bread holder, to Mr. Carrigan. All the members of this society and especially the president, Mrs. H. P. Taylor, are to be congratulated on the success of the new mode of celebration as well as on the increase in this society's numbers.

The Sunday School celebration came, as usual, on the Feast of the Holy Innocents.

Following the wise custom of years, the talent of our own members was called forth by entrusting to them the performance of the evening. The little play given was full of bright fancy and excellent impersonations. It was one of the most graceful and certainly the most imaginative of all our Christmas celebrations. Mr. Streaker and his co-workers on the committee are to be heartily congratulated.

The Girls' Friendly celebration fell on Monday evening—that is now regarded as their special evening. It took the form of charming tableaux, followed by some hymns, and the evening closed with refreshments and social converse. There was a large attendance.

The Boys' Senate.

Is planning an entertainment for Friday, January 24th.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

This organization now meets the second and fourth Sunday evenings at 7.30 in the Parish House.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

Received in October (through Mr. Hunter Ewing) from Mr. Patton's Estate	$33 41

Those who helped the Circle to give a bright and happy evening to some Country Week Children, December 18th, were as follows:

Mrs. H. F. Martin	$1 00
Mrs. Parmalee	75
Kind Friend	1 00
Little Eileer Weir	50
Members of the Circle	1 50
Total received	$4 75

The King's Daughters will have their next meeting January 15th, Parish House, quarter of 8 o'clock.

Shoe Fund.

Money received in November (through Dr. Grammer) from Church Fund	$25 00
From Mrs. Parmalee	25
From Mrs. Martin	50
From those receiving shoes	4 30
Total	$30 05
Expended in November	18 71
Balance	$11 34

Gave out in November, 12 pairs of shoes and seven pairs of overshoes.

Money received in December from Mrs. W. J. Galbraith	$1 00
From those receiving shoes	2 00
Balance from November	11 34
Total	$14 34
Expended in December	7 30
Balance	$7 04

Gave in December 11 pairs of shoes and five pairs of overshoes.

Many of the children who come for shoes have scarcely anything left but the uppers. Our shoes are going fast, and money too, so we do hope Santa Claus won't forget the little cold feet.

Shoes of all kinds, if wearable, very acceptable, specially wide ones.

The Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim has printed a brief statement of objections to any change of the name of our historic Church, and in particular to the elimination of the word Protestant from our title and the assumption of such a name as "The American Catholic," which has been championed by some. I agree with Dr. McKim that such a title would be a source of strife within and alienation without. His statements are worth considering. They are as follows:

"1. Any effort to change the Protestant principles which were indelibly stamped upon our Church at the Reformation is to be strongly deprecated.

"2. The present agitation proceeds in large part from a desire to repudiate the Protestant position of the Church.

"3. Whatever may be the motive of the proposed change, it will, if consummated, have the effect of weakening our Protestant position, and encouraging the movement to assimilate our Church to the doctrines and practices of the unreformed Church.

"4. Even the preliminary adoption of the name which is now proposed would grieve a very large proportion of our most faithful and devoted communicants; would destroy the confidence of our people in the administration of the Church; and so greatly diminish our missionary offerings.

"5. The adoption of the proposed name would alienate our Protestant brethren of other Communions just when they are drawing close to us, and would be disastrous to the hope of Christian Unity.

"6. This whole movement is to be deprecated as productive of division and strife in our own Christian household, at a time when the activity of the forces of unbelief and the aggressions of the Roman Church should stimulate us to united and unstinting effort to win the American people to the Cause of Christ, and to build up the Kingdom of God upon a scriptural and primitive foundation.

"7. Should it prove possible, which we do not believe, to fasten this objectionable name upon our Church, we may look forward to one of two results—the disruption of the Church, or the abandonment of her Communion by myriads of her communicants.

"8. There may perhaps be another alternative—Dioceses or individual churches may appeal to the Courts with success to protect them from the loss of their property which stands in the name of 'The Protestant Episcopal Church,' and so the new Church, 'The American Catholic Church,' will be shorn of its strength without any act of schism on the part of the loyal members of the old Church."

JOS. B. VAN DUSEN, JR.,
Treasurer.

The committee having in charge the collection of a fund to erect a Memorial to the late David D. Wood have received so far approximately $1,400 of the $2,500 which they hope to raise. While no date has been definitely set for the close of the fund, the committee cherish the hope of completing it by Good Friday, March 21st,—a day that has special significance in the career of David Wood as organist of St. Stephen's. For it was on Good Friday he played his first service, and it was on Good Friday, forty-six years later, on the first recurrence of the same date, he was stricken with the fatal illness that terminated in his death on Easter morning, March 27th, 1910.

The pupils of Dr. Wood have organized an auxiliary committee which promises to bring in substantial aid.

Contributions should be sent to Mr. C. Howard Colket, Treasurer, 2008 Delancey St.

According to our custom during Lent, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion every Sunday morning at 10.30, except the first Sunday of the month, when the hour will be 11.

The Noonday Lenten Services this year will be under the charge of the St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The list of speakers is published below. Most of them need no introduction. Bishop Williams of Michigan has been with us on a previous Lent. Many will undoubtedly desire to hear his eloquent pleading for greater social righteousness. Bishop Talbot has kindly made a special exertion to keep up the custom of years and come to our aid. We are grateful to Bishop Rhinelander for giving us five days for the season is a particularly busy one for him.

Two new voices will be the Rev. J. Howard Melish, and the Rev. Herbert Shipman. Mr. Melish succeeded Dr. McConnell at Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, and stands for a broad conception of Christianity, and for social as well as individual regeneration. At Cincinnati, where he is well known, he crowds the hall at the Noon-day Lenten services, and it is to be hoped that many will come to hear him in Philadelphia. Mr. Shipman fills in his position as rector of The Heavenly Rest, one of the most prominent pulpits in the borough of Manhattan,—a post so important that he declined to leave it to be the successor of Dr. Morgan in Paris.

It was hoped that Dr. Worcester would have been with us again this year; but it was found impossible to secure him. The other speakers are well known in the city, and have approved themselves as having a real message. It was thought desirable that there should be more unity in the addresses in Holy Week, and the Rector of the Church will deliver five of them himself. We are grateful to Bishop Garland for consenting to open the course with an address on Ash Wednesday. These are all St. Stephen's services as well as Brotherhood services. They are meant for the members of the congregation, as well as for all sorts and conditions of men, and it is hoped that the congregation will give them their loyal support, by attending, by joining heartily in the singing, by responding fervently in the prayers, and by bringing their friends and acquaintances.

Ash Wednesday, February 5.	Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Garland, D. D., Bishop Suffragan of Pennsylvania.
Thursday, Feb. 6. Friday, Feb. 7.	Rev. Robert J. Johnston, Church of the Saviour, Philadelphia.
Saturday, Feb. 8.	Rev. C. Rowland Hill, Church of St. Matthias, Philadelphia.
Monday, Feb. 10. Tuesday, Feb. 11.	Rev. J. Howard Melish, Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Wednesday, Feb. 12. Thursday, Feb. 13. Friday, Feb. 14.	Rev. J. B. Harding, St. Mark's, Frankford.
Saturday, Feb. 15.	Rev. William J. Cox, St. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia.
Monday, Feb. 17. Tuesday, Feb. 18. Wednesday, Feb. 19.	Rev. Hubert W. Wells, St. Andrew's, Wilmington, Del.

Thursday, Feb. 20. Friday, Feb. 21.	Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D. D., Bishop of Bethlehem.
Saturday, Feb. 22.	Rev. A. J. Arkin, St. George's, Richmond.
Monday, Feb. 24. Tuesday, Feb. 25. Wednesday, Feb. 26. Thursday, Feb. 27. Friday, Feb. 28.	Rt. Rev. Charles D. Williams, LL. D., Bishop of Michigan.
Saturday, March 1.	Rev. R. H. Hord, St. Michael's, Germantown.
Monday, March 3. Tuesday, March 4. Wednesday, March 5. Thursday, March 6. Friday, March 7.	Rev. Herbert Shipman, Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York.
Saturday, March 8.	Rev. H. M. Medary, The Advocate, Philadelphia.
Monday, March 10. Tuesday, March 11. Wednesday, March 12. Thursday, March 13. Friday, March 14.	Rt. Rev. Philip Mercer Rhinelander, D. D., Bishop of Pennsylvania.
Saturday, March 15.	Rev. Norman P. Levis, The Incarnation, Philadelphia.

HOLY WEEK.

Monday, March 17. Tuesday, March 18. Wednesday, March 19. Thursday, March 20. Friday, March 21.	Rev. Carl E. Grammer, S. T. D., St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.
Saturday, March 22.	Rev. F. R. Cannon, St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

Confirmation came unusually early this year, and followed so closely on the Christmas season's festivities that it was not possible to do more than gather the fruit that was ripe off the vines in our vineyard. While the class was smaller than usual, the Rector believes that it will prove a class of unusual persistence and steadfastness. It was good to have such a large proportion of boys. Two post-confirmation lectures will be given for the benefit of those members who joined too late to attend the first two sessions of the class. These additional lectures will be at 8 o'clock on Friday, Jan. 31, and Feb. 7th.

A Missionary Student Class will meet for organization and arrangement of details on Thursday, February 6th, at 11 A. M., in the Guild Room in the Parish House. At the Rector's urgent request, Mrs. Charles B. McLean has consented to act as the teacher. The subject will be the progress and condition of Missions in Japan. All who can join the class are invited to assemble at the above-named hour and place.

The parochial Lenten services on Wednesday and Friday afternoons at half past 4 o'clock were so poorly attended, that they were discontinued several years ago, after the announcement had been made that their continuance depended entirely on the congregation. Any person who wished to have them kept up was requested to let the Rector know of their desire for them. Not a request was received. It is, however, conceivable that some persons wished to have these services but did not care to make a special request for them. The Rector is very desirous of meeting the wishes of the congregation, and wishes those who desire such services would speak out. There are some people who like to feel that the services are going on in the Church, irrespective of whether they attend or not. But such a vague sense of the fitness of things is not what the Rector is desirous of gratifying. What he wants to know is, who will atend the Wednesday and Friday afternoon services, if he arranges for them? Who will volunteer to sing? Whom will such services assist? He will be much obliged if those who care for such services, or will assist in them, will let him know either by note or after the Sunday morning service.

In February it is our custom to send collectors around the parish to collect the usual contributions for Diocesan Missions. The customary gift, where it can be afforded, is five dollars a communicant. Perhaps some wealthier communicants may exceed this amount, to make up for some of our poorer communicants who can not give so much. It is hoped that all will contribute The offering will be presented on Sunday, Feb. 16th, and the collectors will make their rounds in the week before that time. Seven hundred dollars is needed, if we are to meet all our pledges and obligations.

The Envelope Year, so to speak, is rapidly drawing to a close, and it will soon be necessary to get out the new packages. Let us, who have the envelopes strive to see that each envelope finds its way back to the Treasurer. I hope to learn at Easter that the number of faithful users has increased. It would be good news, too, to hear that more are using the side for "Missions." We need to gird up our loins, if we are to do as well as we did last year.

The appeal for an upright piano in the Guild Room has as yet elicited no response. Such an instrument would occupy much less room than our present square piano, and the saving of space would greatly facilitate the work of some societies, and enable some larger organizations like the Mothers' Meeting and the Girls' Friendly to take in a few more members. In many homes there are standing unused pianos, that once sounded to the touch of fingers that have long ceased to move, and it is a pity that they should not be utilized. Please remember that such a piano will be used most gladly in the work of the Church.

The earliest possible date at which Easter can fall is March 22d, which was its incidence in the year 1818. This year it will fall on March 23d, and it will not come so early again till the year 2008, when it will again occur on the 23d. For some reasons I am glad that we will not ever again encounter such an early Lent. The excessive shortness of the social season enhances the dissipation and crowds together the entertainments. The colder weather militates against the attendance upon the services. Easter finds nature more in accord with its message of the resurrection when it falls in a season of flowers and singing birds. People have an idea that Easter is the end of the year for Church work, and instead of a revival of energy after that great feast of the Risen Lord, there is apt to be a falling off in activity of the societies. These are the disadvantages of an early Lent.

The settlement of Easter has been a prolific source of controversy in the history of the Church. The Quartodecimans always observed the fourteenth day of the Paschal moon. The Roman usage was in favor of Sunday. The settlement of this controversy was one of the causes which led Constantine to summon the Council of Nicaea. After that great Council had extinguished the Quartodecimans, there arose a controversy about the calculation of the cycles for the determination ahead of the paschal full moon,—a controversy in which the early British Church adhered to the old usage and came in conflict with the improved astronomical methods of the Roman missionaries.

At the Synod of Whitby in 664 the Roman usage was finally adopted, and England had the same Easter as the rest of Christendom, till 1582, when Pope Gregory XIII established the present calendar, which the Oriental churches and the churches of Russia and Greece refused to accept from the Pope of Rome. The Church of England followed their lead and adhered to the Julian Calendar. This continued as late as 1752 by which time there was eleven days difference. This diversity occasioned so much inconvenience that an Act of Parliament was passed adopting the Gregorian Calendar. Eleven days were dropped and the legal year began on January 1, instead of on May 25th, according to the old style. The change produced riots in England, for the people had an idea that they were being delivered over to the Pope, and cheated out of eleven days. Moreover, as the alteration took place in September, out of which eleven days were dropped, there was great disappointment that Michaelmas came earlier than usual, before the goose, the great delicacy of that feast-day had reached its finest size and flavor. Russia still keeps the Julian Calendar and is now thirteen days behind the calendar of the rest of Christendom.

Yet with all these controversies, it seems to me the end is not yet. If we want the schools and colleges to continue to observe the Easter holiday, we must set Easter at some Sunday half way between Christmas and the middle of June. Otherwise we shall find that the spring holiday will be given more and more without regard to it. I know that this would give us an early Lent, but if that were the rule we could adjust ourselves to it and unlearn the false tradition that after Easter Church work is not to continue on full pace. Easter about March 23d suits the schools, and the educational world will respect it.

This is the bright side of an early Lent. Let us make the most of it.

It is, however, probably inadvisable to attempt a readjustment of the calendar. St. Stephen's PARISH NEWS is hardly the proper organ in which to inaugurate such a reform. Perhaps it will be wiser to wait till the conference on Faith and Order shall have its meetings. Its friends expect many things from that movement. Perhaps it will give us an Easter that will keep closer to the Equinox.

Girls' Friendly Society.

The G. F. S. associates, members and their friends are cordially inivted to attend a Missionary service at Old St. Paul's Church, Third below Walnut street, Sunday evening, February 9th, at 8 o'clock. Speakers: Rev. Shirley Hughson, O. H. C., Rev. Jules Prevost, Rev. Herman L. Duhring. There will be an offering for Missions.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The January meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on the 16th, at the Parish House, the President in the chair, and twenty four members being present.

The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved, and in the absence of the Treasurer, Miss Washington read the report.

Mrs. Colket reported for the Diocesan Auxiliary. There were several speakers, and a plea for linen for a church in Colorado.

Mrs. Lautenbach, of the Indian Hope Committee said the Indians in California were in a pitiable condition from sickness and were much in need of a medical missionary.

The report for the Colored Missions was read by Miss Washington. Bishop Franklin of Mississippi told about the work accomplished there, and the securing of an Archdeacon through the generosity of Philadelphia in contributing $1,000.

A letter had been received from the Church of the Crucifixion, appealing for warm clothing for the children, who are unable to attend the services unless sufficiently clad. Garments may be sent to 620 South Eighth street.

Rev. Mr. Warden was then introduced by Dr. Grammer and gave an interesting talk on conditions of life in Porto Rico, where he has lived and labored for the Episcopal Church for the past six years. The Roman Catholic religion was the only one known on the island until 1898, since when many denominations have entered and established churches. There are now four Episcopal churches, three chapels, and five other places of worship, with four parochial schools, fifteen Sunday schools, and a hospital—the doors of which have been closed for six months as there is no physician of our communion to do the work. As only $25,000 a year is contributed for the support and maintenance of these churches, etc., they are not generously provided for, and Mr. Warden asked for a Baptismal Font for use in the Chapel of St. Paul's Mission, started two years ago. It was moved and seconded that $25 be given by the Auxiliary for the purpose.

At the conclusion of Mr. Warden's address, Mr. Connolly told very briefly of his struggle to gain an education in the mountains of North Carolina, and of his present work in an Industrial School at Penman, which was started three years ago, and has over 100 children. He is trying to raise $1,000 for the completion of the main building, which is now being constructed.

It was announced that Mrs. Bradford, of the Lighthouse, would speak at the next meeting of the Auxiliary.

On motion, the meeting adjourned.

Memorial Flower Fund.

In April of last year a member of the congregation suggested that we start a Memorial Flower Fund. This was done at once and the alacrity with which the members of the church responded was an evidence of their approval. It is hoped that this interest may manifest itself again during the coming church year. Any contributor desiring to commemorate any loved one on the Sunday nearest to the date selected last year, is requested to notify Mrs. Wm. Campbell, 1711 Pine street. A Lenten Resolution.

What better resolution could we form for the approaching season, than a determination to bring the highest motives to bear upon the smallest affairs—to make ourselves realize that nothing in the realm of morals is too small for motives that take hold of eternity, It is in little things that the battle of life is lost or won; little self-denials, little self-sacrifices, little charities of thought or speech, little acts of self-control or resolution, forming in us gradually the Christian character, or little self-indulgences, little enmities, little vacillations and little compromises preparing us for some dreadful fall. Well did Bunyan know human experience when he portrayed Christian as having had before his desperate conflict with Apollyon many little slips in his walk, of which he took but small note. When I say that we should try to bring great motives to bear on small duties, it is not meant that we should always claim them, or profess them as if they were the sole reasons for our conduct. It is Pharisaism or cant to look around for the highest motive in sight, and then claim it as the range-light by which we are steering. We are drawn along by many motives. Often expediency and righteousness lie obviously in the same direction. But our life cannot be strong or unified unless we can bring the highest to bear on all of it. This is what religion means: an effort to connect our finiteness with infinity and to steady ourselves in this tossing world of Time by conforming to the cosmic and eternal order. It is a mistaken, though popular, theory that the lower motives can be more safely trusted to do the work. A real motive of a low order is more efficient than a sham motive of religion as the poorest fire of peat will warm more than the picture of a fire. But when the higher motive is really present it brings along with it a higher power. It unites the man's whole nature, and brings in like a tide from the great ocean of being, the forces of God.

The great trouble with us is that we do not bring God in enough, and so do not live in His sight, or by His power, or in His fellowship We do not knead the motive of religion sufficiently into our lives. Let us try to realize this Lent that there is nothing too small for God's assistance—that He will not only take care of our souls when they leave these bodies, but that He will help us to rule the body and care for it rightly; and that His glory is involved in whatever we do, whether we eat or drink, or work or play, and that His power can be procured according to our faith. He that is faithful in little is faithful also in much.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

The King's Daughters of the Whatsoever Circle will have their next meetings Feb. 5th and Feb. 19th in the Guild Room of the Parish House, quarter of 8 o'clock.

Donation from Mrs. H. F. Master to help with their work, $1.00.

Lenten work has been cut out and we will gladly welcome any who would like to help with the work and spend a social evening.

Shoe Fund.

Money received in January:

From Miss M. E. Schaeffer	$1 50
From Mrs. H. F. Martin	25
From those receiving shoes	5 65
	$7 40
Expended for shoes	2 10
Balance	$5 30

Donation from dear old Santa Claus of two large boxes of shoes and overshoes. Many thanks and Happy New Year from those who are wearing the shoes he sent.

From Miss M. Swift, shoes and overshoes.

Have given out in January 22 pairs of shoes and 14 pairs of overshoes.

The Sunday School Building.

An acorn doesn't grow into an oak over night, such phenomenal growth is the peculiarity of gourds, such as overshadowed Jonah, and suddenly withered away, but neither does an acorn grow without the quickening influence of the sunlight. It will not germinate in total darkness. In the same way the idea of a better building for our institutional work must be brought out into the light and kept before the minds of our people if it is to fructify. There is some soil that is not rich enough in nutritive elements to produce anything under the influence of this idea; the earth lacks richness. But it may be that we have in St. Stephen's some soil in which this seed may bring forth and bear abundantly. Certainly there is no finer memorial that could be erected than a fine four-story building on the site of our Sunday School Building with a commodious and accessible room for meetings on the ground floor, with Sunday School rooms and guild rooms on the two floors above, and a gymnasium on the fourth floor, with a basket-ball cage on the roof. It is a splendid vision. May some generous donor make it a blessed actuality

Church Discipline.

There is great ignorance of the laws of our Church on this subject. Perhaps it may be advisable to make a few elementary explanations. In practice there is no discipline of the laity. People who have lost faith in Christianity forsake its temples. Those who are openly breaking the moral law sever their connection with the Church, and cease to come to its communion. Rubrically, the rector has the right to refuse to give the communion to an open and notorious evil-liver, or to one who has done any wrong to his neighbor by word or deed, so that the congregation be thereby offended. In such cases the excommunicated person has the right of appeal to the ordinary, that is to say, to the Bishop of the Diocese. Sometimes in small communities, where the life of each one is a page that is scrutinized by all, the scandal given by the participation of a detected hypocrite is so great that the minister may have to excommunicate or threaten excommunication. Usually a threat is enough, In the main people who defy public opinion openly by immorality do not care to deepen the stain by an hypocrisy that will deceive no one. The public opinion of the community holds the keys of discipline.

In the case of a clergyman who has violated his ordination vows there is a regular order of procedure laid down in the Canons. Some people have a way of asking, Why doesn't the Bishop do this, or do that? as if the Bishop were armed with complete authority to admonish judicially, suspend, or degrade clergymen —and ought to bestir himself and exercise his divinely given power of the keys. The fact of the case, however, is that we are not under such ecclesiastical despotism as such queries and fault-findings suggest. Our Church is Protestant, as well as Episcopal, and believes in protecting the rights of the individual by placing him under the law.

In Pennsylvania we have quite an elaborate machinery for the trial of a clergyman—not a bishop, for the trial of bishops is regulated entirely by the Canons of the General Convention. There is a Chancellor to preside at the trial, a Church Advocate to act as official prosecutor, and a body of elected clergymen, from whom the triers or jury are to be chosen Such a court, however, cannot be convened by the Bishop at his own option. Two clergymen and a lay communicant must charge in writing a clergyman of the diocese with violating a specified law of the Church. The Bishop can stop the procedure, at this point, if he chooses, or he may allow it to continue. But he cannot make the presentment. The reason of this is that he is to act as a kind of Court of Appeal, since the sentence of the court must be approved by him, if it is condemnatory, and he has the privilege of mitigating the sentence.

The Bishop can, however, appoint a Committee of Inquiry, and if a sufficient number present the person under scrutiny for trial the regular procedure is followed. No clergyman can be degraded to a lower degree. If a Bishop be degraded he is put out of the ministry. A priest cannot be reduced to the diaconate; he must go out of the ministry. All the orders must be filled by righteous men.

In case a clergyman resigns from the ministry, the Bishop can accept his resignation and depose him, if there be no moral causes for the step; but in other cases he is required to consult the Standing Committee. Such, in general, is the law. In special cases an Appellate Court is provided No system can meet the requirements of all cases perfectly, but any system is infinitely better than the arbitrary power that a certain school in the Church teaches should belong to the Bishop. Yet strange to say, no one calls out more loudly than the ritualist for the protection of the law against the Bishop, when the Episcopal view differs from his own. This school of thought reverences bishops chiefly when they are dead. For my part, I believe in a government of law and am heartily in sympathy with the constitution of our Protestant Church, which makes both the Bishop and the presbyter subordinate to the Church's legislation. At the March meeting of the Vestry, the following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, an organized movement exists within the Protestant Episcopal Church having for its object the change of its official title;

AND WHEREAS, in our judgment such change would only result in a division of our Church and in a straining of those fraternal ties which bind us to Christians of other communions;

Therefore be it resolved, That we, the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Stephen's Church, herewith protest most earnestly against any action which may have in view the change of our Church's name, and request our representatives in the Diocesan Convention to use such efforts as they may deem proper to retain the present name of our Church.

We feel certain that by this action the Vestry expressed correctly the mind of the people of St. Stephen's, and we think the resolution most opportune. A concerted movement is on foot to change our Church's name. The title that we have lived under for over a century and a quarter, the whole period of our existence as a self-governing Church, is to be thrown over, and some new and arrogant title like the American Catholic Church is to be assumed. Such is the scheme. The main objection to our name, which is endeared to those who love our Church, as she now is, by a thousand tender associations, is that it classes us with the Protestant division of Christendom. Those who have derived their knowledge of Church History from the Tractarians of Oxford regard the Reformation as a great mistake, in judgment, if it is not to be regarded as a manifestation of that sin of schism, from which we pray to be delivered. Newman and Pusey, it will be remembered, refused to subscribe to the memorial to Cranmer, Ridley and Latimer, that stands near Balliol College. Their disciples of course dislike the name Protestant, and adopt the Roman view on this, as on many other subjects, and regard it as a designation of incipient infidelity. How preposterous it seems that such giants in faith as Luther, Zwingli, Calvin, Knox, Ridley and Hooper were victims of the first stages of the paralysis of doubt. Because they cast away the husk, therefore they were losing their appetite for the grain. Because they recognized error, therefore they were losing the capacity to discern the truth. Such is the theory of this school. Under the guidance of such theories over six hundred clergymen of the Church of England with Newman at their head, went over to the Church of Rome. In my judgment they understood the logic of their own position. If Protestantism is something of which we ought to be ashamed, then the proper procedure is to return to Rome. But there is a large party that shrinks back from submission to Rome, and yet desires to repudiate the term Protestant. On examination it will be found that the features of Rome to which they chiefly object—are the Infallibility of the Pope, or the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary, all doctrines which have been formulated since the Reformation, and in the Nineteenth Century, or it may be to some features in the Tridentine Decrees, and that they have little sympathy with the fundamental positions of the reformers, that God forgives the believing penitent freely, that Jesus Christ has so revealed God to us, that we may go directly to him by faith without any human mediator, and that the Scriptures are the authoritative and sufficient guide to the mind of Christ, without the aid of tradition.

These were the views of the Reformers, are the doctrines of our Articles, are the affirmations of Protestantism. But these views have lost meaning and influence with most sacramentarians and sacerdotalists. Consequently they wish to drop the name Protestant that expresses them. On the other hand, the adjective Catholic, whose proper meaning is Universal, has acquired from its partisan use in our Church as the title of the so-called Catholic party the very signification that they desire of sacramentarian and sacerdotal. As Roman Catholicism is both sacramentarian and sacerdotal, so are these Anglo-Catholics sacramentarian and sacerdotal, with a difference that is so slight that an amendment of a Canon a few years ago, sent nearly a score of them out of this diocese, it will be remembered, into the Church of Rome. In my judgment it is certain that the dropping of the title Protestant, and the assumption of the title Catholic will be regarded by the Protestant world as a repudiation of the Reformation, and an endeavor to adopt a position closer to Rome, and further off from our Protestant brethren. It will be impossible to resist this interpretation in the light of the steady assimilation of the celebration of the Communion in these Anglo-Catholic Churches, to the sacrifice of the mass.

Now the great body of the laity of our Church is Protestant. They accept these ritual developments as mere changes of ecclesiastical fashions, and efforts to increase the aesthetic attractiveness of our services. When, however, they realize that our Church is being fashioned into another pattern, they will either disrupt her, or they will drop out and turn to other households of faith.

The gravity of the processes that are at work in many clerical minds must not be minimized. Hitherto the Protestant Episcopal Church has been large enough to hold men of the school of Bishop White and men of the school of Bishop Seabury, men who admired Jewell, and men who admired Land. Let this repudiation of the title Protestant be brought about and this term Catholic in its necessarily partisan sense, as applied to a national church, he adopted, and the most comprehensive church in Christendom will have lost its breadth. There will be room in it for only one school.

The narrowing influences which have forced out of the Church of England so large a part of the conscience and intelligence of England will do a similar work in our Church and we shall see ourselves preyed on by the Roman Church, to which we will constantly contribute larger and larger bodies of recruits, and regarded with disfavor by our Protestant brethren as a Church disloyal to its own past, and anxious to dissociate itself from them.

What is needed is to awake the laity to the position. They must make their voices heard. They must use their power. Unfortunately the General Convention is not truly a representative body. The little dioceses, like Marquette, have the same vote as a great diocese like Massachusetts. In most of the dioceses the delegates pay their own expenses, and only rich men of comparative leisure can act as lay deputies. The diocesan conventions elect deputies for local and personal reasons, without regard to their views on the great questions at issue. It therefore becomes the duty of the Vestries to let the Church know the views of the congregations, that they represent, to elect men to the Diocesan Convention who will oppose this change of name, and to use every endeavor to bring about the election of deputies who will resist this proposed change. Some Vestries have already passed similar resolutions, and it is hoped that the movement may extend throughout the diocese.

On Easter Day the Envelope-Year will close, and immediately thereafter will begin a new year. Our packages are now being printed and will soon be distributed. The great need now is to gain the co-operation of our members, and attendants who have not yet accepted the system. It has the following good arguments.

Firstly, it accords with the Apostolic injunction that everyone should on the first day of the week contribute as God hath prospered him.

Secondly, it cultivates a habit of giving.

Thirdly, it enables us to give to our own church and also to help others at every service.

Fourthly, it has greatly increased the offerings wherever it has been tried.

Fifthly, it increases love to the Church and loyalty to religion, since we love the cause for which we make sacrifices.

Sixthly, it distributes the burdens and makes everyone feel that he is an integral part of the congregation.

Seventhly, it prevents the Church from losing our offerings on the Sundays when we may be absent.

Will those who are not now using the envelopes, kindly let me know whether they will accept and use a package?

A Noble Memorial to Mr. Horace Magee.

At the meeting of the Vestry on March 3d, the Accounting Warden, Mr. J. Hunter Ewing, informed the Vestry that Mr. James R. Magee had placed in his hands $25,000, the gift of his sisters, Miss Fanny S. Magee, Miss Anna J. Magee and himself, as a memorial to their brother Horace, and a contribution to the permanent endowment fund of St. Stephen's Church. This splendid gift has been acknowledged by the Vestry in a suitable resolution, in which they have expressed the gratitude not only of themselves, but also of the whole congregation. The memorial could have taken no form more helpful. A church cannot be maintained in the position which St. Stephen's occupies in the heart of the business section without the aid of a large endowment to provide the necessary equipment, and the income of this gift will be a most substantial assistance. It comes from a family that has already given a most unusual number of beautiful memorials to our Church, the great stained glass window in the east wall of the transept, the Mosaic over the Altar, and the great organ, and now comes this addition to the endowment. No gift could be a more appropriate memorial to their brother. Deep and abiding was his affection for St. Stephen's. He showed his solicitude for its welfare in many generous ways, and this gift, we know, comes to us not only as the gift of his brother and sisters, but also as their voluntary fulfilment of purposes they knew to be long cherished by their brother, and so in a sense as a gift from him also. Deeply indeed is the name of Horace Magee graven among the names of the benefactors of this Church. May St. Stephen's show its gratitude by its faithful service and so make this benefaction a source of blessing to many.

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the Vestry of St. Stephen's Church at their stated meeting of March 3d, 1913:

"Resolved, That the Rector, Church Wardens and Vestrymen do hereby send their sincere thanks to Miss Fannie S. Magee, Miss Anna J. Magee and Mr. James R. Magee for their generous gift of $25,000, to be added to the Endowment Fund of this Church, and in accordance with their expressed wishes, the principal sum shall be permanently invested, and held in our Endowment Fund as 'The Horace Magee Memorial Fund,' the income therefrom to be applied to the general expenses of the Parish."

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

The Missionary Study Class, in charge of Mrs. Charles B. McLean, meets on Thursday mornings at 11 o'clock in the Guild Room of the Parish House. Subject—"The progress and condition of Missions in Japan."

The annual Parochial Meeting will be held according to our custom on the second Monday after Easter, April 7th, at 8 P. M. All the societies and organizations connected with the Church, from Vestry down, are requested to attend, and the members are asked to sit together as far as possible.

Notice has been sent to the presidents and secretaries, and reports will be read as usual. Please make a note of the evening, and reserve it for this important congregational meeting. The invitation to be present is extended to everyone who is in any way connected with St. Stephen's.

The Wood Memorial.

It would indeed be gratifying to the committee in charge of this fund, if the entire amount, $2,500, might be in hand on Easter Day, March 23d, which marks the third anniversary of Doctor Wood's death.

It will be seen by the report of the treasurer, Mr. C. Howard Colket, that $600 is still needed to complete this fund. There ought to be no difficulty in securing this amount by Easter, and it is earnestly hoped those who have not already contributed will speedily respond to this appeal, that there may be no delay in honoring the memory of this distinguished musician, who gave so many years of valued service to this Parish and the community.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

The past winter having been unusually mild we have not had the suffering from hunger and lack of fuel that generally attends a severe winter, but we have other cases equally urgent, for instance,—three sisters, living alone in a tiny house, dependent for everything upon the wages that one could bring in for the other, who was the housekeeper, had a stroke of paralysis, so the other sister had to give up her position and nurse the ill one as well as do the housework. The landlord is kind in this particular case and is willing to wait for the rent, as they have been his tenants for many years and always paid promptly.

Another case is that of an old man, eighty-six years of age, and who is an epileptic as well as a sufferer from hemorrhage of the lungs, though still clings to life, mumbling often to himself: "I will live," and yet what does life hold for him. Miss Gebhard's memorial does a great deal for his comfort.

I would like to ask for $20 with which to buy a sewing machine for a poor woman. She is compelled to earn her living and also support a blind daugther.

These are a few of the cases that we have in charge. Then there are the hospital cases to visit, the school children as well as the infirm and the discouraged. Truly our Lord said: "The poor ye have always with you."

The St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has been holding a series of monthly meetings during the winter at which addresses have been made upon the various forms of social work which are being conducted in the city of Philadelphia.

On March 11, 1913, at 8 P. M., it is expected to have an address delivered by Mr. Thomas St. Clair Evans, who has charge of the Y. M. C. A. work at the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Evans has helped to make the Y. M. C. A. a living factor in the life of the University of Pennsylvania, and has helped to develop amongst the students there a useful type of Christian life and character. He is going to talk about this work. The subject is one which is exceedingly interesting, and it is to be sincerely hoped that not only all of the members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be present on the evening in question, but that as many members of the congregation as can will also be present.

The series of talks have not only proved entertaining, but exceedingly instructive. The first address, though somewhat out of the course, was delivered by Dr. Charles Emory Johnson, who gave a most useful talk on the Panama Canal. His peculiar knowledge of this subject gave him a special fitness for the delivery of this address, and those who heard it learned much about the Canal which doubtless had never occurred to them before.

The second address, which was delivered in January, was given by Mr. David Terry, of the Society for the Protection of Children from Cruelty. It was a source of great gratification to know that such a work of love is being conducted in this City of Brotherly Love; that the aim of this work is to encourage the parents to love the children rather than to take the children and make of them institution-made men and women.

At the third and last meeting of the Brotherhood, on February 11th, Mrs. R. R. P. Bradford, of the Light House Mission, spoke upon the wonderful work which that institution has rendered in Kensington. The splendid inspiration of her work was felt by all present, and the discussion of her visit to us has been such as to make anything more said but repetition. Those who were not present are to be sympathized with in having missed an opportunity to hear a soul-inspiring and uplifting work well described by one of its founders.

The aim of the Chapter in arranging for these addresses is to bring to the people of St. Stephen's Church knowledge of that which is being done in the various forms of social activity in our city, and to help our Rector in his splendid efforts to make St. Stephen's Church an active influence for a better Christian life in this community.

It is to be sincerely hoped that all who may read and hear of these addresses will make a special effort to be present on the evening of March 11th, at 8 P. M.

I. S. R.

The men of the congregation ought to be especially interested in the address on Tuesday, March 11th, as some suggestions may be made that may enable us to reach out successfully and gain some of the large student population that resides near our Church.

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The February meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary met in the Parish House Feb. 20th at eleven o'clock. The president was in the chair and there were thirty-one members present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report showing a balance of $49.30 was accepted.

The representatives of the various committees gave reports of their meetings held during the month at the Church House.

Miss Anna Magee, treasurer of the United Offering, is making a great effort to have seven hundred dollars as St. Stephen's gift at the next tri-ennial offering, which is to be held in October, 1913. Miss Magee reported that there are now 140 women missionaries, supported by this offering, who receive an average salary of about $550 a year.

After the various reports were given, Mrs. R. P. Bradford, of the Light House Mission, was introduced by Miss Bell, and gave a most interesting talk of her work in the Neighborhood House in the northeast section of Philadelphia. This work is philanthropic as well as Christian and is entirely to supply uncommercialized recreational opportunities for the working people.

There is the saloon whch Mrs. Bradford thinks is the most degenerating place of amusement. In Philadelphia there are 2,000—in the community surrounding the Light House there are 116. The small theatre is next in degenerating influence—the bill boards tell us enough. Of the moving picture houses there are 150. The dance halls are totally unsupervised, there being no laws regulating these places in Philadelphia.

Many of the athletic clubs furnish a weekly prize fight. There is also the pool room, the amusement park and the excursion boat. All these offer recreation, but they all draw money from the pay envelope.

The Light House Mission has reading rooms; classes for teaching whatever the young people want; a music school; trained nurses for the sick, and Mrs. Bradford has instituted savings funds, fuel funds, etc.

There is an average membership of 400 men, 400 girls and 800 boys, and the work is supported by voluntary contributions entirely.

The Auxiliary gave $25 to this work.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House, March 20th, at 11 o'clock.

Burd School.

The Burd School Chorus, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Barclay, wishes to announce their second annual concert to be given at the school, 63d and Market streets, on Saturday evening, April 5th, 1913, at 8 o'clock. The chorus will be assisted by Miss Elizabeth Bonner, contralto, and Mr. Howard B. Stavers, bass. Admission, 40 cents. We hope all of our friends who are interested in the work which is being done at the school will make a special effort to be present.

The money obtained from the concert will be used to help pay for a new piano which was very much needed, and for special lessons in voice for two members of our chorus.

ORA M. HARNISH,
Principal.

The Sunday School.

We are hard at work on the Bible Characters of the Old Testament and the History of the Hebrew People, as arranged by the Sunday School Association of the Diocese. It is not an easy course of study, but therein is possibly better, as it requires more earnest application to get the contained truth. We left the more interesting study of the events in the Life of Paul and the Apostles with reluctance, but we see the advantage in our present lessons, as they will lead us to a better appreciation and understanding of the New Testament and the Life of Christ. The first Sunday in January and the first Sunday in February, the Superintendent reviewed the Old Testament from Genesis and the story of the Creation to the Life of Elijah by means of our lantern, and some one hundred and fifty illustrations. This review will continue in April.

The first Sunday in March the review was laid aside for a Missionary study by means of the lantern and pictures. Some fifty beautifully colored slides were shown illustrating the Life of the Great African Missionary and Explorer, David Livingstone. The one hundredth anniversary of his birth is to be universally celebrated during the coming month.

On Sunday afternoon, March 30th, at four o'clock, in the Church, the Easter Carol service of our School and the combined Burd School will be held as usual and we expect the brightness and joys of former festivals and invite all to be present, including our friends and former teachers and scholars.

The recent confirmation by Bishop Garland on Sunday morning in our church was a most cheering sight to many of our teachers. Their prayers and faithful teaching during the past year was rewarded by seeing many of their scholars confirmed—to see the year's fruitage ripened and accepted in that beautiful morning consecration.

G. H. STREAKER,
Superintendent.

The members of the Girls' Friendly Society, whose Lenten work is cutting from the various magazines interesting reading matter, short stories, etc., and arranging them in a convenient form for use of the sick in hospitals, report that they are entirely out of periodicals and would greatly appreciate gifts of a number of the smaller magazines, the larger ones, such as the Home Journal, Home Companion and Saturday Evening Post not being adapted for this purpose because of size.

It is hoped there will be a speedy response to this appeal, that the work may go on uninterruptedly. All magazines for this work to be sent to the Parish House, marked for "Girls' Friendly Society."

The Wood Memorial Fund has reached such dimensions that a meeting of the committee will soon be called to determine the form which the memorial shall assume. The large number of persons who have contributed is of itself a great tribute to Dr. Wood. Three years have passed since the Easter when he entered into the rest that remaineth for the people of God, but his memory is still fresh and fragrant and the affection that he awoke by his brave, loving character, still glows warmly in many loyal hearts. The following is the list of the contributors since the last report:

C. HOWARD COLKET,
Treasurer.

These reports, made at the Parish Meeting, April 7th, will make pleasant reading and tell their own story. The year has been marked by faithful and fruitful service, and by harmonious co-operation. We have much for which to be thankful. The splendid addition of $25,000 to our Endowment as a memorial to Horace Magee is a great help.

The report of the Accounting Warden was made orally, and told us that we held our own. He praised the working of the Envelope System, and his eucomiums were borne out by the report of Mr. Jos. B. Van Dusen, Jr., which is contained in this issue, in more detail than he gave it to the Parochial meeting. The meeting itself was attended by a larger number of pew-holders than usual, but the attendance of the Girls' Friendly was not quite as large as last year.

While it is very disturbing to have the schooling of the girls at the Burd School broken up by measles and other infectious diseases, we are fortunate in the happy issue of these sicknesses, and in the absence of any fatal case. Moreover, the school will now be immune for some time from these diseases.

Mr. William Edwards, who is now a student at the Divinity School, but will be ordained Deacon at the close of the session, has been permitted, by the Bishop, to accept the position of assistant at St. Stephen's and will begin at once to act as lay-reader.

On visiting a sick boy, I found THE PARISH NEWS lying beside him. He said that he had read every word of it, and looked forward to its coming. I am afraid that there is but little in this PARISH NEWS that will cheer the lonely or comfort the troubled. Yet the figures of these reports may bring a message of consolation if we remember that this is a record of works of love and good-will. These gifts flow out of fountains of kindness, loyalty and affection. If God creates such tender and loyal natures, how good must He be Himself, how safe we are in His hands, how certain we can be that He will not suffer us to be tempted or pressed down by more than we are able to bear. Let us lift up our hearts to the Lord. C. E. G.

Altar Society.

The Altar Society presents its twenty-ninth annual report, as follows:

The Superintendent reports a purple stole given to St. Stephen's by Miss Isabel Collins, through Miss Carpin. A Fair Linen Cloth, three Purificators and two Chalice Veils, all partly worn, were given to Miss Neilson for the Rev. Mr. Bannell, of Greely, Colorado. A set of white book markers and partly worn Altar linenware also were given to Miss Neilson to dispose of at her discretion.

In April of last year, Miss Laura Bell suggested the idea of a Memorial Flower Fund. This met with an immediate response, thirty-eight Sundays of the year have been subscribed for by members of the congregation.

The United Offering is a continual one, made every three years at the time and place of meeting of the General Convention, when the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions has its Triennial Service.

Who gives the United Offering?

It is given by the women and girls of the American Church and its Missions, not auxiliary members only, but all women.

The United Offering of 1910 represented the gifts of eighty-seven dioceses of the American Churches.

There are at present about 300 missionaries receiving stipends from the Board of Missions. Of these 140 are supported by the United Offering. The proportion of Domestic to Foreign workers is about two to one, but the salary of the latter is much larger.

When we asked what is the best thing about the United Offering, that in twenty-one years it grew from $2,000 to $243,000, and in those twenty-one years it brought into the treasury of the Board of Missions $911,000.

We are glad our United Offering has helped so far, but there is not one of us but knows that if every woman in the Church for twenty-one years had given thankfully according to her means, the total would have been far beyond any such sum as this.

But the large part of our United Offerings made in the years 1898, 1904, 1907, 1910 has been devoted to the care of women at work in the mission field and in the course of the fourteen years, since 1898, 1,413 salaries have been paid; $310,420 have been expended for this purpose in the Domestic field, and $338,691 for the Foreign. The Foreign receives $28,270 more than the Domestic.

The United Offering Annual Presentation Service will be held in the Church of the Holy Apostles, 21st and Christian streets, on Thursday, May 1st, at ten-thirty o'clock.

At the last auxiliary meeting I reported	$200 00
Received since then	50 00
	$250 00
Received in 1911-1912	400 00
Making a total received for the last 3 years	$650 00

Report of the Sunday School.

The strength of our Sunday School is best shown in our Annual Easter Carol Service, which this spring had to contend with a showery afternoon and the absence of most of the Burd School scholars owing to illness. Nevertheless, at this service on March 30th, the Sunday afternoon following Easter, we overcame our difficulties and at 4 P. M. our Processional Hymn was heartily rendered, when the united school forces marched happily into the church and filled both sides of the middle aisle. Dr. Anthony, our musical leader, tells us that the Carols were never better sung, and with the aid of the older scholars of the Burd School, whom we were fortunately able to have present, we were able to sing the two part carols, even better than last year.

Dr. Grammer cheerfully received the mission offerings of the classes separately, and the unusual zeal of several, helped very much to bring our sum total very creditably high, as shown by our secretary and treasurer's report herewith.

The Primary Department, under the guidance of Miss Corrigan, Miss Goss and Miss Elsie Traul, so well rendered their Easter Carol that the Rector requested its repetition. Rev. Mr. Cannon earnestly addressed us and the resplendent electrical lighted Cross, with its beautiful flowers, so well arranged by Mr. Kirkpatrick, added its brightness and cheer to this happy occasion.

Our Christmas exercises and play—our festival occasions—and many social evenings, all help to keep the school well together and interested. The "Cross and Crown" system of awarding badges, certificates and buttons, for constancy in attendance, has been useful during the past year. While we miss the use of up-to-date moving pictures, yet with lantern slides we have been able each month to illustrate and review our lessons, or present an illustrated missionary talk—notably, "The Life of David Livingstone," and during "Holy Week," "The Life of Christ," showing the beautiful Copping pictures and Tissot's realistic scenes.

Our Cradle Roll is very much alive under the care of Miss Sinclair and this year's list of confirmed scholars was most creditable to the teachers and pleasing to our Rector. We have been fortunate in adding Miss M. Corrigan and Miss Brown to our list of faithful teachers, as well as to have the renewed assistance of Miss Dale. The School has made a good response in its contribution towards the appeal for a memorial to David D. Wood, and is very grateful for the fine portrait of its former musical leader, recently presented by Mrs. Wood.

While our building is much out-of-date, we can say it is well filled with an earnest and loyal school, and considering its disadvantages, keeps well to its tasks and, besides, takes its part in outside activities. We had representatives in last fall's parade of Sunday School Scholars, (and about twenty-five of our young men and older boys were in the big Bible Class Demonstration of last October tenth, not forgetting the part our young people took in the great Musical Festival last October at Convention Hall. All the events together with the teachers' supper and the successful "Retreat" last June, when the Rector, teachers and officers spent several days at St. Stephen's Farm, keep us together with live interest. So that with the Farm, the Summer Outings, the continuous Sunday morning sessions, summer and winter, we can happily report that while we may not be increasing in numbers, we are at least progressing in Bible study and in the development of Christian character.

Superintendent.

The Alpha Kappa Society.

This society of the young men of the Sunday School, whose function is the advancing of the social life of the school, reports that it has given two evenings of entertainment and instruction, sending out cards of invitation to the members of the school as well as to the members of our Girls' Friendly Society.

The first occurred Wednesday, December 4th, when one of its members, Charles H. Moore, presented an illustrated lecture on "Panama," showing with beautiful lantern slides the progress of the Isthmus Canal. The second entertainment, to which invitations were sent out as usual, was on Tuesday evening, January 28th, when our Chaplain illustrated the previous summer's Outings—scenes on our Farm—the class picnics, and other happy memories of the good old summer time.

We are planning for a closing of this season's activities with another "Social Evening" for Thursday, May 1st, in the Sunday School Room. The Treasurer reports expending $9.64 for the costs of the above entertainments and that he has remaining in the treasury, April 7th, 1913, $7.75.

The Work Among Our Boys.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate meets every Friday evening during the winter at 7.30 and adjourns at 8.15 for athletic instruction and games under Mr. Fountain, the physical instructor. We are all indebted to Mr. Boyd, of the Vestry, for his kindly interest and attendance at our meetings. The modified Basket Ball has added much interest under the guidance of Mr. Fountain, and while it was started rather late this season for the boys to get it in full swing, yet by next winter they should be able to compete in the fastest league games. The first team has lost no game thus far, though the younger team has. We have competed with the Morton Boys' Club, the Cherry A. C., the Calvary Presbyterian Boys' Club, The Trinity M. E., the First United and the Second Baptist Boys and expect to take part in the Interchurch Athletic Meet of next May, wherein we carried off so many medals last year. We are planning for an athletic exhibition in our Sunday School Building for the last Friday evening in April, and hope our friends will help us by their presence. We are very grateful to all who have so kindly helped by their subscriptions to the funds for "Our Boys' Work," and append hereto our account of the receipts and expenditures with the balance on hand:

Respectfully,
G. H. STREAKER.

The Ladies' Visiting Committee for the Burd School report a normal condition there, and the monthly visits have been made and the health and happiness of pupils and teachers noted. We think it would be hard to find a similar institution where brighter faces or a happier atmosphere prevailed.

A chance visit was made by one of the ladies on the eve of the Hallow E'en festivities. Faces were bright with anticipation. The hall was really beautiful. Praise is due to the girls for the industry and ingenuity with which they attained elaborate results and the visitor quite longed to remain and take part.

The interesting and successful concert by the Penn Charter Glee Club was repeated this year.

In February measles broke out and the school was quarantined. Those who could went to their homes or were placed outside as opportunity offered. Mr. Van Dusen gained admission for two in Y. W. C. A. About twenty of these exiles were entertained by Mrs. Boyd at her home on Saturday afternoon, April 5th. They were glad to see Miss Harnish again and to be in a friendly and homelike atmosphere.

On behalf of the Committee,
AMY P. WARREN LAUTERBACH.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The records of attendance at the Noon-Day Lenten Services show that we had a total attendance of 19,670. As on some days the numbers were only estimated, and could not be accurately counted, we may call it 20,000, with an average of 500 a day, or eliminating the Saturdays which are recognized as days of poor Lenten observance, the average for the other days was 533. The greatest congregation was on Good Friday, when the utmost capacity of the Church was reached. We had four Bishops with us, the Bishop of the Diocese, Bishop Williams of Michigan, Bishop Talbot of Bethlehem and Bishop Garland. We are grateful to them and to all who aided in the services. There is every reason to believe that much good seed was sown.

Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

The Junior Brotherhood has been meeting on Sunday evenings at 7.30 twice a month during the past winter, and adjourning in time to take part in the Sunday evening song service and social hour. The Junior Chapter has really grown to an intermediate or senior chapter. It is being planned to advance those who will, into the Senior group, and get in younger boys who are now growing up in the Sunday School. Some of the members are looking forward to the annual Brotherhood convention next October in New York, which is to be held just previous to the General Church Convention and which promises to be the largest ever held. It is hoped that many of our Chapter may be able to go.

G. H. STREAKER,
Director.

The Bell Ringers' Guild.

The Superintendent of the Sunday School and the following members, Elsie Traul, Anna Watson, Lena McEwen and Mary Duffy, together with Charles H. Moore, make up the Guild that undertakes to chime our Peal of Bells. Mr. Moore rings them Sunday morning and asists at their ringing during the noonday lenten services and the others in turn.

The Aid Society.

The Aid Society held its meetings as usual on Friday mornings during Lent. The activities of this society being confined to the Lenten season, it is astonishing how much work is accomplished, as the membership is small, numbering this year seventeen, only.

Two hundred and sixty-six articles were made and left for Miss Lewis to distribute in her work among the poor of the Parish.

Yearly Report of the Parish Visitor.

At this time, the closing of the Church year, the Parish Visitor offers her report with a deep sense of personal gratitude for the many blessings received, as well as the many undertakings which have been most successful.

The winter being unusually mild, suffering from the lack of fuel and proper clothing has not been so great.

Measles and mumps have gone the rounds, keeping a number of our Primary children away from their accustomed places in the Sunday School.

Seven persons have been placed in different hospitals during the year through the influence of Dr. Grammer and friends of the congregation.

One poor woman with a diseased breast was placed in a hospital where she had to have it removed. She was found nursing her child almost to a day, before going to the hospital. It is very deplorable to think that with all the instruction given to the poor about the care of their children, that so many do not realize the responsibility upon them.

Nine tons of coal were distributed during the year, and these were given by Mr. Wm. Hollar, Mrs. A. Hewson, Mrs. Walter Douglas and Mrs. H. P. Taylor.

Milk has been sent daily for the past year to a few sick people, until it was thought they could do without it.

During the winter olive oil has been sent where it has been ordered by a physician, and where very greatly needed. Groceries were sent on an average of at least two or three orders a week to needy ones, and for many of these we owe to our generous friend Mr. Samuel Moore.

A very deserving woman who earns her living by taking in sewing was made extremely happy by receiving an Easter gift of a $25 sewing machine, paid for by Mrs. Samuel Austin and Mr. Colket.

Two good warm lounging robes with other necessities were bought to make two sick men comfortable.

Thirteen babies had their first outfits made by St. Stephen's Aid Society. We are most grateful to the ladies who made these garments during the Lenten Season.

Thanksgiving, twenty-four families were remembered by receiving a basket of provisions or some other form of necessity.

We are also glad to acknowledge a memorial of $10 by Mrs. Gebhard, which will be given to a young man just recovering from typhoid fever.

One hundred and forty Christmas baskets were sent out the day before Christmas, making many very happy.

Three hundred and two dollars were received in cash this year for specialized charities and was disbursed according to request.

It is pleasant to mention the dancing class this winter, formed for the older boys and girls of the Sunday School and for members of the Girls' Friendly. The class meets every Thursday evening from eight o'clock to ten. It is supervised by the Parish Visitor. The attendance has been good. The enjoyment of the young people is beyond words, and the deportment is all that could be desired.

Visiting the Sunday School scholars, the sick, the hospitals, the discouraged, as well as the regular routine duties has made up the year's work.

The Parish Visitor wishes to thank the donors for the gifts of half worn clothing and all who have helped her work in any way.

Respectfully submitted,

K. H. Lewis.

Mothers' Meeting.

The officers of the Mothers' Meeting feel that they can present a very encouraging report for the season about to close. We have a membership in good standing of 139. Our attendance during the season has ranged between 78 and 100. Seven times it has gone above the 100 mark, and only four times below the 78 mark, and that in very bad weather.

We feel that this shows a real appreciation of the benefit to be received at the meetings, a belief which is confirmed by the regret expressed by the members when compelled to be absent, and the pleasure they show in the meetings.

Our season opened as usual on the first Thursday in November. On the first Thursday in December we held our Annual Sale of useful and fancy articles; the object being to provide some needed furnishings for St. Stephen's Farm. At this sale we made $160, a most creditable sum in view of the fact that this sale is patronized almost exclusively by the friends of the members; none of them persons of wealth.

A sale for the same purpose was held last year, the special object being to provide a carpet for the floor of the Living Room at the Farm. Not only was this done, a very handsome and durable carpet being furnished and laid, but the room was papered and painted; the housemother's room papered, 40 yards of rag carpet, which had been sewed by the Mothers was woven; a large and handsome flag with streamer bought to replace the worn-out flag at the Farm, and 24 warm comfortables for the beds were bought. The Mothers feel very proud of their work, and so do the officers.

The Mothers feel this deep interest in the Farm because it is to them a source of great happiness and pleasure. During the season all members had the opportunity offered them to visit the Farm, and six groups of women averaging fifteen to a group, were sent out Thursday after Thursday to spend a happy day there, the expense of the trip being defrayed by our Rector. In addition to this a large number of the Mothers spent a week's vacation there, sometimes with and sometimes without children; a week free from care and full of rest. Therefore the Mothers' Meeting feels that its life is closely interwoven with that of the Farm.

The first portion of each of our meetings is devoted to religious exercises, earnestly entered into and enjoyed by our members. The second portion is devoted to entertainment, and many friends have kindly helped us in this part of our work, by recitations, singing, impersonations, readings, illustrated talks, etc., all of which have been highly appreciated. Every once in a while we entertain ourselves: at Christmas with a Christmas party, and on Valentine's Day with a Valentine party, all of the members entering into the spirit of the evening with enthusiasm. On Holy Thursday we have a Communion Service in the Church. We have been very fortunate this winter in having an excellent accompanist in Miss Adelaide Wallace, who has been most faithful and helpful. We have had, through the kindness of the Rector, a dumb waiter put in the Guild Room, enabling us to serve our refreshments with more ease. The carrying up and down of more than a hundred cups and saucers from the kitchen had become a serious problem, and we have found the dumb waiter a great help and convenience.

The Benevolent and Savings Funds under the care of Miss Oldden have prospered, and the Coal Savings Fund under the care of the president has been, as always, a great success.

We feel that we can thank God for the blessing He has bestowed on this helpful and happy work.

Mrs. Henry P. Taylor, President.

E. E. Holman, Secretary.

The Sewing School.

The Sewing School held its opening session on the first Saturday in November, with an enrollment of twenty-five little girls. During the first part of the term, that is, until January, the attendance was good; since that time, however, we have had a small attendance, an average of twelve; due to two causes, first, the prevalence of contagious diseases—measles and mumps; second, and more serious, most of these little girls go to work at the age of fourteen, and as several of them reached that very mature age during the fall and winter, they left school and found employment, which, of course, takes them out of the sewing school also.

Some of the children are too young to make garments and have been taught simple stitches and their application. Some of the older girls have made underwear; others have dressed dolls. This latter is a favorite occupation and the members of Miss Zeilin's class have done this work very well under her faithful, careful instruction.

The absence of the older girls has affected the saving fund, which has not been so well patronized as usual.

We have greatly missed one of the sweetest influences of previous years—the visits of Miss Wilkins and her helpful talks to the older girls, most of whom are now members of the Girls' Friendly Society.

The closing session of the school will be held on next Saturday afternoon, April 12th, at half past two o'clock, and we cordially invite all the friends of the school. President.

King's Daughters Whatsoever Circle.

While the King's Daughters of St. Stephen's Church consists of only about twelve or fifteen working members, those few have been very faithful this past year, and the work accomplished has been varied and has brought happiness to quite a number of people.

In the fall they sent some clothes, some Christmas toys, etc., to a poor colored family in Warminster. These people were known to some of the girls who visited the Farm last summer.

A donation of aprons, scrap-books and candy was also given to the Willing Day Nursery.

Flannel skirts and other articles of clothing have been given to the Country Week Association and the Sheltering Arms; and two rugs will be given for use in the King's Daughters' room at the Farm.

About the middle of December, twenty-five poor children were entertained. Games were played, and after refreshments had been served, each child was given a toy and some candy to take home.

A donation of groceries was also given toward the Christmas baskets which the Church gave out; and flowers have been sent to the sick at various times.

This society has had no entertainments of any kind for a couple of years, so that their only source of income has been the annual legacy left by Mr. Patton,—amounting to $66.82, and the dues received from members. When this is taken into consideration, it will be seen that, though few in number, the society has really accomplished something worth while, besides having spent several evenings in a social manner, when work was laid aside.

The following is an account of receipts and disbursements:

Money received during the year:

Report of Shoe Fund.

RECEIVED.

From Church Fund (through Dr. Grammer)	$25 00
Donations from church members	5 00
From those receiving shoes	12 90
	$42 90

EXPENDED.

For shoes	39 50
Balance on hand	$3 40

Have given out to women and children 110 pairs of shoes, and 100 pairs of overshoes.

A number of half-worn shoes have been donated and Santa Claus sent one large box of shoes and overshoes at Christmas, otherwise we could not have given out so many shoes for so small an amount of money.

The children are very cute at times. On one occasion a six-year old boy came with his sister for a new pair of shoes. His mother had sent word that he was not to wear the new shoes home, but he thought differently; and under no circumstances could he be persuaded to take the shoes off. Dr. Grammer, who happened to be on hand at the time, interceded for the little fellow, and wrote a note to his mother, in order that the sister might not be punished for allowing her brother to wear the shoes. The child went home rejoicing. We hope the Rector did not encourage disobedience.

A Request from the Church Periodical Club.

A letter from a clergyman's wife in the State of Washington, asks us if we can send her the St. Nicholas. They used to get it, but have not received it for a year—and "it seems like losing a friend."

Perhaps there is a boy or girl in some of the families who see this notice in the PARISH NEWS that would like to help in this part of St. Stephen's missionary work.

A boy or girl who would enjoy the business-like practice of regularly sending the paper by mail—and to the far West.

A. FARRELL, Librarian.

Report of the Benevolent Society.

The Benevolent Society of St. Stephen's Church opened November 20, 1912, and closed April 2, 1913.

We feel that the Society has advanced in many ways, the attendance has been good. We have a number of new members in the cutting department who have done most difficult work, and the hospitals are kind enough to write us that the garments are well cut and the sewing strong and neat. 2,693 articles were finished. Miss Gebhart, who was faithful in her work of parceling for years, wrote us her home duties were so arduous that she had to send in her resignation. If she can return at any time we will give her a warm welcome.

Each year, when the season comes to close, we are sorry to part, and glad when November returns to take up the work which is very dear to us. Our Treasurer reports:

The Woman's Auxiliary.

The Woman's Auxiliary has held six stated meetings during 1912-1913, and the final meeting for the season will be held on Thursday, April 17. The attendance has been generally good, with the exception of the meeting held on Maundy Thursday, when only fifteen members were present, just half the usual number.

During the winter, several speakers have addressed the Auxiliary, among them Archdeacon Windiate of Tennessee, who spoke of the work of the Church in the South; Rev. and Mrs. B. L. Ancell, of Sanchow, China, who gave a most interesting account of present conditions in that new Republic; Rev. Frederick Warden, of Porto Rico, who spoke so eloquently of the urgent need for a font in St. Paul's Mission Chapel that the Auxiliary immediately contributed the necessary sum for its purchase. Mr. Conolly told of educational struggles in the mountains of North Carolina, and of his efforts in establishing an Industrial School at Penland, N. C. At another meeting Mrs. R. R. P. Bradford explained her work at the Light House Settlement in the northeastern section of Philadelphia.

One morning Mrs. Thomas Neilson, president of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, discussed the apportionment plan, giving many illuminating points on the subject, and Mrs. Thomas Roberts made a statement in regard to the Emery Fund, appealing for contributions in recognition of Miss Julia C. Emery's devoted service of many years as secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary.

St. Stephen's Auxiliary has tried in a humble way to help all of these enterprises which were brought to his notice, and through its delegates has faithfully filled the pledges made toward the apportionment. The delegates have given detailed reports of the monthly meetings attended at the Church House, and general interest has been shown by the members in the work of the Auxiliary. The loss sustained by the death of a valued member in Miss Wilkins has been deeply felt, and the long illness and consequent absence of the secretary, Miss Bright, has brought other members forward to take her place from time to time.

The Treasurer reports recipts of	$647 45
and expenditures	636 00
Balance	$11 45

In order to make the members acquainted with the deaconesses and students of the Church Training and Deaconess House, a tea has been arranged for their reception at St. Stephen's Parish House, on Saturday afternoon, April 12, from four until six o'clock, so as to have the opportunity to look into the faces of these young women entering on their life work, to clasp their hands and to wish them God speed.

With the heartfelt hope that all the women of the congregation might feel sufficient interest to co-operate with those already enlisted in the work of the Auxiliary, this report is respectfully submitted.

LAURA BELL, President.

Girls' Friendly Society.

St. Stephen's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society was opened as usual on the first Monday in October by the Rector of our Parish, the Rev. Carl E. Grammer.

The following week a meeting was held at the residence of Dr. Grammer to appoint a branch secretary, to succeed the late Miss Maria T. Wilkins. A new office of treasurer was created and plans outlined for the coming winter.

The membership of the branch to date consists of:

Working Associates	9
Honorary Associates	24
Members	127
Probationers	7
Married Branch Helpers	32
Total Membership	199

According to our custom, on the first Monday in the month Dr. Grammer or Mr. Cannon have conducted G. F. S. services in the church.

On March 10, Mrs. Cooper entertained us with an illustrated lecture on the Shoshone Indian School, Wind River, Wyoming. An interesting and enjoyable feature of the lecture was specimens shown of bead and leather work made by these Indians.

At our Christmas entertainment this year we had the great pleasure of entertaining the mothers of the members.

On March 31 Mrs. Newlin's band afforded us an enjoyable evening with games.

Our Annual Entertainment takes place this year on Monday evening, April 14, the proceeds of which it is proposed to send to Mrs. Wetmore, of Christ School, Arden, for her work among the mountain whites of North Carolina.

During the Lenten season the members sewed garments which will be sent to The Sheltering Arms.

Reading, travel talks and embroidery have been carried on by the different associates.

The Literature Class have read and studied, Kidnapped, by Robert Louis Stevenson; The Life of St. Francis of Assisi, by Mrs. Oliphant.

Classes have been held in millinery, elocution and sight singing.

The Married Branch Helpers have met Wednesday afternoons during Lent and made booklets for hospitals.

The girls who avail themselves of taking supper on Monday evenings have prepared a large box of clothing, neckwear and many other useful as well as fancy articles to be sent to Mrs. Wetmore.

The Treasurer reports:

Total Receipts	$226 95
Total Expenditures	161 52
	$65 43

of which
$ 2 00 is in the Magazine Fund
29 25 is in the Beneficial Fund
34 18 is in the General Fund.

It has now been over seven months since our late beloved Branch secretary was, by God's allwise providence, taken to her eternal rest. Words fail to express the kindness, tenderness and lovable disposition of one whom to know was a blessing indeed. To those so fortunate her memory should be a most worthy example to try to emulate her many benefactions, faithfulness and good will to this our loved society.

GRACE V. D. LUCAS,
Secretary, pro tem.

The Wood Memorial.

At a meeting of the committee held April 30th, it was unanimously agreed to erect a white marble mural monument in St. Stephen's Church in memory of David D. Wood. A sub-committee, consisting of Dr. Grammer, Mr. Wm. L. Austin, Mr. John Cadwalader, Mr. C. Howard Colket and Mr. Uselma Clarke Smith, was appointed to select the sculptor and arrange to have the work begun at once in order that the memorial may be completed by next Easter. The treasurer of the fund, Mr. C. Howard Colket, 2008 Delancey street, will be very glad to receive contributions for this memorial.

The Farm.

The greatest problem in the administration of the Parish now is the Farm. It does splendidly in providing cheap or free outings for many people, and it is a fine form of social service; but it is also a great source of expense and it is now in debt one thousand dollars. Enough money has been raised, if all our usual contributions come in, to run it successfully next summer; the great need, however, is to get the property into such condition that the farm will carry itself. The plan adopted by the Vestry is undoubtedly the right one, namely, to get a good tenant, who can support himself by the farm, and pay in services rendered and in produce. In this way the parish is relieved of the expense of paying a man, and of the cost of running the place. We are now behind not because our plan was mistaken, but because we failed to secure the right kind of tenant. We were mistaken in our man. We have good hopes that we now have the right tenant. He is known in that community, and bears a good name; we have tried him for some months, and he has proved faithful and industrious. I wish that it were possible to raise a thousand dollars to improve the fences, to put the buildings in good order, and to equip the tenant with a suitable outfit, so that the place could be put in better shape, and we could feel assured that we had launched him on an enterprise that was bound to be successful, with fidelity and energy on his part.

Nothing worth speaking of has been done to this property in the way of repairs for years. It is poor stewardship to let it run down. Eventually we shall probably sell it and use the income of the money to give outings in some other way, and at some new place; but as long as we hold the property, it is unwise to let it deteriorate. The response to my appeals has been so generous and prompt, that I venture to make a special appeal for the farm. Why can't we raise this indebtedness and put the place in a good condition? If this were done, I should feel that the parish was in splendid shape. It would be a wise investment for the parish and would relieve the rector and vestry of one of their chief anxieties.

I ought to explain that the treasurer carries that thousand dollars on his books as a loan, but that it is a loan that he has himself made us to cover this debt, and I am sure that the congregation does not want him to carry our debts in this way. If we make an exertion, we can pay that off. Perhaps some of our wealthier members may feel sufficiently interested in giving summer outings to their less prosperous fellows, and give us enough to set the place in good working condition. May God grant it. He has given us many blessings. Our cup would be overflowing if we could get the Farm in good shape. C. E. G.

With this number the PARISH NEWS will cease for a season, until it resumes its mission in the fall. We have had a good winter. The congregations have increased, the offerings through the envelopes have grown, the endowment fund has been augmented by the splendid gift of $25,000, the money has been raised for the memorial to our late organist, Dr. David Wood, the Lenten Services were well attended and were harmoniously conducted, and the speakers delivered good messages. The Burd School had sicknesses, but all passed off well in the end. The Social Hour and Song Service has proven a valuable addition to our Sunday services. St. Stephen's is doing well. Let this be known abroad. Let us fix our minds on the positive work done, on the splendid work of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Girls' Friendly, the Benevolent Society, the Mothers' Meeting and the Boys' Club. It is not possible in all these multifarious activities that everything should be done in a way that will suit everybody. There must be much mutual concession and mutual deference. There is a wholesome criticism that helps, but there is also an unwholesome criticism that is one-sided, and captious, sees only the deviations from the ideal, and takes no account of the difficulties of the task, and the limitations of human nature; that sees only the mote in the brother's eye, and sees it out of all proportion because of the beam in the critic's eye. Let us be on our guard against this. Let us preserve the spirit of concord that has marked St. Stephen's. Let us be loyal to those who are doing the work and esteem them highly for their work's sake. The great trouble with "calamity-howlers" is that they tend to become calamity bringers. The way to hurt a down-town church is to keep on talking about its problems and difficulties. The way to help a down-town church is to come to church regularly, to spread abroad an atmosphere of kindness, and to take a cheerful view of things. One of the chief requisites in a successful church-worker is hopefulness, and one of the chief duties in all departments is freedom from a spirit of censoriousness. However it may mask itself as zeal for the good of the church, this spirit of captious criticism is in reality an injury to the cause, and is due to a lack of love and faith. A poor machine that is well oiled and tended can do more effective work, than the best machinery, that lacks the necessary lubricant and tears itself to pieces, as it does its work. Let us pray that our church may abound in hope and in good will.

"Telephoning."

Some years ago there was a clever little book published with the title "Don't," giving advice on numbers of points of etiquette, speech, or conventionality. It is a pity that it did not have a special section in regard to the telephone. In that case, perhaps, the advice would run somewhat in this fashion:

1. Don't telephone your friend at his meal hour unless the matter is of supreme importance. He is entitled to leisure from business of all kinds during meals.

2. Don't forget that telephone calls take precedence of everything else, and, if writing will answer the purpose just as well, choose that method of communication.

3. Don't begin by asking—Who is at the 'phone? People don't care to give their names to anonymous invisible interrogators, especially do they resent the necessity of such introduction of themselves if their names are demanded in tones of magisterial authority. This is a good model: "Is that Filbert 3708? Mr. A. wishes to speak to Mr. X. Y. Z."

4. Don't keep people waiting. If you use an agent to get the other person for you, try to get there as soon as the person you summon; his time is presumably as valuable as yours.

5. Don't fail to leave your name and number—if you want to be called up. It is also well to leave these clues, even if you announce that you will "call up" again, since it may best suit the convenience of the other party to 'phone you up and dispose of the matter at once.

6. Don't be prolix.

7. Don't mumble your words.

8. Don't forget that the telephone carries tones as well as words, and study to be gentle in speech.

The dancing class on Thursday nights has proven a great success. A small fee is paid by the members which helps to defray the expenses of the music. The attendance is large, and the behaviour of the boys and girls has been all that could be desired. The spirit of the evening has been a spirit of order and cheerful friendliness. I am certain that the young people are made to feel by such gatherings that religion is not the represser of the human instincts of sociability and joyousness, but a friend and cheerer, as well as a solace and guide. Miss Lewis presides, and has gatherd around her faithful and loyal assistants.

Constantine's Edict of Toleration.

As this year is the 1600th anniversary of Constantine's Edict of Toleration in 313 A. D., special services are being held in some of our churches. To the people who believe that Mediaeval Christianity was in spite of some human defects, a rightful expansion of the Gospel principles, the great work of Constantine will seem ever memorable. Although thinkers of this class have not been friends of toleration still they make much of the great Edict, which first granted to the people of the Roman Empire the right to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences—et Christianis, et omnibus liberam potestatem sequendi religionem quam quiscunque voluisset. But these commemorators of the past are really not thinking so much of the principle of that Edict as of the exemption that Christianity thereby gained from persecution, and its speedy promotion to the position of the authorized and authoritative religion of the Empire, with the power to persecute heretics and schismatics. On the other hand, those who like Milman, the great historian of Latin Christianity, see in the career of Constantine the first advance to the military Christianity of the Middle Ages, and believe that by its adoption by the Roman Empire, a modification was wrought in the pure religion of the gospel, will commemorate the first Christian Emperor with less enthusiasm. While they must admit that the blend of Christianity and Roman Law and philosophy that followed was indispensable for the social progress of man, and the education of the barbarous nations of Europe in a kind of Christian legalism, nevertheless they recognize that we have not yet fully emerged from the influence of that stage, and their gratitude for the service that it rendered at first, is lessened by the trouble that it gives us in continuing so long. Many feel that it would have been well if the conversion of the Roman Empire had been less official. We cannot forget that it was not really until the 18th century that the principles of religious liberty were properly understood and taught. After all toleration is a poor thing in religion. One might as well talk of tolerating a man in the use of his eyes or legs, or arms, as tolerating him in the use of his reason. What is needed is liberty and charity, not toleration. It must not be forgotten that this Edict was made possible by the great victory of Constantine over Maxentius at the Milvian bridge, near Rome, in October, 312. Before this battle Constantine was said to have seen the cross in the sky with the inscription, in hoc signo vinces. After this vision he constructed the labarum or Christian standard, which consisted of the first two Greek letters of Christ's name, written upon one another so as to form a cross. The story of the vision is told by Lactantius and Eusebius,—the earlier account is the simpler. Dillinger and Newman believe in the story in the amplified form, but the modern view is that the clouds took the shape of a cross.

The Woman's Auxiliary Tea.

A tea was given by Miss Laura Bell, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Parish for Deaconess Carter, Deaconess Clarke and Deaconess Mills on Saturday afternoon, April 12th. Despite the rain, seventy guests assembled at the Parish House, which was decorated with palms and flowers, and the students of the Church Training and Deaconess House walked through the church to examine the monuments and memorial windows and tablets. Mrs. David D. Wood sang a "Lullaby" composed by Dr. Wood for little Elsie, who played the accompaniment for her mother. Mrs. Carl E. Grammer, Mrs. S. Weir Mitchell, Mrs. Charles McKeehan, Miss Sanders and Miss Emily Bell assisted in receiving and pouring tea, and the members of the congregation were glad to meet Deaconess Carter who has lately come to the Deaconess House, 708 Spruce street, succeeding Deaconess Sanford. Deaconess Clarke is also in residence there, and Deaconess Mills soon goes to Alaska to fill the position formerly occupied by Deaconess Carter. Several of the graduating class go to Alaska and China, and others to the domestic field nearer home.

The Sunday School.

On the first Sunday in May there is due scholars, who have been constant in attendance for the past three months, a bronze button. It is hoped that many besides those who were successful in winning the gold button prize of last year will be among the winners of these beautiful "Cross and Crown" awards for the coming year.

On Sunday morning, May 4th, the Superintendent will review the lessons, using the stereopticon illustrations and we hope for a good and early attendance of our scholars, teachers and friends to see the pictures, which will be thrown on the screen shortly after ten o'clock.

The midweek social evening under the guidance of Miss Lewis is attracting many of our scholars and being well conducted gives them a happy time.

Many are looking forward to a pleasant evening, May 7th, when the Alpha Kappa will entertain their friends.

Miss Sinclair is made happy by the addition of three names to the cradle roll and so the Sunday School is keeping very much alive. Several scholars took part in the musical event at Convention Hall for the benefit of the blind and at the coming Musical Festival of May 27th, to be held at the great hall, Broad and Allegheny avenue, some fourteen of our scholars will sing in the large chorus from the city Sunday Schools, numbering probably five thousand and led by Mr. Lincoln.

Brotherhood of St Andrew.

Several of the Juniors are planning to attend the Convention to be held in New York City next October, the first to the fifth inclusive. The Annual Spring Meeting of the Philadelphia Local Assembly of the Brotherhood will be held on Saturday afternoon and evening, June 8th, and it is hoped that many of our Juniors as well as Seniors will try and be present. It will be held at the beautiful suburban Grace Church, at Mt. Airy, and it is likely that Bishop Rhinelander will be with us.

Among Our Boys.

Our boys will give their Annual Entertainment on Friday evening, May 2d, in the Sunday School room, playing an exhibition game of basket ball with boys from Incarnation Church, besides an exhibition of athletics, and the showing of many interesting pictures on the screen. It is hoped that many of their friends will try and be present.

Burd School.

Owing to illness at the school during March and April the concert of the Burd School Chorus, which was announced for April 5th, had to be postponed, and will now be given on Saturday evening, May 10th, at 8 o'clock. The Chorus, which is under the direction of Miss Mary Elizabeth Barclay, will be assisted by Miss Elizabeth Bonner, contralto, and Mr. Howard B. Stavers, baritone.

We hope our friends have not become impatient with our unavoidable delay and as many as can will be present.

ORA M. HARNISH,
Principal.

David D. Wood Memorial.

The sub-committee appointed last spring to select a sculptor for a suitable memorial to Dr. Wood has arranged with Mr. Charles Grafly, of this city, to do the work, which is promised to be completed by Easter of 1914. Mr. Grafly's reputation as a sculptor is too well known to need any comment in these columns. It might be stated, however, that he has been selected to model the statue of the "Pioneer Mother" which will be the central figure at the fine arts display at the Panama Exposition. As the following financial account will show the full amount of $2,500 has been raised, the sum needed to cover the cost of the memorial. An additional amount of $200 is required to pay for postage and printing, for the restoration of the wall of the church after the memorial has been inserted, and finally for an electric light lantern. To date there have been 238 contributions received in response to the 2,025 circulars sent out by the committee. It is hoped that the many friends and pupils of Dr. Wood who have not yet contributed toward the memorial will do so at once. Contributions should be sent to C. Howard Colket, treasurer, 2008 Delancey street.

Contributions in the order in which they were received:

Henry La Barre Jayne	$10 00
Mrs. A. G. Cowgill	10 00
American Organ Player's Club	25 00
Mrs. Samuel Ward	5 00
Mrs. A. Reed McIntire	10 00

The Rector's Letter.

MY DEAR PARISHIONERS:

I return to my work among you after an unusually restful and refreshing summer. The month of July I spent with my family in a delightful retreat on Echo Lake in Monroe county, among the foothills of the Pocono Mountains; but in August I traveled westward for a change of scene, and occupation. For the last five years I have been the President of the Indian Rights Association, and it was felt by the Executive Committee that it would increase the efficiency of our organization if the President visited some of the Indian reservations and saw conditions with his own eyes. In compliance with this view I went out with our secretary, Mr. M. K. Sniffen, leaving Echo Lake on August 4 and returning on September 4. Of that month I spent ten days in Oklahoma, visiting the Cherokees, Creeks and Seminoles. The rest of the trip was occupied with visiting the Navajos and Hopis in New Mexico and Arizona. I had the opportunity of seeing the celebrated Snake Dance of the Hopis and inspected a number of Navajo hogans. In New Mexico we were entertained by Miss Thackera in the Episcopal Hospital near Fort Defiance. This hospital has an accomplished physician in charge and a fine equipment in many ways, but is greatly in need of an interpreter. Miss Thackara has prayers regularly, but as the people cannot understand English, they can not worship God with their understanding and are prone to look on the whole as a species of incantation. One day Miss Thackara heard a patient in a ward chanting the whole Venite with remarkable accuracy, without understanding a word of it. Through the generosity of a Philadelphian pipes were laid and water was brought to this hospital. Would that some conducting medium could be procured for the water of life. Miss Thackara's example counts for much, but it would mean more if she could reveal the inner springs of her character. In Arizona we were entertained for a week by Mr. W. R. Johnston in the Presbyterian Hospital at Indian Wells, where he and his wife are doing a noble work for the physical and spiritual needs of the Indians. Mr. Johnston is also a sturdy and able champion of their rights. He carried us around among the people, and enabled us to appreciate the situation of those Indians who have settled off the reservation. Greatly are these aborigines in need of education and religion. Neither the Government nor the churches have done their full duty by them. It is a great mistake to think that they are decreasing and will soon vanish from our midst; the Navajos have multiplied since 1867 A. D. from 9,000 to 28,000.

Before turning eastward I had the pleasure of seeing the most marvelous river in the world, the yellow and turbid Colorado, rushing with fierce energy to the sea at the bottom of its vast canyon, a mile below the surface of Arizona's lofty plateau. Wonderful are the rich tints of the stratified rocks through which the determined stream has carved its way from its sources east of the Rockies that it may pour its waters into the Pacific Ocean. Awe inspiring are the far-reaching vistas opened up by the slanting rays of the westering sun as they shoot down into the numerous radiating canyons where the evening mists first begin to gather. Still more marvelous is the revelation of the lengthy and stupendous processes whereby this continent has been shaped. No spot in the world can be more instructive to the geologist than this great canyon on whose rocky walls are hung in their true proportions the colored charts of the geologic eras. Grand as is this famous scenery however there was to me something unearthly about it. The outlook is downward and not upward. These mountains do not swell towards the heavens, but rise towards the beholder from the depths of the earth. No bright cascades leap down these rocks or wave gaily at the sport of the wind across the face of these precipices as in the Yosemite. All is stern and awe-inspiring. The vast fissure seems the entrance to a Purgatorial underworld. Through such splintered rocks, down such precipitous chasms Vergil might have led the dauntless Florentine, or Orpheus might have traveled to regain Eurydice. Looking across the rocky spires, the rude cones, and truncated pyramids I seemed to stand beside some sacred city of the most primitive of religions, some Benares of the stone-age, a city of temples of a cult that antedated by ages the poetic pantheon of Greece, and even the philosophic and nebulous deities of hoary India. Emotions of awe and worship seemed to have heaved up these temple-like rocks; but emotions too strong and undefined to express themselves in intelligible forms, or shapely structures, being instincts rather than convictions. All my journey westward had been a traveling backward into the Past: first back to the pioneer days of America, and then on the reservations back to the days of the patriarchs who like the Indians of Arizona, pastured their flocks and herds beside desert springs. But at this mammoth canyon, I seemed to have gone back beyond the age of man. Like the giant sequoia of California, it seemed to belong to the age of the Icthyosauros, the Pterodactyl and the Mastodon, to an age of vaster dimensions, and harsher conditions. The face of Nature here lost all trace of benevolence, or purpose and spoke only of ever-during and illimitable force. Methought that I stood close to the origin of the continent, and just beyond lay the beginning of time, and that unknown date, when chaos began at the Divine word to shape itself into a kosmos.

Our parish has suffered severely this summer through deaths. Three call for special mention. Mrs. Lineaweaver was a member of the Missionary Box Committee, and her presence and assistance will be greatly missed, a wonderful mother and thoughtful friend. Miss Julia Garrett, who died August 31st, was one of our most helpful members. To her gift of $3,000 we chiefly owe the re-decoration of the church. She contributed regularly to the deficiency fund, and was especially liberal in her contribution to the Church Work Fund of the Rector, to which she sent $500 last fall. We shall sorely miss her aid. We are grateful that she left the church $2,000 in her will. If that instrument had been drawn up later and Miss Garrett had known more of our institutional work, she would probably have left us more. The Rector never appealed to her for any cause in vain. The sad death of Miss Jane Jamison is a great grief to us all. Responsive and friendly, kindly and affectionate, she must have borne burdens of loneliness and depression of which none ever knew. It is awful to think how she was suffering in mind and spirit, and all without our knowledge. It is good to believe that God's mercy is over all his works.

"My own hope is the sun shall pierce
The thickest cloud, earth ever stretched
That after last returns the first
Though a wide compass round be fetched,
That what began best can't end worst,
Nor what God blessed once prove accursed."

Our new assistant, Mr. Edwards, took up his duty in July, and has been faithfully at his post all summer. He will live at 908 Spruce street, and is rapidly becoming acquainted with the people. It is pleasant to have the son of a minister, trained from childhood in the ways of our Church, ministering at her altars. A number of minor repairs and improvements have been made in the church edifice, and it is believed that it is in unusually good condition. May this new year of work be a season of unusual efficiency. Some of our chief problems have been solved: one of the last the conduct of the farm, is in a fair way of solution, largely through the energy of Mr. Boyd, and the selection of the right kind of tenant. May all this equipment be faithfully utilized for the doing of good to man, and the manifestation of the Divine life.

Sincerely your friend and rector,

CARL E. GRAMMER.

The Farm.

In response to the invitation sent out by the committee to visit "The Farm" and see it in readiness for the summer's work, sixty-five members and friends came out on opening day, June 14th. Those who saw the Farm for the first time were charmed with the beauty of the surroundings, and the home-like atmosphere of the house. The Farm is indeed delightfully situated, and has all the advantages of a pleasant country home.

Each week, from the opening until the close, we have had with us at various times members of our congregation, Sunday School, Girls' Friendly Society, Mothers' Meeting and Boys' Club.

A number of enjoyable events have taken place during the summer—first the annual Sunday School picnic on June 28th, when the officers, teachers and scholars, about 125 in all, came to Neshaminy by trolley, and were conveyed in busses and hay wagons to the woods adjoining the house, where lunch was served. And it was a happy company that sat down to enjoy it. There was blue sky and sunshine the early part of the day, but in the middle of the afternoon a heavy shower sent us indoors, where the good times were continued. Later on the sun smiled once more, and all went home under clear skies.

The Sunday School teachers also greatly enjoyed their week end visit as guests of the Rector.

Another delightful outing was the picnic of the Hatboro Episcopal Sunday School to Willow Grove. It has been the custom ever since the Farm first opened, for our people to attend the morning service at this church, each Sunday during the summer, so these good people feel that we belong to them in a measure. They are most generous, and we are invited each year to attend this annual outing as their guests.

Now, Fourth of July is a gala day at the Farm, for our Girls' Friendly Society is with us then. Many of the girls come for one or two weeks during the summer, but the house is filled to overflowing at the Fourth of July and Labor Day also. This year there were forty-six girls, many of them have been coming since the house was first opened, and the recollections of the good times spent at the "dear old Farm" are indeed happy memories. This society has shown great interest in the work of the Farm this summer. Through their efforts $17.50 was realized through the sale of candy and voluntary contributions.

As usual, "Our Boys" were with us during the last two weeks of August, under the care of Mr. Streaker and Mr. Edwards. It is needless to say there was some life at the Farm during these two weeks. With baseball, swimming, tennis, croquet, and nature study every minute was taken up, and then in the evenings straw rides, corn roasts, moving pictures on the lawn, besides games in the parlor, all reported having had a rousing good time.

And last, but not least, our good friends, the Mothers, who have so generously spent $127.31 (part of the proceeds of their Fair held last November) in supplying so many needed articles for the Farm, and renovating the bath room. It is indeed largely through their efforts that the house has been made so comfortable and attractive. The Mothers came in parties of twelve to twenty each Thursday, when a special dinner was served, and then afternoon tea. Most of them can leave the city but for a day, and are so grateful for the opportunity thus afforded them of enjoying the delights of the country.

The Benevolent Society donated a most generous supply of lovely table linen, towels and bed spreads, thus filling a very great need which was much appreciated.

There were numerous gifts from friends—prizes for the Girls' Friendly Society, two rugs and table covers for the King's Daughters' room, a chamber set for the Girls' Friendly room, donation $5.00, candy, fruit for preserving, medicines, baseball outfit, a number of books, games, and magazines, vases, bric-a-brac, etc.

This season the Farm has been rented to a young man, who has proved himself to be efficient, honest and trustworthy, and the outlook is most encouraging. It is sincerely hoped that the problem of supporting the additional expense of farming has now been solved.

Each year as we review the work of the Farm, it is always gratifying to hear that so many have enjoyed the comforts of our summer house, and the many expressions of appreciation for the benefits received. This year the work has gone on much the same as in former years. We feel that many have been benefited, that much good has been accomplished, and that we can truly say we have had a most successful summer.

The number of guests entertained during the summer follows:

	Inside the parish.	Outside the parish.

So that 2,398 days of pleasure were given to 504 persons, and 322 extra meals served.

The Sunday School.

The regular sessions of the school closed on Sunday, June 22d, and the annual picnic was held on Saturday, June 28th. For a change the Farm in Bucks county was selected as the place. The children, together with Dr. Grammer, the Superintendent and the Secretary, the teachers and some of the parents went out by street cars to Neshaminy and were carried from there by busses to the Farm. After a lunch in the woods various games were played, and towards the close of the day ice cream and cake were served on the lawn. The picnic was a great success. Our only regret was that more of the parents of the children were not with us. By invitation of the Rector the teachers remained over for their second annual retreat at the Farm, when a teachers' meeting was held.

The summer sessions of the Sunday School began on June 29th, and were held each Sunday morning during July, August and September, at 9.45. The Superintendent was in charge and united the departments in one big class, teaching a most interesting series of lessons suitable to vacation times, on "God in Nature," from our regular Diocesan Course, as arranged by Mrs. Loman. Mr. Edwards frequently came to our assistance with appropriate addresses and the summer went happily by with probably the best attendance we have yet had in these months. We sorrowfully note the sad death of Helen Rice. The six weeks of the Daily Vacation Bible School, under the care of Miss Nodine, probably aided the Sunday School. Miss Lewis gave us faithful assistance and the Farm kept us bright with vacation opportunities for all. An excursion to Wildwood on Saturday, July 19th, made a merry day for many by the sea.

The regular winter sessions began on Sunday morning, September 28th, with a good attendance and a very promising outlook. Most of the teachers were with their classes and we gladly welcomed to our teaching force Miss Williams and Miss Grammer. We have selected for study, a graded series of lessons from our regular Diocesan course—"The Earthly Life of Our Lord Jesus Christ." This should be a very interesting continuance to the course of last winter, "The History of the Hebrew People." We hope to illustrate the lessons at intervals with scenes from the life of our Lord by our electric lantern. We need several men teachers, particularly for adult classes of the young men and older boys.

Our Rally Day will be Sunday, October 12th.

We will participate in the Sunday School Demonstration of October 4th. Many of our scholars and teachers will be taken in autobuses to this Seventh District Assembly at Washington Square at 3 P. M., on that afternoon, when the many Sunday Schools of our city will have their fourth Annual Parades and meetings in the public squares.

G. H. STREAKER, Supt.

Our Boys.

The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew will advance most of its members into the Senior Chapter this fall and hopes to draw into its membership from the Sunday School another and younger group of boys.

The Alpha Kappa will resume its meetings on October 24th. The Boys' Senate with its athletic meetings will open for the winter season Friday evening, October 17th.

Some twenty-five of our boys spent a delightful vacation at the Farm this past August, from the 16th to 30th, organized for the time into Boy Scouts and divided into three patrols, "The Eagles," "The Bulls" and "The Bears." A number of ball games were played with the Orange boys, the boys of Christ Home and with a neighboring camp. This year the relay, delivered a letter by bicycle from the Farm to the Hatboro Editor, a distance of over three miles, in a little over eleven minutes.

An all day visit to Camp Pennypack was a most happy occasion. The weather was very pleasant and the days flew rapidly by, with sports and games, hikes and visits to the nearby swimming pools. Miss Dale was most patient and kind, and no one will forget the boys' banquet on the last evening, with its gifts for everybody and its speeches from everyone.

The Church-in-the-Woods, now in its seventh year, had an attendance each Sunday afternoon of from 150 to 200. The Orange boys' band led our processional on one Sunday. Mrs. Wood was our soloist, Miss Durnall our organist and Reverends Mr. Hall, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Schmalhorst and Dr. Oettinger came to our assistance with helpful addresses. We are greatly indebted to all our friends who have helped us to have these happy days at St. Stephen's Farm.

G. H. STREAKER.

The Girls' Friendly.

The fall meeting of the Girls' Friendly will be held on the first Monday in October, the 6th.

Daily Vacation Bible School.

Through the liberality of a member of the congregation the Daily Vacation Bible School was held at St. Stephen's for six weeks during the summer. The total enrollment was 60. The daily average attendance was 24. This was the first year for a school of this kind at this church. It was in charge of Miss Charlotte W. Nodine, principal, and two assistants, a manual training teacher and a kindergarten teacher. Being situated in a business section of the city it was a hard task to get the children. The enterprising principal gathered up enough children from the "highways and byways" to form a sufficient class, and met with any number of amusing experiences.

When the school was in session the principal told Bible stories and on the following days had different pupils repeat the stories to determine what impression had been made on their minds. The giving of "Habit Talks" was another good feature of the program every day. In these talks the teacher gave suggestions as to good manners, cleanliness, kindness and things that should be avoided. The teaching of hymns and songs was also included in the day's program. Raffia and reed work for the girls and hammock making for the boys were popular manual tasks.

Many of the children wanted the school session to be prolonged and begged on the last day of school to have such a school again at St. Stephen's next summer.

On the evening of August 14th the children gave an exhibition. The Bible stories, "The Finding of Moses" and "King Solomon and Queen of Sheba" were given by Miss Nodine with the assistance of her pupils who wore costumes in keeping with the characters they took. The wand drill showed how gymnastic exercises can be combined with music. Other features of the program proved interesting.

The main objects of these Daily Vacation Bible Schools are: to keep the children off the streets for six weeks in summer; to keep their hands busy; to eliminate quarrels and instil patriotism; to teach Bible stories; to put a church in happy relations with the foreign community.

The amiable characteristics of the colored people are so inadequately recognized that it gives me pleasure to tell of the heroism exhibited this summer by our colored cook. In getting out of a boat she slipped and fell into the water, which was quite deep. As she fell she was caught so that she was only immersed up to her waist. Her position, however, was very awkward, as her back was turned to the boat, and she was unable to help herself. There was no man in the party, and Mrs. Grammer and my daughters, the occupants of the boat, found it very difficult to pull her in without upsetting it, as she was quite heavy. To Georgiana unable to swim, unfamiliar with boats, the peril appeared extreme; but in her excitement she did not forget that others were involved and cried out: "You had better let go of me; I am old, I may drag you in." After a time they managed to get her into the boat, when she explained that she had often heard that drowning people were apt to drag in their rescuers, and was resolved that she would not bring ruin to others.

JOS. B. VAN DUSEN, JR.,
Treasurer.

The congregation will note that an addition is made to our staff of clergy by the appointment of the Rev. Hubert W. Wells as one of our assistants. Mr. Wells has been for a number of years the Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, a church made famous by the long rectorship of Bishop Lee, but in latter years he has become more and more interested in the application of Christian principles to social problems. Last spring he accepted the secretaryship of the City Club in this city. The position proved so congenial that he resigns charge of St. Andrew's on the first Sunday in November. Henceforth his main energy will be given to social service, but he desires to maintain his position in the ranks of the clergy, and his right to participate in the Church's conventions. We feel that a man of such a spirit has a message for the Church, and are glad to place him on our staff. It ought to be explained to the congregation that the position, except as to some small canonical requirements which will be duly met, is purely honorary, and will not add to the burdens of the Vestry. Mr. Wells is given a seat in our Chancel, will have a part in our service, when he is able to attend, and will take such other duty as may be requested of him by the Rector and his engagements will permit. A cultured theologian, a thoughtful and well-read student of social problems, an ardent spirit, an eloquent and moving preacher, it is a pleasure to have such a man on our staff. It may be expedient in view of the number of clergy on our staff to explain exactly the relation of these ministers to the parish. In a word, they are all workers under the direction of the Rector. Financially, the parish is under the charge of the Rector and Vestry; but spiritually the congregation is under the jurisdiction of the Rector, as the following Canon clearly lays down.

CANON 16.

Sec. 1. The control of the worship and the spiritual jurisdiction of the parish are vested in the Rector, subject to the Rubrics of the Book of Common Prayer, the Canons of the Church, and the godly counsel of the Bishop. All other ministers of the parish, by whatever name they may be designated, are to be regarded as under the authority of the Rector.

Sec. 2. For the purposes of his office and for the full and free discharge of all functions and duties pertaining thereto, the Rector shall, at all times, be entitled to the use and control of the Church and Parish Buildings with the appurtenances and furniture thereof.

Loyalty Where It Is Due.

It is a matter of surprise that people do not feel more obligation to associate themselves with a Church that stands for what they believe in. Many people, who will profess that one of the supreme tasks of the Church is more efficient social service, often worship for the convenience, it may be, of avoiding a little longer walk on Sunday morning at a Church where all that sort of service is derided as futile; or they may be believers in the necessity of re-stating the everlasting gospel in the terminology of our own day, and on inquiring under what modern and enlightened preacher they are refreshed by such views, you learn that for special reasons they listen Sunday after Sunday to the sermons of the Rev. Mr. Stand-pat-on-all-the-old-forms of dogma.

Some one asked Mrs. Carlyle on one occasion to allow him to bring a very charming liberal bishop to call on her, and to his surprise was refused permission. "No," explained Mrs. Carlyle, "he may be very charming, and very liberal; but I cannot stand a liberal-minded man wearing that absurd costume; that is the mixing of things which I call The Great Bad." I do not agree with the philosophical and caustic wife of the great Scotch seer, in thinking liberality out of place in a bishop, for I know of no conjunction more entirely delightful than breadth of view and the Episcopal office; but I am quite in accord with her in thinking that the mixing of things is the great bad.

People who are laboring all week in the interest of modern social and ethical ideals should belong to a Church where those ideals are upheld, justified and illustrated. If they go for motives of convenience, or habit to a Church where such ideals are either ignored or antagonized, their life lacks harmony and consistency; there is too great a gulf between Sunday and Monday, for any good message to pass from the one over to the other, and there is the mixing of things which Mrs. Carlyle called the Great Bad. "Unite my heart," prayed the Psalmist, and this unity of heart is only possible where life is laid down on consistent lines. The bearing of these remarks is that there are a great many people who approve what St. Stephen's stands for in Philadelphia, who would be happier and more consistent if they would unite themselves with St. Stephen's. I meet them every day; people who admire the position of our Church, its theological breadth, its ecclesiastical liberality, its attitude toward the Reformation and the Bible and complain to me pathetically that the Church to which they belong is just the opposite of St. Stephen's on all these points. I do not believe in seeking to pull people out of other Churches, and have been brought up in a strict school of clerical ethics in such matters, but I can but think that such people deprive Sunday of much of its blessing by making it a day of repulsions and reactions, instead of a season of reinforcement and encouragement. People who believe in development in doctrine and ethics owe their encouragement and aid to a Church that stands today as it has stood for a generation, for progress in these directions.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Our Brotherhood of St. Andrew was represented at the Annual National Convention, October 1st to 5th, in New York City, by W. J. Kirkpatrick, Chas. H. Moore, Jas. Carrigan and G. H. Streaker. Over 2,600 men and boys registered, thus, far exceeding in numbers any recent convention. At the Corporate Communion, on the Sunday morning of the closing day, over two thousand members were present, representing Chapters from Maine to California. The great Cathedral of St. John the Divine presented an inspiring scene, when, at 7.30 on Sunday morning, this large assembly of our Brotherhood from all parts of our country took part in this sacred service.

The following additions have been made to our Church this past month. Some of them are old members who have returned to us; some of them are new members entirely, and some of them are worshipers who have attended our services more or less for years, and have now definitely taken their place among us. To all we give a hearty welcome.

To the Men of St. Stephen's Church.

An Informal Dinner of the men associated with St. Stephen's Church will be given under the auspices of St. Stephen's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, on Tuesday evening, November 11th, at Dooner's Hotel, 10th and Chestnut streets, at seven o'clock.

All men in any way connected with St. Stephen's Church are earnestly invited to attend this dinner. The price of the dinner will be one dollar ($1.00) and subscriptions may be sent to Mr. William H. Hansell, chairman of committee, 904 Provident Building, Philadelphia.

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

Albert Loughead.

Although it had been long foreseen that Albert Loughead could not recover from the tuberculosis that had fastened itself so firmly upon him, his sudden collapse and death on Saturday, Oct. 18th, came as a great shock to his friends. Educated in the Parish School, a member of the Sunday School, in Miss Lindenmeyer's class, and a communicant, every one felt that St. Stephen's had a special responsibility for him, when he lost both parents about five years ago.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Mearns, a home was provided for the orphan boy, till the progress of his tuberculosis made it impossible to keep him in their house with due regard to the health of their children. Then he made various experiments in earning a living and seeking health, driving wagons and going to sanitaria, but always finding in St. Stephen's the circle of his friends and in the home of the Mearns the affection given to a blood relation. In the summers of 1911 and 1912 he helped Miss Dale at St. Stephen's Farm, endearing himself to everyone by his tact, cheerful courage and kindness. Last fall he was so weak that it was necessary to put him in the home for consumptives at Chestnut Hill. There he had the assurance that his Church would care for him and provide for all his wants, and his Sunday School teacher, and Sunday School classmates brightened his days by visiting him with beautiful fidelity. He was also cheered by the visits of Miss Lewis and other friends, as well as by the clergy of the parish. He met all with a beaming smile and with warm affection. The beauty of his character was manifest in his tender solicitude for those he loved, and in his gentle patience. On Monday, Oct. 20th, he was buried from St. Stephen's Church, and a large congregation was present to testify to the strength and extent of the affection that his character had inspired. His example and influence will long be felt in the Parish. Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

St. Stephen's Church Work Fund.

The Rector appeals to the members and attendants of St. Stephen's for their annual contributions to the Church Work Fund. The work will he hampered unless $1,400 shall be contributed. For that amount the Rector earnestly asks. It is through this Fund that the Rector conducts his office, publishes the PARISH NEWS, employs the services of a stenographer, advertises the Sunday services, provides stationery and printing for the Church's work and societies, and furnishes equipment and needed money to the various organizations and in general is able to act as the head of a large Church rendering the community many kinds of services. This unusually large expenditure for equipment was made possible by the liberality of the late Miss Garrett in contributing five hundred dollars to this Fund and provided a dumb waiter, that connects the kitchen with the room below, solid oak rack for the hats and coats of 65 more members of the Girls' Friendly, an electrical equipment in the Sunday School Building for the same society and numerous chairs and tables that were greatly needed.

I think it proper to call attention to the moderate expense at which the PARISH NEWS is published, and the secretarial work is done The income from the advertising has yet to be deducted. A newspaper in this city has offered to do our advertising for $200 a year and this method has been recommended by a committee. Yet we have been able to publish our services in two papers, the Public Ledger and The Evening Bulletin for about that amount.

This Fund is kept in a separate bank, apart from the Communion Alms, and all expenditures are made by check. The account is audited by the assistant.

CARL E. GRAMMER.

The Sunday School.

October has been a busy month in our school. On Saturday afternoon, the fourth of the month, we took part in the Annual Parades of the Philadelphia Sunday Schools. Eleven schools of our seventh district assembled at Washington Square and led by St. Andrew's Boys' Band and they all marched around the Square, this being followed by addresses, music and singing in front of the great portico of the historic old First Presbyterian Church, as our part in the city-wide demonstration. We went there in large autobusses with flags and banners flying, to the number of about seventy, including some twenty of the Burd School, who sang an anthem in the musical part of the program.

Our "Rally Day," Sunday, October 12th, cheered everybody's heart, as in response to the rally postals and the school was filled with large reunited classes of faithful teachers and scholars, whom our Rector heartily addressed.

The death of Albert Loughead, and his beautifully pathetic funeral service in the Church on Monday, October 20th, showed the deep affection which underlies the success of our school. Dr. Grammer most touchingly brought this out in his address to the school and at the service. The teachers, scholars and mothers tenderly, sympathetically, responded and we learned again the lesson, "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love," when from our midst another scholar of St. Stephen's was called into God's Eternity.

Our session of October 19th, was particularly marked by a sincere devotional spirit, and we feel that the ten minutes of intercessory prayers which the teachers had before the school opened, had much to do with it.

On Sunday, November 2d, our lesson on "The Life of Christ," will be illustrated with the lantern. We have secured some beautiful lantern slides showing scenes from the journeys of Jesus, as they are to-day. We cordially invite anyone who may desire to be present at 9.45 A. M.

G. H. STREAKER, Supt.

The Boys' Club and United States Senate.

The Boys' Senate reassembled for the winter sessions on Friday evening October 17th, and re-electing new officers, made James Stork presiding officer, George Krimmel secretary, Nicholas Schulgen chaplain and Frank Tunney sergeant-at-arms. After discussing plans for the winter, they adjourned for athletic games. They will meet each Friday evening as heretofore.

The Parish Visitor's Report.

The summer, with its heat and drought, is ended. There was much suffering, of course, and evening after evening the inmates of the crowded tenements sat on the front steps or on the pavements trying to get fresh air. All that were able flocked into the open, but there were some, of course, who were too sick or infirm to follow the example of the hardier, and panted with the stifling heat in their close, ill-ventilated rooms. We did what we could to relieve their suffering, which is always so great in a large city during the heated term.

We rejoice that we could send so many to the Farm, and some on excursions down the river, and through the bounty of some big generous hearts, three were sent to Atlantic City. How lovely it is when those to whom much is given are so willing and glad to extend their help to those who have nothing, and who do not forget the unfortunates even when away on their own vacations.

One interesting, yet unfortunate case I am tempted to give here:

A mother of four children was taken seriously ill. The children attend our Sunday school and we were apprised of the case at once. The mother had to be removed to the Hahnemann Hospital and was operated upon; in the meantime we were helping the family to keep together in their little home, when the husband and father was taken ill and he, too, had to be sent to the hospital. We did all we could for the children and when the mother returned to her home she was able in a little while to take a position, which was secured through the influence of Mr. Edwards, and which is paying her nine dollars a week. The husband returned home from the hospital but was compelled to go back again.

Another interesting case, and one most urgent in its need for relief: a young woman in the city lost her position and having no relative, was alone. We took care of her and kept her from despair. She has now a position which is paying her twelve dollars a week.

We are so thankful for the orders for groceries, as they help us much in relieving cases where so much is needed, especially where there is illness in a family.

We were also able to buy an air cushion for a dear old lady, and although only needed for a short time, it was a great relief and much comfort to her.

Now, winter is coming, and Thanksgiving will soon be here. I should be so glad to receive help of money or supplies in order to send out a few baskets.

A concert and dance by the Girls' Friendly Society will be given in the Sunday School Building on Monday, November 24th, at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of St. Stephen's Farm. Tickets, 25 cents.

MRS. H. SPENCER LUCAS, Branch Secretary.

The congregation's attention is called to the fact that the Thanksgiving Day Service will be held at 10.30 A. M., instead of 11 A. M.

The Mother's Annual Sale and Fair will be held on the first Thursday in December, from 3 P. M. until 9 P. M.

It is earnestly hoped that the congregation will bear this date in mind. Any donations will be gratefully received.

The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Farm—possibly for a new bath room.

King's Daughters' Whatsoever Circle.

The King's Daughters held their first meeting on October 15th, with ten members present. During the summer season our Circle lost some of its most faithful members. Mrs. Parmalee has passed away. She was a member of our Society for many years, and, although prevented, on account of her age, to attend the meetings during recent years, always remembered us, and gave willingly towards Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets. We shall surely miss her. Mrs. Crombarger also was a very dear friend to us all, and as long as her health allowed, she came regularly to the meetings. She and Mrs. Martin, another willing contributor, have died during the past year. Two of our members have had deaths in their families during the summer,—Sarah Kingsley having lost her mother, and May Jeffries her grandmother,—so that with all the pleasure of the vacation period, there has also been much sadness for some of us. Those who are left will have to work with renewed energy, as at best we are few in number, and there are always many who need help. The next meetings will be held November 5th and 19th, and new members will always be made very welcome.

BERTHA TUDOR WALSHE,
Secretary.

Shoe Fund.

The Shoe Fund Society will start Tuesday, November 4th. Miss Townsend and Mrs. Vanderslice will be at the Parish House every Tuesday morning from half past ten until twelve o'clock. Donations of shoes or money for this work will be very acceptable, for Jack Frost will soon be around.

All notices to be announced from the Chancel or requests for special prayers should be written out plainly and signed, that the person responsible for them may be known, and sent to the Vestry room before the service. Nothing but a serious emergency can justify sending up a notice or request during the service.

It is our purpose to make the PARISH NEWS less a record of what has occurred in the Parish during the past month, and more of an announcement of what is to be done in the coming month. The historical features will not be obliterated. Our "shut-ins," and distant members will still be able through this little monthly to keep informed of the life of the Parish. But the aggressive note will be more distinctly sounded, and the call to service will be more clearly given.

To accomplish this we shall have to condense our reports of meetings and limit ourselves to the essential or novel features. We shall also need the assistance of the various workers that we may get our Calendar of the events or meetings in the Parish for the month ensuing.

The Sunday Afternoon Services

The Rector has been delivering on Sunday afternoons a series of addresses on some of the fundamentals of Christianity. As Coleridge has well observed, "Truths of all others the most awful and interesting are too often considered as so true that they lose all the power of truth and lie bed-ridden in the dormitory of the soul side by side with the most debased and exploded errors." It is the duty of the preacher to command these invalided truths to rise and walk.

Sometimes, however, the difficulty is that the great truths are like missionaries in a strange land and express themselves in a tongue not understood by the people. Then it becomes the duty of the Christian teacher to act as an interpreter and translate their message into the vernacular of the multitude. Such is the task that the Rector has set himself on Sunday afternoon. He will emphasize the important truths of religion and if necessary will restate them in modern terms. Thus far his addresses have been (1) on the immanence of God; (2) the uniqueness of man; (3) the nature of sin, original and actual; (4) the true meaning of repentance; (5) the relation of grief to repentance.

The course will continue to deal with such fundamental conceptions as faith, regeneration or conversion, and grace—which will occupy the remaining Sunday afternoons of 1913.

Music will be given, as heretofore, a larger place in the afternoon than in the morning service, and there will be two anthems, one after the Third Collect and one during the offertory. The address will occupy about twenty minutes, and will be given on first Sunday of the month as well as on the other Sundays. The service is intended to be a season of devotion and religious instruction. It ought to be particularly useful to young people seeking confirmation, and to people in whose ears the ancient phraseology of religion has lost much of its meaning.

A good idea of the nature of the discourses on Sunday afternoons will be afforded by a précis of the discussion of original sin. Our modern moral philosophy will not admit for a moment that an unconscious child can be guilty of any sin. Old divines might talk of the duty of repenting of Adam's sin; but such language has lost all meaning for us, who do not believe in the historicity of the story of the Garden of Eden. The old doctrine of Original Sin thus lacks both a historical and philosophical basis. The only intelligible meaning for us for the phrase is original imperfection. We are born imperfect and have a long and painful process through which we must pass to attain our full moral stature. What used to be considered a sense of the sinfulness of our nature is rightly considered only a sense of our inchoateness. Just as the bashful child called on to play a piece of music in the presence of some finished musician is overcome with a sense of the crudity of its performance and the meagreness of its gifts, so are we early made to realize that we are only feeble bunglers at the great task of living soberly, righteously and godly in this present world. Such consciousness is painful; but it is also wholesome and helpful, and contains, if rightly and not morbidly treated, the seeds of subsequent growth and development. To deepen it into a consciousness of guilt is, however, repugnant to our sense of justice and has a tendency to alienate us from God. We realize that there is no injustice in God's setting us a task; we cannot, however, but feel that it would be unjust in God to count us sinners because of another's offence. Take away entirely this sense of sin of origin, and make it plain that God calls on us through this sense of imperfection to work with Him in moulding the imperfect and disorganized self into moral beauty and inward harmony, and we realize at once that we have herein a task worthy of the sons of God, and have no sense of alienation from our Father.

Memorials

When the Arrison window shall have been placed near the font, and the space between the two windows that look into the ambulatory on the north side of the Church shall have been filled with the bust of Dr. Wood, there will not remain many more windows or spaces available for memorials. The two windows just referred to could be made glorious by rich glass behind which electric lights could be placed so that the colours of the glass could be thrown out into the Church The great rose window in the transept and the windows over the reredos also afford splendid opportunities for memorials; but these two last would necessarily be very costly, on account of their size and the necessity for the best workmanship in such important windows. Then our space for memorials will soon be exhausted unless we can utilize the small round windows of the east wall, and the windows in the galleries.

There is one form of memorial, however, that appeals to many people fully as much as any window or bust or tablet, and that is the endowment of the pew where the dear one who is to be commemorated once sat; so that for all time it will bear his or her name and help to maintain the Church of his or her love. There are several such endowed pews in St. Stephen's and this is the proper time for increasing their number. A lady told the Rector just the other day that she intended to endow a pew in memory of her mother. It is hoped that such a purpose may take the effective shape of a provision in the will. There are many benevolent designs, which for lack of such action their currents turn away and lose all quality of fulfilment. If we can add every year several endowed pews to our list we shall be able to transmit to those that come after us a Church that has been wisely prepared for changed conditions, a Church that will be able to continue the work as well as hold the memorials of a former generation.
